LOUISIANA SEEN AS 'HOT TARGET' IN ANOTHER WAR

Dodd Says State's Defense 'Way Behind In Everything But Planning'

URGES APPOINTMENT OF LOCAL DIRECTORS SOON

Baton Rouge, La., Dec. 2.—(AP)—Lt. Gov. William J. Dodd, state civil defense chief, warned today "we feel that Louisiana is going to be one of the hot target spots if full-slace war breaks out."

He urged all possible haste in appointment of local civil defense directors. "We are way behind in everything but actual planning," he said. Dodd has been pushing a campaign for appointment of local directors.

"The change in the Korea situation . . . stresses the need for haste," Dodd added. "We cannot go into the active phase of the program until we have a statewide organization. This is why we feel that appointments must be completed at once."

The state civil defense director attributed some delay in local appointments to the desire of officials to select the best possible man for each job.

"Nevertheless," Dodd continued, "we must have recommendations promptly. Perhaps the solution of that problem is a special meeting of the governing parish or municipality, at which the right man could be agreed upon."

A state training and education program in civil defense is expected to begin about January 1, Dodd said.

The program will include organizational meetings throughout Louisiana.

Dodd said 12 parishes and 62 municipalities have named their defense directors.

BRITAIN, FRANCE TO PRESS EARLY KOREAN DECISION

Want Settlement In Korea Based On Agreement With Red China

FIVE - HOUR MEETING IS HELD BY TWO OFFICIALS

By Arthur Gavshon

London, Dec. 2.—(AP)—War-shy Britain and France agreed today to press for an early settlement with Soviet Russia and Red China of the Korean warfare and other danger-packed quarrels.

Qualified officials said the accord came in a five-hour meeting of French Premier Rene Pleven with Prime Minister Attlee, on the eve of Attlee's flight to Washington for face-to-face talks with president Truman. Pleven flew to London with his Foreign Minister, Robert Schuman, and other aides to see Attlee. After the parley, Pleven decided not to go along with Attlee to Washington.

In the Washington discussion on the issues stemming from the Korean crisis, the British leader will be buttressed by the knowledge that seven commonwealth nations as well as France share his government's views on what United Nations objectives should be.

A day of intensive consultations between Attlee and Pleven and their aides brought out this broad understanding, qualified officials

WEST BERLINERS SWARM TO POLLS

Expect 80 Per Cent Of Voters To Register Defiance Of Red Control

Berlin, Sunday, Dec. 3—(AP)—Anti-Communist Berliners swarmed to the polls before dawn today, once again to defy the Russians in this encircled city.

As the municipal election in the western sectors of the city got under way at midnight, long lines of shabbily dressed voters already were waiting at special stations near the Soviet sector.

These were the ill paid, often-threatened employes of Communist industries and enterprises, who had been commanded to work "volunteer Sunday shifts" to keep them from voting during the day.

"Hurry it up," growled a switchman from the Soviet controlled elevated railway as he and another switchman joined the voters' line. "We've got to be back on the job at 4 a.m."

Others—charwomen, machinists, clerks and stevedores—joked wryly about the newest Communist sign to deck the Brandenburg gate on the Soviet-sector border.

"American splitter election tortures Berlin anew," the sign said.

Police in the west jailed 21 Red agitators yesterday, raising the week's total to 269. But no violence by the Russians and the Communists, started. As in the days of the Berlin blockade, the issue was whether to defy the communism again.

The Soviet controlled East German Communist government continued a mammoth propaganda campaign to frighten Berliners

CRISIS GROWING

500,000 Chinese Troops Estimated To Be In Or Nearing Battle

ALLIED FORCES HEAVILY OUTNUMBERED BY ENEMY

Tokyo, Sunday, Dec. 3. —(AP)—Overwhelming Chinese Communist armies closely threatened the entire United Nations forces in North Korea with twin entrapments Saturday.

In the Northwest, U. S. Eighth Army troops literally burned bridges and other vital equipment behind them as they pulled southward through the former Red capital of Pyongyang. The Reds were 25 miles from that military and political prize.

In the northeast, Red regulars were within 25 miles of the vital port of Wonsan, and guerrillas were a dozen miles closer, threatening the U. S. tenth corps rear.

General MacArthur estimated the enemy already at the fronts or quickly moving up totalled 500,000 Chinese, plus 100,000 to 150,000 North Korean Reds being regrouped in the rear.

The U. N. commander bluntly admitted the "overwhelming strength of the enemy completely outnumbers us on the ground."

He declined to estimate allied forces, but earlier unofficial estimates have been about 200,000, of whom approximately half are South Koreans.

The sharpest immediate crisis was in the northwest, before Pyongyang, which the allies liberated Oct. 20.

While a new United Nations defense line, north of the former Korean Communist capital remained intact, Chinese poked three divisions directly at the center. Eight more Chinese divisions moved in a sweep around the right end.

Field dispatches said huge fires marked the destruction of bridging material airlifted from Japan to Korea, and other vital equipment which the retreating Americans were unable to move.

Here for a change is a little story that concerns that ever popular personage, Santa Claus, that may have appeal to boys and birls and possibly to adults. At the outset we can state that the person who insists that there is no Santa Claus, should visit his real, every day hideout in the fastness of the Adirondack mountains in northern New York state.

And it has come about thuswise; A man named Reiss took his six-year-old daughter, Patsy, near Christmas time in 1948, down Fifth avenue in New York City, to see window displays in which Santa Claus was featured. Suddenly little Patsy became quizzical.

"Daddy," she asked, "after Christmas is over where does Santa Claus go to and what does he do all the year?"

The father admitted this was a 64 dollar question. He returned to his home near Saranac Lake and meditated deeply over the interrogation of his little daughter. He consulted two friends, mechanically inclined, and the three visioned and soon after put into effect, the starting of a real community called North Pole, N. Y. A man with long snowy white whiskers, resembling Santa Claus, and his wife, a worthy appearing helpmeat for such a man, were set up for housekeeping in the new "village" in the mountains not far from Saranac Lake, N. Y. Reindeer were secured and a group of a dozen or so of log cabins were constructed and the community was off and away.

The men who had joined Patsy's father in the enterprise secured material and started to fashion out of the native wood all sorts of toys for Santa—as presents for good boys and girls. The answer to Patsy's question had been found.

The news spread rapidly and each day in the year, many auto parties come to this deep in the mountains hideout. Auto maps

Navy Conquers West Point In Dramatic Gridiron Upset

Tulane, L. S. U. Battle To 14-14 Tie; Notre Dame Falls To Sou. Cal. To End Worst Season In 17 Years

New York, Dec. 2.—(AP)—It was "Anchors Aweigh" for the Navy today as the underdog Midshipmen smacked Army, 14 to 2, in a tremendous upset at Philadelphia's Municipal Stadium.

The Navy victory that abruptly ended the 28-game unbeaten streak of the West Point Cadets thrilled 103,000, including President Truman and his party, and overshadowed all other games on this last day of the regular college football season.

Oklahoma, the county's top ranking eleven in the final Associated Press poll of the season, crushed the Oklahoma Aggies, 41-14, for their 31st consecutive victory and Southern California upset Notre Dame, 9 to 7, on a third period blocked punt that rolled out of the end zone for an automatic safety.

But it was Navy's rise to the heights that took the headlines.

Army, ranked second to Oklahoma, was a three-touchdown favorite, but the crowd sensed an upset when Army got a break right at the start, but failed to score. Army had kicked off, then recovered Navy's fourth down fumble on the Navy 22. The Cadets gained

GENERAL BOOST IN TAXES SEEN

Sen. George Predicts Increase Next Year On Corporations, Individuals

Washington, Dec. 2. —(AP)— A sharp increase in federal taxes next year "all along the line, on corporations and individuals," was predicted today by Senator George (-Ga.).

Similar belief was expressed generally on the House side where the tax-writing Ways and Means Committee expects to start work early in 1951 on an overall tax bill that may dig deeper into incomes, as well as raise excise (sales) levies.

The tax picture was darkened by the suddenly worsened military crisis and huge new costs ahead. Congress got ready to plunge into these and other problems which the Korean war dumped before it.

Meanwhile the legislators are going ahead with a more limited tax bill, designed to tax corporation profits considered excess. The House begins debate Monday on a measure designed to raise $3,400,000,000 in this way, while the Senate Finance Committee, which George heads, will start hearings on the subject on the same day. House approval of the excess profits bill is expected and George said he hopes the Senate will vote on a similar measure by Christmas.

The House appropriations committee already is working on

Undeclared War Fought By China

Tokyo, Dec. 2.—(AP)—General MacArthur declared today that the Chinese Communists have committed 500,000 soldiers to an undeclared war on the United Nations forces in Korea.

In addition, he said, 100,000 to 150,000 North Korean Red remnants are being rebuilt and reorganized under Chinese auspices.

The statement by the commanding general of the first United Nations force was issued as a general press release with the notation that it was in answer to questions submitted by various newsmen.

MacArthur said the half-million Chinese were in "two great echelons," more than one half of the total now being engaged in attacking the allied forces "with the rear echelon rapidly moving up from the Yalu river bases."

With the North Koreans, he said, the total enemy strength is "about 600,000 men."

"Whether additional forces will be brought up cannot as yet be determined," he added.

President Should Be Impeached--M'Carthy

Wisconsin Senator Reopens Blistering Attack On Administration; Says Nationalist China Should Fight

Washington, Dec. 2.—(AP)—Senator McCarthy (R-Wis.) told President Truman today that Congress ought to "immediately impeach you" unless the administration sanctions use of Chinese Nationalist troops against the Communists in Korea.

"If this treasonable farce of insisting that only American boys can die, while refusing the help of the soldiers of our allies continues then the time is long overdue for congress, in the name of America, to stand up and be counted and immediately impeach you," McCarthy said in a statement directed to the president.

McCarthy added it "is beyond conception that your State department, which either bungled or planned us into this war, now bars the use of any" of Chiang Kai-Shek's troops in Korea.

Flash Puts City In Dark

A power failure coming on the tail of an electrical storm threw large sections of Monroe into darkness for 49 minutes last night.

W. M. Love, supreintendant of city electrical distribution, stated the cause of the breakdown was lightning which struck wires in the Loop road section.

Business establishments and hotels in uptown Monroe were blacked-out. Lights were out from 9:31 to 10:20.

Love asserted late last night that electricians were still at work trying to restore lights for the Highland Park area which at 11 p.m. was still in darkness.

Four local hospitals reported they had been blacked out but no critical delay was reported in their normal operation.

The surgery department of the St. Francis Sanitarium, however, called the fire department for emergency lightening during an operation.

Republicans Going All-Out To Organize Southern Force

Winston-Salem, N. C., Dec. 2. —(AP)—The Republican party is going all-out to build up its organization in the south and is asking "Jeffersonian Democrats" to join in the effort.

Year after year, Republicans have let southern Democrats go to congress without opposition, but Albert B. Herman, executive director of the national committee, says its time for a change.

He told the sounthern council of the young Republican national federation in a prepared address tonight that the national committee proposes to wage in the south the "hardest hitting organization campaign in the party's history."

"Right now," he said, "our big job is organization. We will welcome to our ranks not only the Republicans but all those Democrats who feel that the old-time party of Jefferson no longer represents them in the White House or in congress."

In the recent election nearly 100 Democrats in the southern staes were elected governor, senator or representative without even token challenges from the G. O. P.

That's a big head start that Republicans must overcome in the north, east and west every two years.

But Hermann cited a few recent election examples which showed, he said, that the old-time Democrat organization in the south is cracking:

"The states of Arizona and New Mexico elected their first Republican governors in 22 years. For the first time since the war between the states, Texas has a Republican member in the legislature. And in Florida, Pinellas county went Republican this year for the first time in that state's history."

Hermann said the drive to establish a two-party system below the Mason-Dixon line will include close cooperation among all segments of the party and extension of the national Republican schools of politics which were held in 23 states during the recent campaign.

He said Republicans gains were scored in a majority of the northern and western states where the schools were held.

The southern oranization job is not going to be easy. Hermann pointed out that the 12 states represented at the conference here have 1,220 counties. In this set-up, he added, there are 113 vacancies among the county chairmen and 849 vacancies among the women vice chairmen.

Hermann said:

"The south, as well as the rest of the country, is fed up with the new deal program of socialism, with the administration's diplomatic failures in the Far East and their disastrous consequences, and with just the general bumbling and fumbling of the Democrats temporarily still in power."

700 Atomic Bombs Believed Already In U. S. Arsenal

By Howard W. Blakeslee

New York, Dec. 2.—(AP)—Look magazine estimates the United States has a stockpile of about 700 atomic bombs. It also says that prospects of success in making hydrogen bombs are doubtful.

The magazine's A-bomb stockpile figure exceeds the few previously published estimates, which have ranged from 200 to 400.

The author of the article, which appears in the Look issue for next Tuesday, is Stephen White, a member of the magazine's staff and former science writer for the New York Herald Tribune. He was at Bikini and knew most of the top atomic scientists. Recently he has been in Europe. His estimate is based partly on European sources.

"Production of the A-bomb," he writes, "has proceeded at a rapid rate during this year. From the small production with which we ended the war, the rate of manufacture first dropped almost to nothing as the Manhattan district "(the wartime organization that preceeded the present atomic energy commission) fell apart, and then slowly climbed.

"Foreign observers qualified to make guesses estimate American stockpiles today at approximately

Southern Farmer Soon Will Act Like His City Cousin

Baton Rouge, La., Dec. 2—(AP)—One of these days, thanks partly to fram machinery, the southern farmer may look and act no differently than his city cousin.

That is just one of the many "social implications of the mechanization of southern agriculture" seen by Alvin Lee Bertrand, assistant rural sociologist at Louisiana State University.

In the current Southwestern Social Quarterly, Bertrand discusses these implications. But he hastens to caution that mechanization cannot be considered as the sole cause of any changes he expects.

Bertrand pictures the southern farmer as losing "some of his conservatism and orthodoxy" and "part of his individualism" as he grows accustomed to urban society.

He envisions him shredding his independence to call in public agencies for health and old age care, and becoming less thrifty "as machines help increase the predictability of farm income."

"A tractor - driver or a mechanic," observes Bertrand, "will not find too much difficulty in shifting from farm to non-farm work, or vice versa."

An increase in the size of farms and a decline of tenancy are other

The tax picture was darkened by the suddenly worsened military crisis and huge new costs ahead. Congress got ready to plunge into these and other problems which the Korean war dumped before it.

Meanwhile the legislators are going ahead with a more limited tax bill, designed to tax corporation profits considered excess. The House begins debate Monday on a measure designed to raise $3,400,000,000 in this way, while the Senate Finance Committee, which George heads, will start hearings on the subject on the same day. House approval of the excess profits bill is expected and George said he hopes the Senate will vote on a similar measure by Christmas.

The House appropriations committee already is working on

Undeclared War Fought By China

Tokyo, Dec. 2.—(AP)—General MacArthur declared today that the Chinese Communists have committed 500,000 soldiers to an undeclared war on the United Nations forces in Korea.

In addition, he said, 100,000 to 150,000 North Korean Red remnants are being rebuilt and reorganized under Chinese auspices.

The statement by the commanding general of the first United Nations force was issued as a general press release with the notation that it was in answer to questions submitted by various newsmen.

MacArthur said the half-million Chinese were in "two great echelons," more than one half of the total now being engaged in attacking the allied forces "with the rear echelon rapidly moving up from the Yalu river bases."

With the North Koreans, he said, the total enemy strength is "about 600,000 men."

"Whether additional forces will be brought up cannot as yet be determined," he added.

R. BRADFORD TO ADDRESS C. OF C.

Vice-President Of National Organization Scheduled Here Tomorrow

The high point of the year's activities of the Twin Cities Chamber of Commerce will be reached tomorrow night at the annual chamber banquet at the Virginia Hotel.

Ralph Bradford, international vice president of the U. S. Chamber of Commerce, will be the featured speaker on the program, which will include summaries of the work accomplished during the past year and recognition of outstanding services to the community by members of the group.

Bradford, who has been affiliated with the national group for many years, has earned a high reputation for public speaking as a result of countless appearances before similar meetings throughout the nation.

A widely read and respected author, Bradford has lately published a "poetic portrayal of man's struggle through the ages," a volume entitled "Heritage," which reached

President Should Be Impeached--M'Carthy

Wisconsin Senator Reopens Blistering Attack On Administration; Says Nationalist China Should Fight

Washington, Dec. 2.—(AP)—Senator McCarthy (R-Wis.) told President Truman today that Congress ought to "immediately impeach you" unless the administration sanctions use of Chinese Nationalist troops against the Communists in Korea.

"If this treasonable farce of insisting that only American boys can die, while refusing the help of the soldiers of our allies continues then the time is long overdue for congress, in the name of America, to stand up and be counted and immediately impeach you," McCarthy said in a statement directed to the president.

McCarthy added it "is beyond conception that your State department, which either bungled or planned us into this war, now bars the use of any" of Chiang Kai-Shek's troops in Korea.

The Wisconsin senator said Chaing has 358,000 well trained and well equipped soliders on the island of Formosa, and that they

Five Youths Are Killed In Crash

San Jose, Calif., Dec. 2.—(AP)—Five youths were killed today as two automobiles were demolished in a collision.

Four of the dead were sailors attached to Moffett Field Naval Air Station, near San Jose.

The other was a Stanford University student, Hilmer Oehlman Jr., 21, whose father is president of Yosemite Park and Curry Co. which operates the tourist facilities at the national park.

Flash Puts City In Dark

A power failure coming on the tail of an electrical storm threw large sections of Monroe into darkness for 49 minutes last night.

W. M. Love, supreintendant of city electrical distribution, stated the cause of the breakdown was lightning which struck wires in the Loop road section.

Business establishments and hotels in uptown Monroe were blacked-out. Lights were out from 9:31 to 10:20.

Love asserted late last n ght that electricians were still at work trying to restore lights for the Highland Park area which at 11 p.m. was still in darkness.

Four local hospitals reported they had been blacked out but no critical delay was reported in their normal operation.

The surgery department of the St. Francis Sanitarium, however, called the fire department for emergency lightening during an operation.

Republicans Going All-Out To Organize Southern Force

Winston-Salem, N. C., Dec. 2.—(AP)—The Republican party is going all-out to build up its organization in the south and is asking "Jeffersonian Democrats" to join in the effort.

Year after year, Republicans have let southern Democrats go to congress without opposition, but Albert B. Herman, executive director of the national committee, says its time for a change.

He told the sounthern council of the young Republican national federation in a prepared address tonight that the national committee proposes to wage in the south the "hardest hitting organization campaign in the party's history."

"Right now," he said, "our big job is organization. We will welcome to our ranks not only the Republicans but all those Democrats who feel that the old-time party of Jefferson no longer represents them in the White House or in congress."

In the recent election nearly 100 Democrats in the southern staes were elected governor, senator or representative without even token challenges from the G. O. P.

That's a big head start that Republicans must overcome in the north, east and west every two years.

But Hermann cited a few recent election examples which showed, he said, that the old-time Democrat organization in the south is cracking:

"The states of Arizona and New Mexico elected their first Republican governors in 22 years. For the first time since the war between the states, Texas has a Republican member in the legislature. And in Florida, Pinellas county went Republican this year for the first time in that state's history."

Hermann said the drive to establish a two-party system be low the Mason-Dixon line will include close cooperation among all segments of the party and extension of the national Republican schools of politics which were held in 23 states during the recent campaign.

He said Republicans gains were scored in a majority of the northern and western states where the schools were held.

The southern oranization job is not going to be easy. Hermann pointed out that the 12 states represented at the conference here have 1,220 counties. In this set-up, he added, there are 113 vacancies among the county chairmen and 849 vacancies among the women vice chairmen.

Hermann said:

"The south, as well as the rest of the country, is fed up with the new deal program of socialism, with the administration's diplomatic failures in the Far East and their disastrous consequences, and with just the general bumbling and fumbling of the Democrats temporarily still in power."

700 Atomic Bombs Believed Already In U. S. Arsenal

By Howard W. Blakeslee

New York, Dec. 2.—(AP)—Look magazine estimates the United States has a stockpile of about 700 atomic bombs. It also says that prospects of success in making hydrogen bombs are doubtful.

The magazine's A-bomb stockpile figure exceeds the few previously published estimates, which have ranged from 200 to 400.

The author of the article, which appears in the Look issue for next Tuesday, is Stephen White, a member of the magazine's staff and former science writer for the New York Herald Tribune. He was at Bikini and knew most of the top atomic scientists. Recently he has been in Europe. His estimate is based partly on European sources.

"Production of the A-bomb," he writes, "has proceeded at a rapid rate during this year. From the small production with which we ended the war, the rate of manufacture first dropped almost to nothing as the Manhattan district "(the wartime organization that preceeded the present atomic energy commission) fell apart, and then slowly climbed.

"Foreign observers qualified to make guesses estimate American stockpiles today at approximately

Southern Farmer Soon Will Act Like His City Cousin

Baton Rouge, La., Dec. 2—(AP)—One of these days, thanks partly to fram machinery, the southern farmer may look and act no differently than his city cousin.

That is just one of the many "social implications of the mechanization of southern agriculture" seen by Alvin Lee Bertrand, assistant rural sociologist at Louisiana State University.

In the current Southwestern Social Quarterly, Bertrand discusses these implications. But he hastens to caution that mechanization cannot be considered as the sole cause of any changes he expects.

Bertrand pictures the southern farmer as losing "some of his conservatism and orthodoxy" and "part of his individualism" as he grows accustomed to urban society.

He envisions him shredding his independence to call in public agencies for health and old age care, and becoming less thrifty "as machines help increase the predictability of farm income."

"A tractor - driver or a mechanic," observes Bertrand, "will not find too much difficulty in shifting from farm to non-farm work, or vice versa."

An increase in the size of farms and a decline of tenancy are other

Plight Of Fighting GI

We've learned that American casualties in Korea are unusually high when measured against the total size of our forces there. But most of us realize that, given the number of our troops at the outbreak of war, there's very little that could have been done about it.

In other words, we just didn't have enough men under arms at any stage to provide adequate relief for U. S. soldiers fighting at the front.

This isn't the place to go again into the reasons for that inadequacy. Presumably if we got into a major war with Russia or anybody else, we'd have more ample manpower for reserve use.

Every American ought certainly to hope, however, that when reserves are available they are employed with greater concern for the welfare and effectiveness of the individual fighting man than was shown in World War II.

In th big war the U. S. had something like 100 divisions in being. Of these, 64 saw battle action. In case you may not have realized what happens to men who do the actual fighting, consider these figures from an instructor at the Army Command and General Staff School in Fort Leavenworth, Kan.

Eighteen of the 64 fighting divisions had greater total casualties than they had men in the beginning. Five suffered casualties of 176 per cent—they were in effect almost wiped out twice over.

Infantry regiments, the units of the slogging foot soldier who does the dirtiest part of the fighting, lost two and a half times their original strength in manpower. Obviously not a very safe place to be in wartime.

The figures indicate that on the average half a division's strength was gone after 50 days of combat. Give them 150 days in the front lines and they were down to 18 per cent. After 300 days, nearly a year, only three out of every 100 soldiers in the original outfit was still fighting.

In 85 to 100 days up front, infantry regiments will suffer total casualties equal to their starting strength.

It wasn't unusual for infantry units in World War II to stay in action continuously for 120 days. There wasn't any effective plan for relieving the men who bore this tremendous load.

Said an army report, "Under present policy no man is removed from combat until he has become worthless. The infantryman considers this a bitter injustice."

The command school instructor, Lt.-Col. U. P. Williams, believes combat infantrymen deserve frequent rest periods. He says: "Important manpower savings can be achieved only by having each man believe that an honorable extended period of relief from combat awaits him. The rotation of individuals from the front line to less dangerous duty . . . offers the only practicable method of providing relief."

This officer is talking sense. We all know that the mud-caked, water-soaked G. I. is the backbone of the army. If his welfare in the field is not made a prime goal, how can we expect him to do a consistently good job of fighting for us who are comfortably lodged at home

Sheep's Clothing

The next time you see a wolf in sheep's clothing, Dear Reader, nail him. At the price wool is bringing nowadays, a sheep's clothing is worth plenty. And it probably will be worth even more next year. The world reserves of wool have been almost completely used up and competition for current production is driving wool prices rapidly higher. The sheep, stupid and lowly animal that he is, is coming into his own. His fleece is just about the same as golden.

As a result, many Louisiana cane growers who are using sheep to keep down Johnson grass in their fields will make a nice little profit on the side. And other sheep owners who held onto their flocks for no particular reason when wool prices were far lower than now will find their flocks much more profitable. In fact, some livestock specialists declare that sheep will pay more in proportion to the amount of money invested in them than any other kind of livestock.

That's saying a good bit, since livestock production of all kinds has proven increasingly successful here in Louisiana in recent years. That beef cattle, dairy cottle, swine, poultry and sheep should pay well here in Louisiana under proper conditions and good management is certain evidence of the diversity that is possible to Louisiana agriculture. Louisiana agriculture is progressing every bit as rapidly as Louisiana business and industry. That progress is just beginning.

Labor Learns A Lesson

It's apparent from the recent CIO convention in Chicago that labor has shelved for at least the next two years any hope of repealing the Taft-Hartley law.

The word now is that top labor men will work with congress to amend the act to get rid of features either deemed unworkable or touted by labor as hostile to its legitimate aims.

Organized labor could have had a sharply modified law a couple of years ago, but the leaders preferred to strike a stubborn "all or nothing" attitude. This did nothing to win them public sympathy and cost them two years of operation under a perhaps markedly improved law.

Slowly, reluctantly, labor may be learning some of the hard lessons of politics. One of those certainly is that you seldom get all you want when you want it.

Wool production in this country is reported on the decline. If that worries you, think of the lowly moths.

Broadway Showboat

The "Gentlemen Prefer Blondes" backers now have 100 per cent profit on their investment. The parents of that Ziegfeld Theatre smash started with only $15,000. They now have $250,000 invested in their next musical, "Bless You All," due at the Hellinger Dec. 14th. . . . H. Levin and O. Smith are the producers. Smith started his Broadway career as a Roxy Theatre usher. Levin started his in Philly as a counterman in a Greek restaurant. . . . The Big Street's newest darling is Isabel Bigley of "Guys and Dolls." A beautiful newcomer who can sing. Hollywood will woo her away. . . . The Theatre Guild was suffering from money-trouble when it put on "Oklahoma." Lem Ayres was persuaded to take a piece of the show instead of his modest fee. He reluctantly accepted. He is now the highest paid scenic designer in theatrical history and co-owner of "Kiss Me, Kate," now in its 2nd year. . . . Billy Rose, with time to think in the hospital, has decided on a divorce. Not from his wife.

No Business Like It: Ethel Merman's juvenile lead in "Madam" is Russell Nype. He did so well at the premiere that his agent just peddled the contract to Music Corp. of America for $30,000! . . . Nype witnessed the deal and saw his agent get a down payment of $7,500. . . . Everyone shook hands in celebration. . . . Then Nype, who must need a manager, went to the nearest Hamburger Heaven, where he couldn't pay 30c for a sandwich!

Sir Luarence Olivier, before sailing, turned down an admirable stack of U. S. dollars to by-line a piece for Life on Jennifer Jones, his co-star in "Carrie." Her husband has ordered no publicity. . . . The reason Helen Colton of the N. Y. Times took Mickey Rooney apart (in one of the severest critiques ever published in that paper) is that Miguel didn't show up for a promised interview on his 25 years in show business, and didn't phone or apologize. . . . Mindy Carson's teevy and other commitments kept her from taking the lead in "So This Is Brooklyn," Geo. Abbott's new musical. Other bids were to replace Mary Martin in "Pacific" next June and Cole Porter's "Out of This World." Three years ago (as an unknown) Mindy sang her heart out at auditions for Broadway showmen and all said, "So Soddy."

The Broadway Ass'n has declared war on the many "charity" solicitors congesting theater fronts. It now has the guarantee of the police dept. that the racketeers-in-misery (whose take is often 50 per cent of the donations) are not only going out of business but to jail. . . . In the meantime, the theater people offer this to playgoers: They endorse the legitimate and responsible groups such as The March of Dimes, the Runyon Cancer Fund, Heart Funds whose canvassers are permitted to solicit in theater lobbies. . . . The tip-off on the others: If you encounter coin-receptacle mendicants outside or near a theater (on the sidewalks), that's the cue to ignore them—the B'way Ass'n considers them suspect.

Correction: The gamblers' "odds" on the Rose Bowl game (Cal. vs. Michigan) are 11 to 10 (take your pick), but you must lay the 11. That's their percentage. . . . Carmen Miranda gave Edith Piaf her worst case of nerves by sitting at the Versailles ringside. They wound up in the dressing-room weeping all over each other's mascara. What do those $5,000 per week girls have to Cry About? . . . Cosmopolitan dangled a fabulous cash offer at Ingrid Bergman to write her side of the Roberto romance. They are breathlessly awaiting her decision. . . . "Season in the Sun" hiked the tariff on its balcony pews, now that it is such a hit. When it opened, those seats retailed at $3.60 each. Last week they inflated to $4.80. . . . Garbo made her first plane trip (from the coast) the other day in the storm. Leo Durocher acted as porter, steward and nurse.

Net Runyon Fund contributions from all ticket sales up to last week: $115,166.83. That's from Dec. 5th, 1949, when "South Pacific" dreamed up the grand plan, with "Kiss Me, Kate" following soon after. . . . We now have 14 seats in the 8th row center for "S. Pac"; 22 seats 1st row center for "Peep Show"; 8 seats 2nd row center for "Call Me Merman"; 2 seats 2nd row center at "Country Girl"; 8 seats 1st row center at "Guys and Dolls"; 8 seats 1st row center at "Affairs of State"; 8 seats 5th row center at "Kiss Me, Kate"; 2 in the 8th row for "Gentlemen Prefer Blondes" and 8 seats 3rd row center at "Happy Time". . . . We will soon have "Bless You All," "Bell, Book and Candle." and "Out of This World". . . . These Broadway tickets to hits practically pay the freight for 54 young doctors and scientists via the Runyon Fund Fellowships. Our ticket office number is Circle 7-8074.

The Philly grapevine reports that Mary McCarty (who crashed the Broadway heavens via "Small Wonder" into Irving Berlin's "Miss Liberty") is rocking audiences with her ditty, "Little Things Mean So Much to Me". . . . Gilbert Miller put up all of the $85,000 for "Ring Round the Moon." A rare thing for showmen, who let "Angels" assume all the risk. . . . Gloria Swanson's local escort is Brandy Brent, ex-Los Angeles colyumist, now her p. a. . . . Margaret Truman is on a millinery binge. Purchasing scads of chapeaux, which Mr. Fred (John-Frederics) is ecstatically dreaming up with all his witchery. . . The other column we wondered if Jose Ferrer wasn't embarrased by the billing: "America's First Actor." He telegraphs: "Yes". . . . K. Hepburn reports she was never healthier. "As You Like It" is booked until March, sellmg out everywhere.

In "Ring Round the Moon" Oscar Karlweis mentions making an overseas phone call in 1912, the time of the play. No proofreaders, apparently. . . . The 254-year-old "The Relapse" never had an American production until the other week. When Richard Brinsley Sheridan revived it (in 1777) at the Drury Lane, London, he deleted many of its juicy escapades and rechristened it: "A Trip to Scarborough." Without its sinfulness it was a bust. . . . John Davis Lodge, Gov.-Elect of Conn., got only casual mention from the critics in his last stage appearance. It was in "Watch on the Rhine". . . . "711 Ocean Drive," the movie, is a concrete example of why independent firms shrug off the threat of teevy. The current estimate is that it will do $1,800,000 (in the U. S. alone), a terrific money-maker. It cost $480,000 to produce. . . . Vanessa Brown on tour with K. Hepburn was one of the Quiz Kids.

CBS has imported a coaster named Steve Allen, whose one-hour comments at midnight excited that network's chiefs. They say he's a very glib guy—sort of a "refined" Groucho Marx. He will be 29 next month and never works from a script. CBS plans a buildup for him via television. . . . Broadway can be sugary when you have talent. Carol Channing, whose wage was only $35 per in "Lend an Ear" (in Hollywood only two years ago), now gets considerably more than that in "Blondes." Her Lorelei Lee has made her famous. . . . "Anna and the King of Siam" will get money-backing from a major network similar to the deal NBC arranged to back "Call Me Madam". . . . The Messrs. Feuer and Martin, proprietors of the new mint, "Guys and Dolls," met as ushers for NBC audiences in H'wood. . . . New Yorker mag critic Wolcott Gibbs' plunder from "Season in the Sun" is $1,900 weekly.

OUR CHILDREN

WHAT KIND OF EDUCATION?

Many parents are asking what sort of education should be given their boys and girls. The world seems to be changing. New, untried ways are taking the place of the old. Under the conditions, should one rear a doctor, a carpenter-builder, a mechanic, a housewife, a clergyman, a scientist, a soldier?

The basic thing to do is to rear a fine human being. What kind of education is needed for that? It is education that will prepare a person to live happily, of course. It is the kind that develops sound character, a decent regard for the rights of others and respect for one's self. It is education that teaches that it is better to love than to hate and that one must give as well as take. It teaches that one's strength is within and that it is one's duty to develop that strength and then to depend on it and on no one else to succeed in one's life work.

How can this education be given? First, by studying the child's abilities, his strength and his weakness—then by accenting his strength. I would accent his strength by acquainting him with the best that has been thought and recorded by the leaders of men. Along with that, he should master some useful work so that he may be of service to himself and to others.

I would have him hear the praise of good men, read what they have written, learn what they did. That will affect his thinking. His thinking will put quality into his doing.

This is but saying that I would give children a sound training in the classics and, at the same time, a sound training in some field of usefulness. All cannot take the classics? Some can. If more are allowed to do so we will gain their valuable contribution to the life of our day. All cannot do useful work? That is true only of the very lowest grade of mentality and more, far more, children and young people can be trained to high levels of usefulness than are permitted to do so today.

Expose every child to education. Teach him, above all, how to read. Open the library to him and teach him how to use it. Open the shops and the laboratories to him and teach him to experiment. Nobody knows what power lies within a child. Only the child can disclose it and he can do so only when confronted with experience with which he can experiment.

Once he chooses his field, help him on with it—according to his power. Governments may change they certainly will do so. But life and its needs, physical and spiritual, will go on. Let children go on with life.

Is your child afraid of the dark, or has he some other fear that makes his life miserable? Dr. Patri tells how to guard against fears in his leaflet P-' I "Fear."

George E. Sokolsky:

THESE DAYS

THE ROADS TO INDIA

Rabindranath Tagore said: "India is many countries packed into one geographical receptacle." Some 147 district languages are spoken among its many peoples. In the movement of races from desert and mountain to rivers and valleys, from a hard life to a warmer climate and plentiful foods and fibers, India has often been conquered.

In 326 B. C., Alexander the Great, as he is called, a Macedonian conqueror, crossing through bactria over the Hindu Kush Mountains, invaded the Punjab and crossed the Indus River. Where ever Alexander went, he planted Greek cities and established Greek culture, which in this period had to struggle against the resplendent Persian culture then prevailing in these areas.

Alexander's Army encountered fierce enemies throughout his Indian conquests, brave and good soldiers. Yet it was possible for his Army to find a path through, in spite of mountain, desert and heat.

Aconquering race, little known in these times, were the Scythians, a nomadic people who followed the grass, spreading probably from what is now called Turkestan and Mongolia into Persia and thence to the region that lies between the Don and the Carpathians in present day Russia.

Always the pressure seems to be from the North southward and thus a Scythian people, the Sakas, who were being pressed by the SinicYueChi in the Jasartes region, pressed upon the greeks in Bactria. They conquered the Pun jab in 135 B. C. and set up a dynasty in much the same lands that Alexander the Great had held in Northern India.

I am omitting other movements across this same route—a route which is today at the disposal of Soviet Russia. To the Indus from the north seems to have been an open road for any aggressive people.

For again in the fifth century, a people known as the White Hun or Epthalites, arising in the same Turkestan Mongolian grasslands, occupied Bactria and moved into the Punjab, and in time controlled a vast area in India.

So in the 10th century, the Turks brought Islam to northers India, conquering much of the land—and laying the foundation for modern Pakistan.

Again in the 14th century, Genghis Khan's mongols, developing ou of the Turkestan-Mongolian Region spread from the Pacific to Moscow, and Tamerlane, already the conqueror of persia, Mesopotamia and Afghanistan (Bactria), crossed the Hindu Kush to the Indus, into the Punjab and established what became the great Mogul empire with which the British had to deal when they set out to conquer India.

Other routes into India now being employed by Soviet China, have an interesting history. The Manchu Emperor of China, K'ang Hsi supported the Dalai Lama and managed in 1720 to establish a suzerainty over Tibet by supporting and protecting a favorite.

In the reign of Ch'ien Lung, one of the greatest emperors of China, Tibet was invaded by the Chinese, who established temparad control over the Dalai Lama.

In this same reign, the Chinese invaded Burma, without too much success, but they did move into Nepal, which is separated from Tibet by the supporedly impassable Himalayas. Assam and Bhutan came under Chinese influence. China became the suzerian of Nepal—a problem which will now face the world because Soviet China is already active in Nepal and other areas in this region.

The best and easiest route of conquest of India is, of course, by sea. In 1498, Vasco Da Gama reached Malabar, having rounded the Cape of Good Hope. Hence forth, not the tribes out of the Turkestan-Mongolian grasslands dererts nor the Persian and Turkish peoples, but western Europeans made their way to India. The British and French vied with the Portuguese for control of this country.

India suddenly found herself involved in the European System of War, the war of the Austrian succession reaching india in the struggle between England and France for world dominion.

Without regard to the local population and truly great civilizations clive and dupleix fought to carve out empires. The British predominated and held India, in one form or another, until 1947.

Mountains can be scaled; rivers can be crossed; peoples can be subdued, if the national will to live, to grow, to possess exists, and when against that will nothing is pitted but uncertainty.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Q—Is there a flower which blooms only at night?

A—There are a number of such flowers. Some of the more common are the night-blooming Cereus, the Moonflower, several species of Evening Primrose, the Angel's Trumpet and various related species of Datura.

Q—Has a foreigner ever been buried in Arlington National Cemetery?

A—According to army records there are 13 foreigners buried there.

Q—Did the Indians antedate the Eskimos on this continent?

A—According to the latest findings there were Indians living in the United States long before the first Eskimos appeared on the North American continent. The Eskimos are not more than about 1000 years old. Pre-Indian inhabitants of New York State lived there at least 5000 years ago.

Q—What percentage of the voters in this country are women?

A—An estimated 52 per cent.

Q—How many times did Joe Louis defend his heavyweight title?

A—Twenty-five times — more often than any other heavyweight champion.

Q—Which is the correct title, civil or civilian defense?

A—Civil defense. Civilian defense implies defense of civilians and could be carried on by the military. Civil defense means defense of the home front by civil authority.

Q—Who served as the musical secretary to Frederick Delius?

A—Eric Fenby, a young British musician, volunteered his services to the famous composer who was blind and crippled. This unique process of musical dictation, note by note, bar by bar instrument by instrument, was an extraordinary episode in the history of music.

Q—Has Spanish moss any commercial value?

A—It is used as a filler in some boxes of goods, also as a stuffing for mattresses and cushions.

In Washington With

BASCOM TIMMONS

Around the Army and Navy Club in Washington, retired officers who were on the verge of apoplexy over her appointment are now waiting in grim silence for action by Congress on the nomination of Mrs. Anna M. Rosenberg as assistant secretary of national defense, in charge of personnel and manpower.

Probably they will be disappointed, because the confirmation of Mrs. Rosenberg is anticipated. How much opposition there will be is difficult to estimate, but at the moment there are not enough votes in sight to defeat the first woman who has ever been given an armed service assignment of such magnitude.

Fifty year old Anna Rosenberg, a woman of "terrific efficiency" according to New Deal ratings, is not favorably regarded by Republicans in Congress, largely because her efficiency at one time permitted her to hold four jobs, two with the government and two with private industry, with total annual earings of $36,000. That caused the House Appropriations Committee to write into legislation a provision prohibiting federal administrative officials from accepting employment outside the government. Arthur J. Altmeyer, chairman of the then social security board, testified that she had taken the job in his organization with the understanding that she could continue to draw a total of $22,500 from private industry.

Congress still grumbles about that, but the retired officers are burned up at the thought of a woman, even of her experience, directing the intricate job of routing drafted men and reserves into the various armed services. They foresee friction between the lady in defense and the military and naval forces with consequent delay and a great amount of dissatisfaction. Sorting and directing men into armed service, it is argued, differs greatly from routing workers into war plants, at which she gained most of her fame.

The criticisms include the assertion that her closest contact with the armed forces in World War II was her son Tommy, aged 22, an army private.

Mr. Rosenberg got into New York politics through Belle Moskowitz assistant to Alfred E. Smith. Most of her early experience was in labor disputes, later in industrial and social welfare issues. In 1935 she became director of the Social Security Board in New York City.

The conviction is well defined here that Mrs. Rosenberg was not the choice of secretary of Defense George C. Marshall, but of the White House, and that it did not originate with President Truman. Mrs. Rosenberg has had close cooperation over the years with Dr. John Steelman and David Niles of the White House staff, who now have so much seniority that they can originate important appointments, though they cannot actually make them. It would be totally unlike Marshall to name a woman to handle armed force manpower, his former associates believe.

The ostensible reason for her appointment as given out by the Pentagon was that so many conflicting demands for men were being made that one central clearance office was necessary.

Mrs. Rosenberg's hobby is "getting up the best Hungarian dishes, you've tasted," for her husband Julius Rosenberg, a rug merchant. She was born in Hungary in 1900, was brought to the United States when eight years old.

Some of Philadelphia's most important people came here to fight the proposal before CAB to terminate overseas flights from the city's international airport. Representatives of Pan-American TWA, and other lines sought to get witnesses to admit that passengers could be handled as well by shuttle service to New York and Boston airports.

Samuel P. Eckert, executive vice president of Sun Oil Co., snorted when they asked him that, told of a 22,000 mile pleasure and business trip he and his wife had taken to Nairobi. When they returned, he said the plane was forced to land at Boston because La Guardia field was shut in.

"Then that big transcontinental airline wanted to put us on a bus to send us back to Philadelphia. One of their executives admitted they wanted to use the cheapest form of transportation, though we were paying for the most expensive. We finally talked them into putting us on a Pullman."

Day By Day
New York

Charles B. Driscoll:

New York—Mrs. L. E. Ellison, Watertown, Fla., writes that these books delighted her children "Dame Wiggins," which I never heard of, Stevenson's "A Child's Garden of Verses," Riley's "Book of Joyous Children,' and John Martin's Magazine. My children grew up on the Stevenson book and on John Martin. The other items, if the titles are quoted correctly, I am not familiar with.

I believe there was a simple verse in the Garden something like this:

Birdie with a yellow bill
Hopped upon my window-sill,
Cocked his shining eye and said,
"Ain't you shamed, you sleepy-head?"

That was one of the first verses Daughter Mary learned. But she changed the last line. She made it, "Oh, Mary, aren't you tiredy?"

Speaking of bright children, we have word from California that Granddaughter Nancy Patricia no longer brings a report card with grades on it, because every grade is 100 plus, which would be rather tiresome. So the teacher merely writes in words of praise, instead of percentags. Nancy is six, has an adult vocabulary, behaves herself well and modestly, and ought to grow up to be the John Kieran of her generation.

Her mother wasn't too dumb, graduating with a Phi Beta Kappa from Brown, and her father graduated from Harvard at 19, later a doctor from University of Iowa. On my side of the family there isn't much to be said, but all the McKees I know have advanced degrees and have distinguished themselves in some field of other. I guess heritage somtimes counts.

I was talking with Wilfred Funk, who has made a long study of genius children, a little while ago. He says that they are the happiest of all children, the healthiest, and grow up to be the happiest and healthiest of adults. I told him that Daughter Mary is worried about Nancy, for fear she may grow up so much in advance of her playmates that she may be considered peculair.

Mr. Funk, who has surveyed the Quiz Kids and their associates, answered, "Nothing to it. Naturally, the bright child is apt to be looked down upon by the dumb ones, because otherwise the dumb would have to look up to the bright, which they don't want to do. But this small isolation is not serious. Who wants to spend his life with dumb-bells, anyway?

"The bright child may be harder for the ordinary teacher to handle, because he or she has an independent mind, and does not always conform to rules made for ordinary children. There has to be some control, but there should never be any holding back. If the child is held back from advancement merely because he or she is brighter than other children, the child will grow up with a resentment of society controls."

These words, from so wise a man, gave me great comfort in the dilemma of having a genius granddaughter. I shall ship them on to Daughter Mary.

Once more I must tell several readers that I do not read anybody's manuscript. I am not permitted to read your manuscript, because of legal reasons which we will not go into here. I am an editor by training and experience, but I am not now a practicing editor. I am sorry that I cannot tell you why nobody buys your manuscript, or how to improve the writing.

CALIFORNIA MAN HEADS PROSECUTORS

New Orleans, Dec. 1—(AP)—Frank Coakley of Oakland, Calif., is president of the new National Association of County and Prosecuting Attorneys. He was elected here yesterday at the group's inaugural meeting.

He is district attorney of Alameda county, Calif.

Elected first vice-president was William J. McCauley, of Milwaukee, Wis. Other officers are second Vice President Johnnie Frank of Wichita, Kans., and Secretary-Treasurer Park H. Campbell of Miami, Fla.

Plight Of Fighting GI

We've learned that American casualties in Korea are unusually high when measured against the total size of our forces there. But most of us realize that, given the number of our troops at the outbreak of war, there's very little that could have been done about it.

In other words, we just didn't have enough men under arms at any stage to provide adequate relief for U. S. soldiers fighting at the front.

This isn't the place to go again into the reasons for that inadequacy. Presumably if we got into a major war with Russia or anybody else, we'd have more ample manpower for reserve use.

Every American ought certainly to hope, however, that when reserves are available they are employed with greater concern for the welfare and effectiveness of the individual fighting man than was shown in World War II.

In th big war the U. S. had something like 100 divisions in being. Of these, 64 saw battle action. In case you may not have realized what happens to men who do the actual fighting, consider these figures from an instructor at the Army Command and General Staff School in Fort Leavenworth, Kan.

Eighteen of the 64 fighting divisions had greater total casualties than they had men in the beginning. Five suffered casualties of 176 per cent—they were in effect almost wiped out twice over.

Infantry regiments, the units of the slogging foot soldier who does the dirtiest part of the fighting, lost two and a half times their original strength in manpower. Obviously not a very safe place to be in wartime.

The figures indicate that on the average half a division's strength was gone after 50 days of combat. Give them 150 days in the front lines and they were down to 18 per cent. After 300 days, nearly a year, only three out of every 100 soldiers in the original outfit was still fighting.

In 85 to 100 days up front, infantry regiments will suffer total casualties equal to their starting strength.

It wasn't unusual for infantry units in World War II to stay in action continuously for 120 days. There wasn't any effective plan for relieving the men who bore this tremendous load.

Said an army report, "Under present policy no man is removed from combat until he has become worthless. The infantryman considers this a bitter injustice."

The command school instructor, Lt.-Col. U. P. Williams, believes combat infantrymen deserve frequent rest periods. He says: "Important manpower savings can be achieved only by having each man believe that an honorable extended period of relief from combat awaits him. The rotation of individuals from the front line to less dangerous duty . . . offers the only practicable method of providing relief."

This officer is talking sense. We all know that the mud-caked, water-soaked G. I. is the backbone of the army. If his welfare in the field is not made a prime goal, how can we expect him to do a consistently good job of fighting for us who are comfortably lodged at home

Sheep's Clothing

The next time you see a wolf in sheep's clothing, Dear Reader, nail him. At the price wool is bringing nowadays, a sheep's clothing is worth plenty. And it probably will be worth even more next year. The world reserves of wool have been almost completely used up and competition for current production is driving wool prices rapidly higher. The sheep, stupid and lowly animal that he is, is coming into his own. His fleece is just about the same as golden.

As a result, many Louisiana cane growers who are using sheep to keep down Johnson grass in their fields will make a nice little profit on the side. And other sheep owners who held onto their flocks for no particular reason when wool prices were far lower than now will find their flocks much more profitable. In fact, some livestock specialists declare that sheep will pay more in proportion to the amount of money invested in them than any other kind of livestock.

That's saying a good bit, since livestock production of all kinds has proven increasingly successful here in Louisiana in recent years. That beef cattle, dairy cottle, swine, poultry and sheep should pay well here in Louisiana under proper conditions and good management is certain evidence of the diversity that is possible to Louisiana agriculture. Louisiana agriculture is progressing every bit as rapidly as Louisiana business and industry. That progress is just beginning.

Labor Learns A Lesson

It's apparent from the recent CIO convention in Chicago that labor has shelved for at least the next two years any hope of repealing the Taft-Hartley law.

The word now is that top labor men will work with congress to amend the act to get rid of features either deemed unworkable or touted by labor as hostile to its legitimate aims.

Organized labor could have had a sharply modified law a couple of years ago, but the leaders preferred to strike a stubborn "all or nothing" attitude. This did nothing to win them public sympathy and cost them two years of operation under a perhaps markedly improved law.

Slowly, reluctantly, labor may be learning some of the hard lessons of politics. One of those certainly is that you seldom get all you want when you want it.

Wool production in this country is reported on the decline. If that worries you, think of the lowly moths.

The "Gentlemen Prefer Blondes" backers now have 100 per cent profit on their investment. The parents of that Ziegfeld Theatre smash started with only $15,000. Mindy Carson's teevy and other commitments kept her from taking the lead in "So This Is Brooklyn," Geo. Abbott's new musical. Other bids were to replace Mary Martin in "Pacific" next June and Cole Porter's "Out of This World." Three years ago (as an unknown) Mindy sang her heart out at auditions for Broadway showmen and all said, "So Soddy."

The Broadway Ass'n has declared war on the many "charity" solicitors congesting theater fronts. It now has the guarantee of the police dept. that the racketeers-in-misery (whose take is often 50 per cent of the donations) are not only going out of business but to jail. . . . In the meantime, the theater people offer this to playgoers: They endorse the legitimate and responsible groups such as The March of Dimes, the Runyon Cancer Fund, Heart Funds whose canvassers are permitted to solicit in theater lobbies. . . . The tip-off on the others: If you encounter coin-receptacle mendicants outside or near a theater (on the sidewalks), that's the cue to ignore them—the B'way Ass'n considers them suspect.

Correction: The gamblers' "odds" on the Rose Bowl game (Cal. vs. Michigan) are 11 to 10 (take your pick), but you must lay the 11. That's their percentage. . . . Carmen Miranda gave Edith Piaf her worst case of nerves by sitting at the Versailles ringside. They wound up in the dressing-room weeping all over each other's mascara. What do those $5,000 per week girls have to Cry About? . . . Cosmopolitan dangled a fabulous cash offer at Ingrid Bergman to write her side of the Roberto romance. They are breathlessly awaiting her decision. . . . "Season in the Sun" hiked the tariff on its balcony pews, now that it is such a hit. When it opened, those seats retailed at $3.60 each. Last week they inflated to $4.80. . . . Garbo made her first plane trip (from the coast) the other day in the storm. Leo Durocher acted as porter, steward and nurse.

Net Runyon Fund contributions from all ticket sales up to last week: $115,166.83. That's from Dec. 5th, 1949, when "South Pacific" dreamed up the grand plan, with "Kiss Me, Kate" following soon after. . . . We now have 14 seats in the 8th row center for "S. Pac"; 22 seats 1st row center for "Peep Show"; 8 seats 2nd row center for "Call Me Merman"; 2 seats 2nd row center at "Country Girl"; 8 seats 1st row center at "Guys and Dolls"; 8 seats 1st row center at "Affairs of State"; 8 seats 5th row center at "Kiss Me, Kate"; 2 in the 8th row for "Gentlemen Prefer Blondes" and 8 seats 3rd row center at "Happy Time". . . . We will soon have "Bless You All," "Bell, Book and Candle," and "Out of This World". . . . These Broadway tickets to hits practically pay the freight for 54 young doctors and scientists via the Runyon Fund Fellowships. Our ticket office number is Circle 7-8074.

The Philly grapevine reports that Mary McCarty (who crashed the Broadway heavens via "Small Wonder" into Irving Berlin's "Miss Liberty") is rocking audiences with her ditty, "Little Things Mean So Much to Me". . . . Gilbert Miller put up all of the $85,000 for "Ring Round the Moon." A rare thing for showmen, who let "Angels" assume all the risk. . . . Gloria Swanson's local escort is Brandy Brent, ex-Los Angeles colyumist, now her p. a. . . . Margaret Truman is on a millinery binge. Purchasing scads of chapeaux, which Mr. Fred (John-Frederics) is ecstatically dreaming up with all his witchery. . . The other column we wondered if Jose Ferrer wasn't embarrased by the billing: "America's First Actor." He telegraphs: "Yes". . . . K. Hepburn reports she was never healthier. "As You Like It" is booked until March, selling out everywhere.

In "Ring Round the Moon" Oscar Karlweis mentions making an overseas phone call in 1912, the time of the play. No proofreaders, apparently. . . . The 254-year-old "The Relapse" never had an American production until the other week. When Richard Brinsley Sheridan revived it (in 1777) at the Drury Lane, London, he deleted many of its juicy escapades and rechristened it: "A Trip to Scarborough." Without its sinfulness it was a bust. . . . John Davis Lodge, Gov.-Elect of Conn., got only casual mention from the critics in his last stage appearance. It was in "Watch on the Rhine". . . . "711 Ocean Drive," the movie, is a concrete example of why independent firms shrug off the threat of teevy. The current estimate is that it will do $1,800,000 (in the U. S. alone), a terrific money-maker. It cost $480,000 to produce. . . . Vanessa Brown on tour with K. Hepburn was one of the Quiz Kids.

CBS has imported a coaster named Steve Allen, whose one-hour comments at midnight excited that network's chiefs. They say he's a very glib guy—sort of a "refined" Groucho Marx. He will be 29 next month and never works from a script. CBS plans a buildup for him via television. . . . Broadway can be sugary when you have talent. Carol Channing, whose wage was only $35 per in "Lend an Ear" (in Hollywood only two years ago), now gets considerably more than that in "Blondes." Her Lorelei Lee has made her famous. . . . "Anna and the King of Siam" will get money-backing from a major network similar to the deal NBC arranged to back "Call Me Madam". . . . The Messrs. Feuer and Martin, proprietors of the new mint, "Guys and Dolls," met as ushers for NBC audiences in H'wood. . . . New Yorker mag critic Wolcott Gibbs' plunder from "Season in the Sun" is $1,900 weekly.

OUR CHILDREN

WHAT KIND OF EDUCATION?

Many parents are asking what sort of education should be given their boys and girls. The world seems to be changing. New, untried ways are taking the place of the old. Under the conditions, should one rear a doctor, a carpenter-builder, a mechanic, a housewife, a clergyman, a scientist, a soldier?

The basic thing to do is to rear a fine human being. What kind of education is needed for that? It is education that will prepare a person to live happily, of course. It is the kind that develops sound character, a decent regard for the rights of others and respect for one's self. It is education that teaches that it is better to love than to hate and that one must give as well as take. It teaches that one's strength is within and that it is one's duty to develop that strength and then to depend on it and on no one else to succeed in one's life work.

How can this education be given? First, by studying the child's abilities, his strength and his weakness—then by accenting his strength. I would accent his strength by acquainting him with the best that has been thought and recorded by the leaders of men. Along with that, he should master some useful work so that he may be of service to himself and to others.

I would have him hear the praise of good men, read what they have written, learn what they did. That will affect his thinking. His thinking will put quality into his doing.

This is but saying that I would give children a sound training in the classics and, at the same time, a sound training in some field of usefulness. All cannot take the classics? Some can. If more are allowed to do so we will gain their valuable contribution to the life of our day. All cannot do useful work? That is true only of the very lowest grade of mentality and more, far more, children and young people can be trained to high levels of usefulness than are permitted to do so today.

Expose every child to education. Teach him, above all, how to read. Open the library to him and teach him how to use it. Open the shops and the laboratories to him and teach him to experiment. Nobody knows what power lies within a child. Only the child can disclose it and he can do so only when confronted with experience with which he can experiment.

Once he chooses his field, help him on with it—according to his power. Governments may change they certainly will do so. But life and its needs, physical and spiritual, will go on. Let children go on with life.

Is your child afraid of the dark, or has he some other fear that makes his life miserable? Dr. Patri tells how to guard against fears in his leaflet P-' I "Fear."

THESE DAYS

THE ROADS TO INDIA

Rabindranath Tagore said: "India is many countries packed into one geographical receptacle." Some 147 district languages are spoken among its many peoples. In the movement of races from desert and mountain to rivers and valleys, from a hard life to a warmer climate and plentiful foods and fibers, India has often been conquered.

In 326 B. C., Alexander the Great, as he is called, a Macedonian conqueror, crossing through bactria over the Hindu Kush Mountains, invaded the Punjab and crossed the Indus River. Where ever Alexander went, he planted Greek cities and established Greek culture, which in this period had to struggle against the resplendent Persian culture then prevailing in these areas.

Alexander's Army encountered fierce enemies throughout his Indian conquests, brave and good soldiers. Yet it was possible for his Army to find a path through, in spite of mountain, desert and heat.

Aconquering race, little known in these times, were the Scythians, a nomadic people who followed the grass, spreading probably from what is now called Turkestan and Mongolia into Persia and thence to the region that lies between the Don and the Carpathians in present day Russia.

Always the pressure seems to be from the North southward and thus a Scythian people, the Sakas, who were being pressed by the SinicYueChi in the Jasartes region, pressed upon the greeks in Bactria. They conquered the Punjab in 135 B. C. and set up a dynasty in much the same lands that Alexander the Great had held in Northern India.

I am omitting other movements across this same route—a route which is today at the disposal of Soviet Russia. To the Indus from the north seems to have been an open road for any aggressive people.

For again in the fifth century, a people known as the White Hun or Epthalites, arising in the same Turkestan Mongolian grasslands, occupied Bactria and moved into the Punjab, and in time controlled a vast area in India.

So in the 10th century, the Turks brought Islam to northers India, conquering much of the land—and laying the foundation for modern Pakistan.

Again in the 14th century, Genghis Khan's mongols, developing ou of the Turkestan-Mongolian Region spread from the Pacific to Moscow, and Tamerlane, already the conqueror of persia, Mesopotamia and Afghanistan (Bactria), crossed the Hindu Kush to the Indus, into the Punjab and established what became the great Mogul empire with which the British had to deal when they set out to conquer India.

Other routes into India now being employed by Soviet China, have an interesting history. The Manchu Emperor of China, K'ang Hsi supported the Dalai Lama and managed in 1720 to establish a suzerainty over Tibet by supporting and protecting a favorite.

In the reign of Ch'ien Lung, one of the greatest emperors of China, Tibet was invaded by the Chinese, who established temparad control over the Dalai Lama.

In this same reign, the Chinese invaded Burma, without too much success, but they did move into Nepal, which is separated from Tibet by the supporedly impassable Himalayas. Assam and Bhutan came under Chinese influence. China became the suzerian of Nepal—a problem which will now face the world because Soviet China is already active in Nepal and other areas in this region.

The best and easiest route of conquest of India is, of course, by sea. In 1498, Vasco Da Gama reached Malabar, having rounded the Cape of Good Hope. Hence forth, not the tribes out of the Turkestan-Mongolian grasslands dererts nor the Persian and Turkish peoples, but western Europeans made their way to India. The British and French vied with the Portuguese for control of this country.

India suddenly found herself involved in the European System of War, the war of the Austrian succession reaching india in the struggle between England and France for world dominion.

Without regard to the local population and truly great civilizations clive and dupleix fought to carve out empires. The British predominated and held India, in one form or another, until 1947.

Mountains can be scaled; rivers can be crossed; peoples can be subdued, if the national will to live, to grow, to possess exists, and when against that will nothing is pitted but uncertainty.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Q—Is there a flower which blooms only at night?

A—There are a number of such flowers. Some of the more common are the night-blooming Cereus, the Moonflower, several species of Evening Primrose, the Angel's Trumpet and various related species of Datura.

Q—Has a foreigner ever been buried in Arlington National Cemetery?

A—According to army records there are 13 foreigners buried there.

Q—Did the Indians antedate the Eskimos on this continent?

A—According to the latest findings there were Indians living in the United States long before the first Eskimos appeared on the North American continent. The Eskimos are not more than about 1000 years old. Pre-Indian inhabitants of New York State lived there at least 5000 years ago.

Q—What percentage of the voters in this country are women?

A—An estimated 52 per cent.

Q—How many times did Joe Louis defend his heavyweight title?

A—Twenty-five times — more often than any other heavyweight champion.

Q—Which is the correct title, civil or civilian defense?

A—Civil defense. Civilian defense implies defense of civilians and could be carried on by the military. Civil defense means defense of the home front by civil authority.

Q—Who served as the musical secretary to Frederick Delius?

A—Eric Fenby, a young British musician, volunteered his services to the famous composer who was blind and crippled. This unique process of musical dictation, note by note, bar by bar, instrument by instrument, was an extraordinary episode in the history of music.

Q—Has Spanish moss any commercial value?

A—It is used as a filler in some boxes of goods, also as a stuffing for mattresses and cushions.

Day By Day
New York

Charles B. Driscoll:

New York—Mrs. L. E. Ellison, Watertown, Fla., writes that these books delighted her children "Dame Wiggins," which I never heard of, Stevenson's "A Child's Garden of Verses," Riley's "Book of Joyous Children,' and John Martin's Magazine. My children grew up on the Stevenson book and on John Martin. The other items, if the titles are quoted correctly, I am not familiar with.

I believe there was a simple verse in the Garden something like this:

Birdie with a yellow bill
Hopped upon my window-sill,
Cocked his shining eye and said,
"Ain't you shamed, you sleepy-head?"

That was one of the first verses Daughter Mary learned. But she changed the last line. She made it, "Oh, Mary, aren't you tiredy?"

Speaking of bright children, we have word from California that Granddaughter Nancy Patricia no longer brings a report card with grades on it, because every grade is 100 plus, which would be rather tiresome. So the teacher merely writes in words of praise, instead of percentags. Nancy is six, has an adult vocabulary, behaves herself well and modestly, and ought to grow up to be the John Kieran of her generation.

Her mother wasn't too dumb, graduating with a Phi Beta Kappa from Brown, and her father graduated from Harvard at 19, later a doctor from University of Iowa. On my side of the family there isn't much to be said, but all the McKees I know have advanced degrees and have distinguished themselves in some field of other. I guess heritage somtimes counts.

I was talking with Wilfred Funk, who has made a long study of genius children, a little while ago. He says that they are the happiest of all children, the healthiest, and grow up to be the happiest and healthiest of adults. I told him that Daughter Mary is worried about Nancy, for fear she may grow up so much in advance of her playmates that she may be considered peculair.

Mr. Funk, who has surveyed the Quiz Kids and their associates, an swered, "Nothing to it. Naturally, the bright child is apt to be looked down upon by the dumb ones, because otherwise the dumb would have to look up to the bright, which they don't want to do. But this small isolation is not serious. Who wants to spend his life with dumb-bells, anyway?

"The bright child may be harder for the ordinary teacher to handle, because he or she has an independent mind, and does not always conform to rules made for ordinary children. There has to be some control, but there should never be any holding back. If the child is held back from advancement merely because he or she is brighter than other children, the child will grow up with a resentment of society controls."

These words, from so wise a man, gave me great comfort in the dilemma of having a genius granddaughter. I shall ship them on to Daughter Mary.

Once more I must tell several readers that I do not read anybody's manuscript. I am not permitted to read your manuscript, because of legal reasons which we will not go into here. I am an editor by training and experience, but I am not now a practicing editor. I am sorry that I cannot tell you why nobody buys your manuscript, or how to improve the writing.

In Washington With

BASCOM TIMMONS

Around the Army and Navy Club in Washington, retired officers who were on the verge of apoplexy over her appointment are now waiting in grim silence for action by Congress on the nomination of Mrs. Anna M. Rosenberg as assistant secretary of national defense, in charge of personnel and manpower.

Probably they will be disappointed, because the confirmation of Mrs. Rosenberg is anticipated. How much opposition there will be is difficult to estimate, but at the moment there are not enough votes in sight to defeat the first woman who has ever been given an armed service assignment of such magnitude.

Fifty year old Anna Rosenberg, a woman of "terrific efficiency" according to New Deal ratings, is not favorably regarded by Republicans in Congress, largely because her efficiency at one time permitted her to hold four jobs, two with the government and two with private industry, with total annual earings of $36,000. That caused the House Appropriations Committee to write into legislation a provision prohibiting federal administrative officials from accepting employment outside the government. Arthur J. Altmeyer, chairman of the then social security board, testified that she had taken the job in his organization with the understanding that she could continue to draw a total of $22,500 from private industry.

Congress still grumbles about that, but the retired officers are burned up at the thought of a woman, even of her experience, directing the intricate job of routing drafted men and reserves into the various armed services. They foresee friction between the lady in defense and the military and naval forces with consequent delay and a great amount of dissatisfaction. Sorting and directing men into armed service, it is argued, differs greatly from routing workers into war plants, at which she gained most of her fame.

The criticisms include the assertion that her closest contact with the armed forces in World War II was her son Tommy, aged 22, an army private.

Mr. Rosenberg got into New York politics through Belle Moskowitz assistant to Alfred E. Smith. Most of her early experience was in labor disputes, later in industrial and social welfare issues. In 1935 she became director of the Social Security Board in New York City.

The conviction is well defined here that Mrs. Rosenberg was not the choice of secretary of Defense George C. Marshall, but of the White House, and that it did not originate with President Truman. Mrs. Rosenberg has had close cooperation over the years with Dr. John Steelman and David Niles of the White House staff, who now have so much seniority that they can originate important appointments, though they cannot actually make them. It would be totally unlike Marshall to name a woman to handle armed force manpower, his former associates believe.

The ostensible reason for her appointment as given out by the Pentagon was that so many conflicting demands for men were being made that one central clearance office was necessary.

Mrs. Rosenberg's hobby is "getting up the best Hungarian dishes, you've tasted," for her husband Julius Rosenberg, a rug merchant. She was born in Hungary in 1900, was brought to the United States when eight years old.

Some of Philadelphia's most important people came here to fight the proposal before CAB to terminate overseas flights from the city's international airport. Representatives of Pan-American TWA, and other lines sought to get witnesses to admit that passengers could be handled as well by shuttle service to New York and Boston airports.

Samuel P. Eckert, executive vice president of Sun Oil Co., snorted when they asked him that, told of a 22,000 mile pleasure and business trip he and his wife had taken to Nairobi. When they returned, he said the plane was forced to land at Boston because La Guardia field was shut in.

"Then that big transcontinental airline wanted to put us on a bus to send us back to Philadelphia. One of their executives admitted they wanted to use the cheapest form of transportation, though we were paying for the most expensive. We finally talked them into putting us on a Pullman."

CALIFORNIA MAN HEADS PROSECUTORS

New Orleans, Dec. 1—(AP)—Frank Coakley of Oakland, Calif., is president of the new National Association of County and Prosecuting Attorneys. He was elected here yesterday at the group's inaugural meeting.

He is district attorney of Alameda county, Calif.

Elected first vice-president was William J. McCauley, of Milwaukee, Wis. Other officers are second Vice President Johnnie Frank of Wichita, Kans., and Secretary-Treasurer Park H. Campbell of Miami, Fla.

PITCHING HORSESHOES

BYE BYE BY-LINE

I may feel differently about it one of these days, but as of this writing—propped up in bed and with a magnum of morphine sloshing around my viens—I've about made up my mind to stop writing this column.

For the past year my doctor has been waving my blood counts and cardiograms at me, and hinting that all work no play makes Jack a dead boy. He's been telling me that I no longer had the bounce to cope with all the chores and deadlines breathing down my neck—that the day was past when I could dance at half a dozen weddings simultaneously. Up to now I haven't paid him much mind but my current bout with the miseries has finally brought me around to his way of thinking.

And it isn't because the operation I recently underwent was such a much—matter of fact it was pretty much run of the scalpel and, outside of the pain involved, nothing to be too concerned about. But I began to get plenty concerned a week ago when I found that, for the first time in my 51 Novembers I wasn't snapping back the way I should—that the ever-lovin' elastic wasn't there any more. A few years ago I could have been yelling for tiffin and telephone before the anesthetic wore off, but today, three weeks after the patch-up job, I've still got a headful of fog and a skin ful of ache.

The decision to say good-bye to my by-line has been a tough one to make. For almost five years now this column has provided most of the fun and focus of my life, and emotionally it has meant more to me than anything I ever tacked. I've watched it grow from a paid ad in a New York daily to a feature syndicated in more than 2,000 papers (counting weeklies), and naturally an old show-off like me doesn't like to leave the stage with that big an audience in the house. But if it has to be a choice between hoopla and hypertension, I guess I know which side my bed is buttered on..

Before stashing my typewriter away, however, I'd like to give out with a few thank-you's to the gentlemen of the press who have put up with my verbal vagaries for the past fifty-odd months. First, foremost and fulsomely, I want to express my gratitude to John Wheeler, bossman of the Bell Syndicate, who wet-nursed this column from a foible to a feature. Second, I'd like to say much obliged to the Dominion News Bureau which handled the Canadian distribution. Ditto, Editors' Press which — Heaven only knows how—translated my pop-eyed prose into Spanish and Portuguese for the Latin American trade. And, double ditto, to Farnham Dudgeon of Western Newspaper Union who was largely responsible for its small-town circulation, and John Dawson of the London Feature Service who so brilliantly merchandized it in Europe and in the far crannies of the Empire.

Most of all, though, I want to thank the dear hearts and gentle people who now and then have made room for me at their breakfast and dinner tables. I doubt if I've left any deep or consequential thoughts in their minds, but if my popcorn polemics have occasionally taken their minds off their jim-jams, it's been worth all the trouble and typewriter ribbon.

And now, as the sun sinks in the west and the nurse shoves a thermometer in my face, I reluctantly say farewell to the lovely land of Green Eyeshades and Printer's Ink. It's been a real nice clambake and—who knows—maybe we'll bump into each other again.

MALONE APPARENTLY DIES WITHOUT WILL

Los Angeles, Dec. 2.—(AP)—Dudley Field Malone, once noted as an international lawyer, apparently neglected to leave a will. However, he may also have died nearly penniless.

Malone, who died Oct. 5 at the age of 68, left no visible assets here, a court petition declared yesterday. He may have had bank deposits in New York and there were some debts owed him, public administrator Ben Brown added.

Brown asked permission to take charge of the estate, saying no will has been found. Malone's only heir-at-law, it was indicated, is a son, Dudley, Jr., of London. The elder Malone was divorced from three wives.

TELEPHONE CALLS WILL COST MORE

Chicago, Dec. 2.—(AP)—The price of local telephone calls from public pay booths in Illinois is going up from a nickel to a dime after Jan. 1.

A court order issued yesterday granting the increase does not apply to residential coin box telephones. The Illinois Bell Telephone Company estimated that only 3 per cent of its 2,556,000 telephones will be affected by the new rate. The new rate will be for 48,000 pay booths in Chicago and 17,000 downstate.

SIEGELIN TO ATTEND MUNICIPAL MEETING

Bogalusa, La., Dec. 2.—(AP)—Bogalusa Mayor Curt Siegelin will be Louisiana's representative at the American municipal congress meeting in Washington, D. C. He will leave here today.

Siegelin is president of the Louisiana Municipal Association.

While in Washington he will entertain members of the state's congressional delegation at a dinner Tuesday night.

Even though he hasn't honored Hollywood with a personal visit during the past few years, Orson Welles still seems to rate high as a financial liability for the movie industry. This time, it's 20th Century-Fox which is ruefully regarding the flow of red ink. Seems that "The Genius" took his pen in hand and wrote for a European magazine, France Dimanche, an article which infuriated all the Germans who read it—infuriated them to such an extent that theatres in Germany have cancelled the bookings of "Prince of Foxes" and "The Black Rose," in both of which Orson plays important parts. When 20th's loss on this little hassle is added to the hundreds of thousands lost by RKO and Republic in their dealings with Welles, the bill for "genius" becomes rather high. In the entire history of the motion picture industry it would be hard to find a case in which a man has been touted more, or delivered less of value.

This week Hollywood trade papers reported the happy solution of a tempest-in-a-teapot — one that should leave outlanders both amazed and amused by the strange ways of show business. One of our local legitimate theatres is offering a play entitled "The Man." In the top roles of that show are Gladys George and John Dall. To the surprise of no one who has had dealings with the artistic temperament, they quarrelled over billing, each one insisting on precedence. The theatre's press agent, a born diplomat who would undoubtedly have gone far with the State Department, brought peace by suggesting a ludicrous compromise. In newspaper ads, Miss George gets top billing one day, and Dall gets it the next. Furthermore, the press agent had two sets of programs printed. Those given to patrons seated on one side of the theatre list Miss George's name first; those handed out to the other half of the audience do as much for Dall. It's nice to think that the play is being produced during the Christmas Season, since Christmas, traditionally, is for children.

I see by the trade papers, also, that Mae West refuses to consider any picture offer if there are to be "younger girls in the cast." That makes it mighty tough for producers, since it isn't easy to cast a picture entirely with "girls" nearing sixty.

Baptist Hospital Drive Is Approved

A program to launch the campaign for the construction of a new, 200 bed hospital in the near future was approved unanimously Friday by the Baptist Hospital Committee.

The new structure will cost approximately $2,000,000 and will add 200 beds to the hospital facilities of the parish.

A committee member revealed that the total payroll of the proposed hospital would probably reach $250,000 annually, and that the hospital might be expected to spend roughly the same amount in the area for supplies and materials.

Aggressive plans for the fund drive began immediately after the acceptance and approval of the resolution.

The drive is supported by all the Baptist churches of northeast Louisiana and is designed to provide a structure for serving the entire area.

Detailed reports on the drive and its progress will be released for publication at a later date.

Frocks For The Holiday Season

By Sue Burnett

"Dear Miss B, writes Miss Geraldine Holmes of New York, I'm trying to plan early on several new dresses to wear during the holidays. I make a lot of my own clothes but working every day does not give me much time to sew. Can you show something that's a little bit different and yet easy to make?"

Holidays take something special and the two frocks illustrated today will be particulary suitable for a festive season.

Pattern No. 8642 is a sew-rite perforated pattern in sizes 9, 11, 12, 13, 14, 15, 16 and 18. Size 11, short sleeves, 4½ yards of 39-inch.

Billy Rose:

PITCHING HORSESHOES

BYE BYE BY-LINE

I may feel differently about it one of these days, but as of this writing—propped up in bed and with a magnum of morphine sloshing around my viens—I've about made up my mind to stop writing this column.

For the past year my doctor has been waving my blood counts and cardiograms at me, and hinting that all work no play makes Jack a dead boy. He's been telling me that I no longer had the bounce to cope with all the chores and deadlines breathing down my neck—that the day was past when I could dance at half a dozen weddings simultaneously. Up to now I haven't paid him much mind but my current bout with the miseries has finally brought me around to his way of thinking.

And it isn't because the operation I recently underwent was such a much—matter of fact it was pretty much run of the scalpel and, outside of the pain involved, nothing to be too concerned about. But I began to get plenty concerned a week ago when I found that, for the first time in my 51 Novembers I wasn't snapping back the way I should—that the ever-lovin' elastic wasn't there any more. A few years ago I could have been yelling for tiffin and telephone before the anesthetic wore off, but today, three weeks after the patch-up job, I've still got a headful of fog and a skin ful of ache.

The decision to say good-bye to my by-line has been a tough one to make. For almost five years now this column has provided most of the fun and focus of my life, and emotionally it has meant more to me than anything I ever tacked. I've watched it grow from a paid ad in a New York daily to a feature syndicated in more than 2,000 papers (counting weeklies), and naturally an old show-off like me doesn't like to leave the stage with that big an audience in the house. But if it has to be a choice between hoopla and hypertension, I guess I know which side my bed is buttered on..

Before stashing my typewriter away, however, I'd like to give out with a few thank-you's to the gentlemen of the press who have put up with my verbal vagaries for the past fifty-odd months. First, foremost and fulsomely, I want to express my gratitude to John Wheeler, bossman of the Bell Syndicate, who wet-nursed this column from a foible to a feature. Second, I'd like to say much obliged to the Dominion News Bureau which handled the Canadian distribution. Ditto, Editors' Press which — Heaven only knows how—translated my pop-eyed prose into Spanish and Portuguese for the Latin American trade. And, double ditto, to Farnham Dudgeon of Western Newspaper Union who was largely responsible for its small-town circulation, and John Dawson of the London Feature Service who so brilliantly merchandized it in Europe and in the far crannies of the Empire.

Most of all, though, I want to thank the dear hearts and gentle people who now and then have made room for me at their breakfast and dinner tables. I doubt if I've left any deep or consequential thoughts in their minds, but if my popcorn polemics have occasionally taken their minds off their jim-jams, it's been worth all the trouble and typewriter ribbon.

And now, as the sun sinks in the west and the nurse shoves a thermometer in my face, I reluctantly say farewell to the lovely land of Green Eyeshades and Printer's Ink. It's been a real nice clambake and—who knows—maybe we'll bump into each other again.

MALONE APPARENTLY DIES WITHOUT WILL

Los Angeles, Dec. 2.—(AP)—Dudley Field Malone, once noted as an international lawyer, apparently neglected to leave a will. However, he may also have died nearly penniless.

Malone, who died Oct. 5 at the age of 68, left no visible assets here, a court petition declared yesterday. He may have had bank deposits in New York and there were some debts owed him, public administrator Ben Brown added.

Brown asked permission to take charge of the estate, saying no will has been found. Malone's only heir-at-law, it was indicated, is a son, Dudley, Jr., of London. The elder Malone was divorced from three wives.

TELEPHONE CALLS WILL COST MORE

Chicago, Dec. 2.—(AP)—The price of local telephone calls from public pay booths in Illinois is going up from a nickel to a dime after Jan. 1.

A court order issued yesterday granting the increase does not appy to residential coin box telephones. The Illinois Bell Telephone Company estimated that only 3 per cent of its 2,556,000 telephones will be affected by the new rate. The new rate will be for 48,000 pay booths in Chicago and 17,000 downstate.

Even though he hasn't honored Hollywood with a personal visit during the past few years, Orson Welles still seems to rate high as a financial liability for the movie industry. This time, it's 20th Century-Fox which is ruefully regarding the flow of red ink. Seems that "The Genius" took his pen in hand and wrote for a European magazine, France Dimanche, an article which infuriated all the Germans who read it—infuriated them to such an extent that theatres in Germany have cancelled the bookings of "Prince of Foxes" and "The Black Rose," in both of which Orson plays important parts. When 20th's loss on this little hassle is added to the hundreds of thousands lost by RKO and Republic in their dealings with Welles, the bill for "genius" becomes rather high. In the entire history of the motion picture industry it would be hard to find a case in which a man has been touted more, or delivered less of value.

This week Hollywood trade papers reported the happy solution of a tempest-in-a-teapot — one that should leave outlanders both amazed and amused by the strange ways of show business. One of our local legitimate theatres is offering a play entitled "The Man." In the top roles of that show are Gladys George and John Dall. To the surprise of no one who has had dealings with the artistic temperament, they quarrelled over billing, each one insisting on precedence. The theatre's press agent, a born diplomat who would undoubtedly have gone far with the State Department, brought peace by suggesting a ludicrous compromise. In newspaper ads, Miss George gets top billing one day, and Dall gets it the next. Furthermore, the press agent had two sets of programs printed. Those given to patrons seated on one side of the theatre list Miss George's name first; those handed out to the other half of the audience do as much for Dall. It's nice to think that the play is being produced during the Christmas Season, since Christmas, traditionally, is for children.

I see by the trade papers, also, that Mae West refuses to consider any picture offer if there are to be "younger girls in the cast." That makes it mighty tough for producers, since it isn't easy to cast a picture entirely with "girls" nearing sixty.

Baptist Hospital Drive Is Approved

A program to launch the campaign for the construction of a new, 200 bed hospital in the near future was approved unanimously Friday by the Baptist Hospital Committee.

The new structure will cost approximately $2,000,000 and will add 200 beds to the hospital facilities of the parish.

A committee member revealed that the total payroll of the proposed hospital would probably reach $250,000 annually, and that the hospital might be expected to spend roughly the same amount in the area for supplies and materials.

Aggressive plans for the fund drive began immediately after the acceptance and approval of the resolution.

The drive is supported by all the Baptist churches of northeast Louisiana and is designed to provide a structure for serving the entire area.

Detailed reports on the drive and its progress will be released for publication at a later date.

There's a good reason tea should be steeped for five minutes before serving; brewing for this length of time brings out the full flavor of the tea.

YOUNG SOLDIER TELLS OF TRAP

Says Those Who Could Not Get Away 'Slaughtered For Sure'

By Tom Stone

Northeast Front, Korea., Dec. 2.—(AP)—A young soldier lay on an improvised operating table in an evacuation hospital today and told how he and a handful of other soldiers broke out of a Chinese Red trap.

The dark-haired 21-year-old soldier said those in his company who did not escape "were slaughtered for sure" by the Chinese. Wounded, he cannot be named because his relatives have not yet been notified.

He was one of dozens of wounded soldiers and marines flown out of the fighting zone around the Changjin reservoir on the northeast front.

The soldier is a Pfc. He was with the 31st regiment of the seventh infantry division fighting on the east side of the lake.

A medic with a hunting knife began cutting clothes off the wounded man.

"You'll be warm in a minute," the medic said.

"Thank you, sir," the soldier said, and then went on with his story.

"We got trapped the other day. Every day it became the same continuous pounding. They did it day and night, and they kept us tacked up."

The doctor peeled a field bandage from the soldier's face. here was a fresh wound on the left side of his chin. The medic asked: "That's sharpnel, isn't it?"

"I believe that's right," the soldier said. "but I'm not sure."

A medical corpsman began to cut away the clothes around the soldier's waist. The wound was bleeding and the corpsman began to swab the wound with a fresh bandage.

"Better give him some blood," the corpsman said.

"I was wounded twice," the soldier said, seeming to talk in order to keep his mind off the pain. "One down there and one on my face.

"It happened the day we started retreating. The Chinese had plenty of mortars, grenades and Thompson (machine) guns. I don't know where in the hell they got those tommy guns, but they really had them.

"They came running at us, yelling and shouting. We made for the last lake that was frozen over. Some of us crawled and some of us ran. I wasn't going to get killed there. But something hit me. I kept going.

"Those of us that got away finally got back on ground and to some railroad tracks. We knew if we followed them we would reach the marines. You don't know how happy we were to see them this morning."

The soldier declared that after planes and helicopters rescued him and his comrades "The Chinese just murdered the daylights out of those left behind."

Navy Comdr. William S. Francis, Marion, Va., executive officer of the medical battalion of the first marine division, said "those boys coming in here really had it tough."

"It's even worse than it was at Inchon," he said. "There they had a chance to fight back. Here they were just so greatly outnumbered there wasn't any chance at all."

Another private, aged 19, looked over from a nearby litter.

"Those chinks were all around us," he said. "We'd come to a road block and they'd cut us down. They're not scared. They'll walk right up to you. You'll shoot them and others will take their place."

A marine sergeant, his face covered with bandages, spoke up.

"They kept coming from the hills," he said. "I don't know where they could have come from. Mortar was falling all around. That's what hit me."

That's what it was like in that battlefield of ice and snow.

RELIEF SOCIETY PLANNING BAZAAR

Will Be Held In Chapel At 507 North Second Street Dec 8 And 9

The annual pre-Christmas bazaar held by the relief society, auxiliary organization of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-Day Saints (Mormon) is to be Friday and Saturday, Dec. 8 and 9, at the chapel, 507 North Second street.

The women have worked during the past year making articles to sell at this time. As a result there is a large variety of handmade items that will make lovely gifts. Fluffy aprons, aluminum serving trays, practical pot-holders, crocheted doilies, handpainted pictures, dresser scarves, vanity sets, luncheon sets, ladies hankies, and many other practical but pretty gift ideas are among the collection. Homemade cakes and candy will also be sold.

Festivities begin Friday, Dec. 8 with a chicken-spaghetti and chicken and dumpling supper served from 5:30 to 8:30 p.m. and will remain open all day Saturday for Christmas shopping.

Proceeds from this bazaar will go into the treasury of the relief society to help carry on the work of that organization. The relief society is the oldest women's organization in existence in the world today, having been organized in 1842 by the prophet Joseph Smith. It is a charitable organization designed to help the needy, and to educate its members on the subjects of theology, literature, social science, politics, and home arts. The public is invited to attend this bazaar for their Christmas gifts.

STATUE IS MEMORIAL

New York —(AP)— Gen. Clifton B. Gates, commandant of the United States Marine Corps, recently made the initial contribution to a fund for a marine corps memorial to be erected near Washington.

Weighing 100 tons, the massive bronze depiction of the Iwo Jima flag-raising will tower 100 feet.

NEW BEACON RESTAURANT OPENS MONDAY

One of the most unique drive-in restaurants in the Twin Cities will be realized with the opening Monday, Dec. 4 of "The Beacon" at 1507 Cypress street, West Monroe.

With a seating capacity of approximately 40 persons, The Beacon will also cater to regular restaurant customers.

The new—from top to bottom—drive-in is owned and operated by Mr. and Mrs. Wesley Peters, Twin City residents for 30 years. He is a veteran of World War II. Both are Ouachita Parish High School graduates.

Opening in a new and quaint building, the Beacon is fitted with all new equipment and nothing was spared in the effort open a modern drive-in.

Peters says he will feature a boneless steak with all the trimmings for $1.50. In addition he will serve chicken, sandwiches and the choiciest meats.

Mr. Peters said yesterday he would also serve a lunch especially for merchants which will be unequalled at reasonable cost.

As a special convenience to customers, ultra-modern rest rooms have been installed for both men and women. A sort of powder room effect has been incorporated with the ladies rest room, according to Peters.

Approximately 50 automobiles can be accomodated at one time on the spacious grounds provided on both sides of the building, Peter said.

Peters said he expected to open with eight employes and probably would add more later.

Appropriately adopted as a slogan is: "Lighting the way to better eating."

GIRL IS TAKEN FROM HUSBAND

Dutch Lassie, 13, Turned Over To Mother She Says She Hates

By Larry Allen

Sinapore, Dec. 2 —(AP)— With tears streaming down her cheeks, a pretty, 13-year-old Dutch girl was taken from her Moslem husband today and turned over to a woman she says she hates—her mother.

Sobbing brokenly, Maria Bertha Nertogh stepped from the supreme court building in a tropical rainstorm and into a surging mass of three thousand Malayans, Indians, and Chinese. Most of the crowd was on her side.

The supreme court had just placed her in custody of Mrs. Adeline Hertogh, her 55-year-old Roman Catholic mother, who sued to uproot the girl from an eight-year life as a Moslem and Malayan. The high court also ordered Maria's marriage to a Malayan school teacher annulled. The child, said Justice T. A. Brown, "is not in the eyes of this court a Mohammedan."

He denied a defense request to delay putting the custody ruling into effect pending an appeal, but directed that Maria be kept within the court's jurisdiction until then.

At the last moment Maria clasped her arms around the neck of husband Inche Mansoor Abadi and cried, "I love you, I don't want to go away."

Mrs. Hertoh had accused Maria's foster-mother, 55-year-old Malayan Nurse Che Aminah, of steeling the child in 1942 during the Japanese occupation of Java. The Hertohs then were living in Java. The nurse claimed Mrs. Hertogh had given her the child.

Mrs. Hertogh's counsel contended that Maria's marriage to the school teacher had been arranged to bolster Che Aminah's fight to keep possession of the girl. They argued the marriage should be annulled because of the girl's age and Roman Catholic parentage.

Marie, brown - eyed, brown-haired, and dressed in a native Malay sarong ignored Mrs. Hertogh and cried out to her Malay foster-mother. "Mother, what will I do now? 'I hate her. I want to stay here."

The milling of the crowd outside the supreme court building was reminiscent of the demonstration last Nov. 24 of some 2,000 Indians, Malayans, and Moslems in behalf of the girl and the Malayan nurse's claim. Hundreds of British and Malay police using batons and brandishing rifles pushed the crowds back on side walk today as a car whisked Maria away.

Mrs. Hertogh had pressed her case despite a death warning from Malayan Communists demanding she drop proceedings.

Pending appeal by Maria's husband, the girl will be kept in Catholic convent here. The husband, thin, short and bespectacled appeared stunned as he watched the girl he married after only three days' acquaintance carried off amidst the wail of sirens and popping flashbulbs.

Che Aminah collapsed as she left the court building. She was carried to a taxi by Maria's husband.

Waiting For The Thaw, Apparently

Atlanta, Dec. 2.—(AP)—Belated cold weather note:

Mrs. Johnnie Williams is still chuckling about the man who got on the Georgia Avenue bus a few days ago when Atlanta's thermometer dipped to three degrees. She swears he was carrying a water glass and frozen solid in the glass were his false teeth.

HUNT CATTLE ON ALASKA ISLAND

Not Bothered By Fact Russia Once Used Place For Prisoners

Palmer, Alaska, Dec. 2.—(AP)—They're hunting beef cattle with long-range rifles on a wild Alaska island once used by the Russians as a penal colony.

It's part of one of Alaska's newest industries—an amazing meat packing enterprise whose operators are slaughtering wild cattle that have roamed unmolested for nearly 75 years.

The island is Chirikof, lying west of Kodiak and about 100 miles south of the Alaska peninsula. Treeless but covered with thick, high grass, it is roamed by some 800 head of cattle, first planted there in 1888 by the Semidi Propagation Company.

Now three men have formed a company to "harvest" the beef with an ingenious combination of surplus army vehicles, expert riflemen and airplane transportation.

They aren't bothered by stories that the Russians used Chirikof as a sort of "Devil's Island" penal colony before the United States purchased Alaska, although there still is a graveyard with evidences that Russian prisoners may have been left there to die.

The men are Harry Ryan and Walter Cooper of Palmer, and Charles Waller of Kent, Wash. Their company, with headquarters here, flies processed beef from Chirikof to a Palmer cold storage plant.

The "roundup" on the island has most of the thrills of an Alaska big game hunt. Three beef animals in a day is a good bag for two men.

Army surplus weapons carriers are used to carry "cowboy hunters" through the deep grass over marshes and rough terrain. Driving within two miles of the herds, the men then stalk the wild cattle and shoot with telescope-equipped rifles. They usually get only one shot before the herd stampedes.

The beef is dressed on the spot, hauled aboard the winch-equipped weapons carrier and taken to a slaughter house near the beach for processing. Then it's loaded on a plane and flown 500 miles to Palmer.

Long smooth beaches provide perfect landing fields for planes at the island, where ships cannot anchor because of shallow water.

Operators of the project say they have long-range plans to build up the island as a first class cattle ranch.

Negro Teachers Conduct Session

The Negro teachers of Ouachita parish held their regular monthly meeting at the Mt. Nebo School, Tuesday evening at 5:00 p.m.

The meeting was called to order by the president, A. G. Facen, who stressed the idea of each teacher assuming his obligations in all areas—locally, state, and nation-wide.

Local improvement is rapidly being made. All schools in the parish are uniting efforts toward developing a parish-wide band; these efforts thus for have proven successful in that several schools have as many as twelve pupils to become first members of this band.

Our hats are off to the Bryant's Addition and Mt. Nebo schools for making the first long step toward this project. These schools have consolidated plans to form the future band for the new elementary Southside school located on Jones' Lane. Nineteen instruments have been purchased by these schools and the students are now learning to play under the supervision of A. V. Turner, the music director at Tim Tippit High School.

The P.-T. A.'s in all zones have proven that they are interested in helping with this project by raising funds and purchasing individual instruments for their children.

Through the courtesy of the owner of KNOE, time has been alloted each Wednesday at 5:15 for the presentation of programs from all parish schools. These programs are now in process and everyone is invited to tune in.

The sum of $280.00 was donated to the Community Chest by this organization during its annual drive.

Guard Units Open To Young Men

Young men of draft age continue to fill the ranks of the Louisiana National Guard, according to an announcement from Brig. Gen. Raymond F. Hufft, state adjutant general and director of selective service for the state.

"Potential selectees," he announced, "may have their induction into the armed forces postponed indefinitely so long as they are members in good standing of the Guard.

"Young men who are subject to the draft are thereby afforded the opportunity to learn and earn at home while continuing in their civilian jobs."

After December 15, those who have already received 15, their pre-induction physical examinations are not eligible for enlistment in the National Guard.

Information about enlistments may be obtained from local Guard officers or their representatives at the armory.

YOUNG SOLDIER TELLS OF TRAP

Says Those Who Could Not Get Away 'Slaughtered For Sure'

By Tom Stone

Northeast Front, Korea., Dec. 2.—(AP)—A young soldier lay on an improvised operating table in an evacuation hospital today and told how he and a handful of other soldiers broke out of a Chinese Red trap.

The dark-haired 21-year-old soldier said those in his company who did not escape "were slaughtered for sure" by the Chinese. Wounded, he cannot be named because his relatives have not yet been notified.

He was one of dozens of wounded soldiers and marines flown out of the fighting zone around the Changjin reservoir on the northeast front.

The soldier is a Pfc. He was with the 31st regiment of the seventh infantry division fighting on the east side of the lake.

A medic with a hunting knife began cutting clothes off the wounded man.

"You'll be warm in a minute," the medic said.

"Thank you, sir," the soldier said, and then went on with his story.

"We got trapped the other day. Every day it became the same continuous pounding. They did it day and night, and they kept us tacked up."

The doctor peeled a field bandage from the soldier's face. here was a fresh wound on the left side of his chin. The medic asked: "That's sharpnel, isn't it?"

"I believe that's right," the soldier said, "but I'm not sure."

A medical corpsman began to cut away the clothes around the soldier's waist. The wound was bleeding and the corpsman began to swab the wound with a fresh bandage.

"Better give him some blood," the corpsman said.

"I was wounded twice," the soldier said, seeming to talk in order to keep his mind off the pain. "One down there and one on my face.

"It happened the day we started retreating. The Chinese had plenty of mortars, grenades and Thompson (machine) guns. I don't know where in the hell they got those tommy guns, but they really had them.

"They came running at us, yelling and shouting. We made for the last lake that was frozen over. Some of us crawled and some of us ran. I wasn't going to get killed there. But something hit me. I kept going.

"Those of us that got away finally got back on ground and to some railroad tracks. We knew if we followed them we would reach the marines. You don't know how happy we were to see them this morning."

The soldier declared that after planes and helicopters rescued him and his comrades "The Chinese just murdered the daylights out of those left behind."

Navy Comdr. William S. Francis, Marion, Va., executive officer of the medical battalion of the first marine division, said "those boys coming in here really had it tough."

"It's even worse than it was at Inchon," he said. "There they had a chance to fight back. Here they were just so greatly outnumbered there wasn't any chance at all."

Another private, aged 19, looked over from a nearby litter.

"Those chinks were all around us," he said. "We'd come to a road block and they'd cut us down. They're not scared. They'll walk right up to you. You'll shoot them and others will take their place."

A marine sergeant, his face covered with bandages, spoke up.

"They kept coming from the hills," he said. "I don't know where they could have come from. Mortar was falling all around. That's what hit me."

That's what it was like in that battlefield of ice and snow.

RELIEF SOCIETY PLANNING BAZAAR

Will Be Held In Chapel At 507 North Second Street Dec 8 And 9

The annual pre-Christmas bazaar held by the relief society, auxiliary organization of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-Day Saints (Mormon) is to be Friday and Saturday, Dec. 8 and 9, at the chapel, 507 North Second street.

The women have worked during the past year making articles to sell at this time. As a result there is a large variety of handmade items that will make lovely gifts. Fluffy aprons, aluminum serving trays, practical pot-holders, crocheted doilies, handpainted pictures, dresser scarves, vanity sets, luncheon sets, ladies hankies, and many other practical but pretty gift ideas are among the collection. Homemade cakes and candy will also be sold.

Festivities begin Friday, Dec. 8 with a chicken-spaghetti and chicken and dumpling supper served from 5:30 to 8:30 p.m. and will remain open all day Saturday for Christmas shopping.

Proceeds from this bazaar will go into the treasury of the relief society to help carry on the work of that organization. The relief society is the oldest women's organization in existence in the world today, having been organized in 1842 by the prophet Joseph Smith. It is a charitable organization designed to help the needy, and to educate its members on the subjects of theology, literature, social science, politics, and home arts. The public is invited to attend this bazaar for their Christmas gifts.

STATUE IS MEMORIAL

New York —(AP)— Gen. Clifton B. Gates, commandant of the United States Marine Corps, recently made the initial contribution to a fund for a marine corps memorial to be erected near Washington.

Weighing 100 tons, the massive bronze depiction of the Iwo Jima flag-raising will tower 100 feet.

NEW BEACON RESTAURANT OPENS MONDAY

One of the most unique drive-in restaurants in the Twin Cities will be realized with the opening Monday, Dec. 4 of "The Beacon" at 1507 Cypress street, West Monroe.

With a seating capacity of approximately 40 persons, The Beacon will also cater to regular restaurant customers.

The new—from top to bottom—drive-in is owned and operated by Mr. and Mrs. Wesley Peters, Twin City residents for 30 years. He is a veteran of World War II. Both are Ouachita Parish High School graduates.

Opening in a new and quaint building, the Beacon is fitted with all new equipment and nothing was spared in the effort open a modern drive-in.

Peters says he will feature a boneless steak with all the trimmings for $1.50. In addition he will serve chicken, sandwiches and the choiciest meats.

Mr. Peters said yesterday he would also serve a lunch especially for merchants which will be unequalled at reasonable cost.

As a special convenience to customers, ultra-modern rest rooms have been installed for both men and women. A sort of powder room effect has been incorporated with the ladies rest room, according to Peters.

Approximately 50 automobiles can be accomodated at one time on the spacious grounds provided on both sides of the building, Peter said.

Peters said he expected to open with eight employes and probably would add more later.

Appropriately adopted as a slogan is: "Lighting the way to better eating."

GIRL IS TAKEN FROM HUSBAND

Dutch Lassie, 13, Turned Over To Mother She Says She Hates

By Larry Allen

Sinapore, Dec. 2 —(AP)— With tears streaming down her cheeks, a pretty, 13-year-old Dutch girl was taken from her Moslem husband today and turned over to a woman she says she hates—her mother.

Sobbing brokenly, Maria Bertha Nertogh stepped from the supreme court building in a tropical rainstorm and into a surging mass of three thousand Malayans, Indians, and Chinese. Most of the crowd was on her side.

The supreme court had just placed her in custody of Mrs. Adeline Hertogh, her 55-year-old Roman Catholic mother, who sued to uproot the girl from an eight-year life as a Moslem and Malayan. The high court also ordered Maria's marriage to a Malayan school teacher annulled. The child, said Justice T. A. Brown, "is not in the eyes of this court a Mohammedan."

He denied a defense request to delay putting the custody ruling into effect pending an appeal, but directed that Maria be kept within the court's jurisdiction until then.

At the last moment Maria clasped her arms around the neck of husband Inche Mansoor Abadi and cried, "I love you, I don't want to go away."

Mrs. Hertoh had accused Maria's foster-mother, 55-year-old Malayan Nurse Che Aminah, of steeling the child in 1942 during the Japanese occupation of Java. The Hertohs then were living in Java. The nurse claimed Mrs. Hertogh had given her the child.

Mrs. Hertogh's counsel contended that Maria's marriage to the school teacher had been arranged to bolster Che Aminah's fight to keep possession of the girl. They argued the marriage should be annulled because of the girl's age and Roman Catholic parentage.

Marie, brown-eyed, brown-haired, and dressed in a native Malay sarong ignored Mrs. Hertogh and cried out to her Malay foster-mother. "Mother, what will I do now? 'I hate her. I want to stay here."

The milling of the crowd outside the supreme court building was reminiscent of the demonstration last Nov. 24 of some 2,000 Indians, Malayans, and Moslems in behalf of the girl and the Malayan nurse's claim. Hundreds of British and Malay police using batons and brandishing rifles pushed the crowds back on side walk today as a car whisked Maria away.

Mrs. Hertogh had pressed her case despite a death warning from Malayan Communists demanding she drop proceedings.

Pending appeal by Maria's husband, the girl will be kept in Catholic convent here. The husband, thin, short and bespectacled appeared stunned as he watched the girl he married after only three days' acquaintance carried off amidst the wail of sirens and popping flashbulbs.

Che Aminah collapsed as she left the court building. She was carried to a taxi by Maria's husband.

Waiting For The Thaw, Apparently

Atlanta, Dec. 2.—(AP)—Belated cold weather note:

Mrs. Johnnie Williams is still chuckling about the man who got on the Georgia Avenue bus a few days ago when Atlanta's thermometer dipped to three degrees. She swears he was carrying a water glass and frozen solid in the glass were his false teeth.

HUNT CATTLE ON ALASKA ISLAND

Not Bothered By Fact Russia Once Used Place For Prisoners

Palmer, Alaska, Dec. 2.—(AP)—They're hunting beef cattle with long-range rifles on a wild Alaska island once used by the Russians as a penal colony.

It's part of one of Alaska's newest industries—an amazing meat packing enterprise whose operators are slaughtering wild cattle that have roamed unmolested for nearly 75 years.

The island is Chirikof, lying west of Kodiak and about 100 miles south of the Alaska peninsula. Treeless but covered with thick, high grass, it is roamed by some 800 head of cattle, first planted there in 1888 by the Semidi Propagation Company.

Now three men have formed a company to "harvest" the beef with an ingenious combination of surplus army vehicles, expert riflemen and airplane transportation.

They aren't bothered by stories that the Russians used Chirikof as a sort of "Devil's Island" penal colony before the United States purchased Alaska, although there still is a graveyard with evidences that Russian prisoners may have been left there to die.

The men are Harry Ryan and Walter Cooper of Palmer, and Charles Waller of Kent, Wash. Their company, with headquarters here, flies processed beef from Chirikof to a Palmer cold storage plant.

The "roundup" on the island has most of the thrills of an Alaska big game hunt. Three beef animals in a day is a good bag for two men.

Army surplus weapons carriers are used to carry "cowboy hunters" through the deep grass over marshes and rough terrain. Driving within two miles of the herds, the men then stalk the wild cattle and shoot with telescope-equipped rifles. They usually get only one shot before the herd stampedes.

The beef is dressed on the spot, hauled aboard the winch-equipped weapons carrier and taken to a slaughter house near the beach for processing. Then it's loaded on a plane and flown 500 miles to Palmer.

Long smooth beaches provide perfect landing fields for planes at the island, where ships cannot anchor because of shallow water.

Operators of the project say they have long-range plans to build up the island as a first class cattle ranch.

Negro Teachers Conduct Session

The Negro teachers of Ouachita parish held their regular monthly meeting at the Mt. Nebo School, Tuesday evening at 5:00 p.m.

The meeting was called to order by the president, A. G. Facen, who stressed the idea of each teacher assuming his obligations in all areas—locally, state, and nation-wide.

Local improvement is rapidly being made. All schools in the parish are uniting efforts toward developing a parish-wide band; these efforts thus for have proven successful in that several schools have as many as twelve pupils to become first members of this band.

Our hats are off to the Bryant's Addition and Mt. Nebo schools for making the first long step toward this project. These schools have consolidated plans to form the future band for the new elementary Southside school located on Jones' Lane. Nineteen instruments have been purchased by these schools and the students are now learning to play under the supervision of A. V. Turner, the music director at Tim Tippit High School.

The P.-T. A.'s in all zones have proven that they are interested in helping with this project by raising funds and purchasing individual instruments for their children.

Through the courtesy of the owner of KNOE, time has been alloted each Wednesday at 5:15 for the presentation of programs from all parish schools. These programs are now in process and everyone is invited to tune in.

The sum of $280.00 was donated to the Community Chest by this organization during its annual drive.

CRISIS GROWING

ent Tom Lambert reported that withdrawal of United Nations forces south through Pyongyang gained momentum in the allies fifth straight day of retreat. He said some units stationed in the city itself began leaving.

Red fifth columnists were reported active in Pyongyang.

Chinese Communists had a 12,000 man spearhead within 25 miles of Pyongyang late Saturday after capturing Songchon, some 30 miles to the northeast. More than 1,000 Reds were killed by U. S. first cavalry troopers and by air strikes in heavy fighting in the sector.

If successful in turning the right flank of the new U. N. defense line, the Chinese would threaten to pin most of the eighth army, including four U. S. divisions to the coast in the northwest.

In the northeast, elements of 80,000 Chinese menaced the big east coast supply base of Wonsan, headquarters of the tenth corps. This base largely supports three U. S. divisions and two Republic of Korea (ROK) divisions spread over 23,000 square miles.

Field dispatches from both fronts took a gloomy overall view.

Gen. MacArthur, answering Tokyo correspondents written questions, estimated that more tnan one-half the 500,000 Chinese were in the front echelon while the remainder were moving up rapidly from Yalu river bases on the Manchurian border, in an "undeclared war," against the United Nations.

AP Correspondent Don Whitehead on the northwest front said there was no end in sight to the United Nations retreat in Korea. He pointed out that the first week of the huge Chinese counter-offensive had separated the eighth army in the west and the tenth corps in the east.

Each, he said, was fighting to escape destruction and neither could aid the other.

A still more gloomy opinion came from Correspondent Leif Erickson at eighth army headquarters. He said the plain truth was that Communist commanders believe they can destroy both the eighth army and the tenth corps.

The U. S. eighth army commander, Lt. Gen. Walton H. Walker, issued stern orders Saturday night to destroy all bridges and buildings restored in Pyongyang if and when the city is finally evacuated. His men entered Pyongyang Oct. 19 and occupied it Oct. 20.

An eighth army spokesman in making the announcement, declared the eighth army would not withdraw from any position until forced to do so by enemy action.

Before withdrawing, he said, the eighth army "will destroy things of military value to the enemy." He said this would apply to Pyongyang, where U. N. forces have restored power and water systems, bridges and some buildings. The city of 300,000 will be left much as it was found when U. N. troops first entered Oct. 20.

The order also meant that a considerable store of captured Communist ammunition would be destroyed.

Tension was high in Pyonyang, Correspondent Lambert said police jailed a dozen men—including eight policemen and a former Korean Red army lieutenant—in connection with a reported plot to assassinate the U.N. - appointed mayor, his two assistants and the U.S. military overnment officer.

U.S. authorities planned to evacuate 1,500 North Koreans from the city, including top officials, 75 clergymen, some scientists and technicians. They will also send south some 600 prisoners of war jailed when the city was liberated.

The Communist sweep around the right flank toward Pyonyang was an attempt to duplicate Red strategy of one week ago when the South Korean second corps collapsed on the right end of the U.N. line.

U.S. First Cavalry troops were still in contact with the Reds one driven four to five miles back north toward that key road town from rear positions to strenthen their line.

General MacArthur's headquarters in a war summary late Saturday said that U.S. Secnd Division troops withdrew to new defensive mile south of Songchon, having collapsed on the right end of the positions south of the Chongchon pointed.

The U.S. 24th Division, and the British, Turkish and South Korean froops attached to it in the U.S. First Corps, likewise pulled back to undisclosed points. The war summary said there were indications of enemy activity in front of the "outpost line of resistance."

The plight of U.N. forces in the northeast was almost equally serious.

At Yandok, 42 air miles west of Wonsan, Chinese forces built up strength on the main supply road crossing the narrow waist of Korea to Pyonyang.

Some 25 miles northwest of Wonsan a train load of 1,000 Chinese troops was hit by Marine airmen. Only 12 miles west of Wonsan Korean Red guerrillas were active near Majon.

A second supply port was reported menaced by 3,000 Chinese Reds between 15 and 20 miles north of Hamhung. There were no official verification of the report, which wer being investigated by air and ground patrols.

Some 35 miles northwest of Hamhung, the U.S. Seventh Division's 31st and 32nd Infantry regiments reached Marine - held Hagaru after suffering heavy casualties.

WINS HONORS

MYRL KILPATRICK

Myrl Kilpatrick, Ouachita parish 4-H club member, was awarded first place in the national garden contest, at the National Club Congress in Chicago the past week. As there was but one other award made in the entire state, the honor of Miss Kilpatrick is quite important. She will receive a $300 scholarship as a result of her achievement.

She has been active for seven years in 4-H club work in poultry, beef and dairy products as well as in gardening. At the banquet, where the award was made at Chicago, she also was selected to give the invocation before the large assemblage. She is a student this year in Northeast Louisiana State College. Her parents are Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Kilpatrick of Lapine.

QUICK ACTION

States delegate, made a flying trip to Washington to confer with Secretary of State Acheson and as Chen Chiao, a Communist Chinese representative, talked here with Secretary-General Trygve Lie for 30 minutes. Various delegates met in secret huddles during the day.

"No significance should be attached to the morning meeting between Mr. Lie and Chen Chiao except as evidence of continuing contact which will, no doubt, continue next week," a spokesman for Lie said.

The Korean crisis is expected to go before the full assembly some time next week but there has been no announcement yet in what form it will be put up.

The Chinese Communists are slated to repeat their charges against the United States Monday in the assembly's political committee which will take up the Formosa issue. The Peiping regime accuses the United States of aggression against Formosa.

John Foster Dulles, U. S. delegate who will speak for this country in the political committee debate, said today in a statement he would urge the committee to clear its decks of the Communist Chinese charges and get ready to act on the real issue—"the full scale entry of Chinese Communists into Korea."

The usual custom for the general assembly is to adjourn the annual fall session in mid-December and for the delegates to scatter until next September. The view of some delegates now is that the assembly cannot go home as usual with a third world war threatening and that the frame work of the present assembly must be preserved.

The plan, which was said to be nearing completion, is for the as-Entezam, of Iran, to declare a recess when this fall's business is completed, possibly two weeks from today. Most of the U. N. members maintain permanent envoys here so Entezam could call the assembly back together in a matter of hours under this recess plan. The 1951 regular session is expected to be held in Paris.

Ouachita Farmer Receives Award

At its regular luncheon meeting on Thursday, November 30, the West Monroe Kiwanis Club paid tribute to M. Lester Avant, local farmer. By averaging 92.3 bushels of corn per acre Mr. Avant was judged the winner of the 1950 corn growing contest among hill farmers of Ouachita parish.

J. J. Joyce, county agent, introduced the principal speaker of the luncheon, Mr. Ralph S. Woodward who is superintendent of the North Louisiana experimental station at Calhoun. Mr. Woodward spoke on the value of hybrid corn to Louisiana farmers and he described how hybrids are produced through years of research and cross pollination.

Not present at the meeting, Oscar McDonald won first place in the bottom land of the parish contest. Mr. McDonald produced an average of 89.4 bushels of corn on an eight acre plot.

This corn growing contest is sponsored annually by the West Monroe Kiwanis Club through its agriculture committee. Its aim is to promote better farming practices in the area. Details of the contest are handled by the agriculture extension office, J. J. Joyce, Jr. county agent.

FIRE ALARMS

Monroe firemen were called out last night to the 500 block of Walnut Street where a fire blazed on the roof of Motors Securities Company, Inc.

Cause of the fire was attributed to a short in the electric wiring of the neon sign.

Damage was slight, according to firemen.

SPIVAK'S BAND TO BE AT TECH

Nationally Known Orchestra Will Play For Annual Christmas Dance

Ruston, Dec. 2.—(Special)—Charlie Spivak and his orchestra, under the auspices of the Louisiana Tech Student Union, will give a concert here and play for the annual Christmas dance at the college on Saturday, December 16.

Spivak's band, which recently won the coveted Downbeat poll in the "sweet music" category, will present a concert in Howard auditorium from 8 to 9:30 p. m. and will play for the dance in the college dining hall from 10 to 12 p. m. The orchestra features vocalists Bill Black and Pat Collins as well as Spivak's own solos.

Spivak features his trumpet practically all the time and he has come a long way since the days when he was known as one of the greatest jazz trumpeters. His orchestra has established records at New York's Hotel Statler, a top dance spot, and the Paramount Theater on Broadway, mecca for dance bands, to prove he is the leader of a topflight band.

For many years, before forming his own dance band, Spivak was rated as the most sought-after free lance trumpeter in the country. He played with radio's leading conductors on various programs. Before that time, he was featured with such great name bands as those conducted by the Dorsey brothers, Ray Noble and Ben Pollack.

At the present time, Spivak is placing more emphasis on soft, danceable melodies than ever before. One of the managers of the Commodore hotel in New York summed it all up perfectly when he said, "Spivak blows clear enough for all to hear but people can still carry on a conversation."

Among the more prized moments of the bandleader's career is the high praise he received from Fritz Kreisler, the eminent classical violinist and soloist. Spivak had recorded an album of Kreisler compositions for RCA Victor. The records were unusual in the fact it was the first time that the virtuoso had approved having his compositions played in dance tempos and it required transposing the classical Kreisler violin to trumpet parts.

Before the albums were released, Kreisler was invited to the recording preview and bestowed his official approval and marveled at Spivak's trumpet virtuosity.

SPECIAL GIFTS GROUP TO MEET

St. Francis Hospital Fund Committee To Open Phase Of Collection

The executive committee of the St. Francis Sanitarium building fund campaign today announced that the special gifts section of the campaign will meet Tuesday, at 6:30 p.m. at the rendezvous to open the second phase of the appeal effort.

A member of the executive committee said, "This special gifts group is not to be confused with the big gifts group which opened a campaign last Tuesday. Whereas the big gifts committee is seeking pledges ranging from $100,000 down to $2,500, the special gifts Committee members will seek gifts ranging from $2,499, down to $500.

"The reason two groups have been organized," he continued, "is so each group can more easily concentrate on their work of solicitation.

"There are thirty-three members of the big gifts committee who are now at work and thirty members of the Special gifts committee who begin their work Tuesday, making a total of sixty-three community leaders who are presenting the opportunity to our commercial firms, industries, and individuals to subscribe the large amounts needed to reach the goal of $600,000.

According to chairman of special gifts, Ben R. Downing, attractive two color brochures describing the cause and the need have been mailed to the heads of firms throughout the Twin Cities.

5 Reported Dead In Ill. Tornado

Vandalia, Ill., Dec. 2.—(AP)—Five persons were reported dead and 17 others injured by a tornado which struck Greenville and Mt. Olive in Southwestern Illinois late today.

Vandalia police said four were dead and 15 injured, at Greenville, Bond county seat of 3,300, 45 miles northeast of St. Louis.

Another man was killed near Mt. Olive, 20 miles northwest of Greenville, when the tornado upset his automobile on U. S. highway 66. Two others in the car were hurt.

Property damage in the south part of Greenville was heavy, the Vandalia police said. They reported houses were leveled in several blocks.

The first machine ever used in making shoes was a clamping press invented to attach leather soles to shoe uppers.

Banquet Speaker

COL. E. W. PALMER

SCOUT BANQUET NOW ARRANGED

Col. E. W. Palmer, Of Kingsport, Will Be Speaker Of Occasion

Col. E. W. Palmer, Kingsport, Tenn., will be speaker for the Ouachita Valley Boy Scout Council's annual banquet to be held Tuesday, Dec. 12, at the Hotel Virginia, in Monroe, at 7:00 p.m. L. L. Price, chairman of the banquet committee, in making this announcement yesterday, stated that the council is extremely fortunate in being able to secure Colonel Palmer for this occasion which will be for Scouters and their ladies from all parts of northeast Louisiana.

Colonel Palmer, president of the Kingsport Press, a large bookmaking company, is chairman of the region five executive committee and, as such, is the leading volunteer Boy Scout official in the mid-south. He is also a member of the national Boy Scout executive board, chairman of the national Scout interracial committee, vice-chairman of the national Scout personnel committee, and a member of the national boys' life committee. He has been a member of the executive board of Sequoyah council since 1926 and has served as president of this council. He has held many additional positions in Scouting, on a local, regional, and national basis. He has been presented the Silver Beaver, Silver Antelope, and Silver Buffalo Awards for distinguished service to boyhood.

Other positions Colonel Palmer holds include: president, Tennessee Society for Crippled Children and Adults; chairman, Committee of the South, National Planning Association; regional vice-president, National Association of Manufacturers; trustee, George Peabody College for Teachers; trustee, Tusculum College, Greeneville; member, Research Corporation, University of Tennessee, Knoxville; past president, Rotary Club, and past district governor and director; past president, Shrine Club, Kingsport; past deputy director, War Production Board, printing and publishing division; Colonel, Army Service Forces. He also has served as director in numerous other organizations. He is a forceful speaker and quite in demand as a speaker throughout the south.

L. L. Price has announced that all past presidents and former Scout executives of the Ouachita Valley Council are to receive special recognition on the banquet program. He has received word from Jack J. Keith, first Scout executive of the council in 1925, saying that he plans to attend the banquet. Mr. Keith, who assisted in organizing the council, is now Scout executive at St. Louis, Mo., one of the country's largest councils. Other former executives who have been invited to attend include Charles B. Cook, now Scout executive at Chattonooga, Tenn.; Olan H. Black, Philadelphia, Pa.; Floyd D. Huddleston, Longview, Tex.; George W. Simpson, who is now a deputy regional executive of region five. Mr. Cook and Mr. Simpson have already sent word that they plan to attend the affair.

Each year the Ouachita Valley Council holds a recognition banquet to pay tribute to Scoutmasters, Cubmasters, and Den Mothers for the work they are doing in Scouting. It is also the occasion for the presenting of training awards, veteran awards, and the coveted Silver Beaver Award for distinguished service to boyhood. This year the program will carry out the silver anniversary theme.

At 5:00 o'clock in the afternoon on Dec. 12, the council will hold its annual business meeting at the Virginia Hotel to take care of the election of 1951 officers and executive board members, and to discuss other important items of business for the council. The banquet to be held at 7:00 p.m. is for all Scouters and their ladies. The public is also invited to attend this affair and reservations can be made by contacting the Boy Scout headquarters in the Ouachita parish courthouse.

J. MONROE WINS PIANO AUDITION

Local Youth At Northeastern To Play At Shreveport Christmas Concerto

Shreveport, La., Dec. 2.—(Special)—Joe H. Monroe, of Monroe, sophomore of Northeast Louisiana State College, won the piano concerto contest here Saturday, which was sponsored by the local Symphony Society.

In addition to outstanding achievements in music, Monroe held a high scholastic record at Ouachita Parish High School, where he was salutatorian of the 1948 senior class.

He has achieved superior ratings in contests held by the National Federation of Music Clubs, state music festivals, and local auditions of the National Guild of Piano Teachers.

Mrs. Florence Ziegler Allbritton of the music faculty at Northeastern, has aided Monroe in his piano studies for ten years, and accompanied the concerto winner to Shreveport for the contest.

Joe is president of a newly-formed fraternity at Northeastern, editor of the yearbook, a staff member of the school newspaper, and vice-president of the student chapter of the Music Educator's National Conference.

John Steele Ritter, 12-year-old pianist of Many, won the high school division of the contest.

As first place winner in the college division, Monroe will play the Liszt Hungarian Fantasy with the Shreveport Symphony Orchestra at its annual Christmas concerto to be held here next Sunday in the Municipal Auditorium. John Shennaut is conductor of the orchestra.

How can you pass up prices like these?

As we've been saying for quite a spell—"Whatever your price range—Better buy Buick."

But maybe we'd better get down to brass tacks, as to just what this suggestion means.

In the lower-price field, this has been happening:

Four out of ten Buick SPECIALS—bought by people with a car to trade in—have been bought by folks who formerly drove one of the so-called "low-priced three." They found they could afford a Buick!

In the fine-car field, something even more impressive has happened:

Four out of five people who looked at a ROADMASTER and another very distinguished automobile decided in favor of ROADMASTER!

So—whatever your price range, take a look at our prices—and at what you get for your money.

What you get is the thrill of owning the greatest Buick of all time—as registered by record-breaking sales.

What you get is power and style and comfort and performance that are hard to match in any other automobile.

More specifically—you get the power-with-thrift of Buick's famous Fireball high-compression engine—a style that stands out in any company—a ride with the comfort of coil springs on every wheel—and performance that makes you feel like the head man on any highway.

Better come in today—and see what can be done about getting quick delivery.

CRISIS GROWING

ent Tom Lambert reported that withdrawal of United Nations forces south through Pyongyang gained momentum in the allies fifth straight day of retreat. He said some units stationed in the city itself began leaving.

Red fifth columnists were reported active in Pyongyang.

Chinese Communists had a 12,000 man spearhead within 25 miles of Pyongyang late Saturday after capturing Songchon, some 30 miles to the northeast. More than 1,000 Reds were killed by U. S. first cavalry troopers and by air strikes in heavy fighting in the sector.

If successful in turning the right flank of the new U. N. defense line, the Chinese would threaten to pin most of the eighth army, including four U. S. divisions to the coast in the northwest.

In the northeast, elements of 80,000 Chinese menaced the big east coast supply base of Wonsan, headquarters of the tenth corps. This base largely supports three U. S. divisions and two Republic of Korea (ROK) divisions spread over 23,000 square miles.

Field dispatches from both fronts took a gloomy overall view.

Gen. MacArthur, answering Tokyo correspondents written questions, estimated that more tnan one-half the 500,000 Chinese were in the front echelon while the remainder were moving up rapidly from Yalu river bases on the Manchurian border, in an "undeclared war," against the United Nations.

AP Correspondent Don Whitehead on the northwest front said there was no end in sight to the United Nations retreat in Korea. He pointed out that the first week of the huge Chinese counter-offensive had separated the eighth army in the west and the tenth corps in the east.

Each, he said, was fighting to escape destruction and neither could aid the other.

A still more gloomy opinion came from Correspondent Leif Erickson at eighth army headquarters. He said the plain truth was that Communist commanders believe they can destroy both the eighth army and the tenth corps.

The U. S. eighth army commander, Lt. Gen. Walton H. Walker, issued stern orders Saturday night to destroy all bridges and buildings restored in Pyongyang if and when the city is finally evacuated. His men entered Pyongyang Oct. 19 and occupied it Oct. 20.

An eighth army spokesman in making the announcement, declared the eighth army would not withdraw from any position until forced to do so by enemy action.

Before withdrawing, he said, the eighth army "will destroy things of military value to the enemy." He said this would apply to Pyongyang, where U. N. forces have restored power and water systems, bridges and some buildings. The city of 300,000 will be left much as it was found when U. N. troops first entered Oct. 20.

The order also meant that a considerable store of captured Communist ammunition would be destroyed.

Tension was high in Pyonyang, Correspondent Lambert said police jailed a dozen men—including eight policemen and a former Korean Red army lieutenant—in connection with a reported plot to assassinate the U.N. - appointed mayor, his two assistants and the U.S. military overnment officer.

U.S. authorities planned to evacuate 1,500 North Koreans from the city, including top officials, 75 clergymen, some scientists and technicians. They will also send south some 600 prisoners of war jailed when the city was liberated.

The Communist sweep around the right flank toward Pyonyang was an attempt to duplicate Red strategy of one week ago when the South Korean second corps collapsed on the right end of the U.N. line.

U.S. First Cavalry troops were still in contact with the Reds one driven four to five miles back north toward that key road town from rear positions to strenthen their line.

General MacArthur's headquarters in a war summary late Saturday said that U.S. Secnd Division troops withdrew to new defensive mile south of Songchon, having collapsed on the right end of the positions south of the Chongchon pointed.

The U.S. 24th Division, and the British, Turkish and South Korean troops attached to it in the U.S. First Corps, likewise pulled back to undisclosed points. The war summary said there were indications of enemy activity in front of the "outpost line of resistance."

The plight of U.N. forces in the northeast was almost equally serious.

At Yandok, 42 air miles west of Wonsan, Chinese forces built up strength on the main supply road crossing the narrow waist of Karea to Pyonyang.

Some 25 miles northwest of Wonsan a train load of 1,000 Chinese troops was hit by Marine airmen. Only 12 miles west of Wonsan Korean Red guerrillas were active near Majon.

A second supply port was reported menaced by 3,000 Chinese Reds between 15 and 20 miles north of Hamhung. There were no official verification of the report, which wer being investigated by air and ground patrols.

Some 35 miles northwest of Hamhung, the U.S. Seventh Division's 31st and 32nd Infantry regiments reached Marine - held Hagaru after suffering heavy casualties.

WINS HONORS

MYRL KILPATRICK

Myrl Kilpatrick, Ouachita parish 4-H club member, was awarded first place in the national garden contest, at the National Club Congress in Chicago the past week. As there was but one other award made in the entire state, the honor of Miss Kilpatrick is quite important. She will receive a $300 scholarship as a result of her achievement.

She has been active for seven years in 4-H club work in poultry, beef and dairy products as well as in gardening. At the banquet, where the award was made at Chicago, she also was selected to give the invocation before the large assemblage. She is a student this year in Northeast Louisiana State College. Her parents are Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Kilpatrick of Lapine.

States delegate, made a flying trip to Washington to confer with Secretary of State Acheson and as Chen Chiao, a Communist Chinese representative, talked here with Secretary-General Trygve Lie for 30 minutes. Various delegates met in secret huddles during the day.

"No significance should be attached to the morning meeting between Mr. Lie and Chen Chiao except as evidence of continuing contact which will, no doubt, continue next week," a spokesman for Lie said.

The Korean crisis is expected to go before the full assembly some time next week but there has been no announcement yet in what form it will be put up.

The Chinese Communists are slated to repeat their charges against the United States Monday in the assembly's political committee which will take up the Formosa issue. The Peiping regime accuses the United States of aggression against Formosa.

John Foster Dulles, U. S. delegate who will speak for this country in the political committee debate, said today in a statement he would urge the committee to clear its decks of the Communist Chinese charges and get ready to act on the real issue—"the full scale entry of Chinese Communists into Korea."

The usual custom for the general assembly is to adjourn the annual fall session in mid-December and for the delegates to scatter until next September. The view of some delegates now is that the assembly cannot go home as usual with a third world war threatening and that the frame work of the present assembly must be preserved.

The plan, which was said to be nearing completion, is for the as-Entezam, of Iran, to declare a recess when this fall's business is completed, possibly two weeks from today. Most of the U. N. members maintain permanent envoys here so Entezam could call the assembly back together in a matter of hours under this recess plan. The 1951 regular session is expected to be held in Paris.

Ouachita Farmer Receives Award

At its regular luncheon meeting on Thursday, November 30, the West Monroe Kiwanis Club paid tribute to M. Lester Avant, local farmer. By averaging 92.3 bushels of corn per acre Mr. Avant was judged the winner of the 1950 corn growing contest among hill farmers of Ouachita parish.

J. J. Joyce, county agent, introduced the principal speaker of the luncheon, Mr. Ralph S. Woodward who is superintendent of the North Louisiana experimental station at Calhoun. Mr. Woodward spoke on the value of hybrid corn to Louisiana farmers and he described how hybrids are produced through years of research and cross pollination.

Not present at the meeting, Oscar McDonald won first place in the bottom land of the parish contest. Mr. McDonald produced an average of 89.4 bushels of corn on an eight acre plot.

This corn growing contest is sponsored annually by the West Monroe Kiwanis Club through its agriculture committee. Its aim is to promote better farming practices in the area. Details of the contest are handled by the agriculture extension office, J. J. Joyce, Jr. county agent.

FIRE ALARMS

Monroe firemen were called out last night to the 500 block of Walnut Street where a fire blazed on the roof of Motors Securities Company, Inc.

Cause of the fire was attributed to a short in the electric wiring of the neon sign.

Damage was slight, according to firemen.

SPIVAK'S BAND TO BE AT TECH

Nationally Known Orchestra Will Play For Annual Christmas Dance

Ruston, Dec. 2.—(Special)—Charlie Spivak and his orchestra, under the auspices of the Louisiana Tech Student Union, will give a concert here and play for the annual Christmas dance at the college on Saturday, December 16.

Spivak's band, which recently won the coveted Downbeat poll in the "sweet music" category, will present a concert in Howard auditorium from 8 to 9:30 p. m. and will play for the dance in the college dining hall from 10 to 12 p. m. The orchestra features vocalists Bill Black and Pat Collins as well as Spivak's own solos.

Spivak features his trumpet practically all the time and he has come a long way since the days when he was known as one of the greatest jazz trumpeters. His orchestra has established records at New York's Hotel Statler, a top dance spot, and the Paramount Theater on Broadway, mecca for dance bands, to prove he is the leader of a topflight band.

For many years, before forming his own dance band, Spivak was rated as the most sought-after free lance trumpeter in the country. He played with radio's leading conductors on various programs. Before that time, he was featured with such great name bands as those conducted by the Dorsey brothers, Ray Noble and Ben Pollack.

At the present time, Spivak is placing more emphasis on soft, danceable melodies than ever before. One of the managers of the Commodore hotel in New York summed it all up perfectly when he said, "Spivak blows clear enough for all to hear but people can still carry on a conversation."

Among the more prized moments of the bandleader's career is the high praise he received from Fritz Kreisler, the eminent classical violinist and soloist. Spivak had recorded an album of Kreisler compositions for RCA Victor. The records were unusual in the fact it was the first time that the virtuoso had approved having his compositions played in dance tempos and it required transposing the classical Kreisler violin to trumpet parts.

Before the albums were released, Kreisler was invited to the recording preview and bestowed his official approval and marveled at Spivak's trumpet virtuosity.

SPECIAL GIFTS GROUP TO MEET

St. Francis Hospital Fund Committee To Open Phase Of Collection

The executive committee of the St. Francis Sanitarium building fund campaign today announced that the special gifts section of the campaign will meet Tuesday, at 6:30 p.m. at the rendezvous to open the second phase of the appeal effort.

A member of the executive committee said, "This special gifts group is not to be confused with the big gifts group which opened a campaign last Tuesday. Whereas the big gifts committee is seeking pledges ranging from $100,000 down to $2,500, the special gifts Committee members will seek gifts ranging from $2,499, down to $500.

"The reason two groups have been organized," he continued, "is so each group can more easily concentrate on their work of solicitation.

"There are thirty-three members of the big gifts committee who are now at work and thirty members of the Special gifts committee who begin their work Tuesday, making a total of sixty-three community leaders who are presenting the opportunity to our commercial firms, industries, and individuals to subscribe the large amounts needed to reach the goal of $600,000.

According to chairman of special gifts, Ben R. Downing, attractive two color brochures describing the cause and the need have been mailed to the heads of firms throughout the Twin Cities.

5 Reported Dead In Ill. Tornado

Vandalia, Ill., Dec. 2.—(AP)—Five persons were reported dead and 17 others injured by a tornado which struck Greenville and Mt. Olive in Southwestern Illinois late today.

Vandalia police said four were dead and 15 injured, at Greenville, Bond county seat of 3,300, 45 miles northeast of St. Louis.

Another man was killed near Mt. Olive, 20 miles northwest of Greenville, when the tornado upset his automobile on U. S. highway 66. Two others in the car were hurt.

Property damage in the south part of Greenville was heavy, the Vandalia police said. They reported houses were leveled in several blocks.

The first machine ever used in making shoes was a clamping press invented to attach leather soles to shoe uppers.

Banquet Speaker

COL. E. W. PALMER

SCOUT BANQUET NOW ARRANGED

Col. E. W. Palmer, Of Kingsport, Will Be Speaker Of Occasion

Col. E. W. Palmer, Kingsport, Tenn., will be speaker for the Ouachita Valley Boy Scout Council's annual banquet to be held Tuesday, Dec. 12, at the Hotel Virginia, in Monroe, at 7:00 p.m. L. L. Price, chairman of the banquet committee, in making this announcement yesterday, stated that the council is extremely fortunate in being able to secure Colonel Palmer for this occasion which will be for Scouters and their ladies from all parts of northeast Louisiana.

Colonel Palmer, president of the Kingsport Press, a large bookmaking company, is chairman of the region five executive committee and, as such, is the leading volunteer Boy Scout official in the mid-south. He is also a member of the national Boy Scout executive board, chairman of the national Scout interracial committee, vice-chairman of the national Scout personnel committee, and a member of the national boys' life committee. He has been a member of the executive board of Sequoyah council since 1926 and has served as president of this council. He has held many additional positions in Scouting, on a local, regional, and national basis. He has been presented the Silver Beaver, Silver Antelope, and Silver Buffalo Awards for distinguished service to boyhood.

Other positions Colonel Palmer holds include: president, Tennessee Society for Crippled Children and Adults; chairman, Committee of the South, National Planning Association; regional vice-president, National Association of Manufacturers; trustee, George Peabody College for Teachers; trustee, Tusculum College, Greeneville; member, Research Corporation, University of Tennessee, Knoxville; past president, Rotary Club, and past district governor and director; past president, Shrine Club, Kingsport; past deputy director, War Production Board, printing and publishing division; Colonel, Army Service Forces. He also has served as director in numerous other organizations. He is a forceful speaker and quite in demand as a speaker throughout the south.

L. L. Price has announced that all past presidents and former Scout executives of the Ouachita Valley Council are to receive special recognition on the banquet program. He has received word from Jack J. Keith, first Scout executive of the council in 1925, saying that he plans to attend the banquet. Mr. Keith, who assisted in organizing the council, is now Scout executive at St. Louis, Mo., one of the country's largest councils. Other former executives who have been invited to attend include Charles B. Cook, now Scout executive at Chattonooga, Tenn.; Olan H. Black, Philadelphia, Pa.; Floyd D. Huddleston, Longview, Tex.; George W. Simpson, who is now a deputy regional executive of region five. Mr. Cook and Mr. Simpson have already sent word that they plan to attend the affair.

Each year the Ouachita Valley Council holds a recognition banquet to pay tribute to Scoutmasters, Cubmasters, and Den Mothers for the work they are doing in Scouting. It is also the occasion for the presenting of training awards, veteran awards, and the coveted Silver Beaver Award for distinguished service to boyhood. This year the program will carry out the silver anniversary theme.

At 5:00 o'clock in the afternoon on Dec. 12, the council will hold its annual business meeting at the Virginia Hotel to take care of the election of 1951 officers and executive board members, and to discuss other important items of business for the council. The banquet to be held at 7:00 p.m. is for all Scouters and their ladies. The public is also invited to attend this affair and reservations can be made by contacting the Boy Scout headquarters in the Ouachita parish courthouse.

R. N. SLATOR IN 50 YR. RECORD

Past Week Marked Completion Of Half Century In Insurance Activity

By H. H. Brinsmade

On December 1, 1950, a really remarkable business record was written by R. N. Slator, which the writer was forced to dig up out of this man with effort, for he is a most modest individual and self adulation does not find lodgment in his makeup. But just the same he admitted pride and gratefullness in that he has been permitted to serve the public helpfully and honestly in caring for their manifold insurance requirements.

Back in Donaldsonville, exactly 50 years ago, Mr. Slator, then a promising youth, found employment with R. N. Sims, an insurance man of that town. He proved an apt pupil and readily mastered the intricacies of this to him new business. He stayed there 11 years.

In February 1912, he came to Monroe and was associated with the insurance firm headed by W. L. Smith. Two years later, he went to work in Shreveport for Herndon and Jeter and later left and became employed by George West in Lake Charles. In fact he helped establish and operate a new agency there where he remained for four years, but in 1918, he decided to return to Monroe and the house, headed by W. L. Smith, was quite eager to get a valuable and now well-experienced young man back in business with the company. He continued with the firm which later became Smith and Trousdale, and later Trousdale and Slator. April 1, 1927, he left this firm and established his present business which like Clarence Saunders, bears his own name of which he admits he is sole owner.

Mr. Slator's business experience has been exceptionally fortunate in that he has lived and worked in all four corners of the state, and hence has studied closeup the needs of varied industries of Louisiana. In Donaldsonville he serve the rice, sugar and lumber enterprises; in Monroe, the rapidly expanding cotton, gas, carbon black and gasoline industry and well-drilling operations; in Lake Charles limber, oil, naval stores and the rice plantations, while in a fourth corner of the state, Shreveport, the industries were largely similar to those of Monroe but on a somewhat larger scale.

Ever being able to furnish insurance in every conceivable line, Mr. Slator has been able for years to study each and every angle of this extensive business and has been termed in Monroe an authority on legislation and proper procedure of diversified problems arising. No insurance man in this area has kept better posted on the intricacies of legislation than has Mr. Slator and his judgment and advice are such as to be earnestly sought by fellow workers in his line many times in the course of a year.

Experience in the important underwriting department of the local agency, has led to action in adjusting claims especially casualty claims. These were initiated back in 1915 when workmen's compensation began in the state. This greatly added to the business of the firm as many cases came up for adjustment. Ultimately Mr. Slator's office became one of the units of the claim department of one of the large casualty companies. He adjusted many claims, paying off without a question from headquarters, which is reason for a degree of pride.

Mr. Slator has ever been interested in the advancement of every possible civic cause. Ever interested in amateur theatricals, he served as secretary-treasurer for the Monroe Little Theatre in the first few years of that organization. He is a member of the Rotary Club and of all the local Masonic groups in the city, and the Chamber of Commerce. He has twice served as president of the Ouachita Association of Insurance Agents and holds membership in the local, state and national insurance organizations. He is also a member of Grace Episcopal Church. During the Spanish-American War he was a member of Company "E", 1st Regiment, Louisiana Volunteer Infantry, under the command of Capt. T. Wood Lee, of Monroe, La.

But while Mr. Slator holds an enviable 50-year record in the insurance business, unequalled in this part of the state, Mrs. Slator, his efficient "right hand man", deserves commendation as it is due to her efforts that the business of the office has been successfully rounded out. She also lays claim to a considerable length of service dating back to Jan. 1, 1919, so that next New Year's day she will have completed 32 years in the insurance business.

She is active in her membership in the Business and Professional Women's Club and in affairs at St. Matthew's Church. "I had to keep occupied, so I began to spend hours in Mr. Slator's office," she explained. "At the time, I knew nothing about business but by being around it so much I was able to learn many essentials and insurance is now a large part of my life," she stated.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Slator have an excellent sense of humor for in dealing with the public, they encounter many such experiences.

In early days no one thought it worthwhile to take out a policy to protect the owner of an auto if an accident occasioned liability "the owner of an auto then could not see any use of protection. He would tell the man or woman injured that he was sorry and the apology would end the case," Mr. Slator said. "But the public had to be educated to realize need of protection."

Associated in the agency with the Slators for the past ten years has been Stanley M. Wyatt, is Stanley M. Wyatt, an able, efficient and loyal assistant, with over fourteen years of insurance experience.

A most interesting couple are the Slators and their wide circle of friends will join in expressing pleasure at the success that has attended their business enterprise and the real service that they have been enabled to render to their large clientele.

COMPLETES 50 YEAR RECORD

R. N. Slater, well known insurance man of Monroe, completed a half century in this line of business on December 1, 1950. He is still active and has no desire to retire from active business operations. (News-Star—World Photo by Marvin DuBos.)

COLEMAN PLANT LEADS DONATION

Average $12.35 Per Person In Gifts To Red Feather Fund

Employes of the Coleman Manufacturing Company, 3000 DeSiard street, Saturday night moved into first place and took over the coveted title for having contributed more per capita to the Red Feather Drive than workers of any other firm in the Twin Cities. The Coleman folks' average was $12.35 per person, as compared to a $11.40 per capita record recently turned in by employes of the Bancroft Paper Co.

Eight Coleman workers turned in a total of $98.80. Their achievement was quickly noted by workers at Campaign Headquarters and General Chairman W. L. Ethridge Sr., was immediately advised by telephone.

"I speak for the whole Twin City Chest campaign organization in recognizing the Coleman Manufacturing Company employees for their fine accomplishment," Mr. Ethridge said. "To think of eight workers contributing an average of $12.35 each is something almost un-dreamed-of in this drive. We originally thought, and still do, that the Bancroft Paper Company folks had done a magnificent ojb in reaching an average of $11.40 per capita, but this is really something.

"However, there are still reports that employes of other firms are shooting for still higher marks. Let's hope the Coleman employes have a long reign as champions, but they had better look to their laurels; more employes are gunning for them."

Heavy work was underway Saturday and is expected to be continued throughout next week as Chest volunteers seek to go over the $63.000 goal by their wind-up meeting Friday, December 8 at noon at the Virginia Hotel. Hundreds of workers are in the field with a new note of enthusiasm as they can see the end in sight. With over $53.000 accounted for, many believed the goal can be reached next Friday when Mr. Ethridge will be host to the workers for their last report.

La. Forest Fires Are Conquered

Baton Rouge, La., Dec. 2.—(AP)—A two-day outburst of fires in southern Louisiana's rain-thirsty woodlands has been conquered. State Forester James E. Mixon said late today.

As many as 47 fires were reported yesterday, Mixon said, but a radio check with field crews today showed the blazing areas were under control.

He said there were four small forest fires in Livingston parish, two in Tangipahoa, one in St. Helena, and that St. Tammany parish was clear of burning timber areas for the first time in four months.

Mix had attributed most of the small-area fires to carelessness of sportsmen or persons burning fields or trash.

He praised press and radio cooperation in warning of fire carelessness in crackling dry woodlands. Mixon said the warnings apparently had ended for the time any danger of new blazes.

Only five fires were reported elsewhere in Louisiana, Mixon said.

STATE POLICE

The following arrests were made by members of troop "F" Louisiana state police, with headquarters in Monroe, during the past week.

'Mike' Catnaps At Game After Being 'Tigernapped'

By Warren Rogers

New Orleans, Dec. 2.—(AP)—While 22 sets of bones rattled on the football field, Mike, the mascot tiger—"catnaped" and reclaimed today—lay in his twice-repainted cage and slept.

To Mike, 475 pounds of live Bengal tiger, the day was just another of the many he has seen in 16 years, three years past the time most tigers go to glory.

Louisiana State University, for whom Mike mascots, upset the dope chart and almost arch-foe Tulane but settled for a 14-14 tie.

Mike? He rolled over and snored.

A frenzied crowd of 74,000 people—among whom, no doubt, was the quart which heisted Mike early today—bobbed in their seats for three hours. Their roars harmonized with the purrs coming from Mike's cage on the sidelines.

It was in this self-same attitude, Mike's favorite, that four young men identified as Tulane students found him in today's wee hours. Mike and his cage were parked outside Ye Olde College Inn, just a briss walk from the Tulane campus. His student trainer was inside munching a hamburger (reportedly, but unconfirmedly, with a Tulane co-ed).

The "catnapers", New Orleans police learned, uncoupled Mike's cage lashed it to their car and sped away. Police prowled New Orleans until dawn looking for Mike.

Eventually he turned up at Tulane and was surrendered—but his cage had been painted bright green—Tulane's color.

Mike, drowsy and looking bored, was wheeled into the stadium behind a police escort. Strong school spirit and paint brushes had restored the color of his cage to purple and gold, traditional hues of L. S. U.

"Mike isn't a young fellow anymore," said one L. S. U. spokesman when the tiger's whereabouts were in doubt. "He's on a strict diet and needs special care."

It was the first time Mike had ever been snatched. But it was not the first time he had landed in the public print.

He came to L. S. U. as a frolicsome cub in 1935. Not long ago, prior to another L. S. U.-Tulane game, he was splashed with green paint And once there occured an incident which Mike and staunch L. S. U. partisans would rather forget.

It was when Mike became engaged. A lady tiger was located and, amid much hullabaloo, Mike was sent off to be married. Came the wedding day and Mike met his bride.

Mike went to sleep just as he did today.

When Mike's "tigernaping" was first discovered today, police said they feared there might be friction between L. S. U. and Tulane students at the stadium. All available police officers were assigned to the game but there was no evidence of any desire for a clash on the part of either student body.

Student Rodeo Slated At L. S. U.

Baton Rouge, La., Dec. 2—(AP)—College student bronco busters, wild cow milkers and calf ropers will vipee-ay-aieeee here next Thursday in Louisiana State University's all-student championship rodeo.

The annual three-night event is sponsored by the Block and Bridle Club.

Rodeo Manager Jack McClelland of Crowley says student performers and professional entertainers will be featured.

Poco Bueno, the top cutting horse in America, McClelland said will be ridden by Trainer Pino Johnson of Arlington, Texas.

Calf roping will be introduced as a student event for the first time this season.

Also, there'll be mule riding, steer riding and a calf scramble for blue jeans stalwarts.

NEHRU'S NOW "MISTER"

New Delhi. —(AP)— "Call me mister," says Jawaharial Nehru.

At the Indian prime ministers request, all ministries have been instructed to refer to him as "Shri Jawaharlal Nehru," rather than "Pandit Jawharlal Nehru." "Shri is a term of respect approximating "mister,' while "pandit' is a title meaning "scholar.'

The use of titles is considered inconsistent with the Indian constitution.

Urges Shipment To Reds Stopped

Washington, Dec. 2 —(AP)—Senator O'Connor (D-Md.) today asked the Commerce Department to block shipment of 24,000 pounds of steel sheets to Communist China.

The Maryland Senator told the department's office of international trade the silicon steel sheets are aboard the S. S. Igadi, of the Ivaran lines, which he added is due to dock at San Francisco tomorrow.

O'Connor heads a Senate commerce subcommittee which has been investigating shipment of war-potential materials to the Chinese Reds.

He said that if such steel sheets were manufactured in this country, they could not be exported without a license.

"This shipment, however, is of European manufacture, brought to this country by the Pacific Trading Company of Boston for transshipment to North China," O'Connor said in a statement.

He said it is his understanding the commerce department is considering prohibition of such transhipments. He asked the agency to issue such an order immediately "to prevent shipments aboard the Igadi and other ships touching our ports from falling into Communist hands."

Kansas State Battles Wichita To 6-To-6 Tie

Wichita, Kas., Dec. 2—(AP)—Big Ted Maupin's consistent plunging brought the Kansas State Wildcats a third period touchdown and a 6 to 6 tie over the Wichita University Wheatshockers in their final football game today.

TheK-State back, who ran 120 yards in 31 tries this afternoon, plunged over from the one-yard line. Ross Estes' try for conversion went awry when Bob Mayer juggled the pass back from center. With the fumble went K-State's last chance for victory.

Wichita had ground 76 yards and sent Jimmy Nutter over from the one-foot line for its touchdown in the second quarter. Wayne Ubben's conversion try was high and wide.

End Dave Tolbert set up K-States touchdown march when he pounced on a Wichita fumble on the shocker 35-yard line. Frankie Hoopers pass to Dick Johnson was ruled complete on the 14 because of interference. Then Maupin took over

K-State, playing its last game under coach Ralph Graham, who resigned last week, won only one game this year—against Baker University in the season opener.

This tense and highly thrilling performance is sponsored by the P.-T.A. Council and will be given in Neville High School auditorium December 11 at 3:30 p.m.

Break Ground For Colored School

The Mineral Springs colored elementary and high school will be relocated on a new and extensive site secured by the Ouachita parish school board. Ground was broken for the erection of this modern building recently. The contract price is $207,900 and the contractor is Ronnie Terral, of Farmerville.

The elementary and high school will be housed in the same large building of brick veneer which will have four high school rooms and provision for the science and home economic department. There will be a combined gymnasium and auditorium and eight grade rooms. A modern cafeteria and rooms for the teachers and principal of the school are provided. Floors of concrete slab, heating will be radiant. The one story building will be of brick veneer.

Plans were prepared by Smith and Padgett, Monroe.

McGee, a Mississippi Negro, was convicted in state courts for raping a white woman. His attorneys obtained a stay of execution last summer from a supreme court justice.

Hasty House's Seward Wins Bryan-O'Hara Run

Bowie, Md., Dec. 2.—(AP)—Leading from gate to wire, Hasty House farms' Seaward captured the $20,000 - added Bryan and O'Hara Memorial Handicap by three-quarters of a length in a driving finish as the Maryland turf season closed here today.

Valiantly striving to overhaul the pacesetter at the wire was Sylvester W. Labrot, Jr.'s Arcave, an outsider, which beat out L. J. Shaw's Abstract by three lengths. Fourth money went to Brookmeade stable's Dart By, part of a three-play entry.

The winner, which had won last Saturday's Prince George Autumn Handicap here, was favored, being coupled in the betting with Inseperable, which finished fifth today. The payoff across the board on the Hasty House farms' pair was $5.00, $3.00 and $2.20.

Joe Culmone, battling with Willie Shoemaker for national riding honors, booted home three winners. He scored on Dinner Hour ($3.80) in the third race; Oats ($4.20) in the sixth, and Cactus ($6.80) in the eighth. Culmone rode 30 winners in the 13-day Bowie meet.

MAGIC SHOW TO BE GIVEN HERE

National Youth Theatre To Present Entertainment; P.-T. A. Sponsor

Sponsored by the P.-T. A. council, "Merlin the Magician" will be presented at the Neville High School auditorium, at 3:30 p. m. December 11.

Russia is not only the No. 1 challenger of the United States on the international scene—it is also contender for top place in the children's theatre field. This information was revealed in a report on the Soviet children's theatre at a recent educational theatre conference at the University of Minnesota. Children's theatres in Russia are controlled by the government under direct supervision of the ministry of education.

On Monday Dec. 11 in Neville auditorium will opportunity of seeing the work of America's most outstanding professional theatre group doing shows especially designed for young people. The P.-T. A. council is bringing National Youth Theatre's production of "Merlin the Magician" to the children of Monroe. The National Youth Theatre has felt that it would be unwise to imitate the practices of our enemies. A free people is not enlightened by having a doctrine preached to it. Hence their productions are not flag-waving spectacles. The feeling of the producers is that for a great people like the Americans, what is required is good art, a thrilling story told with sincerety and understanding of the psychological needs of young people.

Out of an appreciation of the finer things in life will come an intellectual growth and an ability for self-evaluation and criticism—this is the heritage and aim of a free people.

Primos' Restaurant

WILL BE CLOSED FOR 60 DAYS BEGINNING DEC. 7th

Our restaurant will be closed December 7th and remain closed for 60 days. The architects, carpenters and painters will be very busy on the inside transforming Primas' Restaurant into the most beautiful restaurant and cocktail lounge in North Louisiana. Every piece of equipment, floor, wall and ceiling will be entirely new and of the latest type design. We are sorry this had to come about at this time as Primos has always been a popular eating place for busy Christmas shoppers; However, factories from whom we have purchased our equipment are urging us to make room for delivery, as their production is at an time high and they need to shij equipment that has already been made. This cooperation will be appreciated.

50 YEARS OF PROGRESS YEARS OF SERVICE

This month of December marks my completion of fifty years of service in the local insurance agency business and I take this means of expressing my sincere thanks and grateful appreciation to each and every one of my numerous clients for their unfailing friendship, loyalty and patronage over these many years.

The confidence you have seen fit to repose in me has been a sustaining factor and a source of encouragement during periods of trial, tribulation and vicissitude, all of which have been overcome by your constant loyalty.

Assuring you of my profund gratitude and with a genuine "Thank You" for all past favors, believe me,

Sincerely,

Buseab

R. N. SLATOR IN 50 YR. RECORD

Past Week Marked Completion Of Half Century In Insurance Activity

By H. H. Brinsmade

On December 1, 1950, a really remarkable business record was written by R. N. Slator, which the writer was forced to dig up out of this man with effort, for he is a most modest individual and self adulation does not find lodgment in his makeup. But just the same he admitted pride and gratefullness in that he has been permitted to serve the public helpfully and honestly in caring for their manifold insurance requirements.

Back in Donaldsonville, exactly 50 years ago, Mr. Slator, then a promising youth, found employment with R. N. Sims, an insurance man of that town. He proved an apt pupil and readily mastered the intricacies of this to him new business. He stayed there 11 years.

In February 1912, he came to Monroe and was associated with the insurance firm headed by W. L. Smith. Two years later, he went to work in Shreveport for Herndon and Jeter and later left and became employed by George West in Lake Charles. In fact he helped establish and operate a new agency there where he remained for four years, but in 1918, he decided to return to Monroe and the house, headed by W. L. Smith, was quite eager to get a valuable and now well-experienced young man back in business with the company. He continued with the firm which later became Smith and Trousdale, and later Trousdale and Slator. April 1, 1927, he left this firm and established his present business which like Clarence Saunders, bears his own name of which he admits he is sole owner.

Mr. Slator's business experience has been exceptionally fortunate in that he has lived and worked in all four corners of the state, and hence has studied closeup the needs of varied industries of Louisiana. In Donaldsonville he serve the rice, sugar and lumber enterprises; in Monroe, the rapidly expanding cotton, gas, carbon black and gasoline industry and well-drilling operations; in Lake Charles limber, oil, naval stores and the rice plantations, while in a fourth corner of the state, Shreveport, the industries were largely similar to those of Monroe but on a somewhat larger scale.

Ever being able to furnish insurance in every conceivable line, Mr. Slator has been able for years to study each and every angle of this extensive business and has been termed in Monroe an authority on legislation and proper procedure of diversified problems arising. No insurance man in this area has kept better posted on the intricacies of legislation than has Mr. Slator and his judgment and advice are such as to be earnestly sought by fellow workers in his line many times in the course of a year.

Experience in the important underwriting department of the local agency, has led to action in adjusting claims especially casualty claims. These were initiated back in 1915 when workmen's compensation began in the state. This greatly added to the business of the firm as many cases came up for adjustment. Ultimately Mr. Slator's office became one of the units of the claim department of one of the large casualty companies. He adjusted many claims, paying off without a question from headquarters, which is reason for a degree of pride.

Mr. Slator has ever been interested in the advancement of every possible civic cause. Ever interested in amateur theatricals, he served as secretary-treasurer for the Monroe Little Theatre in the first few years of that organization. He is a member of the Rotary Club and of all the local Masonic groups in the city, and the Chamber of Commerce. He has twice served as president of the Ouachita Association of Insurance Agents and holds membership in the local, state and national insurance organizations. He is also a member of Grace Episcopal Church. During the Spanish-American War he was a member of Company "E", 1st Regiment, Louisiana Volunteer Infantry, under the command of Capt. T. Wood Lee, of Monroe, La.

But while Mr. Slator holds an enviable 50-year record in the insurance business, unequal'ed in this part of the state, Mrs. Slator, his efficient "right hand man", deserves commendation as it is due to her efforts that the business of the office has been successfully rounded out. She also lays claim to a considerable length of service dating back to Jan. 1, 1919, so that next New Year's day she will have completed 32 years in the insurance business.

She is active in her membership in the Business and Professional Women's Club and in affairs at St. Matthew's Church. "I had to keep occupied, so I began to spend hours in Mr. Slator's office," she explained. "At the time, I knew nothing about business but by being around it so much I was able to learn many essentials and insurance is now a large part of my life," she stated.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Slator have an excellent sense of humor for in dealing with the public, they encounter many such experiences.

In early days no one thought it worthwhile to take out a policy to protect the owner of an auto if an accident occasioned liability "the owner of an auto then could not see any use of protection. He would tell the man or woman injured that he was sorry and the apology would end the case," Mr. Slator said. "But the public had to be educated to realize need of protection."

Associated in the agency with the Slators for the past ten years has been Stanley M. Wyatt, is Stanley M. Wyatt, an able, efficient and loyal assistant, with over fourteen years of insurance experience.

A most interesting couple are the Slators and their wide circle of friends will join in expressing pleasure at the success that has attended their business enterprise and the real service that they have been enabled to render to their large clientele.

COMPLETES 50 YEAR RECORD

R. N. Slater, well known insurance man of Monroe, completed a half century in this line of business on December 1, 1950. He is still active and has no desire to retire from active business operations. (News-Star—World Photo by Marvin DuBos.)

COLEMAN PLANT LEADS DONATION

Average $12.35 Per Person In Gifts To Red Feather Fund

Employes of the Coleman Manufacturing Company, 3000 DeSiard street, Saturday night moved into first place and took over the coveted title for having contributed more per capita to the Red Feather Drive than workers of any other firm in the Twin Cities. The Coleman folks' average was $12.35 per person, as compared to a $11.40 per capita record recently turned in by employes of the Bancroft Paper Co.

Eight Coleman workers turned in a total of $98.80. Their achievement was quickly noted by workers at Campaign Headquarters and General Chairman W. L. Ethridge Sr., was immediately advised by telephone.

"I speak for the whole Twin City Chest campaign organization in recognizing the Coleman Manufacturing Company employees for their fine accomplishment," Mr. Ethridge said. "To think of eight workers contributing an average of $12.35 each is something almost un-dreamedof in this drive. We originally thought, and still do, that the Bancroft Paper Company folks had done a magnificent ojb in reaching an average of $11.40 per capita, but this is really something.

"However, there are still reports that employes of other firms are shooting for still higher marks. Let's hope the Coleman employes have a long reign as champions, but they had better look to their laurels; more employes are gunning for them."

Heavy work was underway Saturday and is expected to be continued throughout next week as Chest volunteers seek to go over the $63,000 goal by their wind-up meeting Friday, December 8 at noon at the Virginia Hotel. Hundreds of workers are in the field with a new note of enthusiasm as they can see the end in sight. With over $53,000 accounted for, many believed the goal can be reached next Friday when Mr. Ethridge will be host to the workers for their last report.

La. Forest Fires Are Conquered

Baton Rouge, La., Dec. 2.—(AP)—A two-day outburst of fires in southern Louisiana's rain-thirsty woodlands has been conquered, State Forester James E. Mixon said late today.

As many as 47 fires were reported yesterday, Mixon said, but a radio check with field crews today showed the blazing areas were under control.

He said there were four small forest fires in Livingston parish, two in Tangipahoa, one in St. Helena, and that St. Tammany parish was clear of burning timber areas for the first time in four months.

Mix had attributed most of the small-area fires to carelessness of sportsmen or persons burning fields or trash.

He praised press and radio cooperation in warning of fire carelessness in crackling dry woodlands. Mixon said the warnings apparently had ended for the time any danger of new blazes.

Only five fires were reported elsewhere in Louisiana, Mixon said.

Break Ground For Colored School

The Mineral Springs colored elementary and high school will be relocated on a new and extensive site secured by the Ouachita parish school board. Ground was broken for the erection of this modern building recently. The contract price is $207,900 and the contractor is Ronnie Terral, of Farmerville.

The elementary and high school will be housed in the same large building of brick veneer which will have four high school rooms and provision for the science and home economic department. There will be a combined gymnasium and auditorium and eight grade rooms. A modern cafeteria and rooms for the teachers and principal of the school are provided. Floors of concrete slab, heating will be radiant. The one story building will be of brick veneer.

Plans were prepared by Smith and Padgett, Monroe.

McGee, a Mississippi Negro, was convicted in state courts for raping a white woman. His attorneys obtained a stay of execution last summer from a supreme court justice.

Hasty House's Seward Wins Bryan-O'Hara Run

Bowie, Md., Dec. 2.—(AP)—Leading from gate to wire, Hasty House farms' Seaward captured the $20,000 - added Bryan and O'Hara Memorial Handicap by three-quarters of a length in a driving finish as the Maryland turf season closed here today.

Valiantly striving to overhaul the pacesetter at the wire was Sylvester W. Labrot, Jr.'s Arcave, an outsider, which beat out L. J. Shaw's Abstract by three lengths. Fourth money went to Brookmeade stable's Dart By, part of a three-play entry.

The winner, which had won last Saturday's Prince George Autumn Handicap here, was favored, being coupled in the betting with Inseperable, which finished fifth today. The payoff across the board on the Hasty House farms' pair was $5.00, $3.00 and $2.20.

Joe Culmone, battling with Willie Shoemaker for national riding honors, booted home three winners. He scored on Dinner Hour ($3.80) in the third race; Oats ($4.20) in the sixth, and Cactus ($6.80) in the eighth. Culmone rode 30 winners in the 13-day Bowie meet.

MAGIC SHOW TO BE GIVEN HERE

National Youth Theatre To Present Entertainment; P.-T. A. Sponsor

Sponsored by the P.-T. A. council, "Merlin the Magician" will be presented at the Neville High School auditorium, at 3:30 p. m. December 11.

Russia is not only the No. 1 challenger of the United States on the international scene—it is also contender for top place in the children's theatre field. This information was revealed in a report on the Soviet children's theatre at a recent educational theatre conference at the University of Minnesota. Children's theatres in Russia are controlled by the government under direct supervision of the ministry of education.

On Monday Dec. 11 in Neville auditorium will opportunity of seeing the work of America's most outstanding professional theatre group doing shows especially designed for young people. The P.-T. A. council is bringing National Youth Theatre's production of "Merlin the Magician" to the children of Monroe. The National Youth Theatre has felt that it would be unwise to imitate the practices of our enemies. A free people is not enlightened by having a doctrine preached to it. Hence their productions are not flag-waving spectacles. The feeling of the producers is that for a great people like the Americans, what is required is good art, a thrilling story told with sincerety and understanding of the psychological needs of young people.

Out of an appreciation of the finer things in life will come an intellectual growth and an ability for self-evaluation and criticism—this is the heritage and aim of a free people.

Primos' Restaurant

WILL BE CLOSED FOR 60 DAYS BEGINNING DEC. 7th

Our restaurant will be closed December 7th and remain closed for 60 days. The architects, carpenters and painters will be very busy on the inside transforming Primas' Restaurant into the most beautiful restaurant and cocktail lounge in North Louisiana. Every piece of equipment, floor, wall and ceiling will be entirely new and of the latest type design. We are sorry this had to come about at this time as Primos has always been a popular eating place for busy Christmas shoppers; However, factories from whom we have purchased our equipment are urging us to make room for delivery, as their production is at an time high and they need to shij equipment that has already been made. This cooperation will be appreciated.

FAVORED TULANE SETTLES FOR L. S. U. TIE

GREENIES FORCED FROM BEHIND FOR 14 - 14 STALEMATE

Fired-Up Bengals Match Wave Blow For Blow In Rugged Battle

By James Saggus

New Orleans, Dec. 2.—(AP)—Powerful Tulane came from behind in the last two minutes today to tie Louisiana State's fired up underdogs 14-14 before an estimated 74,000 fans.

Tulane's tieing marker came on a quarterback sneak by substitute Quarterback Bill Bonar, and Tommy Comeaux added the tieing conversion.

The crowd stayed in a frenzy during the last quarter, when L. S. U. tied the score, then tallied what they thought was the winning marker, and had to settle for a tie.

L. S. U. took a 14-7 lead when Quarterback Jim Barton sneaked over from the one late in the fourth period. Its tieing touchdown had fired up the team and L. S. U. pushed Tulane all teh eov the field until Tulane began marching.

Bonar connected with End Joe Shinn for a 38-yard pass. Halfback Harold Waggoner, who carried most of the running load for Tulane, scampered for 21 yards to the L. S. U. nine to set up Bonar's touchdown.

Tulane took a third quarter lead when Fullback Ronnie Kent blasted center for one yard and a Tulane score. The touchdown capped a 61-yard drive. Bonar converted.

Louisiana State came back later in the period.

L. S. U. was given the ball on the Tulane 40 when a fourth down Tulane pass went to an ineligible man. A nine-yard pass was all L. S. U. could do for three downs, but Back Billy Baggett swept his left end and ran all the way. Kenny Konz converted both times.

The game was a bruising battle of lines, with the L. S. U.'s lighter but inspired forwards outcharging the heavy Tulane line.

L. S. U.'s forwards gave when necessary, then tightened up at crucial points.

The game was played on even terms during the first half but Tulane power began to show as the L. S. U. team tired during the third quarter.

But the first L. S. U. touchdown ignited the team again and it was L. S. U. until Tulane's desperate pass paid off.

L. S. U., always up for the traditional game against Tulane, was keyed even higher today as Tulane students "tiger-napped" Mike, the L. S. U. aged tiger mascot.

Mike was kidnapped while being brought from Baton Rouge to New Orleans. The kidnapping occurred shortly after 1 a. m. (CST) this morning and was returned to L. S. U. students by Tulane a few hours before game dents combed the town for their time. Meanwhile L. S. U. stu-mascot.

He was escorted onto the playing field just before the kickoff without incident.

L. S. U. entered the game with a spirit which didn't Flicker until after half time. Baggett's dash revived the team. It took all the punishment big Tulane could dish out then darted back with deadly speed.

Bonar put on a punting exhibition during the first half, getting off several for Tulane. One 55-yard boot rolled out on the L. S. U.11. He took over the passing duties from publicized Joe Ernst in the last period.

L. S. U. was the only team to outrush Tulane all season. The Tigers got 153 yards, mostly on long dashes, to 143 for Tulane, which seemed able to move the ball two yards any time.

The gome was sprinkled with penalties and minor skirmishes. The two bitter rivals swapped fumbles and pass interceptions on almost even terms.

Neither team could keep up a sustained drive in the first half L.S.U. got down to the Tulant 14 early in the game, but Tulane held. Tulane also made only one first half penetration.

Ernst kept Tulane on the offensive during the second and third pueriods. His passing was up to par but his nervous receivers couldn't hold his first quarter tosses.

Tulane made 70 yards passing, L. S. U. only 19. Tulane held a 13-7 edge in first downs.

Both teams were on edge during the game, and the tension spread to Tulane Coach Henry Frnka in the first half. An official ruled a Tulane pass had been caught out of bounds and Frnka bounded out to protest.

Wants Baseball Hand-Off Policy To Be Continued

Chicago, Dec. 2—(AP)—The National Federation of High School Athletic Associations thinks it would be "a big mistake" for professional baseball to drop its hands - off - high - school baseball players policy.

The move is expected to be discussed at the baseball's annual winter convention at St. Petersburg, Fla., the next two weeks:

H.V. Porter, executive-secretary of the national prep group, said today he believes the minor and major moguls may try a few modifications rather than pitch out the entire rule.

"I think all of the people in professional baseball know that the game eventually would suffer drastically if there was indiscriminate signing of youngsters before they finish high school," said Porter.

The move has been given impetus by two factors. The first in that some baseball men, pointing to the Paul Pettit case, believe the rule virtually is unenforceable. The other is that with the war situation growing more serious, the prep field may offer a solution to the manpower problem in the lower professional ranks.

While the agreement was implemented under the last Kenesaw Mountain Landis, Porter said present baseball Commissioner A. B. Chandler is strongly in favor of the rule.

"I think we have enough sentiment on the joint high school-baseball committee to look after the interests of the school boys," Porter said. He referred particularly to Chandler. Bill DeWitt of the Browns, Jimmy Gallagher of the Cubs and George Trautman, minor leagues chief.

Rodessa To Meet Delhi In 'B' Tilt

Arcadia, La., Dec. 2—(Special)—Rodessa High School clinched a shot at the north Louisiana Class B football title last night when the Red Bulls defeated the Arcadia Hornets 20 to 6, and won their second straight northwest Louisiana championship.

The Delhi Bears, northeast champs, will be pitted against the Red Bulls for the north Louisiana crown next week.

A 165-pound fullback for the Red Bulls, Hup Garner, scored once in both the third and fourth quarters, and George Bonner, halfback, scored one in the second.

Rodessa and Delhi school officials are scheduled to meet Sunday afternoon at Ruston to decide on their playoff plans. Tallulah High School has offered Delhi use of its field, if Delhi so desires to use it and the Bears are successful in getting the game from Rodessa.

Once Proud Notre Dame Bends Before Southern Cal

TROJAN SAFETY BRINGS 9-7 WIN OVER IRISHERS

Defeat Hands South Benders Their Worst Season Since 1932

By Bob Myers

Los Angeles, Dec. 2.—(AP)—Southern California's five-times beaten Trojans played football today for the first time this season and belted favored Notre Dame farther down the ladder by a 9-7 score.

A tremendous 94-yard return of a kickoff by speedy halfback Jim Sears that raised the roaring crowd of 70,177 to its feet brought U. S. C. its tying touchdown in the second quarter. And a blocked Noter Dame punt that produced a 2-point safety in the third sent the Trojans crashing into their first triumph over the Irish since 1939.

Notre Dame, its ranks badly depleted by key players knocked out of play in the second half of the hard struggle, battled down close enough in the final three minutes th throw a gigantic scare into the Trojan forces. But a try for a field goal from 26 yards out was wide.

The defeat, a saw blow to Notre Dame's Coach Frank Leahy, who missed the game and had to stay home in Indiana because of influenza, brought to an end the proud Irish's worst season since 1933.

This was only the fourth time in Notre Dame history, in fact, that the South Bend team had suffered as many as four defeats in one season.

And for the 12th time in 22 encounters between these two bitter rivals the game was decided on a margin of one touchdown or less. It was the third time it has been by the scant count of two points.

It was a typical Notre Dame-U. S. C. contest, and the crowd was the largest of the college season here. Suffice to say, it brought a glow to coach Jeff Cravath and his Trojans, who had beaten only Oregon all fall, tied two games and dropped five.

Quarterback Bob Williams, who in the crucial moments of the final period was to go to the sidelines with injuries to join his other backfield regulars, John Petitbon, Bill Barrett and Murray Johnson, guided the Irish to the first score of the afternoon.

It took 14 crunching plays to drive 54 yards to the one, where Williams pushed his way across. But the key play was a costly one. Petitbon took a pass from Williams for 18 yards and was brought down on the one. He suffered a concussion, and never saw further action.

The extra point was kicked and Notre Dame led, 7-0.

The Irish kicked off and then came the big noise, the most dramatic run of the day.

Sears, 180-pound right halfback from nearby Inglewood, took the ball on the six-yard line. He headed upfield a few swift strides, slanted to his left and whizzed down the sidelines immediately in front of the electrified Trojan bench and the delirious Trojan rooting section.

He went all the way, virtually unmolested after the 35-yard line. The extra point was good and it was all tied up.

It was the longest run in the series since Bud Langly of the Trojans ran 99 yards with an intercepted pass in 1936 and was strongly reminiscent of the 95-yard kickoff return made by Trojan Russ Saunders against the Irish at Soldier's Field, Chicago, in 1929

The payoff punch, the winning two points, came in the third period. Notre Dame, pushed around badly the second half, was back down to its own 22 and Williams faded back to punt out on fourth down. But Paul McMurty, the 31-year-old daddy of the Trojans, broke throuh and blocked the try broke through and blocked into the end zone. Trojan Volney Peters made a dive for it, hit it but could not hold it, and it bounced on out of the end zone.

Bears Whip Owls, 33-7, To Finish Second In Southwest Race

Waco, Tex., Dec. 2.—(AP)—Larry Isbell's precision passing and magical ball handling led Baylor to a ridiculously easy, 33-7 victory over Rice today.

Three times his passes made the score board click, and another set the stage for little Frank Shannon to get in on the touchdown parade.

With this win Baylor, the team doped to finish in the cellar of the Southwest Conference, ended in second plate behind Champion Texas.

Baylor scored one touchdown in the first period, three in the second and another in the fourth.

It took a recovered fumble late in the final quarter to start Rice

Isbell tossed two touchdown passes to Stanley Williams and hit James Jeffrey in the end zone with another.

An 84-yard punt return by little Johnny Curtis and one-yard plunge by Shannon accounted for the other Baylor touchdowns, with Henry Dickersh kicking three extra points.

After Hardy Dean recovered Don Carpenter's fumble for Rice on Baylor's 17-yard-line, Harmon Carswell climaxed a goalward surge by scoring from the half yard line. Bill Wright kicked the extra point.

Score by quarters:

Rice	0	0	0	7	—7
Baylor	7	19	0	7	—33

Rice scoring: Touchdown, Carswell; conversion, B. Wright.

Baylor scoring: Touchdowns, Williams 2, Shannon, Jeffrey, Curtis; conversions, Dickerson 3.

S. M. U. Declines Appearance In Any Post-Season Battles

Dallas, Dec. 2—(AP)—Matty Bell said today Southern Methodist University has turned down a bid to play in a proposed Petroleum Bowl football game at Shreveport.

In fact, the S.M.U. athletic director said, "we've been invited within the past week to play in four minor bowl games and declined in each case."

Bell said S.M.U. declined because of its policy "of playing in only established major bowl games" adding:

"Our season's record this time didn't warrant our being invited to play in any major bowl."

CHRISTIANS WHIP MUSTANGS, 27-13

Gil Bartosh Sparkplug On T. C. U. March Over Disheartened Ponies

Dallas, Dec. 2. —(AP)— Talented Gilbert Bartosh, a piano-legged sophomore who runs like a tank and passes like he was shooting a rifle, carried Texas Christian to a 27-13 victory over disheartened Southern Methodist today in the season finale of both teams.

The irrepressible Bartosh passed for one touchdown, ran for another and engineered a lusty drive for a third. He also was the leading ground-gainer of the day.

The other Horned Frog score came when smashing Bill Moorman, line star of the afternoon, picked up a blocked kick and sprinted 25 yards for a touchdown.

It was a sorry finish for the Methodists, who five weeks ago were rated No. 1 in the nation. Since then they have lost four games.

Southern Methodist got the consolation only of setting a new national record for pass completions. The Mustangs connected on eight today to make their season total 157, seven more than Washington, which eclipsed the record only this season.

A crowd of 55,000 was in the Cotton Bowl to see the Methodists, led by Kyle Rote, who closed his college career with a fine game, take a 13-0 lead in the first period, then be thoroughly outplayed.

Rote ground out 58 yards in a 65-yard drive for the first S. M. U. touchdown. He made it on a smash from the three-yard line. Then S. M. U. put on a 64-yard surge for another score with Rote passing to Johnny Champion on a 39-yard gainer for the touchdown. Bill Sullivan kicked the extra point.

After that the Horned Frogs got down to business.

Their first touchdown was on a 78 - yard drive with Bartosh scoring from the Methodist 13. Homer Ludiker converted. Next came the blocked punt for the second T. C. U. score.

The third Frog touchdown was on a 44-yard push with Bobby Jack Floyd crunching over from the S. M. U. seven and Ludiker converting.

The final came after Keith Flowers intercepted a Rote pass on the S. M. U. 29. Floyd picked up a yard, then Bartosh passed to John Medanich across the goal line. Ludiker kicked the point.

Score by quarters:

Texas Christian	0	13	7	7	—27
Southern Methodist .	13	0	0	0	—13

Texas Christian scoring: touchdowns, Bartosh, Moorman, Floyd Medanich, Conversions, Ludiker 3.

Southern Methodist scoring: touchdowns, Rote, Champion; Conversion, Sullivan.

O'Sullivan Floored 20 Times Losing To Towel

Johannesburg, Dec. 2 —(AP)— Vic Towel of South Africa loosed a vicious attack tonight to retain his world bantamweight championship by stopping Great Britain's Danny O'Sullivan before some 11,000 fans.

O'Sullivan, pounded to the canvas 20 times, did not come out for the 11th round. O'Sullivan weighed 117¾, Towel 116½.

Lou Boudreau Offered Chance To Turn Actor

Cleveland, Dec. 2 —(AP)— The manager of the Hanna Theatre here said today he has offered Lou Bourdrea, fomer manager of the Cleveland Indians, the leading role in the baseball play, "Elmer The Great."

Whether Boudreau, who recently signed with the Boston Red Sox, will accept is problematical, however.

Milton Krantz, the theatre manager, said the handsome shortstop appeared interested at first, but dubious in later conversations. He said he expects to talk with Boudreau at the latter's home in Harvey, Ill., next week.

"Boudreau has no experience as an actor, but he is a good after-dinner speaker and we feel he could be quickly trained." Krantz added.

Tulane's tieing marker came on a quarterback sneak by substitute Quarterback Bill Bonar, and Tommy Comeaux added the tieing conversion.

The crowd stayed in a frenzy during the last quarter, when L. S. U. tied the score, then tallied what they thought was the winning marker, and had to settle for a tie.

L. S. U. took a 14-7 lead when Quarterback Jim Barton sneaked over from the one late in the fourth period. Its tieing touchdown had fired up the team and L. S. U. pushed Tulane all teh eov the field until Tulane began marching.

Bonar connected with End Joe Shinn for a 38-yard pass. Halfback Harold Waggoner, who carried most of the running load for Tulane, scampered for 21 yards to the L. S. U. nine to set up Bonar's touchdown.

Tulane took a third quarter lead when Fullback Ronnie Kent blasted center for one yard and a Tulane score. The touchdown capped a 61-yard drive. Bonar converted.

Louisiana State came back later in the period.

L. S. U. was given the ball on the Tulane 40 when a fourth down Tulane pass went to an ineligible man. A nine-yard pass was all L. S. U. could do for three downs, but Back Billy Baggett swept his left end and ran all the way. Kenny Konz converted both times.

The game was a bruising battle of lines, with the L. S. U.'s lighter but inspired forwards outcharging the heavy Tulane line.

L. S. U.'s forwards gave when necessary, then tightened up at crucial points.

The game was played on even terms during the first half but Tulane power began to show as the L. S. U. team tired during the third quarter.

But the first L. S. U. touchdown ignited the team again and it was L. S. U. until Tulane's desperate pass paid off.

L. S. U., always up for the traditional game against Tulane, was keyed even higher today as Tulane students "tiger-napped" Mike, the L. S. U. aged tiger mascot.

Mike was kidnapped while being brought from Baton Rouge to New Orleans. The kidnapping occurred shortly after 1 a. m. (CST) this morning and was returned to L. S. U. students by Tulane a few hours before game dents combed the town for their time. Meanwhile L. S. U. stumascot.

He was escorted onto the playing field just before the kickoff without incident.

L. S. U. entered the game with a spirit which didn't Flicker until after half time. Baggett's dash revived the team. It took all the punishment big Tulane could dish out then darted back with deadly speed.

Bonar put on a punting exhibition during the first half, getting off several for Tulane. One 55-yard boot rolled out on the L. S. U.11. He took over the passing duties from publicized Joe Ernst in the last period.

L. S. U. was the only team to outrush Tulane all season. The Tigers got 153 yards, mostly on long dashes, to 143 for Tulane, which seemed able to move the ball two yards any time.

The gome was sprinkled with penalties and minor skirmishes. The two bitter rivals swapped fumbles and pass interceptions on almost even terms.

Neither team could keep up a sustained drive in the first half L.S.U. got down to the Tulant 14 early in the game, but Tulane held. Tulane also made only one first half penetration.

Ernst kept Tulane on the offensive during the second and third pueriods. His passing was up to par but his nervous receivers couldn't hold his first quarter tosses.

Tulane made 70 yards passing, L. S. U. only 19. Tulane held a 13-7 edge in first downs.

Both teams were on edge during the game, and the tension spread to Tulane Coach Henry Frnka in the first half. An official ruled a Tulane pass had been caught out of bounds and Frnka bounded out to protest.

Wants Baseball Hand-Off Policy To Be Continued

Chicago, Dec. 2—(AP)—The National Federation of High School Athletic Associations thinks it would be "a big mistake" for professional baseball to drop its hands - off - high - school baseball players policy.

The move is expected to be discussed at the baseball's annual winter convention at St. Petersburg, Fla., the next two weeks:

H.V. Porter, executive-secretary of the national prep group, said today he believes the minor and major moguls may try a few modifications rather than pitch out the entire rule.

"I think all of the people in professional baseball know that the game eventually would suffer drastically, if there was indiscriminate signing of youngsters before they finish high school," said Porter.

The move has been given impetus by two factors. The first in that some baseball men, pointing to the Paul Pettit case, believe the rule virtually is unenforceable. The other is that with the war situation growing more serious, the prep field may offer a solution to the manpower problem in the lower professional ranks.

While the agreement was implemented under the last Kenesaw Mountain Landis, Porter said present baseball Commissioner A. B. Chandler is strongly in favor of the rule.

"I think we have enough sentiment on the joint high school-baseball committee to look after the interests of the school boys," Porter said. He referred particularly to Chandler, Bill DeWitt of the Browns, Jimmy Gallagher of the Cubs and George Trautman, minor leagues chief.

Rodessa To Meet Delhi In 'B' Tilt

Arcadia, La., Dec. 2—(Special)—Rodessa High School clinched a shot at the north Louisiana Class B football title last night when the Red Bulls defeated the Arcadia Hornets 20 to 6, and won their second straight northwest Louisiana championship.

The Delhi Bears, northeast champs, will be pitted against the Red Bulls for the north Louisiana crown next week.

A 165-pound fullback for the Red Bulls, Hup Garner, scored once in both the third and fourth quarters, and George Bonner, halfback, scored one in the second.

Rodessa and Delhi school officials are scheduled to meet Sunday afternoon at Ruston to decide on their playoff plans. Tallulah High School has offered Delhi use of its field, if Delhi so desires to use it and the Bears are successful in getting the game from Rodessa.

Once Proud Notre Dame Bends Before Southern Cal

TROJAN SAFETY BRINGS 9-7 WIN OVER IRISHERS

Defeat Hands South Benders Their Worst Season Since 1932

By Bob Myers

Los Angeles, Dec. 2.—(AP)—Southern California's five-times beaten Trojans played football today for the first time this season and belted favored Notre Dame farther down the ladder by a 9-7 score.

A tremendous 94-yard return of a kickoff by speedy halfback Jim Sears that raised the roaring crowd of 70,177 to its feet brought U. S. C. its tying touchdown in the second quarter. And a blocked Noter Dame punt that produced a 2-point safety in the third sent the Trojans crashing into their first triumph over the Irish since 1939.

Notre Dame, its ranks badly depleted by key players knocked out of play in the second half of the hard struggle, battled down close enough in the final three minutes th throw a gigantic scare into the Trojan forces. But a try for a field goal from 26 yards out was wide.

The defeat, a saw blow to Notre Dame's Coach Frank Leahy, who missed the game and had to stay home in Indiana because of influenza, brought to an end the proud Irish's worst season since 1933.

This was only the fourth time in Notre Dame history, in fact, that the South Bend team had suffered as many as four defeats in one season.

And for the 12th time in 22 encounters between these two bitter rivals the game was decided on a margin of one touchdown or less. It was the third time it has been by the scant count of two points.

It was a typical Notre Dame-U. S. C. contest, and the crowd was the largest of the college season here. Suffice to say, it brought a glow to coach Jeff Cravath and his Trojans, who had beaten only Oregon all fall, tied two games and dropped five.

Quarterback Bob Williams, who in the crucial moments of the final period was to go to the sidelines with injuries to join his other backfield regulars, John Petitbon, Bill Barrett and Murray Johnson, guided the Irish to the first score of the afternoon.

It took 14 crunching plays to drive 54 yards to the one, where Williams pushed his way across. But the key play was a costly one. Petitbon took a pass from Williams for 18 yards and was brought down on the one. He suffered a concussion, and never saw further action.

The extra point was kicked and Notre Dame led, 7-0.

The Irish kicked off and then came the big noise, the most dramatic run of the day.

Sears, 180-pound right halfback from nearby Inglewood, took the ball on the six-yard line. He headed upfield a few swift strides, slanted to his left and whizzed down the sidelines immediately in front of the electrified Trojan bench and the delirious Trojan rooting section.

He went all the way, virtually unmolested after the 35-yard line. The extra point was good and it was all tied up.

It was the longest run in the series since Bud Langly of the Trojans ran 99 yards with an intercepted pass in 1936 and was strongly reminiscent of the 95-yard kickoff return made by Trojan Russ Saunders against the Irish at Soldier's Field, Chicago, in 1929

The payooff punch, the winning two points, came in the third period. Notre Dame, pushed around badly the second half, was back down to its own 22 and Williams faded back to punt out on fourth down. But Paul McMurty, the 31-year-old daddy of the Trojans, broke throuh and blocked the try broke through and blocked into the end zone. Trojan Volney Peters made a dive for it, hit it but could not hold it, and it bounced on out of the end zone.

Waco, Tex., Dec. 2.—(AP)—Larry Isbell's precision passing and magical ball handling led Baylor to a ridiculously easy, 33-7 victory over Rice today.

Three times his passes made the score board click, and another set the stage for little Frank Shannon to get in on the touchdown parade.

With this win Baylor, the team doped to finish in the cellar of the Southwest Conference, ended in second plate behind Champion Texas.

Baylor scored one touchdown in the first period, three in the second and another in the fourth.

It took a recovered fumble late in the final puarter to start Rice

Isbell tossed two touchdown passes to Stanley Williams and hit James Jeffrey in the end zone with another.

An 84-yard punt return by little Johnny Curtis and one-yard plunge by Shannon accounted for the other Baylor touchdowns, with Henry Dickersh kicking three extra points.

After Hardy Dean recovered Don Carpenter's fumble for Rice on Baylor's 17-yard-line, Harmon Carswell climaxed a goalward surge by scoring from the half yard line. Bill Wright kicked the extra point.

Score by quarters:

Rice	0	0	0	7	—7
Baylor	7	19	0	7	—33

Rice scoring: Touchdown, Carswell; conversion, B. Wright.

Baylor scoring: Touchdowns, Williams 2, Shannon, Jeffrey, Curtis; conversions, Dickerson 3.

S. M. U. Declines Appearance In Any Post-Season Battles

Dallas, Dec. 2—(AP)—Matty Bell said today Southern Methodist University has turned down a bid to play in a proposed Petroleum Bowl football game at Shreveport.

In fact, the S.M.U. athletic director said, "we've been invited within the past week to play in four minor bowl games and declined in each case."

Bell said S.M.U. declined because of its policy "of playing in only established major bowl games" adding:

"Our season's record this time didn't warrant our being invited to play in any major bowl."

CHRISTIANS WHIP MUSTANGS, 27-13

Gil Bartosh Sparkplug On T. C. U. March Over Disheartened Ponies

Dallas, Dec. 2. —(AP)— Talented Gilbert Bartosh, a piano-legged sophomore who runs like a tank and passes like he was shooting a rifle, carried Texas Christian to a 27-13 victory over disheartened Southern Methodist today in the season finale of both teams.

The irrepressible Bartosh passed for one touchdown, ran for another and engineered a lusty drive for a third. He also was the leading ground-gainer of the day.

The other Horned Frog score came when smashing Bill Moorman, line star of the afternoon, picked up a blocked kick and sprinted 25 yards for a touchdown.

It was a sorry finish for the Methodists, who five weeks ago were rated No. 1 in the nation. Since then they have lost four games.

Southern Methodist got the consolation only of setting a new national record for pass completions. The Mustangs connected on eight today to make their season total 157, seven more than Washington, which eclipsed the record only this season.

A crowd of 55,000 was in the Cotton Bowl to see the Methodists, led by Kyle Rote, who closed his college career with a fine game, take a 13-0 lead in the first period, then be thoroughly outplayed.

Rote ground out 58 yards in a 65-yard drive for the first S. M. U. touchdown. He made it on a smash from the three-yard line. Then S. M. U. put on a 64-yard surge for another score with Rote passing to Johnny Champion on a 39-yard gainer for the touchdown. Bill Sullivan kicked the extra point.

After that the Horned Frogs got down to business.

Their first touchdown was on a 78 - yard drive with Bartosh scoring from the Methodist 13. Homer Ludiker converted. Next came the blocked punt for the second T. C. U. score.

The third Frog touchdown was on a 44-yard push with Bobby Jack Floyd crunching over from the S. M. U. seven and Ludiker converting.

The final came after Keith Flowers intercepted a Rote pass on the S. M. U. 29. Floyd picked up a yard, then Bartosh passed to John Medanich across the goal line. Ludiker kicked the point.

Score by quarters:

Texas Christian	0	13	7	7	—27
Southern Methodist	13	0	0	0	—13

Texas Christian scoring: touchdowns, Bartosh, Moorman, Floyd Medanich, Conversions, Ludiker 3.

Southern Methodist scoring: touchdowns, Rote, Champion; Conversion, Sullivan.

O'Sullivan Floored 20 Times Losing To Towel

Johannesburg, Dec. 2 —(AP)— Vic Towel of South Africa loosed a vicious attack tonight to retain his world bantamweight championship by stopping Great Britain's Danny O'Sullivan before some 11,000 fans.

O'Sullivan, pounded to the canvas 20 times, did not come out for the 11th round. O'Sullivan weighed 117¾, Towel 116½.

Lou Boudreau Ofered Chance To Turn Actor

Cleveland, Dec. 2 —(AP)— The manager of the Hanna Theatre here said today he has offered Lou Bourdrea, fomer manager of the Cleveland Indians, the leading role in the baseball play, "Elmer the Great."

Whether Boudreau, who recently signed with the Boston Red Sox, will accept is problematical, however.

Milton Krantz, the theatre manager, said the handsome shortstop appeared interested at first, but dubious in later conversations. He said he expects to talk with Boudreau at the latter's home in Harvey, Ill., next week.

"Boudreau has no experience as an actor, but he is a good after-dinner speaker and we feel he could be quickly trained." Krantz added.

NAVY SCORES STUNNING UPSET OVER ARMY

MIDDIES BLAST MIGHTY CADETS BY 14-2 MARGIN

Bob Zastrow Guides Tars In Smashing Win Over Black Knights

By Gayle Talbot

Philadelphia, Dec. 2.—(AP)—An underdog Navy team which had tasted the football dregs all season rose to majestic heights this grey day to crush Army's glamorous forces, 14 to 2, in one of the greatest upsets ever registered in the 51 meetings between the two service rivals.

A thundering crowd of 103,000; including President Truman, shook Municipal Stadium with its roars as the fired-up Middies, winners of only two previous games this year, took command from the start of the contest, scored twice in the second period and throttled every effort by the nation's No. 2 team to get back in the ball game.

The stunning defeat, largely engineered by Navy's 209-pound quarterback, Bob Zastrow, who scored one touchdown and passed for a second, snapped a streak which had seen the Cadets batter their way through 28 straight games without defeat. They were three touchdown favorites at the kickoff today.

The last team to defeat the Black Knights was Notre Dame, in 1947. They were tied by Penn, 7-7, the same year and also deadlocked by another fighting Navy eleven, 21-21, in 1948. This victory today was a tremendous personal triumph for youthful Eddie Erdelatz, who took over as Navy's head coach only this season.

There was nothing in the nature of a fluke about it, either. The Middies were much the better team from start to finish. They battled the Soldiers' teeth with the ferocity of their tackling, holding the West Pointers' vaunted attack to a single first down in the opening half.

They plunged and passed their way for amazing yardage through Army defenses which had yielded only four scores in eight previous games this season. Toward the close, when the Cadets finally got their bearings and threatened several times, the Tars rose up and tossed them back on their moleskins with joyful abandon as the regiment of midshipmen yelled its hysterical approval.

Zastrow, the big junior, who had been able to drive the Middies to only two victories, over Southern California and Columbia, in eight previous starts, really came into his own today. The pride of Altoona, Wis., played himself a tremendous game. No individual in Army's backfield even approached his brilliance.

He scored the Middies' first touchdown midway of the second quarter by bulling his way smack through the center of Coach Earl Blaik's favorite line for seven yards, climaxing a drive of 27 yards after recovery of a fumble by Army's Al Pollard.

Twenty seconds before the first half ended he ran far to his left, dodged two Army tacklers, and rifled a scoring pass into the arms of Jim Baldinger, a tall end from Pittsburgh, who "outrasseled" a pair of Army defenders for the ball in the end zone. Roger Drew of Wenilworth, Ill., place kicked for the extra point.

Army's lonely two points came in the third period when Zastrow, chased behind his own goal line as he tried to spot a receiver, had to "eat" the ball rather than risk an interception and was hit by Bill Rowekamp and Bob Volonnino of Army. It didn't really matter, as by that time there was little, if any, doubt of the outcome.

The statistics gave a fairly accurate gauge of Navy's superiority, though they could not quite tell of the futility of Army's offense until the game's late stages, when Al Polland got away on several nice runs.

The Middies ripped for 13 first downs against Army's five. At one point early in the second half the count was 12-1. The Tars smashed in even 200 yards on the ground to Army's 77, perhaps the most astonishing figure of all. They passed for 68 yards to Army's 60. It was a good, solid, nourishing demonstration of superiority. It didn't seem possible, but it happened here.

Where Zastrow supplied the pinwheels and Roman candles of the spectacular second period, Navy Fullback Dave Bannerman from Carolina Beach, N. C., was the meat and potatoes of the Middie offensive which shook the Cadets to their heels all through the opening half.

He carried 21 times, almost entirely right through center or off the guards, and he rammed his way for 67 big yards. This might not sound impressive, yet it loomed large in the game's opening stages as the Tars asserted themselves and took charge. Pollard, Army's best gainer, showed only 52 yards at the finish.

The lineup:

Score by periods—

Navy	0	14	0	0	—14
Army	0	0	2	0	— 2

Navy scoring—touchdowns, Zastrow, Baldinger. Conversions—Drew (2).

Army scoring—safety (Zastrow, tackled by Colonnino and Rowekamp behind own goal).

'BAMA CRUSHES HAPLESS AUBURN

Crimson Tide Sets New S. E. C. Rushing Record In 34-0 Triumph

Birmingham, Dec. 2.—(AP)—Sophomore Bobby Marlow led Alabama to a convincing 34 to 0 victory over Auburn here today before 39,000.

The win was especially sweet to 'Bama partisans, who got revenge for last year's 14-13 upset at the hands of Auburn.

Alabama got 325 yards rushing today for a new Southeastern Conference record of 3,030. L. S. U. set the old mark of 2,705 in 1945.

Marlow took charge early. He took a 25-yard pass from Ed Salem to give Alabama its opening touchdown midway of the first quarter. The same back scored the next one on a seven yard blast through the line, and the third touchdown on a short smash off tackle.

Larry Chiodetti, another 'Bama sophomore, counted the fourth marker on a 31-yard sprint, and Jim Burkett, big senior fullback, accounted for the last one on a one-yard plunge.

Big Ed Salem, playing his final college football game before a hometown crowd, was hurt early in the second period and saw only brief service after that time.

Marlow netted 113 yards in 23 carries to run his season's total to 882 in 120 tries. His 9 touchdowns, including three today, were made against southeastern conference opponents.

Fullback Tom Calvin was another workhorse for Alabama today. He gained 80 of Alabama's 325 yards rushing and punched out vital two and three-yard advances for first downs on several marches.

The defeat was Auburn's 10th of the year for the school's most dismal football record in history. Auburn's last win was the 14-13 triumph over Alabama here a year ago.

But the losers were not without their heroes. Quarterback Billy Tucker and Backs Bobby Golden and Charlie Langner did well in the backfield, and Tackle Ted Varano and Guard Tom Banks were topflight linemen.

Auburn had 113 yards rushing and 51 passing for its nine first downs. Its deepest thrust, in the opening period, carried to the 'Bama 16.

Relay Battle Heads Mat Show At Kallio's Tuesday

STEDDUM COMING BACK AS PARTNER OF CHARLIE LAYE

Henry Harrell, George Curtis Furnish Opposition In Tag Match

"Wild Bill" Steddum, the Texas villain who was one of Promoter Gus Kallio's top drawing cards a couple of years ago returns to Kallio's Arena here Tuesday night to participate in a tag team match with Charlie Laye, Henry Harrell, and George Curtis.

Promoter Kallio, bringing "Wild Bill" back for the first time in near ly a year, last night said the lean Texas rowdy will again team with Laye, the former world's light-heavy champ from Knoxville, Tenn. against the teamwork of Harrell and Curtiss.

Laye and Steddum once teamed for a string of seven consecutive relay victories at Kallio's more than a year ago, and they are getting together again with Hopes of once more getting a string underway.

They will present a veteran combination against the youthful talents of Harrell, a roughouse battler from Memphis and Vicksburg, and young Curtis, brother of World's Light - Heavy Champ Jack Curtiss of Vicksburg.

But young Curtis and Harrell worked impressively against more seasoned grapplers here last Tuesday, Curtiss scoring over the "Black Phantom", and Harrell battling Laye to a drew over a 45-minutes time limit distance.

The feature event this time will have a time limit of 90 minutes with two falls to win.

Two one-fall matches, serving as introductory bouts for the main event talent, will start the show at 8 o'clock. Bill Barney will be the referee.

Bossier City, La., Dec. 2.—(Special)—The north Louisiana Class A football championship went to the Bossier City Bearcats last night along with their decisive 32 to 7 triumph over the Jonesboro-Hodge Tigers.

Bossier City will play the winner of the Oakdale-Morgan City grid battle, which will be played next Friday night at Lake Charles.

The Bearkats rolled over Jonesboro-Hodge with two touchdowns in the first quarter, one in the second, and two more in the final period. Backs J. O. Finley, Milburn Barefield, Tony Montalbano and James Oliver made the paydirt runs that set the Bearkats on top.

Tropical's De Soto Purse Captured By Mr. Joe Puck

Miami, Fla., Dec. 2.—(AP)—River Divide farm's Mr. Joe Puck furnished a mild surprise when he easily annexed the featured De Soto Purse before 8,959 at Tropical Park today.

Lightweight of the field of eight at 102 pounds, the westerner turned the six furlongs in 1.10 3-5, fastest time of the meeting at this distance. He paid $17.80, $8.90 and $5.40.

Third was Risk A Whirl, which finished two lengths back of Is There, while the big disappointment was Buzfuz, an old favorite with Miamians. The old Buzzer, a staunch choice, broke well, but he dropped out of it after the first furlong, and came lumbering home next to last in a dismal performance.

VIRGINIA BLASTS NORTH CAROLINA

Cavaliers Score Smashing 44 To 13 Upset Over Tar Heels

Charlottesville, Va., Dec. 2—(AP)—Virginia's football team, showing an amazingly effective one-two punch in Johnny Papit and Rufus Barkley, perpetrated a monumental upset today by whipping North Carolina, 44 to 13, in the 55th game of the south's oldest continuous gridiron rivalry.

Virginia, beaten by its traditional rival for five years in a row, scored on its first play from scrimmage when Papit took a pitchout from Barkley and galloped 68 yards.

And from there on, it was an utter rout as North Carolina, a six-point favorite in pre - game calculations, turned in an inept, fumbling performance.

It was 18-0 at the end of the first quarter, 31-0 at the half and 44-0 when the third period ended with a flock of subs in the Virginia lineup. Then the manhandled North Carolina forces came to life and scored on a 37-yard Ernie Liberati-to-Benny Walser aerial after an interception by Tom Stevens.

Papit, who needed to gain less than 100 yards to reach the total of 3,000 yards in three seasons, achieved that mark early in the second quarter. He scored two touchdowns.

Barkley, a slick operative in the split-T formation, passed to Gene Schroeder for two—his 14th and 15th touchdown passes of the season—then made it 16 with a short scoring pass to Bob Pate, a sophomore back. Pate, another consistent ground gainer, scored once and passed to Ed Bessell for another.

Score by quarters:

North Carolina	0	0	0	13	—13
Virginia	18	13	13	0	—44

Price Contract As Texas Grid Coach Runs 3 Years

Austin, Tex., Dec. 2—(AP)—Ed Price, the new head coach of the University of Texas, will be glad to learn that he has a three-year contract instead of two.

Price was in Nashville to scout Tennessee, the team Texas plays in the Cotton Bowl Jan. 1.

When he was elevated from line coach to head coach succeeding Blair Cherry yesterday, it was announced that his contract was for two years at $12,000 a year.

But that was an error.

A spokesman for the board of regents attributed the error to a slip in the letter of transmittal from President T. S. Painter to the board. The years covered by the contract were quoted correctly in the letter.

NAVY SCORES STUNNING UPSET OVER ARMY

MIDDIES BLAST MIGHTY CADETS BY 14-2 MARGIN

Bob Zastrow Guides Tars In Smashing Win Over Black Knights

By Gayle Talbot

Philadelphia, Dec. 2.—(AP)—An underdog Navy team which had tasted the football dregs all season rose to majestic heights this grey day to crush Army's glamorous forces, 14 to 2, in one of the greatest upsets ever registered in the 51 meetings between the two service rivals.

A thundering crowd of 103,000; including President Truman, shook Municipal Stadium with its roars as the fired-up Middies, winners of only two previous games this year, took command from the start of the contest, scored twice in the second period and throttled every effort by the nation's No. 2 team to get back in the ball game.

The stunning defeat, largely engineered by Navy's 209-pound quarterback, Bob Zastrow, who scored one touchdown and passed for a second, snapped a streak which had seen the Cadets batter their way through 28 straight games without defeat. They were three touchdown favorites at the kickoff today.

The last team to defeat the Black Knights was Notre Dame, in 1947. They were tied by Penn, 7-7, the same year and also deadlocked by another fighting Navy eleven, 21-21, in 1948. This victory today was a tremendous personal triumph for youthful Eddie Erdelatz, who took over as Navy's head coach only this season.

There was nothing in the nature of a fluke about it, either. The Middies were much the better team from start to finish. They rattled the Soldiers' teeth with the ferocity of their tackling, holding the West Pointers' vaunted attack to a single first down in the opening half.

They plunged and passed their way for amazing yardage through Army defenses which had yielded only four scores in eight previous games this season. Toward the close, when the Cadets finally got their bearings and threatened several times, the Tars rose up and tossed them back on their moleskins with joyful abandon as the regiment of midshipmen yelled its hysterical approval.

Zastrow, the big junior, who had been able to drive the Middies to only two victories, over Southern California and Columbia, in eight previous starts, really came into his own today. The pride of Algoma, Wis., played himself a tremendous game. No individual in Army's backfield even approached his brilliance.

He scored the Middies' first touchdown midway of the second quarter by bulling his way smack through the center of Coach Earl Blaik's favorite line for seven yards, climaxing a drive of 27 yards after recovery of a fumble by Army's Al Pollard.

Twenty seconds before the first half ended he ran far to his left, dodged two Army tacklers, and rifled a scoring pass into the arms of Jim Baldinger, a tall end from Pittsburgh, who "outrasseled" a pair of Army defenders for the ball in the end zone. Roger Drew of Kenilworth, Ill., place kicked for the extra point.

Army's lonely two points came in the third period when Zastrow, chased behind his own goal line as he tried to spot a receiver, had to "eat" the ball rather than risk an interception and was hit by Bill Rowekamp and Bob Volonnino of Army. It didn't really matter, as by that time there was little, if any, doubt of the outcome.

The statistics gave a fairly accurate gauge of Navy's superiority, though they could not quite tell of the futility of Army's offense until the game's late stages, when Al Polland got away on several nice runs.

The Middies ripped for 13 first downs against Army's five. At one point early in the second half the count was 12-1. The Tars smashed an even 200 yards on the ground to Army's 77, perhaps the most astonishing figure of all. They passed for 68 yards to Army's 60. It was a good, solid, nourishing demonstration of superiority. It didn't seem possible, but it happened here.

Where Zastrow supplied the pinwheels and Roman candles of the spectacular second period, Navy Fullback Dave Bannerman from Carolina Beach, N. C., was the meat and potatoes of the Middie offensive which shook the Cadets to their heels all through the opening half.

He carried 21 times, almost entirely right through center or off the guards, and he rammed his way for 67 big yards. This might not sound impressive, yet it loomed large in the game's opening stages as the Tars asserted themselves and took charge. Pollard, Army's best gainer, showed only 52 yards at the finish.

The lineup:

Score by periods—

Navy	0	14	0	0	—14
Army	0	0	2	0	— 2

Navy scoring—touchdowns, Zastrow, Baldinger. Conversions—Drew (2).

Army scoring—safety (Zastrow, tackled by Colonnino and Rowekamp behind own goal).

Riverlane Home First In L. S. U. - Tulane Race

New Orleans Dec. 2.—(AP)—Joseph W. Brown's Riverlane won the $3,500 L. S. U. Tulane Purse today at the New Orleans Fairgrounds race track before 5,500 fans.

Riverlane responded when called upon and finished a full length ahead of Thwarted over the mile and one-sixteenth distance. Riverlane, under Jockey Keith Stuart, was timed in 1:47 and paid $5.40, $3 and $2.60.

Thwarted was second and Controversial third.

'BAMA CRUSHES HAPLESS AUBURN

Crimson Tide Sets New S. E. C. Rushing Record In 34-0 Triumph

Birmingham, Dec. 2.—(AP)—Sophomore Bobby Marlow led Alabama to a convincing 34 to 0 victory over Auburn here today before 39,000.

The win was especially sweet to 'Bama partisans, who got revenge for last year's 14-13 upset at the hands of Auburn.

Alabama got 325 yards rushing today for a new Southeastern Conference record of 3,030. L. S. U. set the old mark of 2,705 in 1945.

Marlow took charge early. He took a 25-yard pass from Ed Salem to give Alabama its opening touchdown midway of the first quarter. The same back scored the next one on a seven yard blast through the line, and the third touchdown on a short smash off tackle.

Larry Chiodetti, another 'Bama sophomore, counted the fourth marker on a 31-yard sprint, and Jim Burkett, big senior fullback, accounted for the last one on a one-yard plunge.

Big Ed Salem, playing his final college football game before a hometown crowd, was hurt early in the second period and saw only brief service after that time.

Marlow netted 113 yards in 23 carries to run his season's total to 882 in 120 tries. His 9 touchdowns, including three today, were made against southeastern conference opponents.

Fullback Tom Calvin was another workhorse for Alabama today. He gained 80 of Alabama's 325 yards rushing and punched out vital two and three-yard advances for first downs on several marches.

The defeat was Auburn's 10th of the year for the school's most dismal football record in history. Auburn's last win was the 14-13 triumph over Alabama here a year ago.

But the losers were not without their heroes. Quarterback Billy Tucker and Backs Bobby Golden and Charlie Langner did well in the backfield, and Tackle Ted Varano and Guard Tom Banks were topflight linemen.

Auburn had 113 yards rushing and 51 passing for its nine first downs. Its deepest thrust, in the opening period, carried to the 'Bama 16.

Relay Battle Heads Mat Show At Kallio's Tuesday

STEDDUM COMING BACK AS PARTNER OF CHARLIE LAYE

Henry Harrell, George Curtis Furnish Opposition In Tag Match

"Wild Bill" Steddum, the Texas villain who was one of Promoter Gus Kallio's top drawing cards a couple of years ago returns to Kallio's Arena here Tuesday night to participate in a tag team match with Charlie Laye, Henry Harrell, and George Curtis.

Promoter Kallio, bringing "Wild Bill" back for the first time in near ly a year, last night said the lean Texas rowdy will again team with Laye, the former world's light-heavy champ from Knoxville, Tenn. against the teamwork of Harrell and Curtiss.

Laye and Steddum once teamed for a string of seven consecutive relay victories at Kallio's more than a year ago, and they are getting together again with Hopes of once more getting a string underway.

They will present a veteran combination against the youthful talents of Harrell, a roughouse battler from Memphis and Vicksburg, and young Curtis, brother of World's Light - Heavy Champ Jack Curtiss of Vicksburg.

But young Curtis and Harrell worked impressively against more seasoned grapplers here last Tuesday, Curtiss scoring over the "Black Phantom", and Harrell battling Laye to a drew over a 45-minutes time limit distance.

The feature event this time will have a time limit of 90 minutes with two falls to win.

Two one-fall matches, serving as introductory bouts for the main event talent, will start the show at 8 o'clock. Bill Barney will be the referee.

JUNIOR SUGAR SCRAP SLATED FRIDAY NIGHT

DEL MAR, GARDEN CITY TO TANGLE IN GRID CLASSIC

Lions Club Making Final Preparations For Fourth Annual Game

The Junior Sugar Bowl's fourth annual presentation of high ranking junior college football machines will take place here Friday night at Brown Field on the campus of Northeast Louisiana State College with the Del Mar Vikings of Corpus Christi, Tex., and the Garden City Bronc Busters of Garden City, Kans., furnishing the fireworks.

Various committees of the sponsoring Monroe Lions Club will be getting in the finishing licks in prepardness for the show which is expected to provide pleasing improvements and growing interest over past years.

Two of the best available teams will be here.

For the first time a team from out of the south will be represented here as Garden City Junior College sends its champions of Kansas to Monroe with a record of nine wins and a single defeat. The Busters, whose only loss was to Hutchinson (Kans.) Junior College, avenged in some measure that lone defeat by routing El Dorado (Kans.), 32 to 7, after that club had whipped Hutchinson. It was the only blot on an otherwise perfect El Dorado record.

The Del Mar machine, expected to come here as the favored club, won eight and lost two during the season. Coach G. C. "Ox" Emerson, instituting the "T" in his first year with the Vikings, lost his opener to San Angelo, 19-13, before the Corpus Christi boys got around to perfecting the new system. But after that they marched with impressive victories through the remainder of their schedule except for the battle with Wharton.

Wharton, rated as the nation's No. 1 junior college eleven, was able to beat Del Mar for the championship of the South Texas Conference only 28-20.

The Vikings also rule as the highest scoring outfit among the nation's better known little college teams, amassing 394 points while allowing only 94 to be scored against them.

Coach Jack Morris' Kansas club went for 262 points while giving up 96, but Garden City drumbeaters report: "Coach Morris is usually satisfied to win by two or three touchdowns and has reached as deep as his fourth stringers to keep the game interesting."

Garden City leaves home tomorrow, stopping off at Oklahoma City for an afternoon workout on the Oklahoma City University field. The Bronc Busters will spend Monday night in Oklahoma City and move on to Dallas, Tev., for a drill on the S. M. U. field. Wednesday morning they leave Dallas, stop off at Shreveport for lunch, and arrive in Monroe for an evening workout that night at Brown Field.

The Vikings will get in their pregame workouts at home and won't arrive here until 6:30 p.m. Thursday night, just time to make hasty preparations for the annual pregame banquet that night.

Del Mar is also sending its 48-piece band, composed of 32 men and 16 women with three chaperones. Del Mar's band members have made reservations at Virginia Hotel. The Viking gridders will make headquarters at Hotel Frances. Garden City's squad has reservations at Hotel Alvis.

The game is a non-profit Lions Club spectacle. All net proceeds, aside from team guarantees, are dedicated to improvement of recreation facilities for Monroe's children.

Monroe Bulldogs Roll Over Benton

Monroe Colored High School's illusive backs, with the aid of a fast blocking line, sparked the way for Monroe's 38-6 victory over the Benton Bears. Brown sidelined with an injury was unable to do the conversions for the Bulldogs.

Monroe first took possession of the ball on Benton's 45-yard line and carried it over the goal line for their first touchdown on an end-around by Spears. Nickelberry came out of the line and converted the extra point, making the score 7-0.

Benton finding Monro's line impenetrable, started using the screen pass and the spread pass combined. Holman intercepted a pass, and, after several plays, Spears ran the ball over for another touchdown. The try for extra point failed.

Early in the second quarter, Benton lost the ball on a fumble. Quarterback Cowan called the plays, and on the third play Walker carried the ball over for Monroe's third touchdown. Just before the half ended, Spears intercepted another pass, and Worthy scored his first touchdown, making the score 26-0 at the half.

Head Coach Thomas decided to give the youngsters on the Bulldogs' squad a chance to play during the second half. Some of the youngsters made an excellent showing. Benton taking advantange of the less-experienced players, used their combination pass and scored for their only touchdown.

The Bears made four first downs. The Bulldogs chalked up 10 first downs. Benton attempted 12 passes, completed four and two were intercepted. Monroe attempted seven passes and completed two.

College Of Pacific Wins From Quantico, 37 To 14

Stockton, Calif., Dec. 2—(AP)—The College of Paficif turned back Quarterback Eddie LeBaron and the Quantico Marines here today, 37-14, in a drizzly football game played before a crowd of 16,000.

LeBaron, C.O.P. star of 1949, threw two touchdown passes in the second quarter to give the Leather necks a halftime lead of 14-9, but the Tigers came roaring back with four touchdowns in the last half.

TECH ENGINEERS STUN BULLDOGS

Fumbling Georgia Victim Of 7-0 Upset By Yellow Jackets

Athens, Ga., Dec. 2—(AP)—Georgia Tech had one scoring punch and threw it with everything in its power today to win a wild and rough 7-0 upset over fumbling Georgia.

A big crowd of 50,000 fans came to little Athens expecting to see six-times beaten Tech take at least a two touchdown defeat.

But the once beaten Georgia Bulldogs, bound next week for the President's Cup game near Washington against Texas A. and M., made far too many mistakes to whip smart and lively Tech.

Little Bobby Morehead, a third string back, intercepted two Georgia passes in the final quarter to shut off Georgia's final threatening moves.

The victory was only Tech's second on Georgia's Sanford Field in 21 years.

Georgia committed at least six deadly football sins — two fumbles and four passes thrown straight into the open, happy arms of Tech intercepters.

Most of those mistakes followed potent and threatening Georgia drives which bounced about between goal lines but never over one. Each of Georgia's thrusts ended in ignomy and Tech's lonely touchdown, scored by second string Darrell Crawford on a two-foot quarterback sneak, stood the test throughout.

Georgia intercepted a Tech pass in the opening quarter, knocked to Tech's seven but missed a touch down when the Tech line reared up and stopped the Bulldogs.

The second quarter presented Tech's first turn to get the ball on a flub .Instead of fizzling, Tech sizzled to the only touchdown.

Georgia quarterback Mal Cook fumbled on Tech's 26 and Tackle Lamar Wheat recovered. Then for 74 yards Tech couldn't be stopped. Two 15-yard penalties against Georgia helped Tech along. Fullback Bobby North did most of the running but Crawford did the scoring. Red Patton made the conversion.

Just before the end of the half Tech sophomore Linebacker George Morris intercepted a Cook pass and ran it to the Bulldogs' 29. But the Yellow Jackets were halted on the five.

Score by periods:

Georgia Tech	0	7	0	0	—7

Georgia Tech touchdowns-Crawford; conversions—Patton.

"Ox" Emerson, instituting the "T" in his first year with the Vikings, lost his opener to San Angelo, 19-13, before the Corpus Christi boys got around to perfecting the new system. But after that they marched with impressive victories through the remainder of their schedule except for the battle with Wharton.

Wharton, rated as the nation's No. 1 junior college eleven, was able to beat Del Mar for the championship of the South Texas Conference only 28-20.

The Vikings also rule as the highest scoring outfit among the nation's better known little college teams, amassing 394 points while allowing only 94 to be scored against them.

Coach Jack Morris' Kansas club went for 262 points while giving up 96, but Garden City drumbeaters report: "Coach Morris is usually satisfied to win by two or three touchdowns and has reached as deep as his fourth stringers to keep the game interesting."

Garden City leaves home tomorrow, stopping off at Oklahoma City for an afternoon workout on the Oklahoma City University field. The Bronc Busters will spend Monday night in Oklahoma City and move on to Dallas, Tex., for a drill on the S. M. U. field. Wednesday morning they leave Dallas, stop off at Shreveport for lunch, and arrive in Monroe for an evening workout that night at Brown Field.

The Vikings will get in their pregame workouts at home and won't arrive here until 6:30 p.m. Thursday night, just time to make hasty preparations for the annual pregame banquet that night.

Del Mar is also sending its 48-piece band, composed of 32 men and 16 women with three chaperones. Del Mar's band members have made reservations at Virginia Hotel. The Viking gridders will make headquarters at Hotel Frances. Garden City's squad has reservations at Hotel Alvis.

The game is a non-profit Lions Club spectacle. All net proceeds, aside from team guarantees, are dedicated to improvement of recreation facilities for Monroe's children.

SOPHOMORE SENSATION

Joe Dean, first team guard on Louisiana State's basketball team scored 271 points in 21 games as a sophomore last season and was 20 points ahead of his nearest competitor for scoring honors.

Monroe Bulldogs Roll Over Benton

Monroe Colored High School's illusive backs, with the aid of a fast blocking line, sparked the way for Monroe's 38-6 victory over the Benton Bears. Brown sidelined with an injury was unable to do the conversions for the Bulldogs.

Monroe first took possession of the ball on Benton's 45-yard line and carried it over the goal line for their first touchdown on an end-around by Spears. Nickelberry came out of the line and converted the extra point, making the score 7-0.

Benton finding Monro's line impenetrable, started using the screen pass and the spread pass combined. Holman intercepted a pass, and, after several plays, Spears ran the ball over for another touchdown. The try for extra point failed.

Early in the second quarter, Benton lost the ball on a fumble. Quarterback Cowan called the plays, and on the third play Walker carried the ball over for Monroe's third touchdown. Just before the half ended, Spears intercepted another pass, and Worthy scored his first touchdown, making the score 26-0 at the half.

Head Coach Thomas decided to give the youngsters on the Bulldogs' squad a chance to play during the second half. Some of the youngsters made an excellent showing. Benton taking advantange of the less-experienced players, used their combination pass and scored for their only touchdown.

The Bears made four first downs. The Bulldogs chalked up 10 first downs. Benton attempted 12 passes, completed four and two were intercepted. Monroe attempted seven passes and completed two.

College Of Pacific Wins From Quantico, 37 To 14

Stockton, Calif., Dec. 2—(AP)—The College of Paficif turned back Quarterback Eddie LeBaron and the Quantico Marines here today, 37-14, in a drizzly football game played before a crowd of 16,000.

LeBaron, C.O.P. star of 1949, threw two touchdown passes in the second quarter to give the Leather necks a halftime lead of 14-9, but the Tigers came roaring back with four touchdowns in the last half.

TECH ENGINEERS STUN BULLDOGS

Fumbling Georgia Victim Of 7-0 Upset By Yellow Jackets

Athens, Ga., Dec. 2—(AP)—Georgia Tech had one scoring punch and threw it with everything in its power today to win a wild and rough 7-0 upset over fumbling Georgia.

A big crowd of 50,000 fans came to little Athens expecting to see six-times beaten Tech take at least a two touchdown defeat.

But the once beaten Georgia Bulldogs, bound next week for the President's Cup game near Washington against Texas A. and M., made far too many mistakes to whip smart and lively Tech.

Little Bobby Morehead, a third string back, intercepted two Georgia passes in the final quarter to shut off Georgia's final threatening moves.

The victory was only Tech's second on Georgia's Sanford Field in 21 years.

Georgia committed at least six deadly football sins — two fumbles and four passes thrown straight into the open, happy arms of Tech intercepters.

Most of those mistakes followed potent and threatening Georgia drives which bounced about between goal lines but never over one. Each of Georgia's thrusts ended in ignomy and Tech's lonely touchdown, scored by second string Darrell Crawford on a two-foot quarterback sneak, stood the test throughout.

Georgia intercepted a Tech pass in the opening quarter, knocked to Tech's seven but missed a touch down when the Tech line reared up and stopped the Bulldogs.

The second quarter presented Tech's first turn to get the ball on a flub .Instead of fizzling, Tech sizzled to the only touchdown.

Georgia quarterback Mal Cook fumbled on Tech's 26 and Tackle Lamar Wheat recovered. Then for 74 yards Tech couldn't be stopped. Two 15-yard penalties against Georgia helped Tech along. Fullback Bobby North did most of the running but Crawford did the scoring. Red Patton made the conversion.

Just before the end of the half Tech sophomore Linebacker George Morris intercepted a Cook pass and ran it to the Bulldgos' 29. But the Yellow Jackets were halted on the five.

Score by periods:

OKLAHOMA THUMPS AGGIES, 41-14

BIG 2ND QUARTER BRINGS SOONERS EDGE IN CONTEST

Arnold's Four Touchdown Passes Accounts For 31st Win In Row

By Saul Feldman

Stillwater, Dec. 2.—(AP)—Oklahoma's Claude Arnold pitched four touchdown passes to by-pass a fighting underdog Oklahoma A. and M. football team 41-14 here today in the 45th meeting of the state rivals.

Sugar Bowl bound Oklahoma—the nation's No. 1 team—was a six touchdown favorite. But the Aggies put up a fighting defense that might have paid off if it hadn't been for Arnold's passing.

The victory is Oklahoma's 31st straight and makes it the favorite against Kentucky in New Orleans New Year's Day. Kentucky's Coach Paul (Bear) Bryant scouted the game as the personal guest of Oklahoma Coach Bud Wilkinson.

And Bryant saw an eye-full of Oklahoma versatility.

The Aggies, with only a thin squad of 30 men, matched touchdowns with Oklahoma in the first quarter for a 7-7 tie before 33,000 persons.

It was in the second quarter the Sooners broke loose for 28 points. Arnold, doing a beautiful game at quarterback, evaded the Aggies 8-man line with a spectacular aerial barrage that proved in the end to make the difference.

Three of Arnold's touchdown passes were caught by End Jack Lockett. End John Reddell scored on the other toss. A one-yard buck by halfback Billy Vessels and a nine-yard spring by Fullback Leon Heath took care of the remainder of the Sooner scoring.

Jim Weatherall made five out of six conversions.

The Aggies first touchdown was scored with less than two minutes remaining in the first quarter when Halfback John Grabko cut left tackle 12 yards to end a 70-yard march. Odie Biggs made the conversion, the first of two.

The other Aggie score came on a 38-yard touchdown pass from Quarterback Bob Steele to End Ron Shcakleton at the conclusion of a 57-yard drive in the third period.

In defeat, the Aggies played their best game of the year. They ended the first season under Coach J. B. Whitworth with four victories, one tie and six losses.

A. and M.'s hard play forced Wilinson to keep his first team in most of the game. There was no doubt Oklahoma was pressed by the inspired Aggies but the Sooners superiority in all departments made it evident why Oklahoma is the nation's top team.

Oklahoma's first score came with 10 minutes gone in the game. Arnold hit Reddell in the end zone on a 21-yard toss to end a 35-yard drive.

A drive that started at the end of the first quarter paid off with five seconds gone in the second period. A march of 80 yards, including, a 53-yard jaunt by Heath ended when Arnold pitched 10 yards to Lockett.

A fumble by Aggie Fullback Bob Cook gave Oklahoma the ball on the Aggie 45 just two minutes later and it marched again with Vessels scoring from the one.

The other two touchdowns in the quarter—exploding quickly—were passes of 20 yards and 15 yards from Arnold to Lockett. That put Oklahoma out in front 35-7 at the half.

Oklahoma was unable to score in the third quarter as the Aggies dominated play. Heath scored from the nine after Oklahoma gained possession of the ball on a fumble on the Aggie 35.

Snead, Burke Share Lead As Miami Open Tourney Enters Final Round

Golfing Veteran And Upstart Hold Stroke Lead Over Mayer, Kirkwood

By James F. Fowler

Miami, Fla., Dec. 2.—(AP)—Veteran Sammy Snead and newcomer Jack Burke, Jr., tied for the lead at the end of the third round of the $10,000 Miami Open Golf Tournament today with nine under par 201s.

Snead, of White Sulphur Springs W. Va., who has won the 72-hole tournament three times, dropped a curling 12-foot putt on the 18th green for a birdie three to card his second straight four under par 66. He started with a 69 and yesterday fired a 66 to trail three strokes off the leaders at 135.

Burke, 27-year-old Houston, Tex. professional who is sixth ranking money winner this year, turned in a two under par 68 on the third round to couple with his 67 and 66 of the first two rounds.

A stroke behind the leaders were Dick Mayer, Old Greenwich, Conn., and part time movie actor Joe Kirkwood, Jr., Daytona Beach, Fla., Mayer shared the lead with Amateur Frank Stranahan at the end of 36 holes with a 132. He dropped an 18-footer on the last green to salvage an even par 70. Kirkwood, who's 66 led the field on the first day, carded a 68 in his most erratic round of the tournament.

Jim Turnesa, Briarcliff, N. Y., youngest of the six Turnesa brothers, and Jim Ferrier, San Francisco, Calif., were two strokes off the pace at 203.

Turnesa had an even par 35-35—70 for the 7,000-yard Miami Springs golf course to add to his 66 and 67 previous rounds.

Still using a borrowed set of clubs, Snead waited until the more difficult back nine to turn on the heat. He carded an even par 35 on the front side, then dropped a 10-footer on the 12th to go one up. He was two under par on the long par five 13th for the second straight day. On the 17th, jinx hole of the tournament, he was trapped but blasted some 200 yards within eight feet of the pin to salvage a par four. His 12-footer on the final hole gave him a tie for the lead.

Burke has won three major tournaments this year—the Bing Crosby, Rio Grande Valley and St. Petersburg Open.

Stranahan, wealthy son of a car parts manufacturer, dropped three strokes behind the leaders at 204 after carding a three over par 38 on the front side and 34 coming in. He shared the lead yesterday with Mayer by carding a dazzling five under par 65.

Tony Penna, Cincinnati, Ohio, turned in a spectacular 35-30—65 to tie with Ted Kroll at 205. Penna had carded a 70 and 69 on his previous rounds.

Kroll, New Hartford, N. Y., whose blistering six under par 64 yesterday still stands as the best round of the tournament, fell off today and came in with a two over par 72. He carded a 69 on opening day.

Four veteran pros were bunched at 206. They were Ed Furgol, Royal Oak, Mich.; Bob Hamilton, Landover, Md.; Cary Middlecoff, Ormond Beach, Fla., and Marty Furgol, North Hollywood, Calif., who is no relation to Ed.

The final round will be played tomorrow, after which 64 of the top pros will compete in the Miami international four ball tournament beginning Tuesday.

Tennessee Scores Convincing 43-0 Triumph Over Vandy's Commodores

Cotton Bowl-Bound Vols Pull All Stops In Rout Of Old Rivals

By A. P. Bryan

Nashville, Tenn., Dec. 2.—(AP)—The Tennessee Volunteers made their game with Vanderbilt just a whistle stop on the road to the Cotton Bowl today with a 43-0 football victory over their ancient rivals.

Tennessee, ranked fourth in the final Associated Press poll, drove a 10-0 lead in the first half, then scored almost at will in the final periods. A crowd of 28,000 watched Tennessee administer Vanderbilt the worst thrashing it had suffered since 1945.

It was the tenth victory in 11 starts for Tennessee and the loss was Vanderbilt's fourth in 11. But Tennessee was the first team to hold Coach Bill Edwards' T-formation scoreless.

Several scouts from Texas, the Vols' Cotton Bowl opponent, got an eyeful as they watched Gen. Bob Neylands' power-studded single wing eleven score two touchdowns through the air, four on the ground and add a field goal for good measure.

Sophomore Pat Shires kicked four conversions. He missed one and so did Harold Johnson.

Halfback Harold Payne scored two touchdowns for Tennessee and Basil Drake added two others. Their scores were made by rushing. End Vince Kaseta and Quarterback Bernie Sizemore grabbed touchdown passes, one hurled by Hank Lauricella and the other by Payne.

The Tennessee backs crashed through the Vanderbilt line for huge gains in the second half, but it was the great play of the Volunteer line and their hot pass defense which turned the game into a rout.

Tennessee's first touchdown came on a 27-yard pass from Lauricella to Kaseta. It cinmaxed an 88-yard march in ten plays.

With Tennessee leading 7-0 late in the second quarter, Shires booted a 27-yard field goal from placement. It was his first three-pointer of the season.

Payne raced off tackle for 15 yards and a touchdown to cap a 67-yard drive sparked by a 27-yard run by Lauricella midway of the third period.

The next touchdown came on a nine-yard pass from Payne to Sizemore after Tennessee grabbed Jim Tabor's fumble on the Vanderbilt 37.

Bert Rechichar set up the first touchdown of the final period when he intercepted a Wade pass at midfield.

Payne drove over from the two-yard line for the touchdown.

Another pass interception, this one by Bud Sherrill, gave Tennessee the ball on Vanderbilt's 18. Payne carried it to the two, and Drake went over.

The final score was set up the same way. Gene Moeller grabbed another Wade aerial and raced to the Vanderbilt 10. Two plays put it on the one, and Drake plunged over.

Vanderbilt pushed to the nine yard line in the opening period, and in the second quarter fought to the one but the Tennessee line held.

Score by periods:

Tennessee	7	3	13	20	—43
Vanderbilt	0	0	0	0	— 0

Tennessee scoring: Touchdowns—Kaseta, Payne 2, Sizemore, Drake 2. Field goal—Shires. Conversions—Shires 4.

STOPPED

Ann Arbor, Mich., Dec. 2.—(AP)—Michigan lost its first basketball opener in 17 years here tonight, dropping a 44 to 36 decision to Miami of Ohio before an estimated crowd of 4,000.

OLE MISS DUMPS MAROONS, 27-20

Dottley And Stribling Close Out Rebel Careers With TD Apiece

Oxford, Miss., Dec. 2.—(AP)—John Dottley and Bill Stribling ended their college football careers with a touchdown apiece here today to lead underdog University of Mississippi to a 27-20 victory over Mississippi State College.

Dattley scored Mississippi's first touchdown, set up the second and followed up Dick Westerman's 43-yard kickoff return late in the fourth period by driving 13 to 24 needed yards in three plays before Quarterback Rocky Byrd went over with the winning score.

In all, the pile driving McGehee, Ark., fullback added 119 yards in 25 tries to bring his season's yardage record to 1,003. It is 309 yards short of the 1,312 Dottley made last year to lead the nation's ground gainers.

Mississippi State, rated one touchdown better than the Rebels, went into the fourth quarter on the short end of a 14-7 score and unleashed a ground-air attack that netted them 13 points and a fighting chance right up to game's end.

Both teams scored twice in that nerve - wracking fourth period, Byrd's one-yard plunge with less than three minutes to go wrapping it up for the Rebs.

It was Mississippi's 21st victory and the fifth straight in the 49-year-old series and leaves the symbolic golden egg on the Oxford campus for another year.

Dottley stormed to the first Mississippi score, driving through the line from the five after Wilson Dillard of Itta Bena, Miss., had returned Max Stainbrook's punt 57 yards.

The charging Arkansan broke loose from State's 40 the next time Mississippi got the ball. He plowed 35 yards off left tackle to the 15 and then smashed for three more before Scrappy Hart tossed a payoff pass to Showboat Boykin in the end zone.

Byrd pegged 39 yards to Stribling in the fourth quarter and the fleet right end wasn't touched as he scampered 27 yards for another touchdown.

Tom Rushing scored two of State's three touchdowns, from the one yard line and the one-half yard line, respectively, both times in the fourth quarter. Wallie Beach got the first one from the one in the opening period.

Jimmy Lear made three of four conversion attempts good. State's Stainbrook centered two of three between the goal posts.

Coach Johnny Vaught unveiled a likely successor to Dottley in Dillard. A sophomore, the 170-pound left half back teamed with big John to gain a large share of Mississippi's 219 yards on the ground.

Score by quarters:

Mississippi State ...	7	0	0	13	—20
University of Miss. .	14	0	0	13	—27

The place and show payoff was $2.20 and $2.40 for the entry.

DEMON QUINTET OPENING SEASON

N. S. C., Under Coach 'Red' Thomas, Play Lamar Tomorrow Night

Natchitoches, La., Dec. 2.—(Special)—After almost five weeks of regular workouts the Northwestern State College Demons will knock the lid off the 1950-51 cage season when they play host to the Lamar Tech squad from Beaumont, Tex., at 7:30 o'clock Monday night at Natchitoches.

The two teams will meet aain the following night, December 5, at Beaumont.

Starting this season under a new tutor, Coach Charles "Red" Thomas, the Demons are almost a new ball club after losing two regulars and two other lettermen from last year's quintet.

Coach Thomas, an N. S. C. alumnus and long time active participant in Louisiana basketball, has taken over as cage mentor to relieve "Coach" H. Lee Prather of part of his duties as president, athletic director, and head basketball coach of N. S. C.

The reulars lost by the Demons were Claude "Jodie" Stoutamire, four times all-conference forward, and Jim Willis, outstanding floor man at guard. Also gone are Buddy Bates, a classy forward and center, and DeWitt Pattern, a set-shot artist at forward. Patten was eliminated on his doctor's orders.

Returning to pace the Purple and White is Johnny McCenathy, 6-foot-5 center from Bryceland, who hit the nets for 290 points last season, and was named to the center post on the all-conference second team.

The only other returning regulars are Hershal McConathy (no relation to Johnny) from Florien, a classy forward and a speed demon on the floor, and Linwood Ouzts, from Minden, a 6-foot guard with a deadly eye for the besket.

Moving up to regulars' positions this fall are two out-of-staters. Artie Ranew, a 6-foot 6 guard from Tallahassee, Fla., who has a good set shot from outside, has taken over a guard slot. Jim Yerdier, from Cissna Park, Ill., and formerly with the Barksdale Field Flyers, is a hustling 6foot-1 forward who will probably step into the opening at forward.

The Demons finished in a tie for second place in the conference last season by winning 10 and dropping 8. The entire season's record was 18 wins and 10 losses.

TULSA SHADES HOUSTON, 29-21

72-Yard Run By Dwight Redman Brings Hurricane Winning Touchdown

Houston, Dec. 2.—(AP)—Tulsa's Missouri Valley Conference champions ground out a 73-yard, final period touchdown today to hand ambitious University of Houston a 28-to-21 defeat.

Halfback Dwight Redman skirted left end on a handoff for the winning score. Three roughing penalties had figured in the drive.

Houston had tied the count at 21-21 in the third period on a 49-yard pass from Quarterback Jolly Hartsell to Halfback Max Clark after Tulsa had overcome an early 14-point deficit by striking for three touchdowns in the second quarter.

The victory enabled Tulsa, overlooked in bowl game bids, to finish its season with only a 23-14 defeat from San Francisco University marring its record.

Houston, which joins the Missouri Valley with the 1950-51 basketball campaign, broke even in ten football games as an independent.

An 80-yard touchdown drive, and two scoring passes from Quarterback Ronald Morris to End Ken Click put Tulsa ahead in the second quarter. Halfback Jack Crocker scored from the three.

Houston jumped into its first quarter lead on a 67-yard dash through center by Fullback Aubrey Baker and a 7-yard smash through center by Clark after a Tulsa fumble had been recovered on the Oklahomans' 23.

Clark kicked Houston's three extra points and Fullback Cliff Boucher converted four times for Tulsa.

Morris' first pass to Click was good for 2 yards, four plays after End Ernie Walkup had blocked a Houston punt and recovered on the Cougar 16.

A 55-yard, scoring aerial to Click came on the first play after Tulsa recovered a Houston fumble on its 45. The first half gun sounded as Click crossed the goal line.

OKLAHOMA THUMPS AGGIES, 41-14

BIG 2ND QUARTER BRINGS SOONERS EDGE IN CONTEST

Arnold's Four Touchdown Passes Accounts For 31st Win In Row

By Saul Feldman

Stillwater, Dec. 2.—(AP)—Oklahoma's Claude Arnold pitched four touchdown passes to by-pass a fighting underdog Oklahoma A. and M. football team 41-14 here today in the 45th meeting of the state rivals.

Sugar Bowl bound Oklahoma—the nation's No. 1 team—was a six touchdown favorite. But the Aggies put up a fighting defense that might have paid off if it hadn't been for Arnold's passing.

The victory is Oklahoma's 31st straight and makes it the favorite against Kentucky in New Orleans New Year's Day. Kentucky's Coach Paul (Bear) Bryant scouted the game as the personal guest of Oklahoma Coach Bud Wilkinson.

And Bryant saw an eye-full of Oklahoma versatility.

The Aggies, with only a thin squad of 30 men, matched touchdowns with Oklahoma in the first quarter for a 7-7 tie before 33,000 persons.

It was in the second quarter the Sooners broke loose for 28 points. Arnold, doing a beautiful game at quarterback, evaded the Aggies 8-man line with a spectacular aerial barrage that proved in the end to make the difference.

Three of Arnold's touchdown passes were caught by End Jack Lockett. End John Reddell scored on the other toss. A one-yard buck by halfback Billy Vessels and a nine-yard spring by Fullback Leon Heath took care of the remainder of the Sooner scoring.

Jim Weatherall made five out of six conversions.

The Aggies first touchdown was scored with less than two minutes remaining in the first quarter when Halfback John Grabko cut left tackle 12 yards to end a 70-yard march. Odie Biggs made the conversion, the first of two.

The other Aggie score came on a 38-yard touchdown pass from Quarterback Bob Steele to End Ron Shcakleton at the conclusion of a 57-yard drive in the third period.

In defeat, the Aggies played their best game of the year. They ended the first season under Coach J. B. Whitworth with four victories, one tie and six losses.

A. and M.'s hard play forced Wilinson to keep his first team in most of the game. There was no doubt Oklahoma was pressed by the inspired Aggies but the Sooners superiority in all departments made it evident why Oklahoma is the nation's top team.

Oklahoma's first score came with 10 minutes gone in the game. Arnold hit Reddell in the end zone on a 21-yard toss to end a 35-yard drive.

A drive that started at the end of the first quarter paid off with five seconds gone in the second period. A march of 80 yards, including, a 53-yard jaunt by Heath ended when Arnold pitched 10 yards to Lockett.

A fumble by Aggie Fullback Bob Cook gave Oklahoma the ball on the Aggie 45 just two minutes later and it marched again with Vessels scoring from the one.

The other two touchdowns in the quarter—exploding quickly—were passes of 20 yards and 15 yards from Arnold to Lockett. That put Oklahoma out in front 35-7 at the half.

Oklahoma was unable to score in the third quarter as the Aggies dominated play. Heath scored from the nine after Oklahoma gained possession of the ball on a fumble on the Aggie 35.

Snead, Burke Share Lead As Miami Open Tourney Enters Final Round

Golfing Veteran And Upstart Hold Stroke Lead Over Mayer, Kirkwood

By James F. Fowler

Miami, Fla., Dec. 2.—(AP)—Veteran Sammy Snead and newcomer Jack Burke, Jr., tied for the lead at the end of the third round of the $10,000 Miami Open Golf Tournament today with nine under par 201s.

Snead, of White Sulphur Springs W. Va., who has won the 72-hole tournament three times, dropped a curling 12-foot putt on the 18th green for a birdie three to card his second straight four under par 66. He started with a 69 and yesterday fired a 66 to trail three strokes off the leaders at 135.

Burke, 27-year-old Houston, Tex. professional who is sixth ranking money winner this year, turned in a two under par 68 on the third round to couple with his 67 and 66 of the first two rounds.

A stroke behind the leaders were Dick Mayer, Old Greenwich, Conn., and part time movie actor Joe Kirkwood, Jr., Daytona Beach, Fla., Mayer shared the lead with Amateur Frank Stranahan at the end of 36 holes with a 132. He dropped an 18-footer on the last green to salvage an even par 70. Kirkwood, who's 66 led the field on the first day, carded a 68 in his most erratic round of the tournament.

Jim Turnesa, Briarcliff, N. Y., youngest of the six Turnesa brothers, and Jim Ferrier, San Francisco, Calif., were two strokes off the pace at 203.

Turnesa had an even par 35-35—70 for the 7,000-yard Miami Springs golf course to add to his 66 and 67 previous rounds.

Still using a borrowed set of clubs, Snead waited until the more difficult back nine to turn on the heat. He carded an even par 35 on the front side, then dropped a 10-footer on the 12th to go one up. He was two under par on the long par five 13th for the second straight day. On the 17th, jinx hole of the tournament, he was trapped but blasted some 200 yards within eight feet of the pin to salvage a par four. His 12-footer on the final hole gave him a tie for the lead.

Burke has won three major tournaments this year—the Bing Crosby, Rio Grande Valley and St. Petersburg Open.

Stranahan, wealthy son of a car parts manufacturer, dropped three strokes behind the leaders at 204 after carding a three over par 38 on the front side and 34 coming in. He shared the lead yesterday with Mayer by carding a dazzling five under par 65.

Tony Penna, Cincinnati, Ohio, turned in a spectacular 35-30—65 to tie with Ted Kroll at 205. Penna had carded a 70 and 69 on his previous rounds.

Kroll, New Hartford, N. Y., whose blistering six under par 64 yesterday still stands as the best round of the tournament, fell off today and came in with a two over par 72. He carded a 69 on opening day.

Four veteran pros were bunched at 206. They were Ed Furgol, Royal Oak, Mich.; Bob Hamilton, Landover, Md.; Cary Middlecoff, Ormond Beach, Fla., and Marty Furgol, North Hollywood, Calif., who is no relation to Ed.

The final round will be played tomorrow, after which 64 of the top pros will compete in the Miami international four ball tournament beginning Tuesday.

Tennessee Scores Convincing 43-0 Triumph Over Vandy's Commodores

Cotton Bowl-Bound Vols Pull All Stops In Rout Of Old Rivals

By A. P. Bryan

Nashville, Tenn., Dec. 2.—(AP)—The Tennessee Volunteers made their game with Vanderbilt just a whistle stop on the road to the Cotton Bowl today with a 43-0 football victory over their ancient rivals.

Tennessee, ranked fourth in the final Associated Press poll, drove a 10-0 lead in the first half, then scored almost at will in the final periods. A crowd of 28,000 watched Tennessee administer Vanderbilt the worst thrashing it had suffered since 1945.

It was the tenth victory in 11 starts for Tennessee and the loss was Vanderbilt's fourth in 11. But Tennessee was the first team to hold Coach Bill Edwards' T-formation scoreless.

Several scouts from Texas, the Vols' Cotton Bowl opponent, got an eyeful as they watched Gen. Bob Neylands' power-studded single wing eleven score two touchdowns through the air, four on the ground and add a field goal for good measure.

Sophomore Pat Shires kicked four conversions. He missed one and so did Harold Johnson.

Halfback Harold Payne scored two touchdowns for Tennessee and Basil Drake added two others. Their scores were made by rushing. End Vince Kaseta and Quarterback Bernie Sizemore grabbed touchdown passes, one hurled by Hank Lauricella and the other by Payne.

The Tennessee backs crashed through the Vanderbilt line for huge gains in the second half, but it was the great play of the Volunteer line and their hot pass defense which turned the game into a rout.

Tennessee's first touchdown came on a 27-yard pass from Lauricella to Kaseta. It enmaxed an 88-yard march in ten plays.

With Tennessee leading 7-0 late in the second quarter, Shires booted a 27-yard field goal from placement. It was his first three-pointer of the season.

Payne raced off tackle for 15 yards and a touchdown to cap a 67-yard drive sparked by a 27-yard run by Lauricella midway of the third period.

The next touchdown came on a nine-yard pass from Payne to Sizemore after Tennessee grabbed Jim Tabor's fumble on the Vanderbilt 37.

Bert Rechichar set up the first touchdown of the final period when he intercepted a Wade pass at midfield.

Payne drove over from the two-yard line for the touchdown.

Another pass interception, this one by Bud Sherrill, gave Tennessee the ball on Vanderbilt's 18. Payne carried it to the two, and Drake went over.

The final score was set up the same way. Gene Moeller grabbed another Wade aerial and raced to the Vanderbilt 10. Two plays put it on the one, and Drake plunged over.

Vanderbilt pushed to the nine yard line in the opening period, and in the second quarter fought to the one but the Tennessee line held.

Score by periods:

Vanderbilt	0	0	0	0	— 0

Tennessee scoring: Touchdowns—Kaseta, Payne 2, Sizemore, Drake 2. Field goal—Shires. Conversions—Shires 4.

OLE MISS DUMPS MAROONS, 27-20

Dottley And Stribling Close Out Rebel Careers With TD Apiece

Oxford, Miss., Dec. 2.—(AP)—John Dottley and Bill Stribling ended their college football careers with a touchdown apiece here today to lead underdog University of Mississippi to a 27-20 victory over Mississippi State College.

Dattley scored Mississippi's first touchdown, set up the second and followed up Dick Westerman's 43-yard kickoff return late in the fourth period by driving 13 to 24 needed yards in three plays before Quarterback Rocky Byrd went over with the winning score.

In all, the pile driving McGehee, Ark., fullback added 119 yards in 25 tries to bring his season's yardage record to 1,003. It is 309 yards short of the 1,312 Dottley made last year to lead the nation's ground gainers.

Mississippi State, rated one touchdown better than the Rebels, went into the fourth quarter on the short end of a 14-7 score and unleashed a ground-air attack that netted them 13 points and a fighting chance right up to game's end.

Both teams scored twice in that nerve - wracking fourth period, Byrd's one-yard plunge with less than three minutes to go wrapping it up for the Rebs.

It was Mississippi's 21st victory and the fifth straight in the 49-year-old series and leaves the symbolic golden egg on the Oxford campus for another year.

Dottley stormed to the first Mississippi score, driving through the line from the five after Wilson Dillard of Itta Bena, Miss., had returned Max Stainbrook's punt 57 yards.

The charging Arkansan broke loose from State's 40 the next time Mississippi got the ball. He plowed 35 yards off left tackle to the 15 and then smashed for three more before Scrappy Hart tossed a payoff pass to Showboat Boykin in the end zone.

Byrd pegged 39 yards to Stribling in the fourth quarter and the fleet right end wasn't touched as he scampered 27 yards for another touchdown.

Tom Rushing scored two of State's three touchdowns, from the one yard line and the one-half yard line, respectively, both times in the fourth quarter. Wallie Beach got the first one from the one in the opening period.

Jimmy Lear made three of four conversion attempts good. State's Stainbrook centered two of three between the goal posts.

Coach Johnny Vaught unveiled a likely successor to Dottley in Dillard. A sophomore, the 170-pound left half back teamed with big John to gain a large share of Mississippi's 219 yards on the ground.

Score by quarters:

Mississippi State ...	7	0	0	13	—20
University of Miss. .	14	0	0	13	—27

Boston, Dec. 2.—(AP)—The Boston Braves announced today assignment of the contract of utility infielder Emil Verban to Seattle in the Pacific Coast League.

Verban, former Chicago Cubs player, is the third player to be sent to Seattle in the agreement which brought Pitcher Jim Wilson to the Braves.

DEMON QUINTET OPENING SEASON

N. S. C., Under Coach 'Red' Thomas, Play Lamar Tomorrow Night

Natchitoches, La., Dec. 2.—(Special)—After almost five weeks of regular workouts the Northwestern State College Demons will knock the lid off the 1950-51 cage season when they play host to the Lamar Tech squad from Beaumont, Tex., at 7:30 o'clock Monday night at Natchitoches.

The two teams will meet aain the following night, December 5, at Beaumont.

Starting this season under a new tutor, Coach Charles "Red" Thomas, the Demons are almost a new ball club after losing two regulars and two other lettermen from last year's quintet.

Coach Thomas, an N. S. C. alumnus and long time active participant in Louisiana basketball, has taken over as cage mentor to relieve "Coach" H. Lee Prather of part of his duties as president, athletic director, and head basketball coach of N. S. C.

The reulars lost by the Demons were Claude "Jodie" Stoutamire, four times all-conference forward, and Jim Willis, outstanding floor man at guard. Also gone are Buddy Bates, a classy forward and center, and DeWitt Pattern, a set-shot artist at forward. Patten was eliminated on his doctor's orders.

Returning to pace the Purple and White is Johnny McCenathy, 6-foot-5 center from Bryceland, who hit the nets for 290 points last season, and was named to the center post on the all-conference second team.

The only other returning regulars are Hershal McConathy (no relation to Johnny) from Florien, a classy forward and a speed demon the floor, and Linwood Ouzts, from Minden, a 6-foot guard with a deadly eye for the besket.

Moving up to regulars' positions this fall are two out-of-staters. Artie Ranew, a 6-foot 6 guard from Tallahassee, Fla., who has a good set shot from outside, has taken over a guard slot. Jim Yerdler, from Cissna Park, Ill., and formerly with the Barksdale Field Flyers, is a hustling 61foot-1 forward who will probably step into the opening at forward.

The Demons finished in a tie for second place in the conference last season by winning 10 and dropping 8. The entire season's record was 18 wins and 10 losses.

TULSA SHADES HOUSTON, 29-21

72-Yard Run By Dwight Redman Brings Hurricane Winning Touchdown

Houston, Dec. 2.—(AP)—Tulsa's Missouri Valley Conference champions ground out a 73-yard, final period touchdown today to hand ambitious University of Houston a 28-to-21 defeat.

Halfback Dwight Redman skirted left end on a handoff for the winning score. Three roughing penalties had figured in the drive.

Houston had tied the count at 21-21 in the third period on a 49-yard pass from Quarterback Jolly Hartsell to Halfback Max Clark after Tulsa had overcome an early 14-point deficit by striking for three touchdowns in the second quarter.

The victory enabled Tulsa, overlooked in bowl game bids, to finish its season with only a 23-14 defeat from San Francisco University marring its record.

Houston, which joins the Missouri Valley with the 1950-51 basketball campaign, broke even in ten football games as an independent.

An 80-yard touchdown drive, and two scoring passes from Quarterback Ronald Morris to End Ken Click put Tulsa ahead in the second quarter. Halfback Jack Crocker scored from the three.

Houston jumped into its first quarter lead on a 67-yard dash through center by Fullback Aubrey Baker and a 7-yard smash through center by Clark after a Tulsa fumble had been recovered on the Oklahomans' 23.

Clark kicked Houston's three extra points and Fullback Cliff Boucher converted four times for Tulsa.

Morris' first pass to Click was good for 2 yards, four plays after End Ernie Walkup had blocked a Houston punt and recovered on the Cougar 16.

A 55-yard, scoring aerial to Click came on the first play after Tulsa recovered a Houston fumble on its 45. The first half gun sounded as Click crossed the goal line.

Farm experts have found that wire fences when properly grounded sometimes will serve as a protective device for cattle standing near them during thunder storms.

Picknickers are advised to provide some means to keep their food supplies cold on summer's hot days and thus avoid spoilage.

STATE WELFARE PAYMENTS DROP

$214,103 Less Paid In October Than In Previous Month

Baton Rouge, La., Dec. 2—(AP)—Louisiana paid out $7,971,227 in October through its department of public welfare, $214,103 less than in September, records showed today.

Payments went to 264,444 persons in 17,984 grants, and old age pensions drew the largest share, $5,601,000 for 119,795 persons.

Total welfare payments in September were $8,190,329 and in August, $8,142,538.

Operating costs for the department were placed at $430,075 for September.

All cateogries of public aid except foster care, the report said, declined in October both in number of grants and in the amount of payments.

The old age pension program alone decreased nearly 1,600 in number of grants. This decrease represented $142,223, but the department in its report made clear that the individual grant paid many aged persons was reduced in amount because of the receipt of greater federal old age and survivors insurance.

The department for the first time reported payments in the disability assistance category, for which federal aid also is received.

The total was $557,959 for 21,954 persons in October.

Louisiana issued $12,660 to 211 confederate veterans or their widows during the month.

A total of 3,808 recipients of public assistance left the rolls during October. Of this, 956 represented old age pensioners. In the general assistance category, for those under 65 who cannot earn a living, 1,013 grants were closed out because of rules make a person ineligible for general assistance if he possessed real property other than his home.

There were 16 more foster care payments during the month, an increase of $4,429.

The $7,976,227 total represented:

$5,601,000 for 119,795 persons who received old age assistance.

$1,444,534 for 109,368 persons in the aid to dependent children category.

$557,959 for disability assistance rendered 21,954 persons.

$231,360 for general assistance to 9,641 persons.

$81,534 to 2,444 needy blind cases.

$59,257 to 1,242 persons for foster care.

At the end of October, the report added, 78,188 children were receiving aid, service or supervision from the department of public welfare.

'MAC' DENIES GOING TOO FAR

Says He Received No Authoritative Suggestion ....That He Stop

New York, Dec. 2—(AP)—The New York Times quoted Gen. Douglas MacArthur today as saying he had "received no suggestion from any authoritative source" that his troops should stop at any line short of the Manchurian boundary.

A Times dispatch from its Washington correspondent, Arthur Krock, said MacArthur radioed that statement to the newspaper last night.

The message from the commander-in-chief of the far east command was in response to a radio inquiry from Krock.

Krock's message to MacArthur stated that some officials in Washington were saying that every time a stop-point was suggested to him he replied that he would not accept responsibility for the security of his troops in these circumstances.

The Washington comment was reported in yesterday's Times in a Washington dispatch by James Reston. Reston wrote about suggestions that MacArthur stop well before the Manchurian frontier and leave a buffer zone. In each case, Reston wrote, MacArthur "took the view that these suggestions were jeopardizing the victories he had won."

Kiddies Show To Aid Good Fellows

Gifts for needy children in the Twin Cities area will pour into the Goodfellows Christmas Fund when the Capitol Theatre devotes its weekly Kiddie Show Dec. 9 entirely to the Goodfellows cause.

Through the cooperation of the Tender Crust Bakeries, sponsors of the Saturday session, the popular show will be presented for the annual drive to bring toys, clothes and the joys of the season to children who would otherwise have to do without gifts from Santa Claus.

Free admission to the stage and screen presentation will be granted to any youngster or adult who brings a toy, new or used, in good condition, to the box office.

On the bill for the mammoth show are the boys' and girls' ensembles from the Ouachita Parish High School choir, Ann Hills of Ruston, talented beauty queen of Lions International who has met with enthusiastic response in her previous appearances in the Twin Cities, and a special Dixieland jazz group.

In addition to the special show, unusual prizes have been announced for presentation at the Goodfellows' program.

KEFAUVER BOOKED BY TECH CONCERT

Widely Publicized Tenn. Senator To Address College Pearl Harbor Day

Ruston, Dec. 2 (Special)—Senator Estes Kefauver of Tennessee, one of the most promising and most discussed of America's young political leaders, has been booked by the Louisiana Tech Concert association and Tech Assembly program committees to speak at the college on Thursday, December 7.

Because of the existing crucial national problems and the tenseness of the international situation, three distinguished analysts of world revelopments have been scheduled to appear before Tech audiences. Besides, Kefauver, other speakers who will appear later are Cecil Brown, ace commentator of the Mutual Broadcasting System, and Bishop Bromley Oxnam, president of the world council of churches.

In a morning program, Kefauver will give an address before Tech students at 10 a.m., while a similar speech will be given for L. T. C. A, members and the general public at 8 p. m., both on Thursday, December 7.

Kefauver, a 45 year old graduate of Yale, has an outstanding record in Washington as a 10-year member of the House of Representatives, attracting attention even before his history-making campaign against the Crump machine of Memphis.

Having for the last several months been a front-page name because of his position as chairman of the Senate Crime Investigating committee, Kefauver is recognized as one the Democratic Party's ablest and most effective spokesman on Major issues.

Nine Catholic Churchmen Convicted In Czechoslovakia

By William Oatis

Prague, Czechoslovakia, Dec. 2.—(AP)—Nine Roman Catholic churchmen were convicted here today of high treason and espionage. They were sentenced to prison terms ranging from 10 years to life and fined 10,000 to 150,000 crowns ($200 to $3,000).

The Prague state court decided the nine—a bishop, two abbots and seven others—had lent themselves to a plot of the Vatican and American capitalism against the Communist-led government of Czechoslovakia.

(The Vatican newspaper L'Osservatore Romano commented that "these martyrs live in the minds of all the faithful." It charged they were convicted "only because they kept faith to the law of God." Unofficial Vatican sources estimated more than 13,000 priests have been killed, imprisoned or deported by authorities of the iron curtain nations since World War II.)

The nine had been on trial since Monday in a high-ceilinged court room of granite-fronted Pankrac prison. Each twice had confessed and expressed repentance on the witness stand. All passed up the right of appeal and accepted sentence.

The life term went to the boyish-looking, 37-year-old abbot of a Prague Benedictine monastery, Vienna-born Dr. Jan Opasek, who had visited the Vatican five times since 1945 and had talked with Pope Pius XII last year. He also was fined 100,000 crowns.

Twenty - five - year sentences were passed on the Most Rev. Dr. Stanislav Zela, 57, Suffragan bishop and Vicar-general of the Olomouc Archdiocese, and the Rev Dr. Antonin Mandl, 37, once secretary of the pope's Catholic Action in Czechoslovakia.

Twenty-year terms were imposed on Premonstrate Abbot Stanislav Jerolimek, 50, and the Rev. Dr. Otakar Svec, 62-year-old pope's prelate and metropolitan canon at St. Vitus' cathedral here.

The first secretary of Archbishop Josef Berna of Prague, Msgr. Jan Boukal, 44, drew 18 years in prison.

The Rev. Vaclav Mrtvy, 43, a translator for the Prague Apostolic Internunciature until the government closed it last March, got 15 years.

Two other priests from the cathedral also were sentenced—the Rev. Dr. Jaroslav Kulac, 63, Canon, to 17 years and the Rev. Dr. Josef Cihak, 70-year-old prelate archdeacon, to 10 years.

Though Father Cihak got the lightest prison term, he got the heaviest fine — 150,000 crowns, with the alternative of spending an extra year in confinement.

The indictment said he was worth millions in crowns. The court decreed the confiscation of the property of all those convicted.

PEIPING RADIO EXTOLS VICTORY

Communist Broadcasts Lauds Success Of 'Volunteers' In Korea

San Francisco, Dec. 2. —(AP)—The Chinese Communists boasted today that their "volunteers" in Korea had dealt smashing blows to the Americans in Korea and that "The imperialist armies under command of MacArthur await their fate of being totally crushed."

The Peiping Red radio devoted itself to a series of long broadcasts quoting from the official Peiping People's Daily and the Kwangming Daily and to numerous items reporting widespread and growing support for the Chinese intervention in Korea.

All the broadcasts, couched in vituperative language, insisted that the Chinese troops in Korea were entirely "volunteers," but depicted all of Red China as "watching with great excitement the victorious news from the front."

"The Chinese people consider that support for their own volunteers and for the Korean people's army, engaged in the struggle against aggression," is a compelling and sacred duty for the 475,000,000 of China."

"The Imperialists must understand still more clearly that, victorious in their revolution, the great Chinese people are definitely not a people to be easily pushed about. They can, courageously and regardless of sacrifice, defend their own just cause and that of the people of Asia."

It concluded with an exhortation to the Red forces:

"The entire people of Korea, of China, of Asia and the whole world are watching your glorious struggle with unbounded respect! Advance boldly, advance and go on advancing! Strike down the aggressors and continue to strike them down. We say again: Strike! Only by resolutely shattering the long lance of the aggressor will the security of our fatherland and peace of the world be safeguarded."

CAUTION URGED WITH CONTROLS

Symington Urges More Time 'Before We Strait-Jacket' Nation Into Curbs

Washington, Dec. 2.—(AP)—A top administration official, W. Stuart Symington, has told congress present economic controls ought to be given more time to work "before we strait-jacket" the nation with wage-price curbs.

He added, however, that future world developments could change his opinion.

Symington, who heads the national security resources board, predicted that the "real impact" of the huge new defense program on American consumers will be felt about April 1.

And the impact "will grow from there on," Symington declared.

He expressed his views to the senate banking committee at a closed meeting Wednesday in urging a stop-gap extension of the federal rent control law. Whether developments since Wednesday have changed his mind could not be learned.

The committee made Symington's testimony public today as:

1. Talk increased in congress that wage-price controls on at least some goods and in some industries ought to be invoked soon. Senator Byrd (D.-Va.), for example, said selective controls should be applied as quickly as possible. Outside congress Americans for Democratic Action issued a statement calling for "all - out mobilization," including price controls. Ada is headed by former Attorney General Francis Biddle.

2. The senate planned to call up for debate Monday a bill which would continue federal rent controls through Feb. 28. Under the present law, controls expire Dec. 31. except in communities which vote to extend them through June 30.

3. The house banking committee arranged to start hearings Monday on a three-month rent control extension measure, as compared to the senate's 60-day bill. President Truman has asked for three-month continuance.

At the senate hearings, Senator Capehart (R.-Ind.) asked Symington whether the administration plans to put wage and price controls into effect within the next 60 days. Mr. Truman has authority to impose them at any time.

"I think personally," Symington replied, "always dependent on what world developments are, we ought to try and give present controls more chance and get a little clearer view of exactly what it is that the defense department wants before we, you might say, straight - jacket the economy."

HIGHWAY PATROL OFFICER IS SHOT

Two Men Sought In Critical Shooting Of State Trooper In Miss.

Jackson, Miss., Dec. 2. —(AP)—State Highway Patrolman E. J. Gresham of New Albany was shot in the neck and critically wounded early today.

Patrol headquarters in Jackson directed a search for two white men wanted in connection with the shooting.

Gresham had arrested the two men in Vicksburg on a pickup order sent out by the Jackson police department.

The men were in a dirty light gray 1950 Ford, bearing California license 21B3891.

They first attracted suspicion when they tried to sell their car at two places in Jackson for an "unreasonably low price."

According to police, when last heard from by radio Gresham was on the way to the county jail in Vicksburg with one of the two men in the patrol car and the other following in the Ford. A moment later someone in the sheriff's office saw the two automobiles go by without stopping and became suspicious and notified patrol headquarters in Jackson.

Headquarters was unable to raise Gresham on the radio and the search began.

Patrolman Gordon Ellison went aloft from Jackson in the highway patrol's airplane. A short time later he radioed that he had spotted patrol car 106 about five miles east of Redwood on the Oak Ridge road with the patrolman sprawled on the ground nearby. A car was sent to the scene and Gresham was found unconscious, shot through the neck.

He was taken to Mercy Hospital in Vicksburg where his condition was reported critical. Meanwhile road blocks were thrown up at every main road up and down Highway 61 between Vicksburg and Greenville. Other patrol cars were alerted.

The highway patrol of Louisiana and Arkansas also were alerted.

Ed Blue and Andy Hockins of the highway patrol indentification bureau were sent to the abandoned patrol car to search for fingerprints. They reported Gresham's .357 Magnum pistol and automatic shotgun were missing and that apparently the shot which hit the patrolman was fired from the Magnum revolver.

REVISION OF 'AA' DISTRICTS ASKED

Over Balanced Zones Objected To By Lake Charles Sports Writer

Lake Charles, La., Dec. 2—(AP)—Sports Editor Truman Stacey of the Lake Charles American Press today called for a sharp revision of Louisiana's Class AA football districts to relieve the inequity that now exists.

Stacey, in his column "From The Press Box", asked that the districts be rearranged so they would have more nearly the same number of teams. He said that two districts have only four teams, while the third has six and the fourth eight.

The smaller districts are the north and southeast. One of those teams, he said, could play ten games, lose all but three, and still be a district champion. And he said, there are greater possibilities for ties and longer playoffs.

He said the New Orleans district was at the other extreme, too large by comparison.

Stacey suggested that Terrebonne of Houma move from the southwest district to the southeast with Bogalusa, Baton Rouge. Istrouma of Baton Rouge and Catholic of Baton Rouge.

He proposed that Bolton of Alexandria move from the southwest into the north, where its biggest rivals exist, with Ouachita of Monroe, Byrd and Fair Park of Shreveport, and Haynesville. He said Neville of Monroe probably would join the double-A ranks soon, making the north a six-team district.

Stacey said New Iberia and LaGrange of Lake Charles, now Class A schools, would probably go double-A in the next year or two. LaGrange has announced it will compete as a double-A school next year. Other southwest schools are Lake Charles, Sulphur, Jennings and Lafayette.

He said present indications were that the New Orleans district may have 10 teams within the next few years. But he said they have played for a city championship too long to take kindly to any plan to split one or two of their ranks off.

He suggested that eventually they divide into two divisions, with the interdivision champ to play as district champ in the playoffs.

More Steel Firms Expected To Grant Worker Contracts

Pittsburgh, Dec. 2.—(AP)—More companies are expected to fall in line quickly with the country's two biggest steel producers who have granted an immediate 16-cent average hourly pay increase to 259,000 members of the C. I. O. United Steelworkers.

Big U. S. Steel Corporation set the pace for the rest of the industry as ti granted the raise yesterday.

At the same time Big Steel hiked prices about 5½ per cent.

That will just about provide the additional $125,000,000 pay to go annually to its 165,000 employes, a company spokesman said.

A short time later Bethlehem Steel Corporation, the country's No. 2 producer, granted its 94,000 employes an identical 16-cent hourly average boost.

Bethlehem Steel didn't announce its price policy immediately.

However, it's practically a certainty there will be a general increase in the price of steel and the countless products which are made of steel.

Republic Steel Corporation at Cleveland, the No. 3 producer, says it has offered the steelworkers a wage increase similar to that of Big Steel. Republic also put a price boost into effect last midnight but did not reveal the amount.

Jones and Laughlin Steel Corporation of Pittsburgh, fourth largest steel producer, scheduled a resumption of its wage talks with the steelworkers today.

A spokesman indicated J & L will go along with pace-setting U. S. Steel.

Murray, president of both the C. I. O. and the steelworkers, flashed the green light to his negotiating teams to resume bargaining with 1,400 large and small steel companies throughout the country. Murray left little doubt he expected all of them to sign on the dotted line quickly.

The steelworkers' contract runs until January 1, 1952. It contains a clause which permitted it to be reopened for wage talks this year. Negotiations have been continuing with Big Steel since last October 16.

Much of the remainder of the industry held back on negotiations until Big Steel set the pattern.

Many thousands of white-collar workers and others who are not members of the steelworkers are expected to get raises in line with that granted the powerful C. I. O. union. As a matter of fact, U. S. Steel President Benjamin F. Fairless said this increase already is in the works.

U. S. Steel's agreement provides increases ranging from 12 cents an hour in the lowest of 32 job classifications to 28 cents an hour for the highest classification. Under the old contract, the lowest paid steelworker—a laborer—received $1.18½ an hour. The highest paid, a blooming mill roller, got $2.58 hourly.

Murray is happy about the contract. He claims a victory by getting Big Steel to agree to lower the wage differential that had existed between pay scales in the north and south.

The old contract gave U. S. steel employes in the north an average 14½ cents more an hour than those employed by the southern subsidiary, Tennessee Coal, Iron and Railroad Company of Birmingham, Ala.

Now, the Alabama workers will get an additional 4½ cents an hour to cut the geographical pay differential to 10 cents. Murray told all of his bargaining committees to maintain this 10-cent differential as they resumed wage talks today.

In addition to Tennessee Coal and Iron, the U. S. Steel subsidiaries under the new wage agreement are: American Steel and Wire Company; Carnegie Illinois Steel Corporation; Columbia Steel Company, Geneva Steel Company and National Tube Company.

STATE WELFARE PAYMENTS DROP

$214,103 Less Paid In October Than In Previous Month

Baton Rouge, La., Dec. 2—(AP)—Louisiana paid out $7,971,227 in October through its department of public welfare, $214,103 less than in September, records showed today.

Payments went to 264,444 persons in 17,984 grants, and old age pensions drew the largest share, $5,601,000 for 119,795 persons.

Total welfare payments in September were $8,190,329 and in August, $8,142,538.

Operating costs for the department were placed at $430,075 for September.

All cateogries of public aid except foster care, the report said, declined in October both in number of grants and in the amount of payments.

The old age pension program alone decreased nearly 1,600 in number of grants. This decrease represented $142,223, but the department in its report made clear that the individual grant paid many aged persons was reduced in amount because of the receipt of greater federal old age and survivors insurance.

The department for the first time reported payments in the disability assistance category, for which federal aid also is received.

The total was $557,959 for 21,954 persons in October.

Louisiana issued $12,660 to 211 confederate veterans or their widows during the month.

A total of 3,808 recipients of public assistance left the rolls during October. Of this, 956 represented old age pensioners. In the general assistance category, for those under 65 who cannot earn a living, 1,013 grants were closed out because of rules make a person ineligible for general assistance if he possessed real property other than his home.

There were 16 more foster care payments during the month, an increase of $4,429.

The $7,976,227 total represented:

$5,601,000 for 119,795 persons who received old age assistance.

$1,444,534 for 109,368 persons in the aid to dependent children category.

$557,959 for disability assistance rendered 21,954 persons.

$231,360 for general assistance to 9,641 persons.

$81,534 to 2,444 needy blind cases.

$59,257 to 1,242 persons for foster care.

At the end of October, the report added, 78,188 children were receiving aid, service or supervision from the department of public welfare.

'MAC' DENIES GOING TOO FAR

Says He Received No Authoritative Suggestion ...That He Stop

New York, Dec. 2—(AP)—The New York Times quoted Gen. Douglas MacArthur today as saying he had "received no suggestion from any authoritative source" that his troops should stop at any line short of the Manchurian boundary.

A Times dispatch from its Washington correspondent, Arthur Krock, said MacArthur radioed that statement to the newspaper last night.

The message from the commander-in-chief of the far east command was in response to a radio inquiry from Krock.

Krock's message to MacArthur stated that some officials in Washington were saying that every time a stop-point was suggested to him he replied that he would not accept responsibility for the security of his troops in these circumstances.

The Washington comment was reported in yesterday's Times in a Washington dispatch by James Reston. Reston wrote about suggestions that MacArthur stop well before the Manchurian frontier and leave a buffer zone. In each case, Reston wrote, MacArthur "took the view that these suggestions were jeopardizing the victories he had won."

Kiddies Show To Aid Good Fellows

Gifts for needy children in the Twin Cities area will pour into the Goodfellows Christmas Fund when the Capitol Theatre devotes its weekly Kiddie Show Dec. 9 entirely to the Goodfellows cause.

Through the cooperation of the Tender Crust Bakeries, sponsors of the Saturday session, the popular show will be presented for the annual drive to bring toys, clothes and the joys of the season to children who would otherwise have to do without gifts from Santa Claus.

Free admission to the stage and screen presentation will be granted to any youngster or adult who brings a toy, new or used, in good condition, to the box office.

On the bill for the mammoth show are the boys' and girls' ensembles from the Ouachita Parish High School choir, Ann Hills of Ruston, talented beauty queen of Lions International who has met with enthusiastic response in her previous appearances in the Twin Cities, and a special Dixieland jazz group.

In addition to the special show, unusual prizes have been announced for presentation at the Goodfellows' program.

KEFAUVER BOOKED BY TECH CONCERT

Widely Publicized Tenn. Senator To Address College Pearl Harbor Day

Ruston, Dec. 2 (Special)—Senator Estes Kefauver of Tennessee, one of the most promising and most discussed of America's young political leaders, has been booked by the Louisiana Tech Concert association and Tech Assembly program committees to speak at the college on Thursday, December 7.

Because of the existing crucial national problems and the tenseness of the international situation, three distinguished analysts of world revelopments have been scheduled to appear before Tech audiences. Besides, Kefauver, other speakers who will appear later are Cecil Brown, ace commentator of the Mutual Broadcasting System, and Bishop Bromley Oxnam, president of the world council of churches.

In a morning program, Kefauver will give an address before Tech students at 10 a.m., while a similar speech will be given for L. T. C. A, members and the general public at 8 p. m., both on Thursday, December 7.

Kefauver, a 45 year old graduate of Yale, has an outstanding record in Washington as a 10-year member of the House of Representatives, attracting attention even before his history-making campaign against the Crump machine of Memphis.

Having for the last several months been a front-page name because of his position as chairman of the Senate Crime Investigating committee, Kefauver is recognized as one the Democratic Party's ablest and most effective spokesman on Major issues.

Nine Catholic Churchmen Convicted In Czechoslovakia

By William Oatis

Prague, Czechoslovakia, Dec. 2.—(AP)— Nine Roman Catholic churchmen were convicted here today of high treason and espionage. They were sentenced to prison terms ranging from 10 years to life and fined 10,000 to 150,000 crowns ($200 to $3,000).

The Prague state court decided the nine—a bishop, two abbots and seven others—had lent themselves to a plot of the Vatican and American capitalism against the Communist-led government of Czechoslovakia.

(The Vatican newspaper L'Osservatore Romano commented that "these martyrs live in the minds of all the faithful." It charged they were convicted "only because they kept faith to the law of God." Unofficial Vatican sources estimated more than 13,000 priests have been killed, imprisoned or deported by authorities of the iron curtain nations since World War II.)

The nine had been on trial since Monday in a high-ceilinged court room of granite-fronted Pankrac prison. Each twice had confessed and expressed repentance on the witness stand. All passed up the right of appeal and accepted sentence.

The life term went to the boyish-looking, 37-year-old abbot of a Prague Benedictine monastery, Vienna-born Dr. Jan Opasek, who had visited the Vatican five times since 1945 and had talked with Pope Pius XII last year. He also was fined 100,000 crowns.

Twenty - five - year sentences were passed on the Most Rev. Dr. Stanislav Zela, 57, Suffragan bishop and Vicar-general of the Olomouc Archdiocese, and the Rev Dr. Antonin Mandl, 37, once secretary of the pope's Catholic Action in Czechoslovakia.

Twenty-year terms were imposed on Premonstrate Abbot Stanislav Jerolimek, 50, and the Rev. Dr. Otakar Svec, 62-year-old pope's prelate and metropolitan canon at St. Vitus' cathedral here.

The first secretary of Archbishop Josef Berna of Prague, Msgr. Jan Boukal, 44, drew 18 years in prison.

The Rev. Vaclav Mrtvy, 43, a translator for the Prague Apostolic Internunciature until the government closed it last March, got 15 years.

Two other priests from the cathedral also were sentenced—the Rev. Dr. Jaroslav Kulac, 63, Canon, to 17 years and the Rev. Dr. Josef Cihak, 70-year-old prelate archdeacon, to 10 years.

Though Father Cihak got the lightest prison term, he got the heaviest fine — 150,000 crowns, with the alternative of spending an extra year in confinement.

The indictment said he was worth millions in crowns. The court decreed the confiscation of the property of all those convicted.

OIL PRODUCTION HIKE ABOUT OVER

Purchasers And Refiners Think Above-Ground Estimate Too High

By Max B. Skelton

Houston, Tex., Oct. 21.—(AP)—The crude oil production boom brought on by the Korean war is just about over.

There is no connection with the optimistic turn of events in Korea but there is indication the long string of new crude output records will have to stand for some while.

Crude purchasers and refiners, for various reasons, have decided their estimate last May on desired above ground crude storage was too high.

They notified the Texas railroad commission this week storage should approximate, on the average, 240,000,000 barrels.

The Oct. 7 U. S. bureau of mines estimate of crude stock was 241,-211,000, a decline of 420,000 from the previous week.

Last May the major oil company executives submitted a 245,-000,000 average as the desirable figure.

This week most of the executives not only reduced this average but told the Texas oil and gas regulatory body they would be unable to take additional Texas crude.

The commission then issued a November production allowable order obviously designed to keep output at October levels.

November's daily permissable production was placed at 2.722.705 barrels, a cutback of 26,808 barrels. The small decrease easily will be wiped out by production from new wells brought in between now and the end of November.

Texas oil conservation statutes interpret excess storage as being waste.

Charged with enforcing this statute, the railroad commission has made periodic calls upon the industry to submit a survey on the most desirable levels at which above ground stocks should be maintained in order to assure efficiency in meeting demand.

This week's survey was the first since the start of fighting in Korea.

Other estimates submitted by the company executives also indicate no need for further increases in crude output.

Gasoline storage estimates for Sept. 30 next year averaged around 100,000,000 barrels, and heating oils 110.000,000. The American Petroleum Institute places October 14 gasoline storage at 103.807,000 barrels, heating oils at 113,785,000 barrels.

Desirable levels for April 1, 1951, centered around 130.000,000 for gasoline and 50,000,000 for heating oils. Last April 1 gasoline stocks stood at a record 135.000.000 barrels.

Improved transportation facilities, particularly pipe lines, comprise one of the most important factors leading to the reduction of working stock levels.

The nation's vast network of petroleum pipe lines, with many big postwar expansions now completed, permit rapid, efficient transfer of crude oil from the well to the refinery and finished products from the refinery to the consuming area.

The interior department this week reported United States pipe line mileage has increased 20 per cents since 1941.

A department report said the nation last January had 152,814 miles of petroleum lines, an increase of 25.463 miles since May 1, 1941.

Lines for transporting refined products now are operating in 35 states and the District of Columbia.

WORLD MARKETS

NEW YORK STOCKS

New York, Dec. 2. —(AP)— The stock market acted a bit tired today after a labored but decisive two-day advance.

Following a fairly steady opening, prices of numerous leading issues gradually settled back. Losses ranged to around $1 a share with most under that figure.

A large assortment of issues, at the same time, were unchanged or managed to cling to modest gains.

There was no pressure against the market to amount to anything but cautious buying policies resulted in only meager support.

Turnover touched a rate of around 800,000 shares for the two-hour session.

In making stuffing for your holiday poultry, remember that a slice of fresh enriched bread, about five-eighths inch thick, makes a cup of bread crumbs.

When you deep-fat foods use a wire basket to make the frying easier. The basket should have a diameter of about two inches less than that of the fry kettle.

New Orleans

New Orleans, Dec. 2.—(AP)—Near months in cotton futures decline here today under weekend long realizing and hedge selling while the distant October position registered a gain.

Closing prices were barely steady, $2.05 a bale lower to 55 cents higher. Trading was fairly active.

Uncertainties over porspective price controls were responsible for the selling in the near months. The October position, however, was supported because it was thought that if ceilings were established, they could be in closer alignment with the near months.

Spot cotton declined $1.50 a bale with middling 15-16-inch quoted at 42.15 cents a pound. Local spot sales amounted to 2,255 bales.

New York

New York, Dec. 2.—(AP)—Cotton futures charted an irregular price pattern today. Trading volume, however, was slow and the market was easily influenced by small orders in either direction.

A major portion of the activity involved switching operation. These included purchases of deferred contracts against sales of nearby deliveries. Commission house buying also was attracted to distant months on the belief that they are cheaper as compared with nearby deliveries.

Futures closed $2.00 a bale lower to 40 cents higher than the previous close.

Wheat closed ⅝ to 1 cent higher, December $2.26⅞-¾, corn was ⅞-1½ higher, December $1.62¼-⅛, oats were ⅝-⅞ higher, December $1.47¾, soybeans were ¼ to 1 cent lower, January $2.93¼-$2.93, and lard was 5 to 30 cents a hundred pounds higher, December $16.30-16.40.

SANTA CLAUS

show the roads leading there, and the Western Union has an office so that visitors can send out wires dated: "North Pole' N. Y." It is said that with fine skiing at Saranac Lake and Lake Placid the tourists come in swarms. In a year's time, 100,000 visited the place. A huge financial success has crowned the efforts of Mr. Reiss.

And little questioning Patsy now knows where Santa Claus spends the greater part of his time and is satisfied.

A husband not employed, a houseful of children and an unpaid grocery bill of approximately $150, is how one mother explains her domestic situation to Good Fellows. She states that there will be no "Merry Christmas" at her home this year, unless it comes from Good Fellows. What a dreary outlook it must be for the parents and children in this little home!

An ager couple writes to tell that they have, as only income, a $50 a month old age pension. Out of this goes at once $20 for rent, and the $30 left must buy groceries, clothers and meet any other financial emergences. It need in a home like this one.

A pitiful little note was received today by Good Fellows from Shirely, a little girl 11 years old, who has three brothers and four sisters, making a family of ten persons. One little sister is sick and has been sick for four years.

"At times there is no money for any needed mecicine and the father has not had a regular job since February," she wrote. Thanksgiving day, while the rest of the world was feasting, this little family had barely more than bread and water, but the little girl wrote that they were thankful for all her brothers and sisters were able to be up and play.

The sick girl is not able to attend school, and another girl of school age does not go because she has no proper clothing to wear. Our little correspondent writes at the close of the letter, "We would be so happy for anything you can spare. May God bless you all."

Won't you bring or mail your check for Good Fellows so that there can be happiness of some degree even in the most sordid of homes? Don't you realize that Christmas will mean more to you in that you have done your bit to help those in distress?

ATOMIC

700 bombs. This figure is not meant to be exact—it is rather, as scientists say, 'of the right order of magnitude (by which they mean it is probably wrong, but certainly not sensationally wrong)."

White's figure fits numerous known angles of the A-bomb picture. The atomic energy commission itself announced this year that plutonium production at the Hanford Works, Washington, has been increased. The commission did not mention bombs, but plutonium at Hanford is the bomb metal, and the amount made there is an accurate sign of production.

The Hanford plutonium production was recently increased by addition of a fourth reactor. There were three at the end of the war, with only two then in operation.

Overlooked in most estimates of bombs, and not mentioned by White in this article, is the large and rapidly growing production of uranium -235 at Oakridge, Tenn. Uranium made the first two A-bombs, and is virtually as good as plutonium. For a time it appeared that uranium was being produced at Oak Ride in larer volume that plutonium at Hanford. The commission has not said what it does at the Oak Ridge uranium.

Scientists at the end of the war testified before a U. S. senate committee that this country could, by a great effort, produce 200 A-bombs in two years. The capacity of that period, has been greatly increased since.

The doubts of the European scientists on the exact number now stockpiled probably covers the important fact that the A-bombs are not merely those in stock, but the number that can be made from all the plutonium and the uranium -235 on hand. Both metals can be made into bombs readily and rapidly.

On the H-bomb, White writes: "Recent remarks by Gordon Dean, chairman of the atomic energy commission, indicate to the layman a lessening of confidence in the successful manufacture of the hydrogen bomb.

"It is doubtful that the hydroen bomb can be constructed. It is even more doubtful that it is worth trying.

"Many European physicists, of major stature, free to speak out, have assured this reporter that the details of the job may prove insurmountable."

White says there have been hints that the decision to proceed with the H-bomb was made contrary to the recommendations of the general advisory committee of the atomic energy commission. This is a committee of scientists and engineers.

"Military men," he writes "were highly interested in the superbomb, and it is probable that military enthusiasm, insufficiently informed, triumphed over technical doubts."

White suggests that recent reorganization of the atomic energy commission was due in part to differences of opinion on the H bomb within the commission.

"To some extent," he writes, "the hydrogen bomb does not supplement the atom bomb, but replaces it—and does so at quite an unfavorable ratio. Other things being equal, manufacturing one hydrogen bomb would mean constructing about 50 fewer atom bombs."

bookstores the beginning of this month.

In a review of the new volume, John Temple Graves, author, editor and columnist, well known to Twin Cities audiences, said recently in his column: "We of the well-known human race need the dignities Ralph Bradford gives to us in his book-length poem, "Heritage." Most of all we need the faith . . . that we are not 'made to die,' and that, from first days to these, the word for us has been of an image in which we are contrived and to which we may attain if . . . we reach for it."

Of the new volume, Felix Morley, one of the nation's most widely read and respected critics and authors, adds: "To read 'Heritage' through at a sitting is easy . . . and thrilling! . . . Ralph Bradford has written something that adds to our heritage."

Bradford's earlier book, "Along The Way," a collection of some of his addresses, enjoyed critical and sales success across the country.

Reservations for the affair may be made only at the Chamber of Commerce office at the Virginia Hotel early Monday.

only six yards in three tries, however, and a fourth down pass fell incomplete.

The Oklahoma Aggies held Oklahoma to a 7-7 first period deadlock before 33,000 at Stillwater, Okla., but then yielded four touchdowns in the second quarter. The Sugar Bowl-bound Sooners were sparked by Claude Arnold who tossed four touchdown passes.

A Los Angeles crowd of 70,177 saw Notre Dame fall before Southern California to bring a dismal end to Notre Dame's worst season since 1933. The Irish, playing without Coach Fran Leahy who had to stay home because of influenza, scored first, but the Trojans tied it on Jim Sears' 94-yard touchdown return of the following kickoff and then won on their third period safety.

Tennessee, the nation's fourth ranked team, thrashed its ancient rival, Vanderbilt, in what amounted to a stiff workout for its January 1 Cotton Bowl date with Texas. The Vols chalked up a 43-0 triumph before 28,000 at Nashville

Penn State nosed out Pitt, 21-20, at Pittsburgh in their game that was postponed from last Saturday because of a record snow fall. With parking lots still blanketed by the snow only 7,000 turned out at Forbes Field.

Georgia Tech and Virginia both registered upsets in their rivalry with Georgia and North Carolina, respectively. Tech dumped Georgia, 7-0, before 50,000 at Athens, Ga., and Virginia walloped North Carolina, 44-13, at Charlottesville, Ga., in the 55th game of the south's oldest continuous rivalry.

In other traditional games Holy Cross whipped Boston College, 32-14, at Boston; Alabama drubbed Auburn, 34-0, at Birmingham; Louisiana State tied Tulane, 14-14- before 74,000 at New Orleans; underdog Mississippi beat Mississippi State, 27-20 at Oxford, Miss.; Baylor swamped Rice, 33-7, at Waco, Tex.; and Texas Christian slashed Southern Methodist, 27-13, before 55,000 at Dallas.

In a meeting held the other day, Dr. George C. Taylor, of the University of North Carolina, told a yarn about one time Governor Jackson of Mississippi who was on his way to Louisville to attend the races. On the way, the train ran off a bridge and many passengers were killed.

The governor's secretary, however, survived and dutifully his first thought was of the wife of his employer, the governor, who was among the dead. He hurried over to wire her:

"Train wreck of the L and N fatal to Governor Jackson. Two legs broken, two arms, one neck, one back, nine ribs. Corpse following by train."

But an hour later, a more careful investigation was reported to the secretary and he amended his wire. This time he communicated as follows:

"Train wreck on the L. and N. not so bad as previously reported. Only one of Governor Jackson's legs broken, only one arm, only three ribs. Also neck and back. Corpse is coming by train."

President Nona Martin, well known monument dealer of Monroe, will preside in her official capacity at the annual convention of Monument Builders of Louisiana and Mississippi at their sessions in the Robert E. Lee Hotel, Jackson, Miss., December four and five.

She is quite honored and her business skill was commended in that she was a year ago named president by this group composed mostly of men. In her experiences in Monroe, Miss Martin has won a substantial place in the community through her successful business management and interest in civic affairs.

The rapid growth of the Twin Cities was given emphasis the past week when the community was surprised, perhaps a bit startled, by the word, that three drive-in branch insitutions, one north, one east and the other to the south of downtown Monroe are planned by the Ouachita National Bank. Uually the judgement of bankers is accepted as conservative and almost unfailing trust worthy. It would seem that talk of war time conditions cutailments and lacks do not find lodgement in the minds of such men as the directors and officers of the Ouachita National Bank. They seem to have unfailing confidence in he future development of the Twin Cities.

We also heard something in the way of interesting news last week when a Monroe man, who purchased a certain suburban tract of land about six miles from downtown Monroe, for $20,000 was offered and refused $55,000 for the same property only a few months later.

Guy Smith, manager of the Hotel Alvis, was made happy in that he is to be host at this hotel to 42 players and five adults from Garden City, Kansas when the Junior college sends its men to Monroe to enter into the Junior Sugar Bowl contest this week on Brown Field.

One of the most original and altogether charming little houses in Monroe is Bayou House, at 800 Loop Road which will be thrown open for public inspection from 4 to 6 p. m. today. The entrancing view of bayou, pecan groves and peacefully grazing cattle are all mirrored through the widespread picture windows of the house. And the interior, planned with exquisite taste of its owner, has every little convenience and delightful arrangement of color schemes that are bound to delight the feminine heart. Words will not be adequate to convey the wonderful impression that this place imparts far it must be seen to be fully appreciated.

KOREAN DECISION

said:

Britain and France want an early Korean settlement based on an agreement with Red China.

Britain and France want an early Big Four parley at which the west can discuss with Russia the issues which might touch off World War III.

Britain and France want to widen the military command of the Korean war—by giving more say to countries which have forces fighting alongside Americans and South Koreans in the field. This, possibly, could be done by a small military committee which the U. N. general assembly could set up.

Finally Britain and France believe only the U. N.—and not the United States on its own—must decide whether to use the atom bomb in a U. N. war.

The Pleven-Attlee conference was conducted at the green-topped table in the cabinet room of No. 10 Downing street, the prime minister's official residence. British Foreign Secretary Ernest Bevin and Defense Minister Emanuel Shinwell took part.

A communique issued by Attlee's office said simply:

"M. Pleven and M. Schuman had an exchange of views in London today with Mr. Attlee and Mr. Bevin. The conversations were full and frank and established a general identity of view on the objectives of the two governments in the present international situation. It was agreed that the two governments would continue to maintain the closest contact."

Pleven's decision not to go to Washington apparently stemmed from the fact the Truman-Attlee pow-wow is not going to be a conference in the formal sense of the word.

It will be more in the nature of a man to man talk on subjects of particular British-American concern.

BERLINERS

away from the polls.

Speeding carloads of Communist "Free German Youth" tossed expensively printed four-color leaflets about the streets late last night. The leaflets called the western nations "warmongers" who "want to attack Russia."

But election officials, surveying early morning crowds at the polling places, predicted more than 80 per cent of the eligible Berliners would turn out to repudiate communism.

Some polling stations opened at midnight (6 p.m. Saturday eastern standard time). Before the polls close at 6 p.m., it is expected that most of the 1,664,722 enfranchised citizens in the Allied sectors will cast ballots.

They will elect a new western city government to office for four years, choosing their representatives from eight non-Communist parties. City and district assembly seats totaling 540 are at stake.

But a Soviet - sponsored Communist demand that citizens boycott the polls smothered all party issues.

Socialist Mayor Ernst Reuter and all his political rivals united last night in warning that "whoever fails to vote," votes Communist." Reuter appeared certain that at least 80 per cent will turn out.

Four thousand police riot squadsmen stood guard to protect voters from threatened Communist violence.

Police Chief Johannes Stumm had the remainder of his 13,800-man force on the alert for trouble. But Red tactics seemed confined to hit-and-run raids by young agitators, who scattered leaflets and argued on street corners with passers-by.

Allied commanders of the 10,000 American, British and French troops garrisoned here were confident the German police could maintain order without foreign help.

Police have clapped 248 Communists into jail since a campaign of anti election demonstrations started a week ago.

are "willing and eager to fight the hordes of Chinese Communists who are killing our young men."

When the Korean War started last summer, Chiang offered to send about 33,000 nationalist troops immediately to the assistance of the United Nations Forces.

This goverment expressed the view that this might weaken the defense of Formosa, the last strong hold of the Chinese Nationalists, and General Douglas MacArthur issued a statement at Taipei, Formosa, Aug. 1 saying:

"Among the problems which were discussed was the prompt and generous offer of the Chinese goverment to send troops to join the United Nations forces in Korea.

The belief of all concerned however, was that such action at this time might so seriously jeopardize the defense of Formosa that it would be inadvisable."

In addition to the officially stated reason, is known that the Truman administration felt use of Chiang's forces might give the Chinese reds an excuse to intervene in Korea, which they now have done anyway.

In his statement today addressed to "Mr. President," McCarthy also again bitterly criticized secretary of State Acheson.

And he said the leaders of the Chinese reds are "the same Chinese Communists whom Marshall, under Acheson's orders, tried to force into positions of power in Chiang Kai-Shek's goverment."

That was a reference to Gen. George C. Marshall, now secretary of defense, and apparently an allusion to the period after World War II when Marshall went on a mission to China at Mr. Truman's request. Acheson then was undersecretary of state.

"You will recall," McCarthy told Mr. Truman, "that when our ally, Chiang Kai-Shek, refused (to cooperate with the Reds) on the ground that the communists could not be trusted ts partners, Marshall placed an embargo on all ammunition to those Chinese who were fighting communism.

McCarthy demanded that Mr. Truman "get rid of that group (in the administration) whose hatred for Chiang Kai-Shek and love for Chinese Communists is being demonstrated by an ever increasing mountain of American dead." He added:

You have asked for unity in this crisis, but you can not expect honest Americans to unify behind the bluders or traitors who set the stage for what may be America's greatest military disaster."

HEADS SURGEONS

DR. J. Q. GRAVES

The Louisiana Surgical Association, at a recent meeting held in New Orleans, elected Dr. J. Q. Graves as president of the state organization. This is only one of the many honors that he has received in connection with his long professional career that he has followed in Monroe since 1910. As member of the House of Delegates of the American Medical Association, Dr. Graves is now in Cleveland, O. where he will attend the annual December session that will open there next Tuesday. Dr. George W. Wright of Monroe is also attending the Cleveland sessions as member of the House of Delegates, and still other members from Shreveport and New Orleans will attend.

SOUTHERN

trends Bertrand sees being stimulated by machinery. He characterizes tenancy as "a major social ill" and adds that machines—"essentially labor saving devices"—can be expected to speed flow of tenants into industry.

The "paternalistic relationship between landowners and workers will pass out of the picture," Bertrand believes, to be replaced by "a weekly or monthly wage system similar to that employed in industry."

With it all, he says, will come "a trend toward commercialization," including more stabilized farm credit and marketing practices which may by-pass the town merchant and middle man.

"Machines, by increasing the productive work units per man, may be influential in shortening the farmer's work day," Bertrand continues. "Also, there is a possibility of work developing into shifts, as in industry.

"This again will mean more free time. The farmer will also have more leisure time because he will be able to get away from the hundreds of little chores he used to do and the many things he used to provide for himself. This leisure time, in turn, will affect his personal habits."

Other effects of farm mechanization in the south, Bertrand says, could be smaller families, fewer people on farms, a decline in religion as a social force and a diminishing of the farm bloc's political power.

"Granted that mechanization will combine with other factors to decrease the number of farm people and to contribute toward a shift of their attitudes and values, we can forecast that the rural church will continue to decay," he says. "This, of course, does not mean that religion per se will lose significance in the greater society,"

TAXES

President Truman's request received only yesterday for $16,800,000,000 in military and $1,050,000,000 in atomic funds. Senators will get down to brass tacks on the problem early in the week. Speedy approval by both houses is expected.

Chairman Connally (D-Tex.) called a Senate Foreign Relations Committee meeting for Monday to take up a presidential request for $38,000,000 outlay to provide food for drought - stricken Yugoslavia. Critics have attacked this proposal and it may have some rough sledding.

Home front mobilization plans will be scrutinized when the Senate Banking Committee delves Monday into the prospect for price-wage controls. Senator Byrd (D-Va.), not a committe member, already has urged that such controls be put into operation immediately on a selective basis.

Chairman Maybank (D-S.C.) of the banking group has said he will try to get Senate action Monday on a 60-day extension of the present rent control law.

House republicans rallied today around a substitute for the administration's excess profits tax bill but professed little hope of house approval.

GOP tax experts are working on a proposal they claim will bring in more revenue than the administration's measure and at the same time be less injurious to business.

Truman Returns From Ball Game

Washington, Dec. 2—(AP)—President Truman returned to Washington tonight from the Army - Navy football game at Philadelphia.

The Union station was heavily guarded as the presidential train pulled in.

Reporters were not permitted to talk with the president as he stepped from his bullet - proof private car with Mrs. Truman at 6:55 p.m. EST and drove immediately to the White House.

OIL PRODUCTION HIKE ABOUT OVER

Purchasers And Refiners Think Above-Ground Estimate Too High

By Max B. Skelton

Houston, Tex., Oct. 21.—(AP)—The crude oil production boom brought on by the Korean war is just about over.

There is no connection with the optimistic turn of events in Korea but there is indication the long string of new crude output records will have to stand for some while.

Crude purchasers and refiners, for various reasons, have decided their estimate last May on desired above ground crude storage was too high.

They notified the Texas railroad commission this week storage should approximate, on the average, 240,000,000 barrels.

The Oct. 7 U. S. bureau of mines estimate of crude stock was 241,211,000, a decline of 420,000 from the previous week.

Last May the major oil company executives submitted a 245,000,000 average as the desirable figure.

This week most of the executives not only reduced this average but told the Texas oil and gas regulatory body they would be unable to take additional Texas crude.

The commission then issued a November production allowable order obviously designed to keep output at October levels.

November's daily permissable production was placed at 2,722,705 barrels, a cutback of 26,808 barrels. The small decrease easily will be wiped out by production from new wells brought in between now and the end of November.

Texas oil conservation statutes interpret excess storage as being waste.

Charged with enforcing this statute, the railroad commission has made periodic calls upon the industry to submit a survey on the most desirable levels at which above ground stocks should be maintained in order to assure efficiency in meeting demand.

This week's survey was the first since the start of fighting in Korea.

Other estimates submitted by the company executives also indicate no need for further increases in crude output.

Gasoline storage estimates for Sept. 30 next year averaged around 100,000,000 barrels, and heating oils 110,000,000. The American Petroleum Institute places October 14 gasoline storage at 103,807,000 barrels, heating oils at 113,785,000 barrels.

Desirable levels for April 1, 1951, centered around 130,000,000 for gasoline and 50,000,000 for heating oils. Last April 1 gasoline stocks stood at a record 135,000,000 barrels.

Improved transportation facilities, particularly pipe lines, comprise one of the most important factors leading to the reduction of working stock levels.

The nation's vast network of petroleum pipe lines, with many big postwar expansions now completed, permit rapid, efficient transfer of crude oil from the well to the refinery and finished products from the refinery to the consuming area.

The interior department this week reported United States pipe line mileage has increased 20 per cents since 1941.

A department report said the nation last January had 152,814 miles of petroleum lines, an increase of 25,463 miles since May 1, 1941.

Lines for transporting refined products now are operating in 35 states and the District of Columbia.

WORLD MARKETS

NEW YORK STOCKS

New York, Dec. 2. —(AP)— The stock market acted a bit tired today after a labored but decisive two-day advance.

Following a fairly steady opening, prices of numerous leading issues gradually settled back. Losses ranged to around $1 a share with most under that figure.

A large assortment of issues, at the same time, were unchanged or managed to cling to modest gains.

There was no pressure against the market to amount to anything but cautious buying policies resulted in only meager support.

Turnover touched a rate of around 800,000 shares for the two-hour session.

In making stuffing for your holiday poultry, remember that a slice of fresh enriched bread, about five-eighths inch thick, makes a cup of bread crumbs.

When you deep-fat foods use a wire basket to make the frying easier. The basket should have a diameter of about two inches less than that of the fry kettle.

New Orleans

New Orleans, Dec. 2.—(AP)—Near months in cotton futures decline here today under weekend long realizing and hedge selling while the distant October position registered a gain.

Closing prices were barely steady, $2.05 a bale lower to 55 cents higher. Trading was fairly active.

Uncertainties over porspective price controls were responsible for the selling in the near months. The October position, however, was supported because it was thought that if ceilings were established, they could be in closer alignment with the near months.

Spot cotton declined $1.50 a bale with middling 15-16-inch quoted at 42.15 cents a pound. Local spot sales amounted to 2,255 bales.

New York

New York, Dec. 2.—(AP)—Cotton futures charted an irregular price pattern today. Trading volume, however, was slow and the market was easily influenced by small orders in either direction.

A major portion of the activity involved switching operation. These included purchases of deferred contracts against sales of nearby deliveries. Commission house buying also was attracted to distant months on the belief that they are cheaper as compared with nearby deliveries.

Futures closed $2.00 a bale lower to 40 cents higher than the previous close.

It is said that with fine skiing at Saranac Lake and Lake Placid the tourists come in swarms. In a year's time, 100,000 visited the place. A huge financial success has crowned the efforts of Mr. Reiss.

And little questioning Patsy now knows where Santa Claus spends the greater part of his time and is satisfied.

A husband not employed, a houseful of children and an unpaid grocery bill of approximately $150, is how one mother explains her domestic situation to Good Fellows. She states that there will be no "Merry Christmas" at her home this year, unless it comes from Good Fellows. What a dreary outlook it must be for the parents and children in this little home!

An ager couple writes to tell that they have, as only income, a $50 a month old age pension. Out of this goes at once $20 for rent, and the $30 left must buy groceries, clothers and meet any other financial emergenices. It need in a home like this one.

A pitiful little note was received today by Good Fellows from Shirely, a little girl 11 years old, who has three brothers and four sisters, making a family of ten persons. One little sister is sick and has been sick for four years.

"At times there is no money for any needed mecicine and the father has not had a regular job since February," she wrote. Thanksgiving day, while the rest of the world was feasting, this little family had barely more than bread and water, but the little girl wrote that they were thankful for all her brothers and sisters were able to be up and play.

The sick girl is not able to attend school, and another girl of school age does not go because she has no proper clothing to wear. Our little correspondent writes at the close of the letter, "We would be so happy for anything you can spare. May God bless you all."

Won't you bring or mail your check for Good Fellows so that there can be happiness of some degree even in the most sordid of homes? Don't you realize that Christmas will mean more to you in that you have done your bit to help those in distress?

FEATURED SPEAKER

700 bombs. This figure is not meant to be exact—it is rather, as scientists say, 'of the right order of magnitude (by which they mean it is probably wrong, but certainly not sensationally wrong)."

White's figure fits numerous known angles of the A-bomb picture. The atomic energy commission itself announced this year that plutonium production at the Hanford Works, Washington, has been increased. The commission did not mention bombs, but plutonium at Hanford is the bomb metal, and the amount made there is an accurate sign of production.

The Hanford plutonium production was recently increased by addition of a fourth reactor. There were three at the end of the war, with only two then in operation.

Overlooked in most estimates of bombs, and not mentioned by White in this article, is the large and rapidly growing production of uranium -235 at Oakridge, Tenn. Uranium made the first two A-bombs, and is virtually as good as plutonium. For a time it appeared that uranium was being produced at Oak Ride in larer volume that plutonium at Hanford. The commission has not said what it does at the Oak Ridge uranium.

Scientists at the end of the war testified before a U. S. senate committee that this country could, by a great effort, produce 200 A-bombs in two years. The capacity of that period, has been greatly increased since.

The doubts of the European scientists on the exact number now stockpiled probably covers the important fact that the A-bombs are not merely those in stock, but the number that can be made from all the plutonium and the uranium -235 on hand. Both metals can be made into bombs readily and rapidly.

On the H-bomb, White writes:

"Recent remarks by Gordon Dean, chairman of the atomic energy commission, indicate to the layman a lessening of confidence in the successful manufacture of the hydrogen bomb.

"It is doubtful that the hydroen bomb can be constructed. It is even more doubtful that it is worth trying.

"Many European physicists, of major stature, free to speak out, have assured this reporter that the details of the job may prove insurmountable."

White says there have been hints that the decision to proceed with the H-bomb was made contrary to the recommendations of the general advisory committee of the atomic energy commission. This is a committee of scientists and engineers.

"Military men," he writes "were highly interested in the superbomb, and it is probable that military enthusiasm, insufficiently informed, triumphed over technical doubts."

White suggests that recent reorganization of the atomic energy commission was due in part to differences of opinion on the H bomb within the commission.

"To some extent," he writes, "the hydrogen bomb does not supplement the atom bomb, but replaces it—and does so at quite an unfavorable ratio. Other things being equal, manufacturing one hydrogen bomb would mean constructing about 50 fewer atom bombs."

He does not say why. There need not be a reduction in present rates of production of atom bombs if the new plants to be built in South Carolina make the stuff for H-bombs, as has been the apparent intent of the official announcements. This stuff is tritium, a form of heavy hydrogen. Tritium is made by the same kind of reactors that make plutonium, but is made eighty times more slowly. The South Carolina reactors could be adapted to produce plutonium, and thus make available 50 or more atom bombs for each hydrogen bomb.

bookstores the beginning of this month.

In a review of the new volume, John Temple Graves, author, editor and columnist, well known to Twin Cities audiences, said recently in his column: "We of the well-known human race need the dignities Ralph Bradford gives to us in his book-length poem, "Heritage." Most of all we need the faith . . . that we are not 'made to die,' and that, from first days to these, the word for us has been of an image in which we are contrived and to which we may attain if . . . we reach for it."

Of the new volume, Felix Morley, one of the nation's most widely read and respected critics and authors, adds: "To read 'Heritage' through at a sitting is easy . . . and thrilling! . . . Ralph Bradford has written something that adds to our heritage."

Bradford's earlier book, "Along The Way," a collection of some of his addresses, enjoyed critical and sales success across the country.

Reservations for the affair may be made only at the Chamber of Commerce office at the Virginia Hotel early Monday.

Penn State nosed out Pitt, 21-20, at Pittsburgh in their game that was postponed from last Saturday because of a record snow fall. With parking lots still blanketed by the snow only 7,000 turned out at Forbes Field.

Georgia Tech and Virginia both registered upsets in their rivalry with Georgia and North Carolina, respectively. Tech dumped Georgia, 7-0, before 50,000 at Athens, Ga., and Virginia walloped North Carolina, 44-13, at Charlottesville, Ga., in the 55th game of the south's oldest continuous rivalry.

In other traditional games Holy Cross whipped Boston College, 32-14, at Boston; Alabama drubbed Auburn, 34-0, at Birmingham; Louisiana State tied Tulane, 14-14- before 74,000 at New Orleans; underdog Mississippi beat Mississippi State, 27-20 at Oxford, Miss.; Baylor swamped Rice, 33-7, at Waco, Tex.; and Texas Christian slashed Southern Methodist, 27-13, before 55,000 at Dallas.

KOREAN DECISION

said:

Britain and France want an early Korean settlement based on an agreement with Red China.

Britain and France want an earearly Big Four parley at which the west can discuss with Russia the issues which might touch off World War III.

Britain and France want to widen the military command of the Korean war—by giving more say to countries which have forces fighting alongside Americans and South Koreans in the field. This, possibly, could be done by a small military committee which the U. N. general assembly could set up.

Finally Britain and France believe only the U. N.—and not the United States on its own—must decide whether to use the atom bomb in a U. N. war.

The Pleven-Attlee conference was conducted at the green-topped table in the cabinet room of No. 10 Downing street, the prime minister's official residence. British Foreign Secretary Ernest Bevin and Defense Minister Emanuel Shinwell took part.

A communique issued by Attlee's office said simply:

"M. Pleven and M. Schuman had an exchange of views in London today with Mr. Attlee and Mr. Bevin. The conversations were full and frank and established a general identity of view on the objectives of the two governments in the present international situation. It was agreed that the two governments would continue to maintain the closest contact."

Pleven's decision not to go to Washington apparently stemmed from the fact the Truman-Attlee pow-wow is not going to be a conference in the formal sense of the word.

It will be more in the nature of a man to man talk on subjects of particular British-American concern.

away from the polls.

Speeding carloads of Communist "Free German Youth" tossed expensively printed four-color leaflets about the streets late last night. The leaflets called the western nations "warmongers" who "want to attack Russia."

But election officials, surveying early morning crowds at the polling places, predicted more than 80 per cent of the eligible Berliners would turn out to repudiate communism.

Some polling stations opened at midnight (6 p.m. Saturday eastern standard time). Before the polls close at 6 p.m., it is expected that most of the 1,664,722 enfranchised citizens in the Allied sectors will cast ballots.

They will elect a new western city government to office for four years, choosing their representatives from eight non-Communist parties. City and district assembly seats totaling 540 are at stake.

But a Soviet - sponsored Communist demand that citizens boycott the polls smothered all party issues.

Socialist Mayor Ernst Reuter and all his political rivals united last night in warning that "whoever fails to vote," votes Communist." Reuter appeared certain that at least 80 per cent will turn out.

Four thousand police riot squadsmen stood guard to protect voters from threatened Communist violence.

Police Chief Johannes Stumm had the remainder of his 13,800-man force on the alert for trouble. But Red tactics seemed confined to hit-and-run raids by young agitators, who scattered leaflets and argued on street corners with passers-by.

Allied commanders of the 10,000 American, British and French troops garrisoned here were confident the German police could maintain order without foreign help.

Police have clapped 248 Communists into jail since a campaign of anti election demonstrations started a week ago.

MCCARTHY

are "willing and eager to fight the hordes of Chinese Communists who are killing our young men."

When the Korean War started last summer, Chiang offered to send about 33,000 nationalist troops immediately to the assistance of the United Nations Forces.

This goverment expressed the view that this might weaken the defense of Formosa, the last strong hold of the Chinese Nationalists, and General Douglas MacArthur issued a statement at Taipei, Formosa, Aug. 1 saying:

"Among the problems which were discussed was the prompt and generous offer of the Chinese goverment to send troops to join the United Nations forces in Korea.

The belief of all concerned however, was that such action at this time might so seriously jeopardize the defense of Formosa that it would be inadvisable."

In addition to the officially stated reason, is known that the Truman administration felt use of Chiang's forces might give the Chinese reds an excuse to intervene in Korea, which they now have done anyway.

In his statement today addressed to "Mr. President," McCarthy also again bitterly criticized secretary of State Acheson.

And he said the leaders of the Chinese reds are "the same Chinese Communists whom Marshall, under Acheson's orders, tried to force into positions of power in Chiang Kai-Shek's goverment."

That was a reference to Gen. George C. Marshall, now secretary of defense, and apparently an allusion to the period after World War II when Marshall went on a mission to China at Mr. Truman's request. Acheson then was undersecretary of state.

"You will recall," McCarthy told Mr. Truman, "that when our ally, Chiang Kai-Shek, refused (to cooperate with the Reds) on the ground that the communists could not be trusted ts partners, Marshall placed an embargo on all ammunition to those Chinese who were fighting communism.

McCarthy demanded that Mr. Truman "get rid of that group (in the administration) whose hatred for Chiang Kai-Shek and love for Chinese Communists is being demonstrated by an ever increasing mountain of American dead." He added:

You have asked for unity in this crisis, but you can not expect honest Americans to unify behind the bluders or traitors who set the stage for what may be America's greatest military disaster."

December 8—Mrs. Frank S. Simson, E. H. Rivers, Kathryn Gillum, Earl T. Alpha, Carol Jordon, Mrs. A. R. Smith, Alice Lorene Stringer, Austin K. Taylor.

December 9—Mrs. E. H. Rivers, Kathleen Browning, Mrs. Allen Corbin, Clyde McDonald.

In a meeting held the other day, Dr. George C. Taylor, of the University of North Carolina, told a yarn about one time Governor Jackson of Mississippi who was on his way to Louisville to attend the races. On the way, the train ran off a bridge and many passengers were killed.

The governor's secretary, however, survived and dutifully his first thought was of the wife of his employer, the governor, who was among the dead. He hurried over to wire her:

"Train wreck of the L and N fatal to Governor Jackson. Two legs broken, two arms, one neck, one back, nine ribs. Corpse following by train."

But an hour later, a more careful investigation was reported to the secretary and he amended his wire. This time he communicated as follows:

"Train wreck on the L. and N. not so bad as previously reported. Only one of Governor Jackson's legs broken, only one arm, only three ribs. Also neck and back. Corpse is coming by train."

President Nona Martin, well known monument dealer of Monroe, will preside in her official capacity at the annual convention of Monument Builders of Louisiana and Mississippi at their sessions in the Robert E. Lee Hotel, Jackson, Miss., December four and five.

She is quite honored and her business skill was commended in that she was a year ago named president by this group composed mostly of men. In her experiences in Monroe, Miss Martin has won a substantial place in the community through her successful business management and interest in civic affairs.

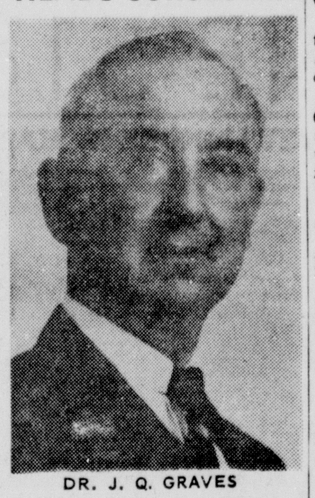
The rapid growth of the Twin Cities was given emphasis the past week when the community was surprised, perhaps a bit startled, by the word, that three drive-in branch insitutions, one north, one east and the other to the south of downtown Monroe are planned by the Ouachita National Bank. Uually the judgement of bankers is accepted as conservative and almost unfailing trust worthy. It would seem that talk of war time conditions cutailments and lacks do not find lodgement in the minds of such men as the directors and officers of the Ouachita National Bank. They seem to have unfailing confidence in he future development of the Twin Cities.

We also heard something in the way of interesting news last week when a Monroe man, who purchased a certain suburban tract of land about six miles from downtown Monroe, for $20,000 was offered and refused $55,000 for the same property only a few months later.

Guy Smith, manager of the Hotel Alvis, was made happy in that he is to be host at this hotel to 42 players and five adults from Garden City, Kansas when the Junior college sends its men to Monroe to enter into the Junior Sugar Bowl contest this week on Brown Field.

One of the most original and altogether charming little houses in Monroe is Bayou House, at 800 Loop Road which will be thrown open for public inspection from 4 to 6 p. m. today. The entrancing view of bayou, pecan groves and peacefully grazing cattle are all mirrored through the widespread picture windows of the house. And the interior, planned with exquisite taste of its owner, has every little convenience and delightful arrangement of color schemes that are bound to delight the feminine heart. Words will not be adequate to convey the wonderful impression that this place imparts far it must be seen to be fully appreciated.

HEADS SURGEONS



DR. J. Q. GRAVES

The Louisiana Surgical Association, at a recent meeting held in New Orleans, elected Dr. J. Q. Graves as president of the state organization. This is only one of the many honors that he has received in connection with his long professional career that he has followed in Monroe since 1910. As member of the House of Delegates of the American Medical Association, Dr. Graves is now in Cleveland, O. where he will attend the annual December session that will open there next Tuesday. Dr. George W. Wright of Monroe is also attending the Cleveland sessions as member of the House of Delegates, and still other members from Shreveport and New Orleans will attend.

trends Bertrand sees being stimulated by machinery. He characterizes tenancy as "a major social ill" and adds that machines—"essentially labor saving devices"—can be expected to speed flow of tenants into industry.

The "paternalistic relationship between landowners and workers will pass out of the picture," Bertrand believes, to be replaced by "a weekly or monthly wage system similar to that employed in industry."

With it all, he says, will come "a trend toward commercialization," including more stabilized farm credit and marketing practices which may by-pass the town merchant and middle man.

"Machines, by increasing the productive work units per man, may be influential in shortening the farmer's work day," Bertrand continues. "Also, there is a possibility of work developing into shifts, as in industry.

"This again will mean more free time. The farmer will also have more leisure time because he will be able to get away from the hundreds of little chores he used to do and the many things he used to provide for himself. This leisure time, in turn, will affect his personal habits."

Other effects of farm mechanization in the south, Bertrand says, could be smaller families, fewer people on farms, a decline in religion as a social force and a diminishing of the farm bloc's political power.

"Granted that mechanization will combine with other factors to decrease the number of farm people and to contribute toward a shift of their attitudes and values, we can forecast that the rural church will continue to decay," he says. "This, of course, does not mean that religion per se will lose significance in the greater society,"

TAXES

President Truman's request received only yesterday for $16,800,000,000 in military and $1,050,000,000 in atomic funds. Senators will get down to brass tacks on the problem early in the week. Speedy approval by both houses is expected.

Chairman Connally (D-Tex.) called a Senate Foreign Relations Committee meeting for Monday to take up a presidential request for $38,000,000 outlay to provide food for drought - stricken Yugoslavia. Critics have attacked this proposal and it may have some rough sledding.

Home front mobilization plans will be scrutinized when the Senate Banking Committee delves Monday into the prospect for price-wage controls. Senator Byrd (D-Va.), not a committe member, already has urged that such controls be put into operation immediately on a selective basis.

Chairman Maybank (D-S.C.) of the banking group has said he will try to get Senate action Monday on a 60-day extension of the present rent control law.

House republicans rallied today around a substitute for the administration's excess profits tax bill but professed little hope of house approval.

GOP tax experts are working on a proposal they claim will bring in more revenue than the administration's measure and at the same time be less injurious to business.

Truman Returns From Ball Game

Washington, Dec. 2—(AP)—President Truman returned to Washington tonight from the Army - Navy football game at Philadelphia.

The Union station was heavily guarded as the presidential train pulled in.

Reporters were not permitted to talk with the president as he stepped from his bullet - proof private car with Mrs. Truman at 6:55 p.m. EST and drove immediately to the White House.

Are You Driving Sideways?
Sounds Silly, Doesn't It?

Yet, if the wheels of your car are out-of-line, the net results . . . WASTEFUL TIRE WEAR . . . is the same. Misaligned wheels drag, skid and scuff along instead of rolling straight and true. This sidedrag on your tires eats away good rubber.

Why wear out expensive tires? Get our low cost scientific wheel alignment service today!

TRINITY METHODIST CHURCH IN RUSTON SCENE OF HOGG-ELLIS WEDDING

In a simple but impressive ceremony performed at the Trinity Methodist Church in Ruston, Friday, November 10, at eight o'clock in the evening, Miss Sandra Marlene Ellis, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Marvin Ellis and George Belton Hogg, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. George Belton Hogg Sr., exchanged nupital vows with the Rev. R.R. Branton officiating at the double ring ceremony.

The alter was decorated with greenery, against which stood long graduated candelabras holding burning white tapers. This shed a soft glow over the sunburst arrangement of white gladiola and white stock.

Mrs. Frances Crowder, at the organ, played a program of nupital music which included "Indian Love Call", and "call Me Thine Own". She accompanied Mr. William Ponder, cousin of the bride, who sang "At Dawning" and "I Love Thee." "Clair de Lune" was softly played during the ceremony.

The bride entered with here father who gave her in marriage. Her gown was of ice blue taffeta designed with beautiful simplicity. The ankle length, pincess effect was fashioned with an off the shoulder rolled collar, and self covered buttons down the front to the hem line. Her bouquet was a white orchid, showered with lillies of the valley and ribbon streamers.

Miss Dawn Norris, maid of honor and her only attendent, was gowned in mist blue taffeta with matching mitts and she carried a colonial bouquet of pink chrysantemuns, deepening into rose.

George Belton Hogg Sr. served his son as best man. Ushers were Jack Ponder of Monroe, and Fail-Shell of Ruston.

The brides mother wore navy blue crepe with navy accessories Her corsage was of Vanda orchids. The grooms mother chose black with white accessories. Her corsage was of pink.

Immediately following the ceremony, the brides parents were host in their home on Minden street at a reception for the bridal party, friends and relatives. Chrysanthemums in shades of white pink and orchid formed the floral setting. In the living room with their parents the bride and groom received congatulations of relatives and their close friends.

The guest were invited into the dining room where the brides table was overlaid with a white hand made cutwork cloth. At the center was a lovely arrangemnt of white muns and gladiolas flanked by burning tapers. At one end Miss Lorraine Ponder presided at the siver coffee service while at the other Miss Sydney Lazarus and Miss Anna Dora Simonton served the tiered wedding cake embossed with rose buds and topped with love birds.

Miss Virginia Mashaw invited the guest to view the gifts and sign the brides book.

When the couple left for a wedding trip later in the evening the bride was wearing a marroon wool suit, to which she pinned the orchid from her bouquet. With this she wore black accessories.

Mrs. Hogg is a graduate of Ruston High School and is attending La. Tech where she is pledged to the Sigma Kappa Sorority. Mr. Hogg is also a graduate from Ruston High School and was given his degree from La. Tech. prior to his re-entry into the United States Nav on November 22.

Out of town guest who attended the wedding were: Mr. and Mrs. J.D. Hines, Conroyand J.D. Jr., Mr. and Mrs. W.H. Hines, Peggy and Betty, Mr. and Mrs. Jordon Barton, Mrs. J.V. Whitledge and Geraldine, Mrs. Elliot Thompson an Mr. Jack Ponder and Mr. and Mrs. A.E. Scott Jr., all of Monroe, Mr. Mrs. R.L.Millard of Atlanta, Texas and Mrs. J.C. Lestage of Lake Charles.

News From The Girl Scouts

For several years grown-ups in scouting have been told "The Brownies Are Coming." Well, it seems that the Brownies are here. The schools are crowded with youngsters in the lower grades and there is more and more demand for Brownie scouting. Looking over a list of new troops, we find that many of them are for the younger girl—the Brownie scout.

One of the very newest is Troop 44 at Sherrouse School, where eager Brownies will have Mrs. James Wyatt, Mrs. Lea Thompson and Mrs. Vann Pratt as leaders. They report the girls most enthusiastic. Incidentally, with Troop 12, which has already registered Sherrouse School can now boast that there is a Girl Scout troop for every girl of scout age in the school. Isn't that wonderful! And it's nice to know that the community cooperates. These two new troops meet at the College Place Baptist Church, where they have been given a cordial welcome.

Two new troops, sponsored by Gerogia Tucker P.-T. A. have started with a bang. Troop 36, the very newest, with Mrs. Ralph Brice and Mrs. J. T. Bragan as leaders, started in time to attend the Brownie playday, have been hearing the Brownie story, and are deep in plans for Christmas good deeds. Troop 43, Mrs. Frank Smith and Mrs. I. T. McDonald, leaders, have completed registration requirements. The girls attended the playday, too. They have been busy learning what Brownie scouting means and have been practicing the Brownie magic. Now on Tuesday the girls will take their Brownie promise, "I will do my best to love God and my country, to help other people every day, especially those at home." That will be a big occasion for for these twelve new scouts. Congratulations and many years of scouting ahead!

St. Matthews P-T. A., we're proud to report, is to sponsor a third grade Brownie troop, Troop 23, which has begun meeting. Mrs. Glen Williams, Mrs. W. E. Moore, Mrs. Albert Theriot, are some of the adults who are working to get the troop started. Welcome to our scout family!

Passing the milestone of a year in girl scouting, and starting another year, are just as important as being invested the first time. In a little ceremony marking this occasion the girls of Troop 38 at Lida Benton School received pendants denoting a year of Brownie scouting and held an investiture for Sally Becker, a new member of the troop. To make the occasion more memorable, Mrs. W. A. Kelley furnished refreshments. Mrs. John W. Brown and Mrs. L. C. Bassett are leaders of this troop.

Another troop at Lida Benton, Troop 15, Mrs. John L. Overton and Mrs. E. L. Kitchens, leaders, will have its investiture this week.

We could mention more troops of Brownies, new and old, but space is running out. We know a wonderful secret, too. We hear that there are going to be just lots of Brownie dresses and beanies and socks under Christmas trees in the Twin Cities, and we know that lots of Brownies can hardly wait!

CAN MAKES BUTTON

Milwaukee — (AP) — For lack of raw materials, north Korean forces may have been using discarded beer cans to make uniform buttons. One such button, with a beer label clearly visible inside, was received by the Blatz Brewing Co. here in a letter from Capt. George S. Long, commanding officer of an American artillery battery. He said the button had been ripped off the uniform of a North Korean senior lieutenant captured at Chongju.

LET'S TALK SHOP with Susie

An Advertising Column of Special Values

Just to let you in on a little secret, there have been some men reading this column and their advice comes straight from the strong shoulder; they say "seek the unusual." and What, What do you think we have been doing?? Ah! shucks, let's talk shop. . . . . .

Sh-h-h-h-! DON'T TELL A SOUL . . . but the prettiest packages this Christmas will be wrapped from STANDARD OFFICE SUPPLY'S complete selection of gorgeous wrapping paper and accessories. You should see the red, silver, gold, green and printed wrapping paper all matched up with tags, seals and ribbons. The ribbons are all frosted like snow had fallen on them and some is fluorescent . . . While shopping STANDARD OFFICE SUPPLY we also discovered Hallmark, Norcross, Nu-art and Buzza Cardoza Christmas cards in formal, informal and children selections all imprinted with your name by choice. Another smart item for your gift list, Lady Buxton stitchless bill folds in brown, blue, green and red.

GIFT SUGGESTIONS AT . . . STERNS PACKAGE LIQUOR AND SNACKS STORES . . . just arrived beautiful gift baskets of the worlds finest cheese, all celophane wrapped, full flavored imported or American in Gouda, Edam, Cheddar, and cheese rolls in Port Salut and Swiss . . . STERNS also has all types of cute, inexpensive gadgets and outstanding gift items . . . We really got excited over the Candy Caddy in Silverette and plastic with four clover leaf compartments that open like magic with the touch of your hand on its attractive plunger handle. Ten inches in diameter it retails for only $5.50 . . . Remember, folks, STERNS is always stocking something new!!!!

LAMPS MAKE CHRISTMAS BRIGHTER . . . for a gift that the whole family can enjoy the year round, visit DURRETT'S GIFT SHOP. Mother will feel real glamorous with a smart pair of pin-up lamps by Cambridge, hand painted and fired in china with handmade and handpainted shades . . . DURRETT'S GIFT SHOP also has Doric floor lamps in gleaming brass with metal shades in green, red and ivory . . . lamps with a Chinese theme by Deena in chartreuse and Chinese red, hand crafted in exciting design . . . a four cigarette holder ash tray lamp with a brass base and a linen shade in forest green and then there were boudoir lamps all frilly in period moods . . . Why not add lamps to your shopping list??

THE GIFT WITHOUT AN IF . . . if you have been in doubt there remains no doubt that the men on your list will be pleased with what we found at KRAUSS and CAHN . . . not only do they have gift certificates for the hat of his choice, they will also issue you special gift certificates for anything in their new and modern store . . . I was especially taken by their gabardine suits in desert tone that can be worn as a suit or the coat goes right on alone to become the jauntiest sport coat of the season . . . they were just unpacking a wonderful B-15 Flight jacket, weather resistant, warmly innerlined, wine colored, quilted stitched with a soft fur collar.

GIVE US THIS DAY OUR DAILY BREAD . . . but for holiday hospitality be sure to treat your guest to CITY BAKERY'S rich fruit cakes, chockfull of the finest glaze fruits and choice nuts. They come in 2, 3 and 5 pound gift boxes, good to serve or to give . . . CITY BAKERY is also featuring a luscious cherry nut loaf and the very, very popular date cake . . . It's a merry, merry Christmas when the lady of the house can place her baking in the hands of experts who really want you to have festive holiday meals.

DROP A NOTE TO SANTA CLAUS . . . and tell him that one of the most economical things this season would be a dress length in some of the nationally advertised cloths you'd find at THE REMNANT SHOP on Louisville. This week alone they have on special rayon suitings in remnant lengths and it is only 75 cents per yard. THE REMNANT SHOP also has nylon panties (unmentionables, pardon us), linen luncheon sets and dresser scarf sets that should solve someone's shopping problems . . . Dial 3-6336 and TONI will be real helpful.

MOM AND DADDY HAVE A SECRET . . . the junior Miss and Mr. are going to look mighty cute on their early morning excursion under the Christmas tree especially if they are dressed from YORK'S CHILDREN SHOP. I found the most darling nylon robes and gowns to match in all white. The satins came in blues, yellows, pinks and whites and then there was a red jersey robe and gown trimmed in nylon lace. The boys robes were in flannel and gabardine just like dads . . . cutest ever, were the new moccasin slippers in red, willow and royal blue, sheep skin lined and white fur trim, at a price you'd like to pay.

THE MORE TO FLATTER YOU . . . and RUTH SHOP has gone all out to get just the right costume suit to match any individual taste. From a rare off white garbardine through lime green, electric blue, forest green, cocoa tan, black, red and grey, they are the most chic things you'll see this season. THE CHRISTMAS YOU'LL always remember . . . if you look your lovely best in individual make-up by Anatole Robbins and the least trouble it will cause you is one little visit to CEIL et ALBERT on Louisville. Take my word for it, Albert will be not only sincere and honest, his profession is beauty. He will demonstrate gratis Anatole Robbins prismatic make up that covers any minor complexion faults. . . . Use it with or without powder and ALBERT says to get the best results "Just pat your face with cold water after it has been smoothed on evenly."

MORE FOR YOUR MONEY . . . and you can have Christmas all through the house. COTTAGE FLOWER AND GIFT SHOP, 600 Morris Ave. tells us that you don't have to go to a lot of expense to make your home look like Christmas. They will make your center pieces for table, mantel or any part of the house. Attractively designed these center pieces are made up of candles, reindeer, glass balls, pine cone and are made with artificial foliage that will last through the holidays. COTTAGE FLOWER AND GIFT SHOP will make them in the regular red and green Xmas colors or any color to suit your theme.

When one word leads to another, folks, it is about time to quit, but just as a last word may I say, "I saw some folks wearing a red feather in their lapel this week." Hope you have as much fun shopping as I have,

Susie

TRINITY METHODIST CHURCH IN RUSTON SCENE OF HOGG-ELLIS WEDDING

In a simple but impressive ceremony performed at the Trinity Methodist Church in Ruston, Friday, November 10, at eight o'clock in the evening, Miss Sandra Marlene Ellis, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Marvin Ellis and George Belton Hogg, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. George Belton Hogg Sr., exchanged nupital vows with the Rev. R.R. Branton officiating at the double ring ceremony.

The alter was decorated with greenery, against which stood long graduated candelabras holding burning white tapers. This shed a soft glow over the sunburst arrangement of white gladiola and white stock.

Mrs. Frances Crowder, at the organ, played a program of nupital music which included "Indian Love Call", and "call Me Thine Own". She accompanied Mr. William Ponder, cousin of the bride, who sang "At Dawning" and "I Love Thee." "Clair de Lune" was softly played during the ceremony.

The bride entered with here father who gave her in marriage. Her gown was of ice blue taffeta designed with beautiful simplicity. The ankle length, pincess effect was fashioned with an off the shoulder rolled collar, and self covered buttons down the front to the hem line. Her bouquet was a white orchid, showered with lillies of the valley and ribbon streamers.

Miss Dawn Norris, maid of honor and her only attendent, was gowned in mist blue taffeta with matching mitts and she carried a colonial bouquet of pink chrysantemuns, deepening into rose.

George Belton Hogg Sr. served his son as best man. Ushers were Jack Ponder of Monroe, and Fail-Shell of Ruston.

The brides mother wore navy blue crepe with navy accessories Her corsage was of Vanda orchids. The grooms mother chose black with white accessories. Her corsage was of pink.

Immediately following the ceremony, the brides parents were host in their home on Minden street at a reception for the bridal party, friends and relatives. Chrysanthemums in shades of white pink and orchid formed the floral setting. In the living room with their parents the bride and groom received congatulations of relatives and their close friends.

The guest were invited into the dining room where the brides table was overlaid with a white hand made cutwork cloth. At the center was a lovely arrangemnt of white muns and gladiolas flanked by burning tapers. At one end Miss Lorraine Ponder presided at the siver coffee service while at the other Miss Sydney Lazarus and Miss Anna Dora Simonton served the tiered wedding cake embossed with rose buds and topped with love birds.

Miss Virginia Mashaw invited the guest to view the gifts and sign the brides book.

When the couple left for a wedding trip later in the evening the bride was wearing a marroon wool suit, to which she pinned the orchid from her bouquet. With this she wore black accessories.

Mrs. Hogg is a graduate of Ruston High School and is attending La. Tech where she is pledged to the Sigma Kappa Sorority. Mr. Hogg is also a graduate from Ruston High School and was given his degree from La. Tech. prior to his re-entry into the United States Nav on November 22.

News From The Girl Scouts

For several years grown-ups in scouting have been told "The Brownies Are Coming." Well, it seems that the Brownies are here. The schools are crowded with youngsters in the lower grades and there is more and more demand for Brownie scouting. Looking over a list of new troops, we find that many of them are for the younger girl—the Brownie scout.

One of the very newest is Troop 44 at Sherrouse School, where eager Brownies will have Mrs. James Wyatt, Mrs. Lea Thompson and Mrs. Vann Pratt as leaders. They report the girls most enthusiastic. Incidentally, with Troop 12, which has already registered Sherrouse School can now boast that there is a Girl Scout troop for every girl of scout age in the school. Isn't that wonderful! And it's nice to know that the community cooperates. These two new troops meet at the College Place Baptist Church, where they have been given a cordial welcome.

Two new troops, sponsored by Gerogia Tucker P.-T. A. have started with a bang. Troop 36, the very newest, with Mrs. Ralph Brice and Mrs. J. T. Bragan as leaders, started in time to attend the Brownie playday, have been hearing the Brownie story, and are deep in plans for Christmas good deeds. Troop 43, Mrs. Frank Smith and Mrs. I. T. McDonald, leaders, have completed registration requirements. The girls attended the playday, too. They have been busy learning what Brownie scouting means and have been practicing the Brownie magic. Now on Tuesday the girls will take their Brownie promise, "I will do my best to love God and my country, to help other people every day, especially those at home." That will be a big occasion for for these twelve new scouts. Congratulations and many years of scouting ahead!

St. Matthews P-T. A., we're proud to report, is to sponsor a third grade Brownie troop, Troop 23, which has begun meeting. Mrs. Glen Williams, Mrs. W. E. Moore, Mrs. Albert Theriot, are some of the adults who are working to get the troop started. Welcome to our scout family!

Passing the milestone of a year in girl scouting, and starting another year, are just as important as being invested the first time. In a little ceremony marking this occasion the girls of Troop 38 at Lida Benton School received pendants denoting a year of Brownie scouting and held an investiture for Sally Becker, a new member of the troop. To make the occasion more memorable, Mrs. W. A. Kelley furnished refreshments. Mrs. John W. Brown and Mrs. L. C. Bassett are leaders of this troop.

Another troop at Lida Benton, Troop 15, Mrs. John L. Overton and Mrs. E. L. Kitchens, leaders, will have its investiture this week.

We could mention more troops of Brownies, new and old, but space is running out. We know a wonderful secret, too. We hear that there are going to be just lots of Brownie dresses and beanies and socks under Christmas trees in the Twin Cities, and we know that lots of Brownies can hardly wait!

CAN MAKES BUTTON

Milwaukee — (AP) — For lack of raw materials, north Korean forces may have been using discarded beer cans to make uniform buttons. One such button, with a beer label clearly visible inside, was received by the Blatz Brewing Co. here in a letter from Capt. George S. Long, commanding officer of an American artillery battery. He said the button had been ripped off the uniform of a North Korean senior lieutenant captured at Chongju.

LET'S TALK SHOP with Susie

An Advertising Column of Special Values

Just to let you in on a little secret, there have been some men reading this column and their advice comes straight from the strong shoulder; they say "seek the unusual." and What, What do you think we have been doing?? Ah! shucks, let's talk shop. . . . . .

Sh-h-h-h-! DON'T TELL A SOUL . . but the prettiest packages this Christmas will be wrapped from STANDARD OFFICE SUPPLY'S complete selection of gorgeous wrapping paper and accessories. You should see the red, silver, gold, green and printed wrapping paper all matched up with tags, seals and ribbons. The ribbons are all frosted like snow had fallen on them and some is fluorescent . . . While shopping STANDARD OFFICE SUPPLY we also discovered Hallmark, Norcross, Nu-art and Buzza Cardoza Christmas cards in formal, informal and children selections all imprinted with your name by choice. Another smart item for your gift list, Lady Buxton stitchless bill folds in brown, blue, green and red.

GIFT SUGGESTIONS AT . . . STERNS PACKAGE LIQUOR AND SNACKS STORES . . . just arrived beautiful gift baskets of the worlds finest cheese, all celophane wrapped, full flavored imported or American in Gouda, Edam, Cheddar, and cheese rolls in Port Salut and Swiss . . . STERNS also has all types of cute, inexpensive gadgets and outstanding gift items . . . We really got excited over the Candy Caddy in Silverette and plastic with four clover leaf compartments that open like magic with the touch of your hand on its attractive plunger handle. Ten inches in diameter it retails for only $5.50 . . . Remember, folks, STERNS is always stocking something new!!!!

LAMPS MAKE CHRISTMAS BRIGHTER . . . for a gift that the whole family can enjoy the year round, visit DURRETT'S GIFT SHOP. Mother will feel real glamorous with a smart pair of pin-up lamps by Cambridge, hand painted and fired in china with handmade and handpainted shades . . . DURRETT'S GIFT SHOP also has Doric floor lamps in gleaming brass with metal shades in green, red and ivory . . . lamps with a Chinese theme by Deena in chartreuse and Chinese red, hand crafted in exciting design . . . a four cigarette holder ash tray lamp with a brass base and a linen shade in forest green and then there were boudoir lamps all frilly in period moods . . . Why not add lamps to your shopping list??

THE GIFT WITHOUT AN IF . . . if you have been in doubt there remains no doubt that the men on your list will be pleased with what we found at KRAUSS and CAHN . . . not only do they have gift certificates for the hat of his choice, they will also issue you special gift certificates for anything in their new and modern store . . . I was especially taken by their gabardine suits in desert tone that can be worn as a suit or the coat goes right on alone to become the jauntiest sport coat of the season . . . they were just unpacking a wonderful B-15 Flight jacket, weather resistant, warmly innerlined, wine colored, quilted stitched with a soft fur collar.

GIVE US THIS DAY OUR DAILY BREAD . . . but for holiday hospitality be sure to treat your guest to CITY BAKERY'S rich fruit cakes, chockfull of the finest glaze fruits and choice nuts. They come in 2, 3 and 5 pound gift boxes, good to serve or to give . . . CITY BAKERY is also featuring a luscious cherry nut loaf and the very, very popular date cake . . . It's a merry, merry Christmas when the lady of the house can place her baking in the hands of experts who really want you to have festive holiday meals.

DROP A NOTE TO SANTA CLAUS . . . and tell him that one of the most economical things this season would be a dress length in some of the nationally advertised cloths you'd find at THE REMNANT SHOP on Louisville. This week alone they have on special rayon suitings in remnant lengths and it is only 75 cents per yard. THE REMNANT SHOP also has nylon panties (unmentionables, pardon us), linen luncheon sets and dresser scarf sets that should solve someone's shopping problems . . . Dial 3-6336 and TONI will be real helpful.

MOM AND DADDY HAVE A SECRET . . . the junior Miss and Mr. are going to look mighty cute on their early morning excursion under the Christmas tree especially if they are dressed from YORK'S CHILDREN SHOP. I found the most darling nylon robes and gowns to match in all white. The satins came in blues, yellows, pinks and whites and then there was a red jersey robe and gown trimmed in nylon lace. The boys robes were in flannel and gabardine just like dads . . . cutest ever, were the new moccasin slippers in red, willow and royal blue, sheep skin lined and white fur trim, at a price you'd like to pay.

THE MORE TO FLATTER YOU . . . and RUTH SHOP has gone all out to get just the right costume suit to match any individual taste. From a rare off white garbardine through lime green, electric blue, forest green, cocoa tan, black, red and grey, they are the most chic things you'll see this season. One suit combines the finest black wool crepe skirt with figured crepe blouse, topped with a matchless red wool crepe coat attractively trimmed in exquisite black buttons. Another was the finest quality gabardine with beige coat trimmed in bronze beads, and matching brown skirt that has a fetching neck blouse with bead trim.

R & A JEWELERS . . . offers Monroyans and the surrounding communities the most superb collection of diamonds, cultured pearls and outright rare jewels that it is humanly possible to procure at the price. . . . If it is antique silver, modern Walter Lampel fine costume jewelry, delicate Cameos from Italy, or nationally advertised Hamilton, Elgin, Benrus and Bulova watches, R & A Jewelry has it for your shopping convenience. . . . Nothing down and a whole year to pay. MR. RUBIN says your promise to pay is good with R. & A.

YOU CAN AFFORD TO BE CHOOSY . . . and so can the fellow on your gift list if he should wake up on Christmas morn' and find a gift certificate for individually tailored seat covers for his automobile from WINN TRIM, 901 Natchitoches, West Monroe. . . . Lets be honest I ain't ever had an automobile, but lets say I should be so lucky, I can't think of a better present. . . . Dial 2-4565 and they will deliver the Christmas present for you and your lucky rememberance will have the pleasure of choosing his own pattern in plastic or fiber. . . . It is novel, its new and it might be the answer to just what you are looking for.

SUCH NICE THINGS HAPPEN . . . when you choose to dine at THE HOLLYWOOD DRIVEIN RESTAURANT AND COCKTAIL LOUNGE, with one new trick or recipe they will add extra flourish to your holiday meals. . . . So much to do; so little time to do it—with Christmas around the corner! There's all that shopping to do and the house to clean, just let's call it save the day when you dine with the friendly Tarrances and indulge in some of the south's finest foods, perfected by them because they know how to bring out the superlatives in you and the best in the food and still be partners in economy.

THE CHRISTMAS YOU'LL always remember . . . if you look your lovely best in individual make-up by Anatole Robbins and the least trouble it will cause you is one little visit to CEIL et ALBERT on Louisville. Take my word for it, Albert will be not only sincere and honest, his profession is beauty. He will demonstrate gratis Anatole Robbins prismatic make up that covers any minor complexion faults. . . . Use it with or without powder and ALBERT says to get the best results "Just pat your face with cold water after it has been smoothed on evenly."

MORE FOR YOUR MONEY . . . and you can have Christmas all through the house. COTTAGE FLOWER AND GIFT SHOP, 600 Morris Ave. tells us that you don't have to go to a lot of expense to make your home look like Christmas. They will make your center pieces for table, mantel or any part of the house. Attractively designed these center pieces are made up of candles, reindeer, glass balls, pine cone and are made with artificial foliage that will last through the holidays. COTTAGE FLOWER AND GIFT SHOP will make them in the regular red and green Xmas colors or any color to suit your theme.

When one word leads to another, folks, it is about time to quit, but just as a last word may I say, "I saw some folks wearing a red feather in their lapel this week." Hope you have as much fun shopping as I have,

Susie

Mrs W. S. Vincent Will Attend Mid-Century White House Conference

Local Educator To Represent Louisiana P.-T. A. At Washington Meeting On Children And Youth

Mrs. W. S. Vincent is participating in the Midcentury White House Conference on Children and Youth in Washington, D. C. from December 3to 7.

She will represent the Louisiana Parent-Teacher Association and educators in this state. Other organizations in states throughout the nation will have delegates at the meeting.

The formal invitation was extended to Mrs. Vincent by the president of the United States.

Among the national meetings outstanding in the history of America social action, few have had wider influence or won greater respect than the White House Conferences held each decade in this century under presidential auspices.

Each conference has contributed importantly to the country's ability to understand and meet the needs of children, to make possible for more of them to live longer, suffer less illness, and grow up in greater security.

The Midcentury meeting takes on added responsibility, leaders declare, as America stands on the threshold of the atomic age.

The central concern of the conference is to provide each child with a fair chance to achieve a healthy personality. According to the national committee in charge of the meeting: "The purpose . . . shall be to consider how we can develop in children the mental, emotional, and spiritual qualities essential to individual happiness and to responsible citizenship, and what physical, economic, and social conditions are deemed necessary to this development."

The committee contends that if children fall short of realizing their potentialities for total health in any of its aspects, it must be in large part because conditions essential for proper growth have not been provided.

This is no moment in history, leaders assert, to resign ourselves to a continuing wastage of human resources.

The conference pattern of work comprises three factors: The preparatoy period; the meeting itself; the follow-up of proposals, recommendations and possibilities that have emerged during months of pre-planning and the week of conference discussions.

Thirty-seven departments, agencies, and bureaus of the federal government are conducting studies and making their technical information and other resources available for conference purposes.

All parts of the program are to be closely related general sessions will be highlighted by outstanding speakers who will discuss healthy personality development. In 28 panels, leaders will present more specific information about certain critical aspects of personality development. The 35 work groups will be the heart of the conference. Here delegates will deal concretely with problems involved in the attainment of the conference goal, using as resource material the facts presented and ideas proposed in the larger meetings.

The Washington meeting will culminate with a final session where a program of future action will take shape.

A report on opportunities afforded the youth of Louisiana will be given at the meeting. This information will be based on facts gathered by the state committee for education, appointed by Shelby M. Jackson, state superintendent of education, at the suggestion of Gov. Earl K. Long.

The state committee, which includes Mrs. Vincent, obtained from the various parishes data on health, education, and recreation for children in the local communities. Following several months of study, a compiled report was made in October. This served as the basis of information which will be presented to the White House conference.

STUDENTS WORRY

Bangkok.—(AP)—Jolted by reports that 200 Thai "students" in England are not going to school but are living the life of "society butterflies," the Thailand government has ordered a committee representing four ministries to investigate. The reports were brought from England by a Thai judge who recently visited London.

Finance Ministry officials said students in England received an annual allowance of $1,540 each. About 350 students in the United States were allowed a proportionate amount. But the officials said merchants and other wealthy people had applied for sterling and dollar exchange on the pretext of sending children for study in England and America. Instead the children had made tourist trips.

In other cases after the Finance Ministry had made the allowances the students remained in Thailand. Regulations were later tightened to check these abuses.

Mrs W. S. Vincent Will Attend Mid-Century White House Conference

Local Educator To Represent Louisiana P.-T. A. At Washington Meeting On Children And Youth

Mrs. W. S. Vincent is participating in the Midcentury White House Conference on Children and Youth in Washington, D. C. from December 3to 7.

She will represent the Louisiana Parent-Teacher Association and educators in this state. Other organizations in states throughout the nation will have delegates at the meeting.

The formal invitation was extended to Mrs. Vincent by the president of the United States.

Among the national meetings outstanding in the history of America social action, few have had wider influence or won greater respect than the White House Conferences held each decade in this century under presidential auspices.

Each conference has contributed importantly to the country's ability to understand and meet the needs of children, to make possible for more of them to live longer, suffer less illness, and grow up in greater security.

The Midcentury meeting takes on added responsibility, leaders declare, as America stands on the threshold of the atomic age.

The central concern of the conference is to provide each child with a fair chance to achieve a healthy personality. According to the national committee in charge of the meeting: "The purpose . . . shall be to consider how we can develop in children the mental, emotional and spiritual qualities essential to individual happiness and to responsible citizenship, and what physical, economic, and social conditions are deemed necessary to this development."

The committee contends that if children fall short of realizing their potentialities for total health in any of its aspects, it must be in large part because conditions essential for proper growth have not been provided.

This is no moment in history, leaders assert, to resign ourselves to a continuing wastage of human resources.

The conference pattern of work comprises three factors: The preparatoy period; the meeting itself; the follow-up of proposals, recommendations and possibilities that have emerged during months of pre-planning and the week of conference discussions.

Thirty-seven departments, agencies, and bureaus of the federal government are conducting studies and making their technical information and other resources available for conference purposes.

All parts of the program are to be closely related general sessions will be highlighted by outstanding speakers who will discuss healthy personality development. In 28 panels, leaders will present more specific information about certain critical aspects of personality development. The 35 work groups will be the heart of the conference. Here delegates will deal concretely with problems involved in the attainment of the conference goal, using as resource material the facts presented and ideas proposed in the larger meetings.

The Washington meeting will culminate with a final session where a program of future action will take shape.

A report on opportunities afforded the youth of Louisiana will be given at the meeting. This information will be based on facts gathered by the state committee for education, appointed by Shelby M. Jackson, state superintendent of education, at the suggestion of Gov. Earl K. Long.

The state committee, which includes Mrs. Vincent, obtained from the various parishes data on health, education, and recreation for children in the local communities. Following several months of study, a compiled report was made in October. This served as the basis of information which will be presented to the White House conference.

STUDENTS WORRY

Bangkok.—(AP)—Jolted by reports that 200 Thai "students" in England are not going to school but are living the life of "society butterflies," the Thailand government has ordered a committee representing four ministries to investigate. The reports were brought from England by a Thai judge who recently visited London.

Finance Ministry officials said students in England received an annual allowance of $1,540 each. About 350 students in the United States were allowed a proportionate amount. But the officials said merchants and other wealthy people had applied for sterling and dollar exchange on the pretext of sending children for study in England and America. Instead the children had made tourist trips.

In other cases after the Finance Ministry had made the allowances the students remained in Thailand. Regulations were later tightened to check these abuses.

BRIDE AND GROOM

Mr. and Mrs. Theodore W. Hixon shown cutting their wedding cake following their recent marriage. The bride is the former Miss Virginia Goleman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. W. Goleman. Mr. Hixon is the son of Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Hixon of Mangham.

VIRGINIA GOLEMAN AND THEODORE HIXON UNITED IN MARRIAGE

In a lovely double-ring ceremony Sunday, October 15, at the Emmanuel Baptist Church, Miss Virginia Goleman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. W. Goleman of Monroe, became the bride of Mr. Theodore W. Hixon, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Hixon of Mangham.

Before an altar of white gladiolas, the couple exchanged their wedding vows with the Rev. O. Z. Harman, pastor, officiating.

Guests were seated by the ushers Mr. Guy Pardue and Mr. Jewel Douglas of Rayville.

Preceding the ceremony, Mrs. C. L. Greer rendered a program of nuptial music and accompanied Mr. Kenneth Adams who sang "Through the Years."

The bride, given in marriage by her father, was wearing a lovely white satin gown with sweeping train. The tight fitting bodice had a sweetheart neckline and buttoned down the front. The long tight sleeves which came to a point over the hands were also buttoned with tiny self-covered buttons. Her veil of illusion fell from a heart shaped tiara and she carried a white Bible topped with a single white orchid with streamers of white satin ribbon and tuberoses.

Miss Gloria [illegible] groom, was the maid of honor and was wearing an ice blue taffeta gown and carried a bouquet of white asters with pink streamers. The bride's other attendants were Miss Helen Rae Black and Miss Bettie Reid, who wore matching gowns of pink taffeta and carried bouquets of white asters with blue streamers.

Mr. J. M. Goleman of Alexandria, brother of the bride, served the groom as best man. Ushers were Mr. C. L. Greer and Mr. Kenneth Adams.

Immediately following the ceremony a reception was held in the dining room of the church. Mrs. Jones served the cake and Mrs. J. M. Goleman and Mrs. Guy Pardue presided at the punch bowls.

For her wedding trip to New Orleans the bride was wearing a blue suit with red and black accessories and the white orchid from her bouquet.

MISS ADELYN COLDWELL BRIDE OF WILLIAM RAY DUKE

A wedding of lovely simplicity which was of interest to a wide circle of friends and relatives in Louisiana and Texas, was that of Miss Adelyn Coldwell, daughter of Mrs. Harriet E. Russell of West Monroe, and William Ray Duke, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Duke of Carthage, Texas, which took place on Sunday, November 12, at eight-thirty in the morning at the First Methodist Church in West Monroe. The Rev. R. H. Staples, pastor, heard the vows of the impressive double-ring ceremony.

The altar of the church was decorated with baskets of large white mums, arranged with appropriate evergreens and cathedral tapers in branched candelabra.

Preceding the ceremony, Mrs. W. W. Watson, at the organ, rendered a program of nuptial music while the candles were being lighted. Miss Polly Ragland, accompanied by Mrs. Watson, sang "Through the Years".

The bride was given in marriage by her uncle, Mr. Pete O. Holcomb of West Monroe. She was lovely in a traditional wedding gown of white satin with long sleeves coming to a point over her hands. A lace yoke to shoulder depth embroidered in seed pearls was outlined by a cape bertha in old fashioned simplicity.

Her fingertip veil of illusion fell from a headdress of lace over satin, embroidered with seed pearls. Her bouquet was of small white crysanthemums and tuberoses centered by a single white orchid.

Miss Martha Coldwell, sister of the bride, was the maid of honor and only attendant. She was wearing a gown of orchid taffeta and carried a bouquet of small purple chrysanthemums.

Mr. Milton Paine of Carthage, Texas, served the groom as best man. Ushers were Jack Duke, brother of the groom, and Ray Biggerstaff of Carthage, and Charles Elliott of West Monroe.

Mrs. Russell, mother of the bride, wore a dress of black crepe with black accessories. The groom's mother was wearing a dress of navy crepe with mauve accessories. Both were wearing corsages of pink carnations.

Following the ceremony a reception was held at the home of the bride's mother for members of the bridal party, relatives and out of town guests. They were received by the bride and groom, Mrs. Russell, and Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Duke. Mrs. Charles Elliott presided over the birde's book.

The bride's table was covered with a beautiful linen cloth with a centerpiece of white mums. At each end of the table, Mrs. T. N. Cobb and Mrs. J. W. Hill presided over the silver tea service.

After the bride and groom cut the tiered wedding confection, guests were served an assortment of confections. Assisting in the serving were Mrs. E. R. Landrum, aunt, and Mrs. Stephen P. Cole, sister of the bride.

For their wedding trip to Jackson, Miss., and other points of interest, the bride was wearing a red gabardine suit with black velvet accessories. She wore the white orchid from her bouquet. Miss Reba Cassity of Houston, Texas, caught the bride's bouquet. Upon their return from their bridal trip, the couple will make their home in Carthage, Texas, where the groom is employed as assistant manager of a department store. Mrs. Duke will resume her duties as head of the foreign language department of Panola Junior College. The bride is a graduate of Ouachita Parish High School, Northeast Junior College and Southern Methodist University.

Out of town guests attending the wedding were Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Middlebrook, Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Middlebrook, Mr. and Mrs. Reed Middlebrook, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas H. Sharpe, Mr. Milton Payne, Mr. Jack Duke, Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Duke, Mr. Roy Biggerstaff, Miss Margaret Chadwick, all of Carthage, Texas; Reba Cassity of Houston, Texas; Mrs. J. K. Davis of New Orleans, Mrs. S. P. Cole, Jr., Natchitoches; Mrs. E. R. Landrum, Miss Jean Davis, Miss Dora Moore, Mr. Bill Gingham, Mr. Gordon Nolan, all of Dallas, Texas.

CLOCK MISSING

Denver.—(AP)—Anybody seen the century clock lately? It was among the new-fangled gadgets displayed at the Centennial Exposition at Philadelphia in 1876. Supposed to run for 100 years, its power was supplied by a heavy weight attached to cords and set to drop 76 inches at a rate of three-quarters of an inch a year.

The timepiece was built by J. W. Hile, a Kansas clockmaker, and was displayed in the Kansas-Colorado building at the Centennial. Doane Eaton of Doraville, Maine, wrote Gov. Walter Johnson of Colorado that he found a reference to the clock in an old family record. Did the governor know what became of the clock? Was it still on time?

The governor didn't. He passed the timepiece inquiry to Mrs. Agnes Wright Spring, acting state historian. She sent it along to Orville R. Hagans, Denver horologist, whose extensive treatises on time keeping gave the price of the 100-year clock as $1,000, but no references as to where it might be.

Girl Scout Adults Will Have Christmas Party December 5

Girl Scout Adults, leaders, troop committee members, and interested parents, will have a Christmas party at the Recreation Center, 113 Catalpa, above Sherwin-Williams, Tuesday evening, Dec. 5, a 7:30. This party, an annual affair, is looked forward to as the one time when Girl Scout adults can lay aside responsibilities and just have fun, according to Mrs. R. W. Glaholt, president of the Brownie Scout leaders' club.

Planned by a joint committee from the two clubs, Mrs. N. L. Huckabee, Mrs. Robert Collins, Mrs. R. E. Harrell, Mrs. S. C. Strausser, Mrs R D Noble, Mrs Glaholt, the affair will be a purely social get-together to give the grownup Girl Scouts a chance to become acquainted by having fun together.

Fruit Cake Recipe

Fruit cake is worth considering as a homemade food gift for Christmas, suggests Euna D. Spielman, Home Demonstration Agent. The rectangular shape is easier to pack for safe travel than a round cake and also easier to slice thin and evenly, as most people like this holiday delicacy.

Here is a recipe for dark fruit cake. It makes four small loaves. The ingredients are:

1-2 lb. currants. 1-lb. seeded raisins. 1 lb pitted dates, 1-2 lb. candied cherries. 1 lb. shelled pecans. 1-4 lb. sliced citron, 1-4 lb sliced orange peel, 1-4 lb. sliced lemon peel, 1-2 lb. butter, 1 cup sugar (brown preferred) (The citron, orange and lemon peels are candied.) 6 eggs, 1 oz. chocolate, (or add 1-2 tb. butter), 3 cubs all-purpose flour. 1-2 teaspoon soda. 1 1-2 teaspoon cinnamon. 1 teaspoon nutmeg. 1 teaspoon allspice, 1-2 cup grape or orange juice, 1-2 cup honey or molasses.

Cut fruit and nuts. Sift flour, soda and spices together and mix well with fruit and nuts. Cream butter, add sugar gradually, then beaten eggs and melted chocolate. Add fruit, flour, nut mixture alternately with fruit juice and honey to the creamed butter and sugar mixture.

Fill paper-lined pans almost to the top with this mixture. Bake large loaves for 4 to 4 1-2 hours in a slow oven (250 degrees F.) and small loaves for 3 to 3 1-2 hours at (275 degrees F.).

Wrap the cooled cakes in waxed paper and store in tin boxes. Fruit cakes are better when moist. For added moisture, place half an apple in box with cake.

"Steaming fruit cakes gives more volume and a more moist cake as well as saves time and fuel," she advises. Steam as directed for Louisiana Fruit Cake. It is important that the pans be covered tightly with waxed paper when steaming.

This is the fashionable living room of the newly-completed "Bayou House." One of its outstanding features is the tall Roman Buck mantel with a full slanting mirror to reflect both the interior of the room and the magnificent bayou view from an all-glass wall that overlooks the water. To the right of the mantel is a unique indoor planter, equipped with a driftwood tree stained in wood-green with growing house vines and a real water fountain, illuminated from beneath.

"BAYOU HOUSE" OPENS ITS DOORS

Beautifully Appointed Home of Irene Simms Reid Holds Open House at 801 Loop Road

Public Invited To Inspect Model Duplex Home

Latest Creation Of Modern Architecture Displayed at 'Bayou House'

The public is invited to attend an open house for personal inspection of the newly completed 'Bayou House" 801 Loop road, from four to six p. m. today. The unusual setting of this house, overlooking Bayou DeSiard and built by Irene Simms Reid, advertising director of the News-Star—World, has attracted the attention of the editors of House and Garden magazine, who have requested a complete story with pictures to be featured in a forthcoming issue.

As the adjoining pictures demonstrate, Mrs. Reid's home is of modern, contemporary orchitecture, the house blending with and belonging to the landicape. Throughout every room one feels the natural colors of earth and sky, employed with distinction and careful taste.

If building today, the more progressive architects study the builder as much as the building. "Bayou House" reflects the personality and ideas of its owner—its colors are her colors, its expression is her expression, and its efficiency is the efficiency she herself employs in business life. One knows he is completely "at home" in "Bayou House," simply because it has the lived-in atmosphere of comfortable, spacious living. One is at home, so to speak, with nature, expressed best by a breath-taking view of the water and sky, brought limitlessly into every room.

Not shown in the accompanying pictures is the planned terrace directly by the water's edge in the rear. This terrace is designed to carry the contour of the bayou's banks, made comfortable and accessible to the boat pier. It will be edged by redwood benches with a 30-inch wall forming perfect outdoor seating facilities, the bank of the bayou thus made safe, beautiful, and enjoyable. Landscaping plans also call for many pines and foliage, banked by flowers which are complementary to the entire setting.

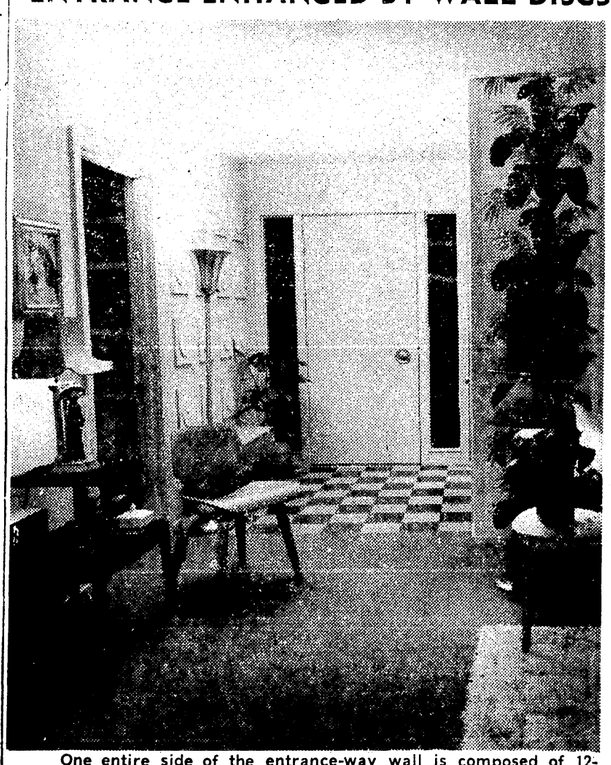
Completing the over-all picture of outdoor-indoor living is a proposed outdoor kitchen to be situated on the terrace and made accessible from the elongated glass-and-screen porch which runs the length of the glass-walled living room.

You are cordially invited to inspect this new addition to Monroe's building expansion from four to six today.

DEN FINISHED IN NATURAL WOODS

Carrying out the underlying modern Oriental scheme of the entire house is a cherry red coffee table with matching drapes. This convenient den, with walls of natural satin-finish carsiding, may be used for office, lounging, or an extra bedroom. One exceptional feature is a built-in bar, employing the bright colors of the other rooms.

ENTRANCE ENHANCED BY WALL DISCS

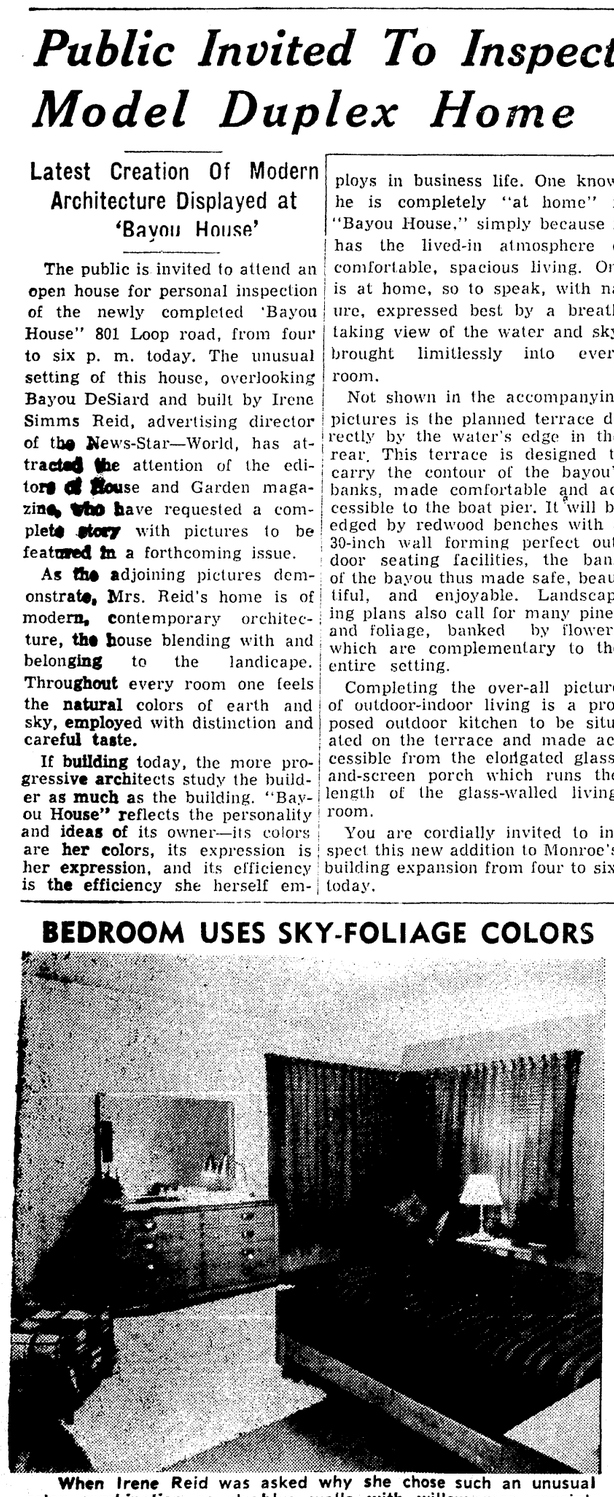


One entire side of the entrance-way wall is composed of 12-inch square slabs overlaid with round plywood discs, an idea derived from an attractive pattern of wallpaper, but reproduced in more elaborate and striking effect with original materials. Turquoise and grey plastic tile floor completes the color scheme.

ORIGINAL CHINESE DINETTE SHOWS COLORFUL FEATURES

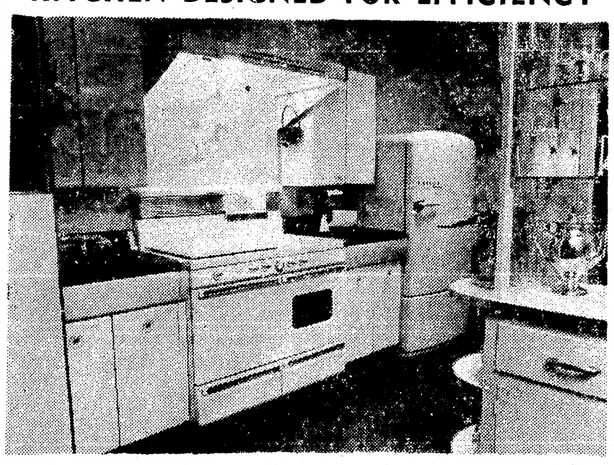
This modern dinette, directly off the kitchen, employs a bright red Oriental Lancaster exclusively-designed paper, with natural bamboo wainscoating. Bamboo furnishigs are Hayward-Wakefield.

BEDROOM USES SKY-FOLIAGE COLORS



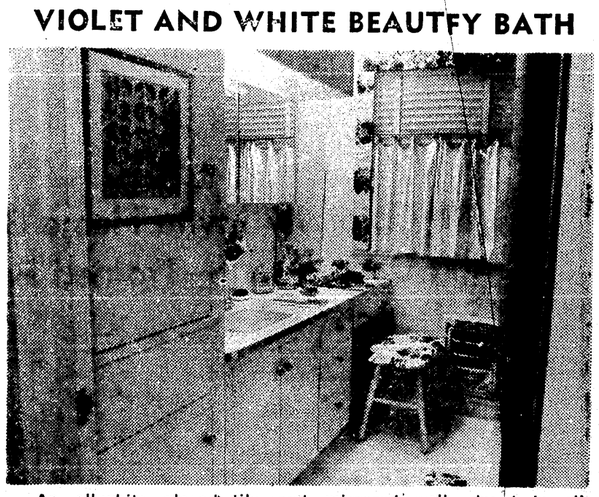
When Irene Reid was asked why she chose such an unusual color combination as sky-blue walls with willow-green appointments (drapes, bedspread, lampshades, tables), she replied: "I kept looking at the willows, the water, and the sky, and it finally struck me that no one ever devised colors more inviting or real than those to be found in the natural world."

KITCHEN DESIGNED FOR EFFICIENCY



In an arm-reach room with every modern convenience at the fingertip, the kitchen has all-metal American cabinets, a Philco upright freezer, a General Electric refrigerator, Florence range and ranger hood, and an all-glass food bar—completed by peach walls, turquoise drapes and Chinese plastic tile floor.

VIOLET AND WHITE BEAUTFY BATH



An all-white glazed tile and mirrored wall, draped in all white chintz with violet bouquets presents a stunning picture of today's modern trends in color-usage. All available space has been utilized with convenient storage cabinets and vanity-dressing equipment.

'Bayou House' Invites Nature In New Modern Architectural Theme

Large Group Of Local Business Firms Participate In Model Home Construction

"Bayou House" while it contains some of the most desirable innovations of up-to-date living, still makes no sudden break with the familiar and yet one gets the feeling that it is startlingly different. Irene Simms Reid in her dream of the perfect house has invited nature indoors for a new and inspirational approach to modern architecture.

So naturally do the elements of past and present merge in this gracious home, that its outstanding keynote to evolutionary home building is instantly recognized in its close relationship with the outdoors, visually a part of every room.

The theme of "Bayou House" is built around the lazy placid waters of meandering Bayou DeSiard. The rewarding richness of its command view overlooking a picturesque and pastroial scene on the opposite banks of the bayou, seemed to have fired the imagination of all who had a hand in helping Irene's dream house come true.

Durrett's Furniture Co. at 109 St. John are the responsible parties to credit with the comfortable, liveable and elegant furniture that compliment this unusual house. W. J. Lyons, president of Durrett Furniture Co. and Harry Kuhn of the staff of Durrett's spent untiring hours in the council of a woman who knew what she wanted. They met the theme and the mood with exceptional taste personified in the three sectional sofa, a Broche in India green and a V-shaped Imperial modern blonde walnut coffee table with triangle end tables to match. For perfect contrast they chose a black Chinese breakfront that brings utterances of delight from every guest. Complete to the modern bedroom furnishings in blonde, Durrett's left no stone unturned in meeting the demands of something different and personalized.

Although "Bayou House" is the brain child of its owner, it remained for Joe Ballard to transfer these plans to design. Mr. Ballard, a local resident, is at present federal housing authority construction examiner in this territory.

Ira Cagle general contractor for "Bayou House", began his job of transforming blue prints into reality along in late summer. Mr. Cagle has gained a wide reputation throughout north Louisiana as a builder of fine residences. He states "Bayou House as a model ranch style duplex is among some of the finest homes in the city of Monroe and represents only quality workmanship and the best materials." Says Mr. Cagle "The owner can well be proud of this unusual house." Some of the outstanding buildings that he has contracted are the Jewish Temple Israel, the Dwight Petty home, Frank Guerrerio, George Fink, Shelby Hill, the beautiful Parkview Baptist Church and he recently remodeled well known "Kendalwood".

Mr. Cagle is a deacon at the Parkview Baptist Church on the finance committee, a member of public housing authority of the city and a member of the board commission for the Louisiana Training Institute. He cordially invites public inspection of his latest project because it is a perfect example to potential builders for newer ideas in home construction.

Craftsman, extraordinary, who did the interior work for "Bayou House", was R. T. Noble who is recognized as one of the country's finest cabinet builders. Visitors who view "Bayou House" will see some of his work which is an outstanding example of his craftsmanship. Others who worked on this home were D. K. Aldridge, Oscar Lee Blazier, Elby Cagle, W. R. Pierce, W. P. Camp and Herman Chambers.

Johns Manville asbestos siding and blonde brick were used in the construction of "Bayou House". The duplex measures 118 feet in length and is of modern contemporary architecture. All of the bricks were made in Monroe by the Century Brick Plant, except the living room mantle which are blonde Roman brick made in Denton, Tex. All brick work was done by J. C. Hamilton, a well known brick mason of this city. The concrete that went into the construction came from Century Ready Mix Co.

Other outstanding features of this model home include the jet black "Bird" roofing with a thirty inch overhang decorated in the modern shade of persimmon contrasted with City Service green doorways and columns. A very, very modern note are the aluminum venetial screens which give privacy because of the fact that only 60 per cent vision is possible from the outside.

Monroe Brick and Builders Supply Co. are responsible for the tile bath in "Bayou House" and the tile floors. The soft grey carpeting is hand work of Jack's Floor Covering. I found especially interesting in the kitchen and entrance hall, one of Johns Manville's new products, flextile, a plastic tile especially made for use on concrete floors. "Bayou House" is among the first homes to use this in this section and it is exclusively handled by Slagle Johnson Lumber Co.

The Grady Adams Painting and Decorating Contractors did the unusual and beautiful painting and wall paper work. Lovely effects were achieved by the trained artists of the Grady Adams Company and for credit where credit is due here are some responsible parties, Jack Barnett, foeman, LeRoy Travis, Bailey Landrum, Marvin Buffington and Vernon Waller. The Grady Adams firm have had recently to their credit such outstanding jobs as the homes of Dr. and Mrs. W. L. Bendel, Wood Thompson, Claude Gilliland, Shelby Hill, George Fink and then the commercial jobs of Mulhearn Funeral Home and the new Branch Bell Telephone Co. These artisians used with unusual effect Glidden paints and Sherwin-Williams paints.

Exquisite wallpaper was chosen from the exclusive Lancaster imported paper from Pearce Paint and Paper Co. Outstanding at first is the Chinese print used in the bamboo dinette. The living room features a tropical vinestrip from floor to ceiling at one corner of the wall that is so clever that it actually and realistically blends with natures own wonderous greenery that compliments it in a recessed alcove.

One of the most charming invitations to the great outdoors is the skillful use of mirrors. Not one precious portion of the bayou seen is wasted or lost. Henry Hartman of the Monroe Glass Co. recognising the challenge before him has made a very ingenious arrangement of mirrors that captures the beauty of every changing season, be it winter or summer.

Clearview glass venetian louvers are used in the picturesque glass wall that looks out over Bayou DeSiard, to give not only a eye fetching view but ventilation as well.

This house beautiful also boasts Kool-Vent awnings of pure aluminum made especially for "Bayou House" and installed by Kool-Vent Metal Awning Co. located on Louisville Ave. Metal blinds were made and installed by the Smith Venetian Blind Co. featuring new 1951 colors and durable plastic tape was used in the construction of these attractive blinds.

The highly complimenting draperies were made and installed by the Palace Department Store. The Delta Drapery now located on the corner of Stubbs and North Third St., contributed very special slip covers that enhance the evolutionary theme.

A colorful and gay kitchen is conveniently appointed with beautiful American kitchen metal cabinets used throughout and furnished by Monroe Hardware. It also has the newest type Hunter attic ventilation installed by Monroe Hardware.

Decorative, delightful and dramatic seem appropriate for the special and effective lighting arrangements worked out by Adcock Electric Co. Ample electrical plugs, switches and lights add one more note of a mid-century of progress in home design and living. Mr. Adcock has had 36 years experience in wiring fine homes and commercial jobs. The electrical foreman on the "Bayou House" was Tom Cole who has as past history sixteen years in the electrical business.

Some outstanding homes which Mr. Adcock has contracted are:

Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Petty, Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Breckenridge, Mr. and Mrs. E. S. Girault, The three Herlvic Brothers, Mr. and Mrs. Howard Griffin, Mr. and Mrs. V. C. Ambose, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Shook, Mr. and Mrs. Ira Cagle, Jr., Mr. and Mrs. Howard Lewis.

New residents now under way: Mr. and Mrs. Henry Biedenharn, Jr., Mr. and Mrs. Walter Schubert, Jr., M. and Mrs. J. E. Larken, Mr. and Mrs. H. S. Nix, and many others.

All sheet metal work was made and installed by prophit sheet Metal works. Kelly Plumbing and Heating did the honors for plumbing and heating. . . . See what we mean when it takes a lot of folks to build a house, expecially when it is a house that climaxes many dreams.

But what's the use of dreaming unless you've got a backer? F.H.A. financing of "Bayou House" was handled by the firm of Taylor and Holmes, located in the Ouachita National Bank Bldg.

Now that just about winds up the story of how a house is built. . . . To say the least it is an excursion into greater pleasure and "Bayou House" with its indoor, outdoor blending is dexterous in achievement.

been talking about is none other than Irene Simms Reid, advertising director of News-Star World, the spirited originator of "Bayou House."

She stated as we entered the bedroom: "It doesn't carry out any traditional line" but in a fashion it invites the entire outside to enter. With a picture window that commands a two sided view of the water, she has artfully combined light blue walls with green drapes, a bright splash of color in the cherry red chaise lounge and twin chartruese lamps that offset the blonde bed room furniture.

Imagination ran riot in the friendly den where a blonde walnut desk resides in regal splendor with cherry red drapes, a Chinese red coffee table, green sofa and a figured window seat. The den is done in satin finished carsiding with rafters overhead to carry out the color scheme. The built-in bar is colorful and the only traditional suggestion is the brass desk lamp.

Last but not least we visited the much talked about Bamboo dinette. Actually separated from the gleaming white kitchen by suggesting shades of pink and the attractive food bar, it is all in a class by itself. The wainscoating is an original idea in real bamboo poles topped off with Chinese red paper imprinted with lovely oriential ladies and enhanced with a border of real greenery between the wainscoating and the paper. The hospitable bamboo table is set with bamboo place mats and even the window harbors a special drapery of bamboo.

As we said in the beginning, once upon a time one knows something pleasant they will harken back to it, however embellished it may be with the modern view point. . . . The view from "Bayou House" might well be of any era, but what ever it is, it is tranquil and beautiful.

N. O. RAISES HOSPITAL CASH

$100,000 Contributed Toward Crippled Kiddlies In stitution

Over $100,000 has already been contributed toward the half-million dollar goal of the Crippled Children's Hospital Campaign, it was announced in New Orleans yesterday.

At the first report meeting of all divisions of the drive, the largest sub-total was $41,165, announced for the initial gifts division by Harry Latter, campaign chairman.

The commerce and industry division, led by Charles G. Smither, has raised $39,514 to date.

The women's division has accounted for $17,823, Mr. Louis B. Trenchard announced.

State division chairman, James M. McLemore of Alexandria, reported $1,600; and the labor division reports $100.

The campaign for funds to build a 50-bed convalescent hospital for the crippled children of Louisiana began November 23.

The proposed hospital will be built on a site near Audubon Park in New Orleans. It will serve children recovering from crippling diseases and corrective surgery.

WILL FILE BRIEF IN M'GEE CASE

Washington, Dec. 1.—(AP)—Mississippi's new attorney general said he will file a brief in the Willie McGee case within ten days as one of his first official acts.

J. P. Coleman, the attorney general, was admitted to practice before the U S. supreme court yesterday under the sponsorship of Senator Stennis (D.-Miss.). The McGee case is now pending before the high court.

Coleman said he would file his brief "in vigorous protest to prevent efforts being made by outside parties to interfere in the case of Willie McGee, a convicted rapist."

REV. B. B. CRIMM INSTANTLY KILLED

Marshall, Tex., Dec. 1.—(AP)—The Rev. B. B Crimm of Marshall, widely known evangelist, was killed instantly when the car in which he was riding overturned at 3:30 am. (CST) near here.

The minister for more than a third of a century had conducted evangelist meetings in Texas and most of the southern states.

Beautiful Bayou DeSiard Is The Inspiration Of Real Dream Home

Glass Walled Living Room Reveals A Scene As Only Nature Could Pain It

Once upon a time, and awhile ago, a little girl came out of the country and she fought her way up from printers devil and a mail pushcart to a successfull business woman . . . In the intervening years she has traveled most of the forty eight states of these United States, Old Mexico and a seventeen thousand mile air travel through romantic South America. She became a woman well seasoned of the ways of a modern world and a birds-eye view of everything in general.

Today that woman has turned back for sheer pleasure and enjoyment to the things that she knew in the beginning. .... I speak as one who knows because I went with her to "Bayou House" and stepped from the hustle and bustle of a busy city into her new inviting living room. The minute the door closed we were in another world.

Because of the ingenious arrangment of mirrors your first impression is that you are surrounded by water . . . . visually you see it from any angle your eyes may wander, sometimes rippling and more often languid and silent but it is still the back drop and inspiration for her dream house. From the entrance hall we advanced fo the colorful living room where a glass wall reveals a scene as only nature could paint it. Across the bayou some three hundred head of white faced cattle come to water unmindful of the geese and duck who pasture with them and a pictureque old barn adds to the plantation scene. Around noon time every day fish large and small come trustingly to the waters edge to get their daily bread. This day of all days a sportsman sputtered past and disappeared around the bend in the bayou.

One may well have been a hundred miles from any cares or worry. ... but to get back to our story ... ... "Bayou House" as new and different as it may seem is still a house of sheer desire, when we hear her elate how the moon hung like gold and luminious ball just outside her bedroom window each night, that was convincing enough that she had gone back for this inspiration.

The living room is suggestive of Kwam Yim, goddess of love theme, from friends and relatives she has the goddess of love and the prince and princess figurenes. On the wide mantle that reaches from wall to wall in blonde brick the inspiration has been to arrange the mantle to mean something not just bric-a-brac. From her other home she brought Royal Doulton balloon figurenes of friendship, besides a very modernistic Jefferson Golden Hour electric clock two slick, black graceful panthers dominate the Chinese motif.

Especially interesting is the indoor greenery and fountain flanking the mantle on the bayou side while a book case ends it on the other. The center of the fountain is a common ordinary drift wood tree shellaced and painted a forest green, trellised with green ivy and surrounded other indoor greenery, all this illuminated from underneat with a trickling fountain to add to the effect.

The tilted foot mirror over the mantle catches still further glimpes of the outdoor scene and reflects a sea gull and water picture that fits in ever so nicely with the whole idea. An India Green Broche sofa is complimented with a V shaped imperial modern blonde walnut coffee table. The wall in fight, light grey meet a wall to wall carpeting of gray and colors of note are in the gay and decorative pillows of moss green, chartruse and cherry. The black Chinese break front that offsets the wall opposite the mantle holds tressures some of them more than forty years old. A salomon colored hassock, four and half feet in diameter, especially designed, is a slight but welcome variation in the outstanding design of the room. Modern Contour chairs of popular ply wood and matching lamps in rose and Chinese design compliment the black case. Moss green theatrical gauze imported from Belgium were the only solution to drapes that would still preserve the view that fired the dream of "Bayou House".

From the living room we progressed to the hallway that has a built in magazine rack, especially designed for the foremost and favorite magazines, on the left looking out to the street was Milady's dream of a bath room, done in white chintz and violets and gleaming white tile. The window frame was even outlined in violets and at one end of the modern sunken tub is a solid glass fluted panel which extends to the ceiling. One individual item we noted in the bath was a Norman Rockwell painting that is a conversational piece any way you look at it.

The Grady Adams Painting and Decorating Contractors did the unusual and beautiful painting and wall paper work. Lovely effects were achieved by the trained artists of the Grady Adams Company and for credit where credit is due here are some responsible parties, Jack Barnett, foeman, LeRoy Travis, Bailey Landrum, Marvin Buffington and Vernon Waller. The Grady Adams firm have had recently to their credit such outstanding jobs as the homes of Dr. and Mrs. W. L. Bendel, Wood Thompson, Claude Gilliland, Shelby Hill, George Fink and then the commercial jobs of Mulhearn Funeral Home and the new Branch Bell Telephone Co. These artisians used with unusual effect Glidden paints and Sherwin-Williams paints.

Exquisite wallpaper was chosen from the exclusive Lancaster imported paper from Pearce Paint and Paper Co. Outstanding at first is the Chinese print used in the bamboo dinette. The living room features a tropical vinestrip from floor to ceiling at one corner of the wall that is so clever that it actually and realistically blends with natures own wonderous greenery that compliments it in a recessed alcove.

One of the most charming invitations to the great outdoors is the skillful use of mirrors. Not one precious portion of the bayou seen is wasted or lost. Henry Hartman of the Monroe Glass Co. recognizing the challenge before him has made a very ingenious arrangement of mirrors that captures the beauty of every changing season, be it winter or summer.

Clearview glass venetian louvers are used in the picturesque glass wall that looks out over Bayou DeSiard, to give not only a eye fetching view but ventilation as well.

This house beautiful also boasts Kool-Vent awnings of pure aluminum made especially for "Bayou House" and installed by Kool-Vent Metal Awning Co. located on Louisville Ave. Metal blinds were made and installed by the Smith Venetian Blind Co. featuring new 1951 colors and durable plastic tape was used in the construction of these attractive blinds.

The highly complimenting draperies were made and installed by the Palace Department Store. The Delta Drapery now located on the corner of Stubbs and North Third St., contributed very special slip covers that enhance the evolutionary theme.

A colorful and gay kitchen is conveniently appointed with beautiful American kitchen metal cabinets used throughout and furnished by Monroe Hardware. It also has the newest type Hunter attic ventilation installed by Monroe Hardware.

Decorative, delightful and dramatic seem appropriate for the special and effective lighting arrangements worked out by Adcock Electric Co. Ample electrical plugs, switches and lights add one more note of a mid-century of progress in home design and living. Mr. Adcock has had 36 years experience in wiring fine homes and commercial jobs. The electrical foreman on the "Bayou House" was Tom Cole who has as past history sixteen years in the electrical business.

Some outstanding homes which Mr. Adcock has contracted are:

Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Petty, Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Breckenridge, Mr. and Mrs. E. S. Girault, The three Herlvic Brothers, Mr. and Mrs. Howard Griffin, Mr. and Mrs. V. C. Ambose, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Shook, Mr. and Mrs. Ira Cagle, Jr., Mr. and Mrs. Howard Lewis.

New residents now under way: Mr. and Mrs. Henry Biedenharn, Jr., Mr. and Mrs. Walter Schubert, Jr., M. and Mrs. J. E. Larken, Mr. and Mrs. H. S. Nix, and many others.

All sheet metal work was made and installed by prophit sheet Metal works. Kelly Plumbing and Heating did the honors for plumbing and heating. . . . See what we mean when it takes a lot of folks to build a house, expecially when it is a house that climaxes many dreams.

But what's the use of dreaming unless you've got a backer? F.H.A. financing of "Bayou House" was handled by the firm of Taylor and Holmes, located in the Ouachita National Bank Bldg.

Now that just about winds up the story of how a house is built. . . . To say the least it is an excursion into greater pleasure and "Bayou House" with its indoor, outdoor blending is dexterous in achievement.

She stated as we entered the bedroom: "It doesn't carry out any traditional line" but in a fashion it invites the entire outside to enter. With a picture window that commands a two sided view of the water, she has artfully combined light blue walls with green drapes, a bright splash of color in the cherry red chaise lounge and twin chartruese lamps that offset the blonde bed room furniture.

Imagination ran riot in the friendly den where a blonde walnut desk resides in regal splendor with cherry red drapes, a Chinese red coffee table, green sofa and a figured window seat. The den is done in satin finished carsiding with rafters overhead to carry out the color scheme. The built-in bar is colorful and the only traditional suggestion is the brass desk lamp.

Last but not least we visited the much talked about Bamboo dinette. Actually separated from the gleaming white kitchen by suggesting shades of pink and the attractive food bar, it is all in a class by itself. The wainscoating is an original idea in real bamboo poles topped off with Chinese red paper imprinted with lovely oriential ladies and enhanced with a border of real greenery between the wainscoating and the paper. The hospitable bamboo table is set with bamboo place mats and even the window harbors a special drapery of bamboo.

As we said in the beginning, once upon a time one knows something pleasant they will harken back to it, however embellished it may be with the modern view point. . . . The view from "Bayou House" might well be of any era, but what ever it is, it is tranquil and beautiful.

N. O. RAISES HOSPITAL CASH

$100,000 Contributed Toward Crippled Kiddlies Institution

Over $100,000 has already been contributed toward the half-million dollar goal of the Crippled Children's Hospital Campaign, it was announced in New Orleans yesterday.

At the first report meeting of all divisions of the drive, the largest sub-total was $41,165, announced for the initial gifts division by Harry Latter, campaign chairman.

The commerce and industry division, led by Charles G. Smither, has raised $39,514 to date.

The women's division has accounted for $17,823, Mr. Louis B. Trenchard announced.

State division chairman, James M. McLemore of Alexandria, reported $1,600; and the labor division reports $100.

The campaign for funds to build a 50-bed convalescent hospital for the crippled children of Louisiana began November 23.

The proposed hospital will be built on a site near Audubon Park in New Orleans. It will serve children recovering from crippling diseases and corrective surgery.

WILL FILE BRIEF IN M'GEE CASE

Washington, Dec. 1.—(AP)—Mississippi's new attorney general said he will file a brief in the Willie McGee case within ten days as one of his first official acts.

J. P. Coleman, the attorney general, was admitted to practice before the U S. supreme court yesterday under the sponsorship of Senator Stennis (D.-Miss.). The McGee case is now pending before the high court.

Coleman said he would file his brief "in vigorous protest to prevent efforts being made by outside parties to interfere in the case of Willie McGee, a convicted rapist."

REV. B. B. CRIMM INSTANTLY KILLED

Marshall, Tex., Dec. 1.—(AP)—The Rev. B. B Crimm of Marshall, widely known evangelist, was killed instantly when the car in which he was riding overturned at 3:30 am. (CST) near here.

The minister for more than a third of a century had conducted evangelist meetings in Texas and most of the southern states.

Beautiful Bayou DeSiard Is The Inspiration Of Real Dream Home

Glass Walled Living Room Reveals A Scene As Only Nature Could Pain It

Once upon a time, and awhile ago, a little girl came out of the country and she fought her way up from printers devil and a mail pushcart to a successfull business woman . . . In the intervening years she has traveled most of the forty eight states of these United States, Old Mexico and a seventeen thousand mile air travel through romantic South America. She became a woman well seasoned of the ways of a modern world and a birds-eye view of everything in general.

Today that woman has turned back for sheer pleasure and enjoyment to the things that she knew in the beginning. ... . I speak as one who knows because I went with her to "Bayou House" and stepped from the hustle and bustle of a busy city into her new inviting living room. The minute the door closed we were in another world.

Because of the ingenious arrangment of mirrors your first impression is that you are surrounded by water . . . . visually you see it from any angle your eyes may wander, sometimes rippling and more often languid and silent but it is still the back drop and inspiration for her dream house. From the entrance hall we advanced fo the colorful living room where a glass wall reveals a scene as only nature could paint it. Across the bayou some three hundred head of white faced cattle come to water unmindful of the geese and duck who pasture with them and a pictureque old barn adds to the plantation scene. Around noon time every day fish large and small come trustingly to the waters edge to get their daily bread. This day of all days a sportsman sputtered past and disappeared around the bend in the bayou.

One may well have been a hundred miles from any cares or worry. ... but to get back to our story ... ... "Bayou House" as new and different as it may seem is still a house of sheer desire, when we hear her elate how the moon hung like gold and luminious ball just outside her bedroom window each night, that was convincing enough that she had gone back for this inspiration.

The living room is suggestive of Kwam Yim, goddess of love theme, from friends and relatives she has the goddess of love and the prince and princess figurenes. On the wide mantle that reaches from wall to wall in blonde brick the inspiration has been to arrange the mantle to mean something not just bric-a-brac. From her other home she brought Royal Doulton balloon figurenes of friendship, besides a very modernistic Jefferson Golden Hour electric clock two slick, black graceful panthers dominate the Chinese motif.

Especially interesting is the indoor greenery and fountain flanking the mantle on the bayou side while a book case ends it on the other. The center of the fountain is a common ordinary drift wood tree shellaced and painted a forest green, trellised with green ivy and surrounded other indoor greenery, all this illuminated from underneat with a trickling fountain to add to the effect.

The tilted foot mirror over the mantle catches still further glimpes of the outdoor scene and reflects a sea gull and water picture that fits in ever so nicely with the whole idea. An India Green Broche sofa is complimented with a V shaped imperial modern blonde walnut coffee table. The wall in fight, light grey meet a wall to wall carpeting of gray and colors of note are in the gay and decorative pillows of moss green, chartruse and cherry. The black Chinese break front that offsets the wall opposite the mantle holds tressures some of them more than forty years old. A salomon colored hassock, four and half feet in diameter, especially designed, is a slight but welcome variation in the outstanding design of the room. Modern Contour chairs of popular ply wood and matching lamps in rose and Chinese design compliment the black case. Moss green theatrical gauze imported from Belgium were the only solution to drapes that would still preserve the view that fired the dream of "Bayou House".

From the living room we progressed to the hallway that has a built in magazine rack, especially designed for the foremost and favorite magazines, on the left looking out to the street was Milady's dream of a bath room, done in white chintz and violets and gleaming white tile. The window frame was even outlined in violets and at one end of the modern sunken tub is a solid glass fluted panel which extends to the ceiling. One individual item we noted in the bath was a Norman Rockwell painting that is a conversational piece any way you look at it.

MacKenzie's Column

Announcement of the coming meeting between President Truman and British Prime Minister Attlee in Washington to consider the Korea crisis—with the possibility that French Premier Plevin may join them—already has eased the tension among the democracies.

Observers on both sides of the Atlantic, and especially in western Europe, have been expressing fear that the common interests of the big three might suffer from lack of coordination of policies. This uneasiness had been emphasized by the grave threat of a major war growing out of Red China's assault of the United Nations forces in Korea.

Thus one can understand the sprit which moved the usually staid old British house of commons to break into cheers when Attlee announced that he was going to confer with President Truman.

Just prior to this about 100 laborite members of commons had urged Attlee to emphasize that Britain couldn't be committed in Korea by any decisions made outside the United Nations. They wanted him to declare that British forces would be withdrawn from Korea if any unilateral action were taken.

This request obviously was inspired by widespread criticism both in England and in France of what was described as "political activities" by General MacArthur. Foreign Secretary Bevin answered this by declaring that MacArthur's objectives were those of the U. N.

Western Europe's high tension quite understandable if you have had first hand observation of what they have experienced in two world wars. Great cities still stand in the ruins to which they were reduced by bombing. Untold thousands of civilians perished under this hurricane of death. The entire way of life has been changed in many areas.

The people of western Europe have their fill of war. Yet they know that the Korean crisis has brought them once more face to face with the possibility of another upheaval. They know that if this should come, it would set the great Russian military machine to rolling westward towards the English Channel.

And, as I pointed out in yesterday's column, Russia has in eastern Europe six armies. They could race through to the English Channel if they were started rolling, for the western European countries haven't yet created the military strength to stop such a great offensive.

Naturally one of western Europe's chief worries is that in event of another world war Russia likely would use atomic bombs (if she has them). Europe knows all too well what destruction can be wrought by "ordinary" bombs. She doesn't want anything to do with the atomic variety. That is why there is a European bloc which feels that America shouldn't employ the atom bomb without agreement by her allies.

Appropos of these fears, it is worthy of note that they are in no small degree the product of Communist propaganda. Last summer heavy pressure was applied throughout all the Red satellite states for signature on a Russian-inspired petition to ban the atom bomb. The petition was drawn up in Stockholm by a meeting of Communist-led partisans.

Europe's anxiety about the bomb is likely to be considerably eased by the statement from MacArthur's chief intelligence officer, Major General Charles A. Willoughby, who says the predicament of U. N. forces in northwest Korea isnt desperate enough to warrant use of the atomic bomb on the Chinese Reds.

General MacArthur himself has said that the military situation in Korea is serious and critical, but not hopeless. He made this statement in a copyrighted interview with the magazine U. S. News an World Report.

So unless the situation takes a quick change for the worse, the allied meeting in Washington should give further encouragement to the democracies.

Walker-Mallard

The marriage of Mrs. Boyce Grant Mallard and Mr. Jimmy Walker was solemnized Monday evening, November 27, in the home of the bride's mother, Mrs. Eva Grant of West Monroe.

Mrs. Howard Mayes served her sister as matron of honor. The bride was lovely in a pearl gray suit with small off the face hat of black beaver and other accessories of black. She wore a corsage of pink carnations and carried a black Bible.

Mr. Howard Mayes of Mobile, Alabama, served the groom as best man.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Grant wore a gray suit and black accessories. The groom's mother was attired in a black crepe. Both wore corsage of white chrysanthemums.

The impressive double ring ceremony was performed by the Rev. Ray Grant, brother of the bride, in the presence of a few intimate friends and immediate relatives.

Immediately following the ceremony a reception was held in the home of Mrs. Grant. The bride's table, overlaid with a white linen cloth, was centered with the three-tiered wedding cake encircled with ruffled maline and baby roses. After the bride and groom cut the wedding cake, it was served by Mrs. Horton and Dot Horton.

Following their wedding trip to an undisclosed destination, the couple will be at home to their friends at their apartment on Natchitoches Street in West Monroe.

Out of town guests were Mr. and Mrs. Howard Mayer and Elmer Tompkins of Mobile, Alabama and the Rev. and Mrs. Roy Grant of Choudrant. Other guests were Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Strange and son, Harold, Mrs. Horton and Dot Horton, Mr. and Mrs. Leon Jones, Joe and Virginia Mallard, Mr. and Mrs. Doyle Grant and son Richard, Willie Ed Walker, Mrs. Y. L. Griffin, Mrs. Eva Grant, Mrs. Sarena Walker, Mrs. Etta Cochrell, Mrs. J. P. Armstrong and Elymer Cockrell.

Miss Charlotte Black Is Recent Bride Of Cpl. Russell Sims

Of interest to friends is the announcement of the marriage of Miss Charlotte Black, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. T. O. Black, to Cpl. Russell Sims, son of Mr. and Mrs. Russell Sims, Sr which was solemnized in the First Methodist Church of West Monroe, Nov 15 at seven thirty o'clock in the evening.

The Rev. R. H. Staples, pastor, officiated at the double ring ceremony before an altar decorated with branched candelabra and baskets of white chrysanthemums.

The bride was given in marriage by her father and was wearing a blue wool suit with accessories of black. Her hat and glove were pink and she was wearing an orchid corsage. Her only ornament was the necklace which be longed to her great-grandmother.

Miss Pat Scarbrock was the maid of honor and only attendant. She was wearing a black crepe dress and black accessories with a hat of tangarine color. Her corsage was white carnations.

Mr. Eugene Dean served the groom as best man.

Mrs. Black, mother of the bride, was wearing a tangarine gabardine dress with accessories of white and black. Her corsage was of white pompoms. The grooms mother was dressed in a black faille dress with black accessories and corsage of pink pompoms.

Following the ceremony a reception was held in the home of the bride's parents in West Monroe.

The bride will graduate from Ouachita Parish High School in June. The groom graduated from Neville High School and is now serving with the army infantry stationed in San Antonio.

Tamale Pie For Autumn Appetites

"Crisp autumn days sharpen the appetite and call for bubbling casseroles, steaming hot and tasty", states Mrs. Mildred Swift with the agricultural extension department. "I have used several recipes for hot tamale pie, but the one I'm giving you here has everything I have ever made surpassed. This recipe was given to me by Mrs. Thomas Day in West Monroe. It is her own original mixture. Since the preparation takes hours, why not make several and freeze them

Hot Tamele Pie

1 lb. pork roast.
1½ lb. round steak.
6 C. water.

Cook slowly in covered boiler until meat falls from bone.

Cool.
Grind 3 cloves garlic.
Add:
½ t. black pepper.
¼ t. red pepper.
7 T. Chili Powder.
Mix well.

Take 2 cups meal, add ½ teaspoon salt, ½ teaspoon black pepper, ¼ teaspoon red pepper, 3 cloves garlic chipped very fine and ½ cup chili powder. Blend these ingredients, well. Moisten with cold water to avoid lumping. Scald this mixture with boiling broth from meat, stirring and cooking while adding. (Keep broth boiling) continue stirring and cooking until it glazes over. (Another test is to put small amount in a saucer and cool. If it leaves the saucer clean the meal mixture is done.)

Put a layer of this corn meal mush in the bottom of adouble boiler, then a layer of meat mixture. Continue until boiler is filled. Steam at least four hours. Take 1 cup of the meat broth. Add to this 1 T chili powder. Use this for basting the pie, every 30 minutes.

To baste, cut pie in quarters all the way to the bottom of the boiler, pouring in a little broth in each basting.

Hail storms may cause several times as much damage in the U. S. as tornadoes in a year.

CONFESSION: RED STYLE

Vienna —(AP)—The popular Communist confession "I was bad, but I won't be bad any more" has spread from Moscow to Communist Hungary. The government newspaper "Szabad Nep" recently carried one by Ferenc Ladanyi, "worthy actor of the Hungarian People's Republic." It said:

"In the film 'Sing While You Live'", confessed Ladanyi, "I played the part of a(Communist) party secretary in a factory. Did I ever see such a party secretary in life I didn't. Did I talk to one? I didn't. Did I watch him at work? Never.

"I only knew the party secretary of the National Theater—but then he is an actor like me and not an ironworker.

"Also the criticism that in my role, may hair was long and dangling to my neck, was very just, I admit treating my role rather slightly.

Miss Charlotte Black Is Recent Bride Of Cpl. Russell Sims

Of interest to friends is the announcement of the marriage of Miss Charlotte Black, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. T. O. Black, to Cpl. Russell Sims, son of Mr. and Mrs. Russell Sims, Sr which was solemnized in the First Methodist Church of West Monroe, Nov 15 at seven thirty o'clock in the evening.

The Rev. R. H. Staples, pastor, officiated at the double ring ceremony before an altar decorated with branched candelabra and baskets of white chrysanthemums.

The bride was given in marriage by her father and was wearing a blue wool suit with accessories of black. Her hat and glove were pink and she was wearing an orchid corsage. Her only ornament was the necklace which belonged to her great-grandmother.

Miss Pat Scarbrock was the maid of honor and only attendant. She was wearing a black crepe dress and black accessories with a hat of tangarine color. Her corsage was white carnations.

Mr. Eugene Dean served the groom as best man.

Mrs. Black, mother of the bride, was wearing a tangarine gabardine dress with accessories of white and black. Her corsage was of white pompoms. The grooms mother was dressed in a black faille dress with black accessories and corsage of pink pompoms.

Following the ceremony a reception was held in the home of the bride's parents in West Monroe.

The bride will graduate from Ouachita Parish High School in June. The groom graduated from Neville High School and is now serving with the army infantry stationed in San Antonio.

Tamale Pie For Autumn Appetites

"Crisp autumn days sharpen the appetite and call for bubbling casseroles, steaming hot and tasty", states Mrs. Mildred Swift with the agricultural extension department. "I have used several recipes for hot tamale pie, but the one I'm giving you here has everything I have ever made surpassed. This recipe was given to me by Mrs. Thomas Day in West Monroe. It is her own original mixture. Since the preparation takes hours, why not make several and freeze them

Hot Tamele Pie

1 lb. pork roast.
1½ lb. round steak.
6 C. water.

Cook slowly in covered boiler until meat falls from bone.

Cool.

Grind 3 cloves garlic.

Add:

½ t. black pepper.
¼ t. red pepper.
7 T. Chili Powder.

Mix well.

Take 2 cups meal, add ½ teaspoon salt, ½ teaspoon black pepper, ¼ teaspoon red pepper, 3 cloves garlic chipped very fine and ½ cup chili powder. Blend these ingredients, well. Moisten with cold water to avoid lumping. Scald this mixture with boiling broth from meat, stirring and cooking while adding. (Keep broth boiling) continue stirring and cooking until it glazes over. (Another test is to put small amount in a saucer and cool. If it leaves the saucer clean the meal mixture is done.)

Put a layer of this corn meal mush in the bottom of adouble boiler, then a layer of meat mixture. Continue until boiler is filled. Steam at least four hours. Take 1 cup of the meat broth. Add to this 1 T chili powder. Use this for basting the pie, every 30 minutes.

To baste, cut pie in quarters all the way to the bottom of the boiler, pouring in a little broth in each basting.

Hail storms may cause several times as much damage in the U. S. as tornadoes in a year.

CONFESSION: RED STYLE

Vienna —(AP)—The popular Communist confession "I was bad, but I won't be bad any more" has spread from Moscow to Communist Hungary. The government newspaper "Szabad Nep" recently carried one by Ferenc Ladanyi, "worthy actor of the Hungarian People's Republic." It said:

"In the film 'Sing While You Live'", confessed Ladanyi, "I played the part of a (Communist) party secretary in a factory. Did I ever see such a party secretary in life I didn't. Did I talk to one? I didn't. Did I watch him at work? Never.

"I only knew the party secretary of the National Theater—but then he is an actor like me and not an ironworker.

"Also the criticism that in my role, may hair was long and dangling to my neck, was very just, I admit treating my role rather slightly.

JACOBY ON CANASTA

By Oswald Jacoby

The other day I sat in back of a rather good canasta player who suffers from one terrible fault. He does not cooperate with his partner. Furthermore, if his partner of the moment happens to be a weak player, this man tries to play the whole hand by himself with almost uniformly bad results.

This was the first hand of the game. My man had a bad partner and a bad hand. No wild cards and no set of three of a kind. No one melded for a while and my man managed to acquire three kings, but still no wild card. He had discarded a couple of sevens early in the play and at this turn his discard gave away the pile.

The player who took the pile melded the minimum and now my man's partner melded two deuces and two sevens.

It was not hard to sense my man's rage. He had a bad hand which obviously did not include any sevens and yet his idiot partner had wasted two deuces with two sevens.

I must admit that the play looked terrible to me, but I wondered if maybe the partner did not have some method in his madness. I said to myself, "what would I do if I held five or six wild cards but only one natural pair—sevens."

The answer was that I would meld just as this player had done in order to beg my partner to put down anything he could in hope that we could find a base, make a canasta and meld out.

My man drew a nine giving him three nines in addition to the three kings he held already and I wondered if he would have enough sense to meld.He didn't, but merely discarded.

Now, I walked around the table to see if my analysis of the partner's play had been correct. It had been. The seven cards remaining in his hand were a king, a jack, a five and four more deuces.

He drew a second five. He would have been able to go out then and there if his partner had put down three kings. As it was all he could do was to meld deuce-five-five and unfortunately he chose to discard the king.

Now my man woke up, but one play late. He melded his kings and nines. Unfortunately, for him, the king that would have made a base for the essential canasta had been discarded and he and his partner were unlucky enough not to draw a base for several rounds. In the interim the opponents managed to make several canastas, and wound up with a fine score whereas a little real partnership cooperation would have set them back.

Mr. Jacoby is unable to answer individual questions on canasta from readers. However, he will include the most frequently asked questions in his column.

Linville Couple Celebrates Golden Wedding Recently

Mr. and Mrs. Will Beasley recently celebrated their golden wedding anniversary in Linville. Lovely gifts were brought by friends who came to offer congratulations and wishes for many more years of wedded bliss.

Delicious barbecued meat and other tempting viands were served to their many friends and members of the family that were present. During the afternoon a reproduction of the morning service by the Rev. C. Smith, pastor of the Liberty Baptist Church, was given.

Mr. and Mrs. Will Beasley are the parents of four sons and four daughters. They have twenty-eight grandchildren and one great-grandson. With the exception of one grandson all were present. Their children are Mr. O. C. Beasley, Mr. Sam Beasley, Mr. Herbert Beasley and M. Johnnie Beasley, Mrs. R. C. Roberson, Mrs. Furman Roberson, Mrs. P. B. Gates and Mrs. Lawson Hill.

Mrs. R. L. Love, the former Miss Kate Beasley and J. J. Parks, who were Mr. and Mrs. Beasley's attendants at their wedding fifty years ago were present for this occasion.

Wanna Be Surprised?

By Cynthia Lowry

American womanhood, housewife variety, has been duly polled. At least three out of four allege they would rather be surprised at Christmas than dictate—however indirectly — the choice of their spouse's Yuletide offering.

The pollster in this case is an important magazine (Woman's Home Companion) which deduces from its statistics that women are as romantic as schoolgirls around Christmas gifts as 'Even if the gift isn't quite what I wanted, it still reflects real thought and love" and "I feel my husband would miss a lot of fun if he couldn't shop for my gift. . . ."

The magazine also deduces that women who prefer to direct their husband's choice of gifts are practical, with decided tastes and rather hard to please.

Far be it from me to fly in the face of statistics or even a poll, but I feel that a large number of the polled ladies are indulging in a little day-dreaming, quite forgetting some of the surprise presents they have encountered under the tree in previous years.

"I like to be surprised," said the first victim of my own private research, "and I like to surprise my husband on Christmas. My husband always tries to surprise me, but usually he hints about what he has bought me."

"What was your surprise present last year?" I queried of my friend, who is strictly a boudoir type.

"Well," she said, "it was a pair of custom-made hunting boots."

She was touched and she certainly was surprised. She hasn't worn them yet.

"And custom-made—so I can't exchange them," she wailed.

Another friend is surprised each year by her present. It's always several night gowns, handmade, beautiful and black lace.

"I adore to be surprised by his present," she said, eyes aglow with affection. "He always asks me what I want and I always tell him a mink coat. So each year I get my black nightgowns. A couple of weeks later I say casually that they are too small or too large, and that I have to exchange them. Then I exchange them for something I really want. The funny thing about it is that he never notices. I've never worn a black nightgown in my life and don't ever propose to. But he's such a dear. . . ."

Analyzing our own poll statistics, I can only conclude that women take delight in envisioning their own particular man struggling ineptly and rather helplessly in Christmas shopping crowds. All I know is that four women said firmly that they preferred to be surprised by their husband's gift. Each mentioned how her husband hated to shop—apparently taking vast comfort in the thought of the male breasting the mob in search of a gift for his beloved. Apparently, a flagon of "Nuit d'Amour" obtained from a perfume counter in mid-shopping season is more greatly to be desired as an expression of true love than a couple of deer and a brace of partridges for the deep freezer acquired by Papa's camping in the cold woods for a week during hunting season.

My informants allege further that when men think of presents for their spouse, their thoughts run in routine channels: perfume, stockings, nightgowns—and robes.

"But don't ever let your husband surprise you with a robe," warned one wife. "They always buy such flossy, fussy ones you can't wear them. It's hard to exchange them for something simpler—they notice the difference and are unhappy."

In the interests of fairness, we interviewed a number of husbands. Did their wives like to be surprised by their Christmas gifts?

"My wife tells me what she wants for Christmas," was the uniform answer, "and I go out and buy it. Sometimes the instructions come in a round-about way, but I'm pretty sure of my orders in plenty of time before the great day. Me? I act surprised each Christmas over socks, ties, shirts and pipes."

Local Firemen Commended

The Monroe Fire department received a check for $100 Thursday from Gus Kokinos in appreciation for an excellent job which they did in saving his ice cream plant from destruction by fire.

Upon entering the building after the fire had been put out Kokinos threw up his hands and walked out stating that the building was ruined. After the firmen had completed their clean up job Kokinos returned and was amazed. He stated that you could hardly tell that there had been a fire.

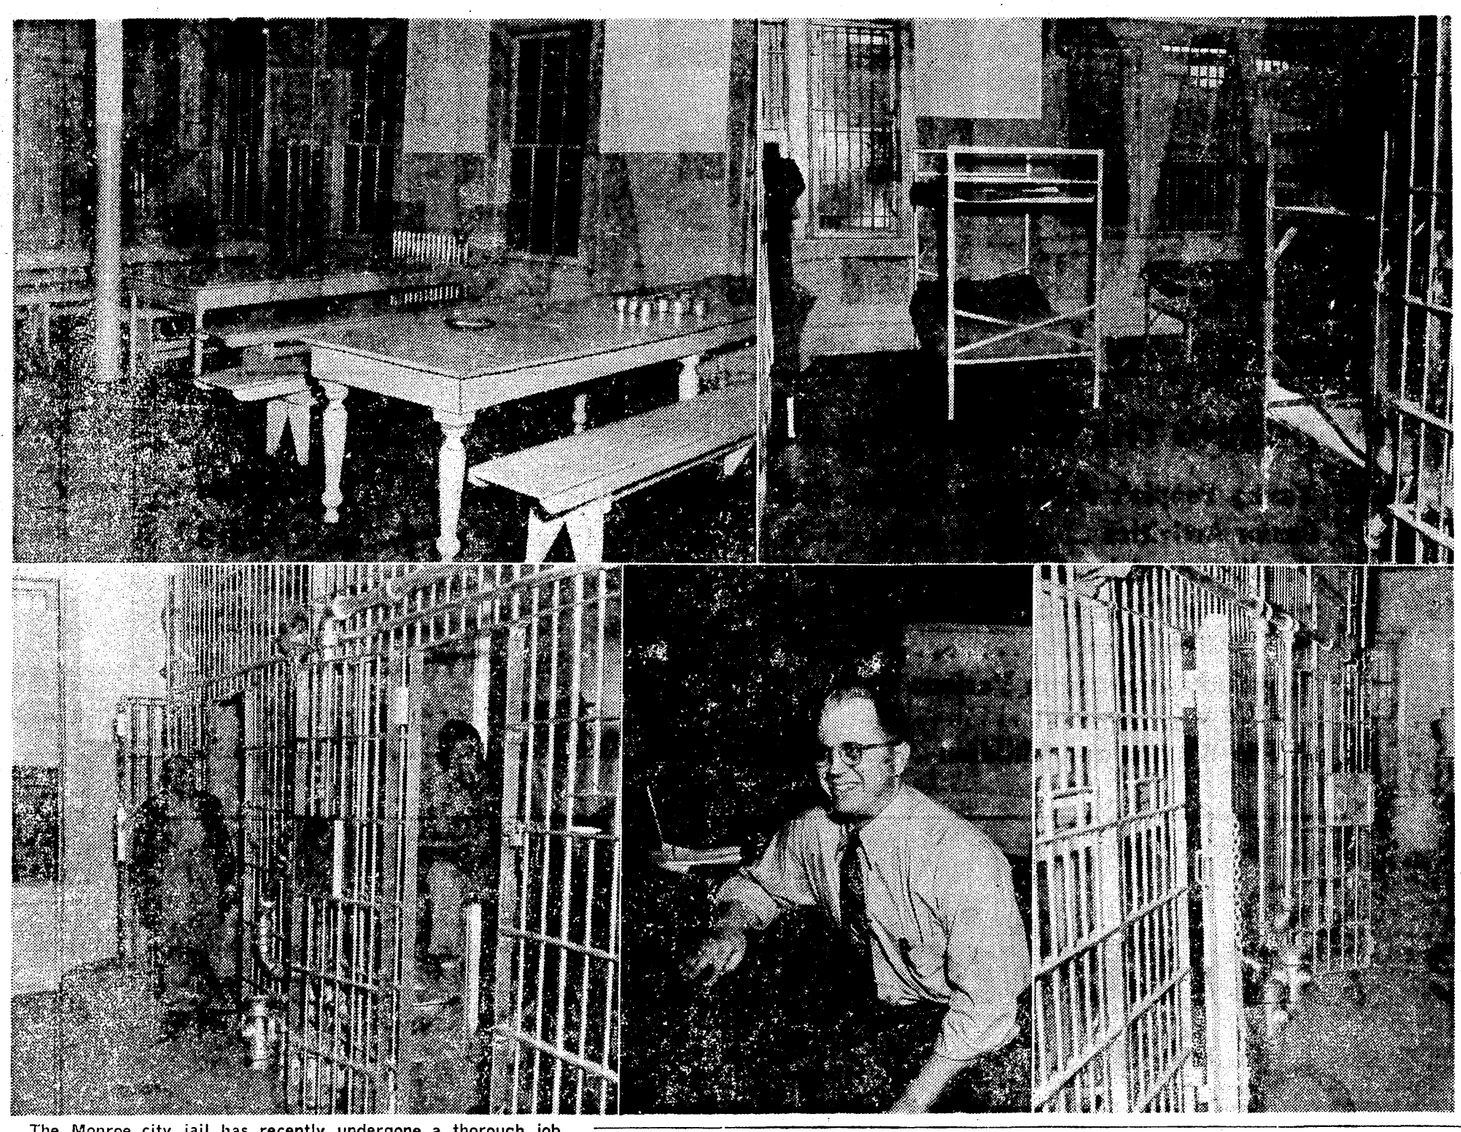
The Monroe firemen received another letter from John Scalia, whose mothers home at 209 Stubbs burned recently. The letter stated that he could not imagine how anyone could have saved the furniture and personal belongings in his mothers home.

A letter from G. R. Hurd, superintendent of fire protection for the Illinois Central railroad, read as follows: "I wish to personally commend all members of the Monroe Fire department for fine work performed in saving a carload of compressed cotton on November 7.

These are just a few letters received weekly by the department commending their work.

The Monroe Fire department is on call everyhour of the day for the protection of the city of Monroe from fire.

COMPLETELY REFINISH ED MONROE CITY JAIL



The Monroe city jail has recently undergone a thorough job of repairment and painting. Upper left is shown the dining hall whose tables, benches, and walls bear a fresh coat of paint and the floors sanded and waxed. Upper right is the white women's ward which proudly sports a new paint and floor finishing job. Lower left is the colored men's ward, with some of the inmates pictured, which had has a complete refinishing on cells, floor, walls, and windows. Middle bottom is the city jailer, L. P. Smith. City Jail Gets First Overhaul In 40 Years

By Yvonne Brett
(Of the Morning World Staff)

Monroe's city jail, long of ill-fame for its untidiness and filth, has at last been repaired and painted.

The jail, which hasn't had a complete overhaul job since 1910 when the city hall was built, has been re-conditioned throughout.

Mayor John Coon and Commissioners F. X. Cline and J. P. Simmons issued a statement after the completion of the present alteration. It read as follows: The city council is happy to announce that the much needed repairs and alterations to the city jail have been completed and through this medium wishes to invite the public to inspect it at any time. It was a well known fact that the jail was dilapidated and in a run down condition and your city officials feel that the expenditure made in this connection was a wise and worthy one.

This reporter, upon first visiting the jail, found that conditions prevailing in the city supported unit was totally lacking in sanitary conditions favorable to healthy habitation. This subject was brought to the attention of the city council by various citizens and steps were taken by that body to remedy the conditions.

Past city officials have neglected the jail for more pressing items. This one factor has been a blot upon the city of Monroe in not having a jail which met the requirements for an institution to house those who have not obeyed the rules of society.

A majority of those who are placed in the city jail are not the hardened criminal type, but those who have committeed minor crimes such as drunkeness, speeding in the city limits, fighting and other minor acts. If they were guilty of a larger offense they would be placed in the Ouachita parish jail.

Housing these persons in filth does nothing for their betterment, and it is with pride that the city council can present to their community a completely re-finished jail.

The white women's ward has had a complete paint job throughout and the floors have been sanded and waxed. The beds, which heretofore were rusted and worn, have a thorough job of repair.

Cells and floors in both the white and colored men's wards have been painted and repaired. In the past, these rooms were lacking in paint and the floors, which are concrete, were so filthy that nothing could be done to clean them.

The dining room has had its tables and benches finished with fresh coats of paint and the floors sanded and waxed.

Upon questioning the prisoners housed in the jail their statements added that the newly repaired city was as nice a place as one would want to be in.

Paint contractors for the job were Baham and Williamson. Rogers and Jones were the floor finishing contractors.

The mayor and commissioners have invited the public to come and inspect the jail. Each citizen should visit the jail, so that they might realize that as a city and community, Monroe is trying to encourage a large number of individuals to become respectable citizens.

NEW HOSPITAL SOON TO OPEN

Marion Institution To Invite Inspection On Sunday

Marion, La., Dec. 2.—(Special)—Marion's new seventeen bed hospital will be open to the public Sunday afternoon from 1 until 5 o'clock when open house will be held in order that the general public may see what the citizens of this community have accomplished in a short time to provide medical facilities for Marion.

Only a few months ago the question of providing a modern hospital for the community was brought up at a meeting of the Marion Civic Club and at this meeting more than half the money necessary to build the hospital was subscribed. A stock company was organized with $25,000 capital, practically all the stock being held by citizens of Marion and the surrounding community. The hospital is equipped with all modern conveniences. It has concrete floors, asbestos siding, operating rooms, X-ray rooms, large reception rooms and rooms for patients.

Dr. and Mrs. Virgil S. Gully, of Maion, will operate the hospital under lease from the corporation and it is expected that the building will be ready for occupancy next week.

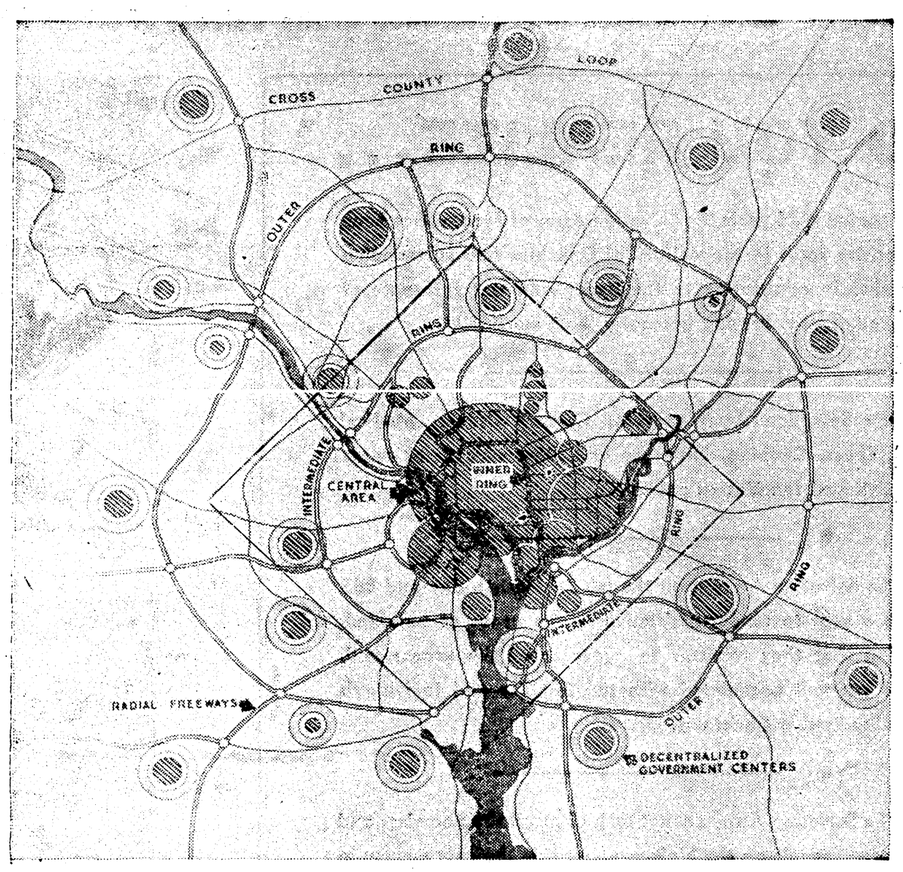
DIET LIMITED

New Delhi —(AP)— Congress President Purushottamdas Tandon's address on diet to a recent nature cure conference here left many wondering what was left for him to eat. Tandon advised against salt, milk, honey, sugar, butter and meat, among other things.

Boiled potatoes and fruit form the main part of his diet. Breakfast is a handful of wheat soaked in water overnight and a little fruit. Occasionally, a few almonds and "tulsi" leaves ground into a thick paste form an additional course.

His two other meals consist of boiled vegetables, potatoes, raw ginger and a piece of pancake. Half-boiled rice sometimes replaces the pancake. No salt, pepper or fat is used in the preparation of his meals. He drinks water only.

Washington's Plan For Dispersal Will Spread Government Agencies



Capital Dispersal: Here's how Washington's government agencies would be spread out into "intermediate" and "outer" rings by 1980 under the decentralization plan set up to ease crowding.

BY DOUGLAS LARSEN
NEA Staff Correspondent ...

Washington—(NEA)—During the next 30 years the U.S. capital's government agencies will be dispersed over an area with a 50-mile radius. And by 1980 it is estimated that the Capital's population will be 2,000,000 persons.

When the dispersal and other revolutionary changes in the city of Washington are accomplished, according to President Truman, "It should be the best planned city in the world and a Capital befitting the dignity and ideals of a great nation in a family of nations."

This great plan, which is supposed to completely make over Washington, is the work of the national Capital park and planning commission, an organization created by congress to act as sort of a parent in direvting Washington's physical growth.

Dispersal of the government buildings over a vast area into Maryland and Virginia is both for defense and traffic purposes, according to the new NCPPC 30-year plan.

As in many other large U. S. cities the parking and traffic problems in Washington have become so serious as to jeopardize the efficiency of the city's businesses, the main one here being government. And with so many key agencies like the defense and state departments clustered in a relatively small space, the town is a prime atomic bomb target.

The plan will freeze the number of government workers in the 10-square-mile District of Columbia proper at 140,000, the present figure. Expanding old agencies and any new ones will be located 10 to 15 miles out from the White House. Industrial, experimental or secret federal acitivites will be placed about 50 miles out.

Very wide highways will be built, ringing the expanded city and connecting the dispersed agencies. Big, adequate parking areas will be set aside near each agency. Special lanes will be provided for buses during the rush hours. Autos and delivery trucks will be banned on certain key streets during certain hours.

The plan also recommends fast completion of a new super-highway between Baltimore and Washington. The present four-lane highway—U. S. 1—connecting the two cities is considered one of the most dangerous roads in the country because of the heavy traffic it carries.

According to the plan the whole area will be carefully zoned and the center of Washington re-zoned. It is recommended that the building of huge apartments in the midst of already densely populated neighborhoods be stopped. Agencies would be forced to give up space leased from private office buildings in the city. Neighborhoods for the homes of the government workers would be built near the spreadout offices for obvious convenience.

For the beautification of the present city the plan recommends that all of the temporary buildings built for World War I and II activities be torn down. More trees would be planted and all of the monuments would be more elaborately landscaped than they are now.

For the expected big increase in population, it is estimated that the Washington area will need one-third more homes than it has now. It would call for 25 new schools to be built with "progressive removal of race segregation." The same would be true for many new playgrounds and recreation centers which would have to be built under the plan.

No part of the plan, its authors insist, would remove any of the historical sites or charm of the nation's capital. Rather, they say the plan would make them more available and more pleasant for the thousands of sightseers who throng the city annually.

The title of this new plan is "Washington: Present and Future.' Actually, it is the first of six such programs for the city being prepared by the NCPPC. The next one will be called "Housing and Redevelopment."

Who is to pay for all of this, and how much is it to cost?

That's also for later reports they say.

Anesthesiology, Radiology Work Vitally Important

By Jim Reynolds
(Of the Morning World Staff)

The drama of medicine . . . the stuff from which movies are made . . . usually centers about the operating room. There's no scene more vivid in impact than the brilliantly lighted, anti-septically white view of surgery . . . the tense surgeon, the attentive nurses, the crisp orders . . . "scalpel . . . clamps . . ."

Hidden in the background, usually obscured by the impressive equipment he uses, is the anesthetist, or if you like tongue twisting names, the anesthesiologist. He's the one indirectly responsible for the wild dreams people remember (or think they remember) after the operation they insist on describing.

He's the one in charge of administering the soothing, sleep-inducing or pain eliminating materials which make advanced modern surgery possible.

Too often, we get to think of him as the fellow who drops th ether on the cone over your face. That's all . . . just a guy with a can of smelly fluid in his hand . . . or so we may think.

Actually, he's the man who has charge of you, except in matters directly connected with surgery, from the night before your operation until the day after, when the good news that you're "doing fine" is released

We got to know a bit about this anesthesiology business after a visit to St. Francis Sanitarium and a talk with Dr. Stanley Mintz, anesthesiologist (love that word!) at our community hospital.

He's a short, quiet, young-looking man with a quiet, affable manner that belies the responsibilities and duties he assumes daily. To hear him talk, you'd suppose his work represented just another job. To hear surgeons talk, you get the true picture of his importance.

One doctor who refused to be quoted (sometimes these doctors can be fussy about any personal publicity) said of the head of the anesthesia department: "He's brought the newest techniques, the best in treatment to the operating room. The only trouble is that you can't cite facts and figures to prove how he has helped cut the mortality rate. Take it from me, he has. The doctors know it . . . and they're the ones who ought to know the true picture."

One of the city's leading surgeons, while being complimented on a recent "miracle" operation, added: "Don't think I did it alone; in addition to the top-notch help of all the attendants, I felt the assurance that he anesthetist was keeping that paient in the best possible conition. No surgeon can do the best work when he is unable to concentrate entirely on the operation at every instant. The anesthetist makes that possible."

In basic terms, according to Dr. Mintz, the anesthetist begins his care of the patient with a conference and study of the case history and special circumstances affecting the patient. This usually takes place the night before the operation. Then the anesthetist checks the patient's condition, prescribes medication to insure rest and the best possible mental and physical condition for the following day. He also decides the method and type of anesthesia . . . whether it be local or general, partial, "block" type or whatever is indicated. He deals with the old stanbys like ether and chloroform and with the newer "wonder" anesthetics such as "twilight sleep" and cyclopropane. He deals in the relief of pain.

"Our aim", he said, "is to assure the most comfort for the patient pre-operatively, to assure the maximum safety for the patient, and to permit the surgeon to perform the operation with a minimum of concern and responsibilities for non-surgical conditions."

Mintz, an M. D. who specialized in the study and technique of anesthesiology after his internship, is currently in his second year on the St. Francis staff. He's proud of the equipment in the operating room . . . "I've got a right to be proud of them, too . . . they're just the best you can get," he says "Our physical setup . . the room and its facilities could certainly be improved, and will be, I'm sure, when we get the new building, but our equipment, at least in my department, is the best."

Equipment is a mighty big item in another of the high spots of the St. Francis Sanitarium, the Radiology department. That's just a fancy way, we were informed, to describe the X-ray center. In charge of this unit is another specially-qualified M. D., Dr. Charles Lobrano.

With the assistance of two technicians, he has charge of the treatment and diagnostic use of the hospital's X-ray machines. There are three units the radiograph or photographic machine, and two therapy machines. The therapy units, used for X-ray treatments, develop the impressive amount of 200,000 and 100,000 volts respectively.

The big unit, the doctor told us, is used in the treatment of deep disorders, is effective to a distance of 10 to 15 centimeters (about four inches) under the skin. With this machine, patients can be treated for deep-seated growths and the centers of large tumors and other growths can be hit with the concentrated destructive ray beams.

The smaller unit, if you can call 100,000 volts "small," is used for superficial treatment, concentrating on the skin or the tissue immediately below it.

"We really couldn't ask for much better machines," said Dr. Lobrano, "but we sure could use more space . . . space designed for our needs. Right now, we have little privacy for the patients being treated or space for our equipment and activities. That new building will be a godsend, and will mean better work from this department."

X-rays were one of the first effecture weapons in the fight against cancer, and all the new techniques of other treatment have merely served to prove its identity as one of the most powerful destroyers of the deadly growth. The use of X-ray in the treatment of cancer has increased through the year, Dr. Lobrano revealed, and is now greater than ever before, despite the tremendous strides made in other fields and methods of treatment.

The heads of the radiology and anesthesiology departments represent an indication of the efforts of St. Francis to secure the best treatment at all times for is patients. In most cities of his size, and in many larger cities, several hospitals depend on the services of one specialist who serves all. In those cities, the specialist sets himself up in private practice and is able to devote only part of his time to each institution.

At St. Francis, though, the staff boasts full-fledged M. D.'s with required specialties and experience in three highly important departments; Dr. N. Klam heads Pathology and the laboratory section; Dr. Mintz is chief of the Anesthesiology department; and Dr. Lobrano is in charge of radiology . . . all full time staff members.

Finding out about the high points of these departments, so little known by the public, gave us plenty to talk about. Incidentally, did I ever tell you about my operation? "Well, you see, it happened like this . . ."

Woman Travels East In Wagon

(Associated Press Newsfeatures)

Jamestown, N. D.—A weather-beaten, 60-year-old-woman with the stamina of a pioneer and scorn for modern transportation is on her way from Montana to Minnesota in a covered wagon.

Jesse Anna Lacinah sold her ranch, cattle and most of her belongings several weeks ago and started her trek from Big Sandy, Mont.

Her plodding trip of more than 1,000 miles was interrupted when her horses, "Pick and Nally O'Mally," bolted and the covered wagon and a truck collided. Jesse Anna was hospitalized here for a rest.

She has the same wagon and horse harness used when she went west in 1914. Her destination now is Lakefield, Minn., where a sister, Mary Ohlario, lives.

Jesse Anna eats and sleeps in her covered wagon. A bed spring is fastened to the fore part of the wagon and extends to about the midsection. The back half of the wagon is loaded with corn stalks for the horses.

To add to Jesse Anna's misfortune, her goat, "My Pal, Eliza," died. Eliza used to bring up the rear in a two wheeled cart and for her passage provided milk.

When Jess Anna passed through Bismarch, she had a passerby call a department store clerk for her. She ordered a pair of overshoes, some safety pins and a few yards of white cloth.

She has roughly 400 miles left of her trip "back east."

REDS USE MAKEUP

Kuala Lumpur.—(AP)—Communist terrorists in the Malayan jungle are going in for "make-up."

A majority of the terrorists are Chinese — and they don't wear moustaches. But a patrol of British Gurkha soldiers, clashing with a Communist band, found some who did.

Closer investigation of the "equipment" of the terrorists disclosed they had been using ordinary theatrical "prop" moustaches —which, from a distance looked quite realistic. The idea was to make the Malayan villages think that some Europeans had joined the Communist bands.

Wanna Be Surprised?

By Cynthia Lowry

American womanhood, housewife variety, has been duly polled. At least three out of four allege they would rather be surprised at Christmas than dictate—however indirectly — the choice of their spouse's Yuletide offering.

The pollster in this case is an important magazine (Woman's Home Companion) which deduces from its statistics that women are as romantic as schoolgirls around Christmas gifts as 'Even if the gift isn't quite what I wanted, it still reflects real thought and love" and "I feel my husband would miss a lot of fun if he couldn't shop for my gift. . . ."

The magazine also deduces that women who prefer to direct their husband's choice of gifts are practical, with decided tastes and rather hard to please.

Far be it from me to fly in the face of statistics or even a poll, but I feel that a large number of the polled ladies are indulging in a little day-dreaming, quite forgetting some of the surprise presents they have encountered under the tree in previous years.

"I like to be surprised," said the first victim of my own private research, "and I like to surprise my husband on Christmas. My husband always tries to surprise me, but usually he hints about what he has bought me."

"What was your surprise present last year?" I queried of my friend, who is strictly a boudoir type.

"Well," she said, "it was a pair of custom-made hunting boots."

She was touched and she certainly was surprised. She hasn't worn them yet.

"And custom-made—so I can't exchange them," she wailed.

Another friend is surprised each year by her present. It's always several night gowns, handmade, beautiful and black lace.

"I adore to be surprised by his present," she said, eyes aglow with affection. "He always asks me what I want and I always tell him a mink coat. So each year I get my black nightgowns. A couple of weeks later I say casually that they are too small or too large, and that I have to exchange them. Then I exchange them for something I really want. The funny thing about it is that he never notices. I've never worn a black nightgown in my life and don't ever propose to. But he's such a dear. . . ."

Analyzing our own poll statistics, I can only conclude that women take delight in envisioning their own particular man struggling ineptly and rather helplessly in Christmas shopping crowds. All I know is that four women said firmly that they preferred to be surprised by their husband's gift. Each mentioned how her husband hated to shop—apparently taking vast comfort in the thought of the male breasting the mob in search of a gift for his beloved. Apparently, a flagon of "Nuit d'Amour" obtained from a perfume counter in mid-shopping season is more greatly to be desired as an expression of true love than a couple of deer and a brace of partridges for the deep freezer acquired by Papa's camping in the cold woods for a week during hunting season.

My informants allege further that when men think of presents for their spouse, their thoughts run in routine channels: perfume, stockings, nightgowns—and robes.

"But don't ever let your husband surprise you with a robe," warned one wife. "They always buy such flossy, fussy ones you can't wear them. It's hard to exchange them for something simpler—they notice the difference and are unhappy."

In the interests of fairness, we interviewed a number of husbands. Did their wives like to be surprised by their Christmas gifts?

"My wife tells me what she wants for Christmas," was the uniform answer, "and I go out and buy it. Sometimes the instructions come in a round-about way, but I'm pretty sure of my orders in plenty of time before the great day. Me? I act surprised each Christmas over socks, ties, shirts and pipes."

Local Firemen Commended

The Monroe Fire department received a check for $100 Thursday from Gus Kokinos in appreciation for an excellent job which they did in saving his ice cream plant from destruction by fire.

Upon entering the building after the fire had been put out Kokinos threw up his hands and walked out stating that the building was ruined. After the firmen had completed their clean up job Kokinos returned and was amazed. He stated that you could hardly tell that there had been a fire.

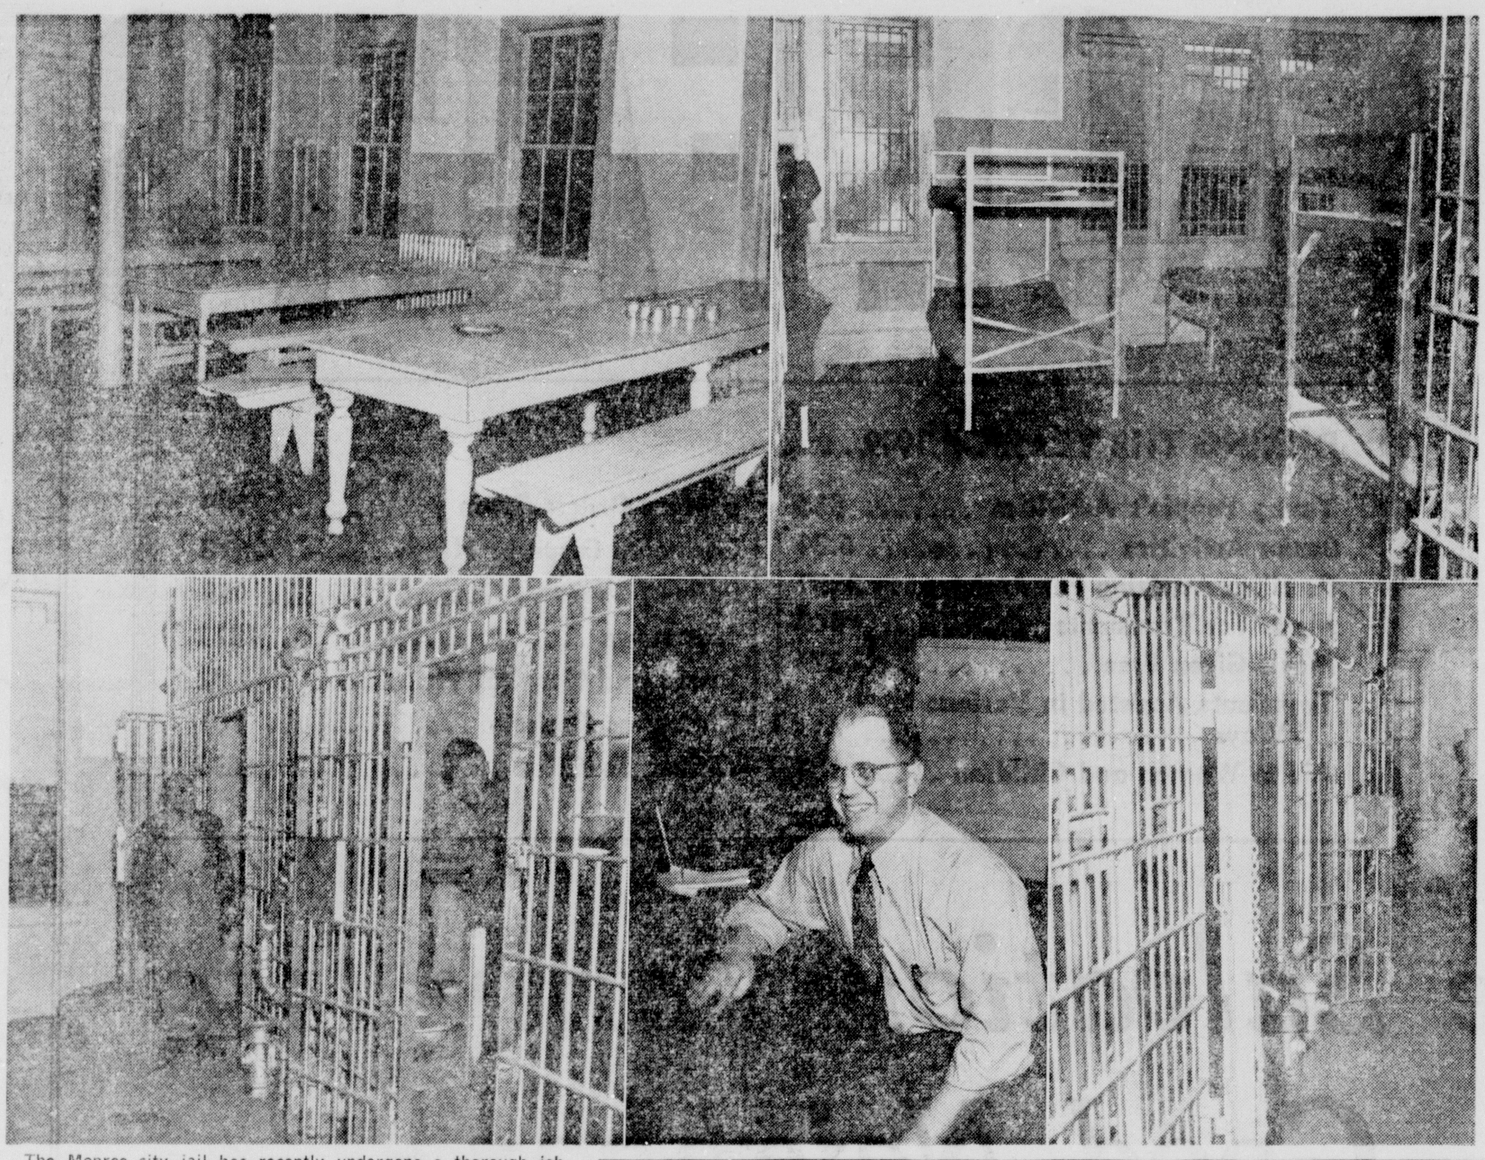
The Monroe firemen received another letter from John Scalia, whose mothers home at 209 Stubbs burned recently. The letter stated that he could not imagine how anyone could have saved the furniture and personal belongings in his mothers home.

A letter from G. R. Hurd, superintendent of fire protection for the Illinois Central railroad, read as follows: "I wish to personally commend all members of the Monroe Fire department for fine work performed in saving a carload of compressed cotton on November 7.

These are just a few letters received weekly by the department commending their work.

The Monroe Fire department is on call everyhour of the day for the protection of the city of Monroe from fire.

COMPLETELY REFINISH ED MONROE CITY JAIL



The Monroe city jail has recently undergone a thorough job of repairment and painting. Upper left is shown the dining hall whose tables, benches, and walls bear a fresh coat of paint and the floors sanded and waxed. Upper right is the white women's ward which proudly sports a new paint and floor finishing job. Lower left is the colored men's ward, with some of the inmates pictured, which had has a complete refinishing on cells, floor, walls, and windows. Middle bottom is the city jailer, L. P. Smith. City Jail Gets First Overhaul In 40 Years

By Yvonne Brett
(Of the Morning World Staff)

Monroe's city jail, long of ill-fame for its untidiness and filth, has at last been repaired and painted.

The jail, which hasn't had a complete overhaul job since 1910 when the city hall was built, has been re-conditioned throughout.

Mayor John Coon and Commissioners F. X. Cline and J. P. Simmons issued a statement after the completion of the present alteration: It read as follows: The city council is happy to announce that the much needed repairs and alterations to the city jail have been completed and through this medium wishes to invite the public to inspect it at any time. It was a well known fact that the jail was dilapidated and in a run down condition and your city officials feel that the expenditure made in this connection was a wise and worthy one.

This reporter, upon first visiting the jail, found that conditions prevailing in the city supported unit was totally lacking in sanitary conditions favorable to healthy habitation. This subject was brought to the attention of the city council by various citizens and steps were taken by that body to remedy the conditions.

Past city officials have neglected the jail for more pressing items. This one factor has been a blot upon the city of Monroe in not having a jail which met the requirements for an institution to house those who have not obeyed the rules of society.

A majority of those who are placed in the city jail are not the hardened criminal type, but those who have committeed minor crimes such as drunkeness, speeding in the city limits, fighting and other minor acts. If they were guilty of a larger offense they would be placed in the Ouachita parish jail.

Housing these persons in filth does nothing for their betterment, and it is with pride that the city council can present to their community a completely re-finished jail.

The white women's ward has had a complete paint job throughout and the floors have been sanded and waxed. The beds, which heretofore were rusted and worn, have a thorough job of repair.

Cells and floors in both the white and colored men's wards have been painted and repaired. In the past, these rooms were lacking in paint and the floors, which are concrete, were so filthy that nothing could be done to clean them.

The dining room has had its tables and benches finished with fresh coats of paint and the floors sanded and waxed.

Upon questioning the prisoners housed in the jail their statements added that the newly repaired city was as nice a place as one would want to be in.

Paint contractors for the job were Baham and Williamson. Rogers and Jones were the floor finishing contractors.

The mayor and commissioners have invited the public to come and inspect the jail. Each citizen should visit the jail, so that they might realize that as a city and community, Monroe is trying to encourage a large number of individuals to become respectable citizens.

NEW HOSPITAL SOON TO OPEN

Marion Institution To Invite Inspection On Sunday

Marion, La., Dec. 2.—(Special)—Marion's new seventeen bed hospital will be open to the public Sunday afternoon from 1 until 5 o'clock when open house will be held in order that the general public may see what the citizens of this community have accomplished in a short time to provide medical facilities for Marion.

Only a few months ago the question of providing a modern hospital for the community was brought up at a meeting of the Marion Civic Club and at this meeting more than half the money necessary to build the hospital was subscribed. A stock company was organized with $25,000 capital, practically all the stock being held by citizens of Marion and the surrounding community. The hospital is equipped with all modern conveniences. It has concrete floors, asbestos siding, operating rooms, X-ray rooms, large reception rooms and rooms for patients.

Dr. and Mrs. Virgil S. Gully, of Maion, will operate the hospital under lease from the corporation and it is expected that the building will be ready for occupancy next week.

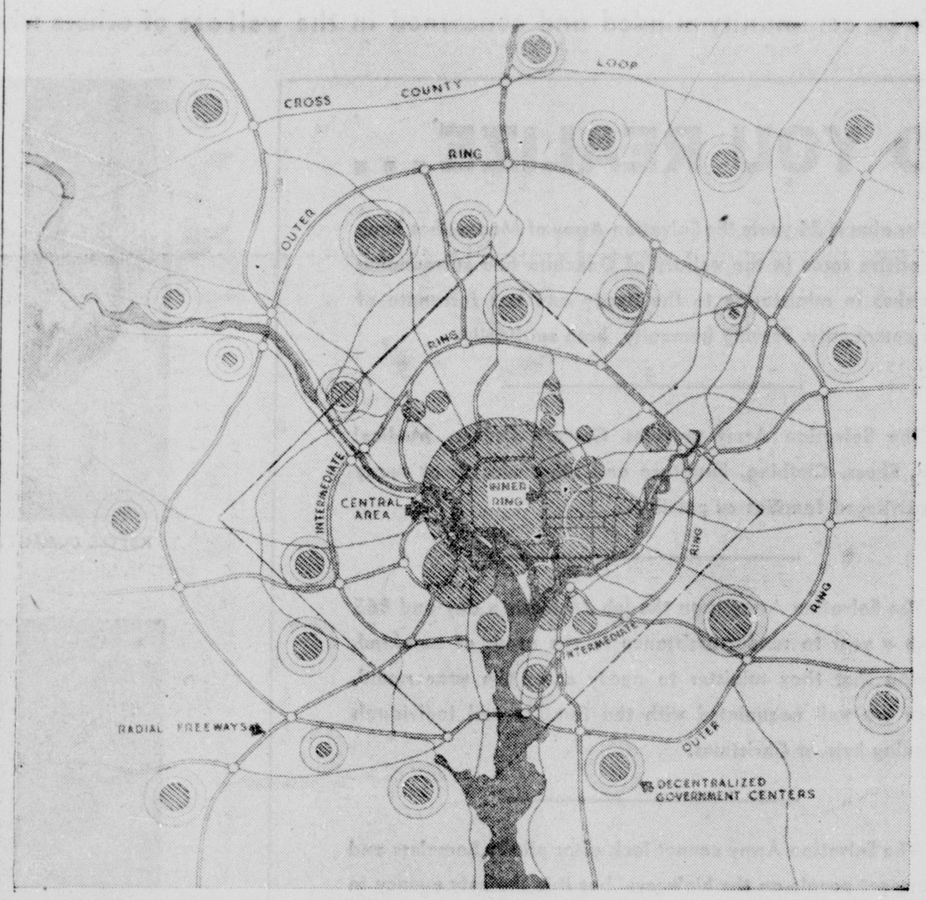
DIET LIMITED

New Delhi —(AP)— Congress President Purushottamdas Tandon's address on diet to a recent nature cure conference here left many wondering what was left for him to eat. Tandon advised against salt, milk, honey, sugar, butter and meat, among other things.

Boiled potatoes and fruit form the main part of his diet. Breakfast is a handful of wheat soaked in water overnight and a little fruit. Occasionally, a few almonds and "tulsi" leaves ground into a thick paste form an additional course.

His two other meals consist of boiled vegetables, potatoes, raw ginger and a piece of pancake. Half-boiled rice sometimes replaces the pancake. No salt, pepper or fat is used in the preparation of his meals. He drinks water only.

Washington's Plan For Dispersal Will Spread Government Agencies



Capital Dispersal: Here's how Washington's government agencies would be spread out into "intermediate" and "outer" rings by 1980 under the decentralization plan set up to ease crowding.

BY DOUGLAS LARSEN
NEA Staff Correspondent ...

Washington—(NEA)—During the next 30 years the U.S. capital's government agencies will be dispersed over an area with a 50-mile radius. And by 1980 it is estimated that the Capital's population will be 2,000,000 persons.

When the dispersal and other revolutionary changes in the city of Washington are accomplished, according to President Truman, "It should be the best planned city in the world and a Capital befitting the dignity and ideals of a great nation in a family of nations."

This great plan, which is supposed to completely make over Washington, is the work of the national Capital park and planning commission, an organization created by congress to act as sort of a parent in direvting Washington's physical growth.

Dispersal of the government buildings over a vast area into Maryland and Virginia is both for defense and traffic purposes, according to the new NCPPC 30-year plan.

As in many other large U. S. cities the parking and traffic problems in Washington have become so serious as to jeopardize the efficiency of the city's businesses, the main one here being government. And with so many key agencies like the defense and state departments clustered in a relatively small space, the town is a prime atomic bomb target.

The plan will freeze the number of government workers in the 10-square-mile District of Columbia proper at 140,000, the present figure. Expanding old agencies and any new ones will be located 10 to 15 miles out from the White House. Industrial, experimental or secret federal acitivites will be placed about 50 miles out.

Very wide highways will be built, ringing the expanded city and connecting the dispersed agencies. Big, adequate parking areas will be set aside near each agency. Special lanes will be provided for buses during the rush hours. Autos and delivery trucks will be banned on certain key streets during certain hours.

The plan also recommends fast completion of a new super-highway between Baltimore and Washington. The present four-lane highway—U. S. 1—connecting the two cities is considered one of the most dangerous roads in the country because of the heavy traffic it carries.

According to the plan the whole area will be carefully zoned and the center of Washington re-zoned. It is recommended that the building of huge apartments in the midst of already densely populated neighborhoods be stopped. Agencies would be forced to give up space leased from private office buildings in the city. Neighborhoods for the homes of the government workers would be built near the spreadout offices for obvious convenience.

For the beautification of the present city the plan recommends that all of the temporary buildings built for World War I and II activities be torn down. More trees would be planted and all of the monuments would be more elaborately landscaped than they are now.

Let's be community-minded and concerned in the welfare of others who are in need of assistance.

DID YOU REALIZE...

For almost 24 years the Salvation Army of Monroe has been a positive force in the welfare of Ouachita and surrounding parishes in ministering to the needy and less fortunate of our community. Serving humanity, both spiritually.

The Salvation Army provides Grocery Orders, Medical Aid, Shoes, Clothing, Furniture and other aids to as many unprivileged families as possible.

The Salvation Army is on the job 24 hours a day and 365 days a year to render assistance to the needs of mankind. Seeing that they minister to needy cases the year round, they are well acquainted with the families and individuals needing help at Christmas.

The Salvation Army cannot look after all the homeless and transient people on the highways, but it is the only agency in Ouachita parish prepared to carry on this type of work and each year looks after hundreds of these people who pass through Monroe.

The Salvation Army forms the front line of defense against communism in the U. S. Communism makes its most insiduous appeal to those with empty stomachs and empty hearts. These are the people to whom the army extends an understanding spirit and a helping hand.

The Salvation Army also cares for the needy kin of those throughout the state visiting Monroe who have a loved one in any of the hospitals taking treatment.

Many interviews are made to persons who are discouraged, lonely, hungry, suffering, a broken home, a parolee, and many others in need of physical salvage.

KETTLE COMMITTEE: Ray Uppdegraff, Pres. George Fink, Chairman.

Mrs. P. G. Rowe—Commissioner of Ouachita Parish Girl Scouts of America. Mrs. W. T. Davis—Leader of Troop No. 7

Merl Padgett, 2nd. Vice-President of Lions Club of Monroe and Lee Hodges, President, who were assisting on the Salvation Army Xmas Kettle campaign.

CLAIBORNE METHODIST CHURCH
Calhoun Road
F. L. Hearne, pastor.
J. O. Fleming, church school supt.
There is an amusing fable of a Chinese farmer. To make his truck garden produce faster, he pulled the plants a little higher out of the ground each morning. That would put him ahead of other gardeners who just waited for the plants to grow up, so he thought. Then one day he discovered that every plant had died.
Extremely foolish! Yet not more so than we are when we fume because our plants mature slowly, or our prayers are not answered immediately or when our God is so patient with us. Can we not be patient with life?
Sevices at our church are as follows:
Sunday:
Church School—9:45 a. m.
Morning Worship Service—10:50 a. m.

THE PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH
Grammont at Catalpa
OF Monroe
Ernest Duncan Holloway, Minister
The Rev. E. K. Means, D.D., is our guest preacher at the morning hour of worship, eleven o'clock. He is well known, a great preacher, a man of God, and we speak for him a large congregation. The Pastor is in Collins, Mississippi, where he is taking part in the fiftieth anniversary of the church in which he was reared.
Mr. Robert Freeman, Minister of Education, will preach at the evening hour, seven thirty o'clock. He is working with us this year, and you are urged to hear him. Your presence will encourage him and you can rest as ured of a message that will stir and inspire.
God has given us the dream of years. The Educational Building is a reality, and now in use. Your cooperation is desired in the liquidation of the debt incurred which made possible the completion and furnishing of the structure. The suggested unit of investment is $60.00, $5.00 monthly. Take as many units as possible. If the response is as large as the past year the debt will be liquidated in two years.
You are invited to worship with us if you are of our faith: if you have no church-home you can be certain of a welcome.

Bible Comments
By William E. Gilroy, D. D.

If people in general were not accustomed to taking so much for granted concerning themselves, they would marvel at that mysterious thing that we call "life."
It is, of course, the center and object of unsolved questionings and mysteries. What happens, for instance, when the accompanying mystery that we call "death" suddenly occurs, and in a moment what was active, vital and intelligent ceases? In what way has life ceased? What has happened to what a moment ago was so real?
The best answer is that the spirit returns to God who gave it (Ecclesiastes 12.7), but from that mystery itself, I turn to the ever-present, but so little considered, mystery of our daily life.
We speak of our physical existence, the use of our five senses, as if it were only a material thing, but what mysteries are in every moment of our conscious life, and even in the mystery of sleep, when consciousness seems suspended?
Through the study of the ear and eye, and the waves of sound and light that operate upon them, man has achieved the wonders of the telephone, the phonograph, the radio, and television; but man's creations only lead us back to the great Creator of our physical being, and the laws that govern our life.
If men had at all a sensitive understanding of these things, they would bow in wonder and reverence before that Creator, as in fact the Hebrew saints and prophets Their distinction was that they thought about life, that heu did not take themselves just for what they were, but they looked into the mystery of their being, and so were led to God.
To take this gift of life, and make no return, to fail to use it in any way for the honor and glory of the One who gave it, marks the deepest tragedy of man. And that tragedy is all the deeper, when we turn from the so-called physical life, to consider the spiritual life, the more abundant life, that is also God's gift, God's supreme gift.
How blind and spiritually incompetent the masses of men are, in making so little of God's gifts, not only in their wholesale destruction of physical life, but in ignoring, or refusing, the higher life that God has made possible.
It was the reproach of Jesus to those of His generation, "Ye will not come unto me that ye may have life," and that reproach has been upon those of each succeeding generation. Yet it is true that "the gift of God is eternal life," and the evidences of that life are plain in the many who have heard the call of the Master, and have accepted His way of love and life.
This Christian attitude toward life is the fulfillment of what was richest and best in the thought and devotion of the inspired Hebrew writers.
It has its noblest expression in the wonderful 107th Psalm, with its beginning, "O give thanks unto to Lord, for He is good," and its breaking forth in the intervals of the description of God's dealings with man unto the passionate plead "Oh that men would praise the Lord for His goodness, and His wonderful works to the children of men!"
Could there be a more proper or earnest, prayer for mankind? And can there be any noble, or more fitting, act of man than the devotion of his life to God?

ONCE GREAT STAR IN OPERA SINGS

Greeted With Mighty Cheers Despite Crack In Her Voice

By Arthur Everett

New York, Dec. 2.—(AP)—There she was—a little old woman with a cracked voice, all alone on the stage of the famed Palace Theater last night.
She was Fritzi Scheff, 71 years old, a star in opera, musicals, vaudeville, drama for 53 years.
This was to be her comeback, this first return to the Palace in 25 years.
She'd opened well Thursday night. It looked then like she was on her way again, her name in lights, her audience as always in her hand.
Behind her Thursday night, it seemed, were the nights of singing and clowning in the smoky saloons of east side New York, where this great old star had landed as age forced her down the lader.
A real Broadway comeback. The old Palace. The applause that a star needs so much, even at the age of 71.
But yesterday morning, with all this in her grasp, Fritzi Scheff woke up with a throat infection—her voice gone.
Doctors brought back her voice. But it was a hoarse croak beside the pure notes she flung across the Metropolitan Opera footlights a half century ago.
The Palace begged her to give it a try last night anyway.
So she went on, before an audience mostly born since she had her debut on the stage in 1897, her spot sandwiched in the bill with a bird act, a comedy routine, a girl quartet.
And there she was, this Fritzi Scheff for whom the immortal Victor Herbert once wrote his great songs.
She took her cue. When the orchestra faded, she smiled, twisted her restless hands, tugged at her long, green gown.
Then she joked. Gagged about her age. About her 53 years in opera and the stage. About stars she knew, stars long since dead.
Between her gags, she sang. An when the old, incomparable Scheff voice cracked and broke, she just shrugged and smiled and plunged on.
When it was over, the Palace rocked with applause. Who knows whether it was for the star she used to be or the gallant old trouper she was last night? Who cares?
Anyway, they brought Fritzi Scheff back three times for an encore and sent her back to her dressing room with stars in her eyes.
"I know darn well I was lousy," she said there, wrapped in a big blue robe. "But just as long as I can get out of bed, I'll be here."
Then this old, old trouper, that Broadway comeback again in her grasp, said softly:
"They were so tolerant—so kind."

GI INSURANCE NOT RESTRICTED

Hazardous Jobs Not Such As To Affect Paying Claims

Louisiana's World War II veterans bent on regaining their lapsed GI insurance need not worry about "job risk clauses"—even if they are crop-dusting pilots or trapeze artists—H. B. McClendon, Ouachita parish service officer said today.
The service officer pointed out that there are no job restrictions on National Service Life Insurance policy holders so far as occupational hazards are concerned.
"The veteran can work at any trade he likes, no matter how dangerous, or where the job takes him," Mr. McClendon continued. "There is no added cost for the risks involved."
Veterans who served between Oct. 8, 1940 and Sept. 2, 1945, are eligible for N. S. L. I. policies.
Service Officer McClendon urged veterans with any questions concerning service insurance to contact him at the state department of veterans' affairs parish service office, located at room 204, Parish Courthouse, Monroe, La.

NATCHES RUBBER
Singapore—(AP)—Malayan rubber imports to Russia and the United States which had been soaring for the past few months fell significantly in September. Shipments to Russia dropped by 6,180 tons and U. S. purchases by 3,450 tons from the previous month. The Soviet Union imported only 4,635 tons compared to 10,815 tons and the U. S. took 32,288 tons compared to 35,738 tons in August.
Communist China continued to import increasing quantities of the vital raw material, which kept the Singapore rubber market from crashing. It purchased 4,772 tons in September compared to 3,513 tons the month before.

When you have leftover sliced meat to serve for a family supper, add creamed potatoes and a salad to the menu. The creamed potatoes go well with the plain meat and they will be particularly attractive if you put a little pimiento or green pepper into them.

DOROTHY DIX

Get Her A Job

Work Only Cure For Widowed Mother's Discontent

DEAR MISS DIX: Until I was 27 I lived at home with my mother who is a widow. When I got married Mother went to live with a widowed sister. Several days a week, whenever I get a few hours to spare, I rush over and take Mother for a ride, or, if I am going on some business, I take her along for the drive. Whenever possible, I take her to a show or shopping and she comes to us one night a week for dinner and often on Sundays. She enjoys herself when I am with her or when she can take my little girl out for walks, but if I fail to see her for a day or two she starts crying and gets sullen and often won't speak to me. She has been a good mother to me. I love her dearly and it grieves me to think of her being unhappy. She is 52 years of age and in good health. Please tell me what to do.

DOROTHY DIX

BEWILDERED SON

ANSWER: Get your mother a job. What she needs is work, something to do that will take up her time, give her new interests and make her feel that she is of some use in the world. You see, all of her life she has been busy. She has been rushed with work keeping house and rearing a family. She has felt herself important because she was necessary to the comfort and well-being of her husband and children. She didn't have time to think about herself. Her days were full and she was happy.

LIFE EMPTY NOW

Now all of that is changed. Her husband is dead. Her children married and gone from her. She has no longer even a house to sweep and keep clean and putter around in. She has nothing to do but kill time, and she doesn't know how to do that enjoyably.
Idleness is the curse of women. It makes them neurotic. It makes them unreasonable and peevish and fretful and complaining. You can't take the work out of the hands of a woman who has been busy for thirty or forty years and have her be contented. She doesn't know what to do with leisure. All she can do is to brood over her troubles and think unwholesome thoughts.
The only remedy for what ails her is to get her a job. Get her something to do, no matter how little it pays. She needs the work for work's sake. She needs to feel herself useful again and independent and to have something more cheerful to do than just to sit around waiting for the undertaker to come.

DEAR DOROTHY DIX: I know a girl who is ordinarily very demure and retiring when in her usual home environment, but when a boy comes around she assumes a lot of extra giggles, grimaces and animation. When the young man is leaving she becomes very dramatic in her behavior and in a languishing sort of manner bids him to return to see her again soon. Do you think this girl's prospects of ever attracting a worthwhile young man are good?. Won't discerning young men see through her efforts to seem what she isn't by nature? CURIOUS

ANSWER: Surely they will, and the girl will never know that she drove off young men by not being herself. You see plenty of girls putting on a show trying to attract men, and it makes you feel like weeping because the poor little dunces are doing the very thing that will kill their chances.
Men like simplicity more than any other quality in girls and they dislike affectation. So the girl who poses does the thing that is most obnoxious to the average man. And that explains why many a girl, who would be attractive to many men if she would only be natural, scares men off with her airs and graces so that they never come near her. I once knew a poor girl who lost her matrimonial chances in this way. In reality, she was a very intelligent, nice girl, industrious and practical and she would have made any man a good wife. She was thrifty, too, and could get at least 150 cents out of a dollar. She was a wizard with her needle, so she dressed beautifully on almost nothing at all.
Plenty of men would have been glad to have married her if they had known how economical she was, but she always posed as being rich when they knew she wasn't, and would casually mention that the dress she had made herself and that perhaps cost $5 was a little bargain she had picked up for $50. And she would boast that really she was the most helpless creature alive and that the very thought of a kitchen made her sick. And that did for her, no man wanting to marry a peacock, a moron or a liar.

DEAR MISS DIX: I am 25 Have been going with a young man who is 29 for five years. He has no job. I have been furnishing him with money for several years. He wants me to marry him. Do you think it advisable?

MARIA

ANSWER: Not unless you want to take a man on your hands to support and believe me, a woman can get mighty tired of having to make the dough and bake it, too. Tell your clinging vine he will have to show that he has backbone enough to stand alone before you walk to the altar with him.

J. O. Fleming, church school supt.

There is an amusing fable of a Chinese farmer. To make his truck garden produce faster, he pulled the plants a little higher out of the ground each morning. That would put him ahead of other gardeners who just waited for the plants to grow up, so he thought. Then one day he discovered that every plant had died.

Extremely foolish! Yet not more so than we are when we fume because our plants mature slowly, or our prayers are not answered immediately or when our God is so patient with us. Can we not be patient with life?

THE PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH
Grammont at Catalpa
OF Monroe
Ernest Duncan Holloway, Minister

The Rev. E. K. Means, D.D., is our guest preacher at the morning hour of worship, eleven o'clock. He is well known, a great preacher, a man of God, and we speak for him a large congregation. The Pastor is in Collins, Mississippi, where he is taking part in the fiftieth anniversary of the church in which he was reared.

Mr. Robert Freeman, Minister of Education, will preach at the evening hour, seven thirty o'clock. He is working with us this year, and you are urged to hear him. Your presence will encourage him and you can rest as ured of a message that will stir and inspire.

God has given us the dream of years. The Educational Building is a reality, and now in use. Your cooperation is desired in the liquidation of the debt incurred which made possible the completion and furnishing of the structure. The suggested unit of investment is $60.00, $5.00 monthly. Take as many units as possible. If the response is as large as the past year the debt will be liquidated in two years.

You are invited to worship with us if you are of our faith: if you have no church-home you can be certain of a welcome.

Bible Comments
By William E. Gilroy, D. D.

If people in general were not accustomed to taking so much for granted concerning themselves, they would marvel at that mysterious thing that we call "life."

It is, of course, the center and object of unsolved questionings and mysteries. What happens, for instance, when the accompanying mystery that we call "death" suddenly occurs, and in a moment what was active, vital and intelligent ceases? In what way has life ceased? What has happened to what a moment ago was so real?

The best answer is that the spirit returns to God who gave it (Ecclesiastes 12.7), but from that mystery itself, I turn to the ever-present, but so little considered, mystery of our daily life.

We speak of our physical existence, the use of our five senses, as if it were only a material thing, but what mysteries are in every moment of our conscious life, and even in the mystery of sleep, when consciousness seems suspended?

Through the study of the ear and eye, and the waves of sound and light that operate upon them, man has achieved the wonders of the telephone, the phonograph, the radio, and television; but man's creations only lead us back to the great Creator of our physical being, and the laws that govern our life.

If men had at all a sensitive understanding of these things, they would bow in wonder and reverence before that Creator, as in fact the Hebrew saints and prophets Their distinction was that they thought about life, that heu did not take themselves just for what they were, but they looked into the mystery of their being, and so were led to God.

To take this gift of life, and make no return, to fail to use it in any way for the honor and glory of the One who gave it, marks the deepest tragedy of man. And that tragedy is all the deeper, when we turn from the so-called physical life, to consider the spiritual life, the more abundant life, that is also God's gift, God's supreme gift.

How blind and spiritually incompetent the masses of men are, in making so little of God's gifts, not only in their wholesale destruction of physical life, but in ignoring, or refusing, the higher life that God has made possible.

It was the reproach of Jesus to those of His generation, "Ye will not come unto me that ye may have life," and that reproach has been upon those of each succeeding generation. Yet it is true that "the gift of God is eternal life," and the evidences of that life are plain in the many who have heard the call of the Master, and have accepted His way of love and life.

This Christian attitude toward life is the fulfillment of what was richest and best in the thought and devotion of the inspired Hebrew writers.

It has its noblest expression in the wonderful 107th Psalm, with its beginning, "O give thanks unto to Lord, for He is good," and its breaking forth in the intervals of the description of God's dealings with man unto the passionate plead "Oh that men would praise the Lord for His goodness, and His wonderful works to the children of men!"

Could there be a more proper or earnest, prayer for mankind? And can there be any noble, or more fitting, act of man than the devotion of his life to God?

ONCE GREAT STAR IN OPERA SINGS

Greeted With Mighty Cheers Despite Crack In Her Voice

By Arthur Everett

New York, Dec. 2.—(AP)—There she was—a little old woman with a cracked voice, all alone on the stage of the famed Palace Theater last night.

She was Fritzi Scheff, 71 years old, a star in opera, musicals, vaudeville, drama for 53 years.

This was to be her comeback, this first return to the Palace in 25 years.

She'd opened well Thursday night. It looked then like she was on her way again, her name in lights, her audience as always in her hand.

Behind her Thursday night, it seemed, were the nights of singing and clowning in the smoky saloons of east side New York, where this great old star had landed as age forced her down the lader.

A real Broadway comeback. The old Palace. The applause that a star needs so much, even at the age of 71.

But yesterday morning, with all this in her grasp, Fritzi Scheff woke up with a throat infection—her voice gone.

Doctors brought back her voice. But it was a hoarse croak beside the pure notes she flung across the Metropolitan Opera footlights a half century ago.

The Palace begged her to give it a try last night anyway.

So she went on, before an audience mostly born since she had her debut on the stage in 1897, her spot sandwiched in the bill with a bird act, a comedy routine, a girl quartet.

And there she was, this Fritzi Scheff for whom the immortal Victor Herbert once wrote his great songs.

She took her cue. When the orchestra faded, she smiled, twisted her restless hands, tugged at her long, green gown.

Then she joked. Gagged about her age. About her 53 years in opera and the stage. About stars she knew, stars long since dead.

Between her gags, she sang. An when the old, incomparable Scheff voice cracked and broke, she just shrugged and smiled and plunged on.

When it was over, the Palace rocked with applause. Who knows whether it was for the star she used to be or the gallant old trouper she was last night? Who cares?

Anyway, they brought Fritzi Scheff back three times for an encore and sent her back to her dressing room with stars in her eyes.

"I know darn well I was lousy," she said there, wrapped in a big blue robe. "But just as long as I can get out of bed, I'll be here."

Then this old, old trouper, that Broadway comeback again in her grasp, said softly:

"They were so tolerant—so kind."

GI INSURANCE NOT RESTRICTED

Hazardous Jobs Not Such As To Affect Paying Claims

Louisiana's World War II veterans bent on regaining their lapsed GI insurance need not worry about "job risk clauses"—even if they are crop-dusting pilots or trapeze artists—H. B. McClendon, Ouachita parish service officer said today.

The service officer pointed out that there are no job restrictions on National Service Life Insurance policy holders so far as occupational hazards are concerned.

"The veteran can work at any trade he likes, no matter how dangerous, or where the job takes him," Mr. McClendon continued. "There is no added cost for the risks involved."

Veterans who served between Oct. 8, 1940 and Sept. 2, 1945, are eligible for N. S. L. I. policies.

Service Officer McClendon urged veterans with any questions concerning service insurance to contact him at the state department of veterans' affairs parish service office, located at room 204, Parish Courthouse, Monroe, La.

NATCHES RUBBER

Singapore—(AP)—Malayan rubber imports to Russia and the United States which had been soaring for the past few months fell significantly in September. Shipments to Russia dropped by 6,180 tons and U. S. purchases by 3,450 tons from the previous month. The Soviet Union imported only 4,635 tons compared to 10,815 tons and the U. S. took 32,288 tons compared to 35,738 tons in August.

Communist China continued to import increasing quantities of the vital raw material, which kept the Singapore rubber market from crashing. It purchased 4,772 tons in September compared to 3,513 tons the month before.

When you have leftover sliced meat to serve for a family supper, add creamed potatoes and a salad to the menu. The creamed potatoes go well with the plain meat and they will be particularly attractive if you add a little pimiento or green pepper into them.

DOROTHY DIX

Get Her A Job

Work Only Cure For Widowed Mother's Discontent

DEAR MISS DIX: Until I was 27 I lived at home with my mother who is a widow. When I got married Mother went to live with a widowed sister. Several days a week, whenever I get a few hours to spare, I rush over and take Mother for a ride, or, if I am going on some business, I take her along for the drive. Whenever possible, I take her to a show or shopping and she comes to us one night a week for dinner and often on Sundays. She enjoys herself when I am with her or when she can take my little girl out for walks, but if I fail to see her for a day or two she starts crying and gets sullen and often won't speak to me. She has been a good mother to me. I love her dearly and it grieves me to think of her being unhappy. She is 52 years of age and in good health. Please tell me what to do.

DOROTHY DIX

BEWILDERED SON

ANSWER: Get your mother a job. What she needs is work, something to do that will take up her time, give her new interests and make her feel that she is of some use in the world. You see, all of her life she has been busy. She has been rushed with work keeping house and rearing a family. She has felt herself important because she was necessary to the comfort and well-being of her husband and children. She didn't have time to think about herself. Her days were full and she was happy.

LIFE EMPTY NOW

Now all of that is changed. Her husband is dead. Her children married and gone from her. She has no longer even a house to sweep and keep clean and putter around in. She has nothing to do but kill time, and she doesn't know how to do that enjoyably.

Idleness is the curse of women. It makes them neurotic. It makes them unreasonable and peevish and fretful and complaining. You can't take the work out of the hands of a woman who has been busy for thirty or forty years and have her be contented. She doesn't know what to do with leisure. All she can do is to brood over her troubles and think unwholesome thoughts.

The only remedy for what ails her is to get her a job. Get her something to do, no matter how little it pays. She needs the work for work's sake. She needs to feel herself useful again and independent and to have something more cheerful to do than just to sit around waiting for the undertaker to come.

DEAR DOROTHY DIX: I know a girl who is ordinarily very demure and retiring when in her usual home environment, but when a boy comes around she assumes a lot of extra giggles, grimaces and animation. When the young man is leaving she becomes very dramatic in her behavior and in a languishing sort of manner bids him to return to see her again soon. Do you think this girl's prospects of ever attracting a worthwhile young man are good?. Won't discerning young men see through her efforts to seem what she isn't by nature?

CURIOUS

ANSWER: Surely they will, and the girl will never know that she drove off young men by not being herself. You see plenty of girls putting on a show trying to attract men, and it makes you feel like weeping because the poor little dunces are doing the very thing that will kill their chances.

Men like simplicity more than any other quality in girls and they dislike affectation. So the girl who poses does the thing that is most obnoxious to the average man. And that explains why many a girl, who would be attractive to many men if she would only be natural, scares men off with her airs and graces so that they never come near her. I once knew a poor girl who lost her matrimonial chances in this way. In reality, she was a very intelligent, nice girl, industrious and practical and she would have made any man a good wife. She was thrifty, too, and could get at least 150 cents out of a dollar. She was a wizard with her needle, so she dressed beautifully on almost nothing at all.

Plenty of men would have been glad to have married her if they had known how economical she was, but she always posed as being rich when they knew she wasn't, and would casually mention that the dress she had made herself and that perhaps cost $5 was a little bargain she had picked up for $50. And she would boast that really she was the most helpless creature alive and that the very thought of a kitchen made her sick. And that did for her, no man wanting to marry a peacock, a moron or a liar.

DEAR MISS DIX: I am 25 Have been going with a young man who is 29 for five years. He has no job. I have been furnishing him with money for several years. He wants me to marry him. Do you think it advisable?

MARIA

ANSWER: Not unless you want to take a man on your hands to support and believe me, a woman can get mighty tired of having to make the dough and bake it, too. Tell your clinging vine he will have to show that he has backbone enough to stand alone before you walk to the altar with him.

AT PARAMOUNT TODAY

'Sunset Boulevard,' One Of Year's Best Pictures, Opens At Paramount

Heralded as one of the greatest motion pictures ever to come out of Hollywood, Paramount's "Sunset Boulevard" makes its local debut today at the Paramount Theatre. William Holden, Gloria Swanson, Erich von Stroheim and Nancy Olson head the brilliant cast of the film which was produced by Charles Brackett and directed by Billy Wilder.

The most talked-about picture of this or any other year, "Sunset Boulevard" is a dramatic achievement that sets a new standard of cinema excellence, according to advance reports. The gripping story of a once-great screen star who is unable to face the fact that her career ended when the movies began to talk, the picture intimately explores her strange life and the lives of the people who are close to her.

For the role of the aging, one-time film queen who dreams vainly of a triumphant comeback, producer Brackett chose Gloria Swanson whose own career in some ways parallels that of the character she portrays. William Holden is seen as a young, disilliusioned screen writer with whom she falls in love, while Erick von Stroheim plays her former director and devoted servant. Nancy Olson portrays a youthful studio story analyst' who also loves the writer.

Included in the distinguished supporting cast are Cecil B. DeMille, Buster Keaton, H. B. Warner and Hedda Hopper, all of whom play themselves.

Long recognized as one of Hollywood's top producing - directing teams, Brackett and Wilder have won kudos for such films as "The Lost Weekend" and "Foreign Affair." But according to preview reports, "Sunset Boulevard" is the finest picture they've ever made and bids fair to earn them their second Academy Awards.

AT THE THEATERS

in the Hidden City," with Johnny Sheffield and Sue England, and "Sunset in the West," with Roy Rogers, Estilita Rodriguez and Penny Edwards.

'Surrender' At Paramount Soon

"Surrender," the Republic drama which comes Wednesday to the Paramount Theatre brings to the screen a passionate tale of infatuation and deceit, and builds to a crashing climax of retribution.

Violet Barton, brilliantly played by lovely Vera Ralston, is determined to use her unusual beauty to make herself rich, regardless of the cost in unhappiness to others. Innocently drawn into her web of intrigue are gambler Greg Delaney, played by John Carroll and newspaperman Johnny Hale, played by William Ching.

She marries Hale and makes love to Delaney, while her sister (Maria Palmer) watches her own romance being wrecked by Violet's treachery.

Violet's past finally catches up with her and engulfs everyone she has touched in disaster.

Vera Ralston's performance as Violet Barton is one of the finest of her career, and John Carroll and Walter Brennan turn in their usual high-calibre jobs in the co-starring roles.

Others in the large cast of dependable supporting players include Francis Lederer, Jane Darwell, Edward Norris, Roy Barcroft, Paul Fix and Jeff York.

Allan Dwan, who did such a fine job on "Sands of Iwo Jima," directed "Surrender."

CHURCHILL CHUMMY

Washington. —(AP)— Winston Churchill is keeping up his American contacts—with the idea, some here think, that he may again become Britain's prime minister: (He was 76 Thursday).

Recently Churchill sent Senator Vandenberg (R.-Mich.) a message by Senator H. Alexander Smith (R.-N. J.), who saw him on a visit to London. Churchill said he was sorry he had never got to know Vandenberg better because he believed they had "a community of the soul."

HORSE TRADER

Washington.—(AP)—Mrs. Margaret Chase Smith of Maine, the only woman senator, has offered to step out of the senate Republican policy committee if her colleagues will give her some better senate committee assignments.

She now sits on the expenditures and District of Columbia committees. She wants to get on the armed services committee, but so do some other Republicans with more service.

Inter-Service Row Won't Be Aired Any Time Soon

By the World Staff of the Associated Press

Washington—the much - heralded public Congressional hearing on air force support of ground forces in Korea will not be held after all.

Return of military men from the Far East has thrown more light on the situation, to credit of the air force. Anyway, if the war situation continues serious there will be little enthusiasm for public airing of inter-service friction.

Some people feel, however, that army partisans still will press for a hearing to get out from under air force domination of its aircraft program.

A rule requiring air force approval when the army buys planes heavier than 4,000 pounds has stymied the army's plan to get assault helicopters. The air force may agree to raise the limit as a bargaining move to avoid an open battle over the tactical air issue.

LOVETT TO STATE?

Washington—(AP)—There is growing talk that Robert N. Lovett, Republican undersecretary of defense, will become Secretary of State if Dean Acheson leaves the job any time soon.

As undersecretary of State Lovett demonstrated that he could work closely with Congress.

SENATE 1952

Washington —(AP)— Republicans see an uphill fight to gain control of the Senate in 1952.

They will need a net gain of only two seats to obtain a majority but they will have only 12 democratic memberships to shoot at. And only five of these are in the north. Except in Rhode Island, it's in the north they feel their chances are more nearly even.

JET TESTS IN KOREA

Washington—(AP)—The new turn in the war assures combat tests for two jet fighter groups recently sent to the far east. One group uses the long-range republic F-84E Thunderjet and the other the very fast north American F-86 Sabre.

The decision to send them was taken during a previous upsurge of resistance which led Pentagon officials to suspect China might step into the war.

The Thunderjets are specially equipped for tactical air or army support work. The Sabres are intended for air cover and should be able to meet the Russian jet fighter on equal speed terms.

DOCTOR DRAFT

Washington. —(AP)— The second draft registration of doctors probably won't take place much before the January 16 deadline set by presidential directive.

It will include doctors and dentists, as well as other specialists to be listed later, who are under 50 and were not trained or deferred by the government during the war.

SMALL PLANES

Washington.—(AP)—At least two personal aircraft manufacturers have abandoned production of civil types because of material and manpower needed for military orders. Light plane users are faced also with difficulty in getting spare parts, a problem already threatening the air transport industry.

COAST GUARD RESERVES

Washington. —(AP)— The Coast Guard, which has called up about 70 enlisted and 100 officer reservists, does not expect to call many more. They'll be needed to man newly-formed organized reserve units.

RFC RISKS

Washington.—(AP)—Looks like the government is preparted to take some really big financial risks with the $600,000,000 authorized for loans to expand defense production.

Reconstruction Finance Corp. (RFC) officials say the money will be used on loans RFC wouldn't risk in its normal business lending proram—which at the start is supposed to be confined to risks too venturesome for private lenders.

C. I. O.-POLITICS

Washington.—(AP)— Don't expect the recent blast by a C. I. O. union official at the Democratic party to bring about much change in C. I. O.'s political action committee (PAC).

Executive Vice President George Baldanzi of the textile workers told the C. I. O. convention in Chicago that PAC had been asked to support "political hacks" and even "racketeers."

A well-informed C. I. O. spokesman says: "I don't think we supported very many hacks or racketeers . . . but we usually find it's better to support a so-so Democrat than a reactionary Republicans."

TAKE IT EASY, DOC

Washington.—(AP)— An economist who has made a study of the dental profession believes future dentist will have a longer practicing life because recent inventions make it possible for them to sit down while they work.

DRUGS IN KOREA

Washington.—(AP)— A team of army doctors has left for Korea to make an intensive study of battlefield use of "wonder drugs." Preliminary studies indicate these drugs have been of great aid in combatting infection.

CIVIL AIR PATROL WEEK PROCLAIMED

Period Of December 4 Through 10 Will Be Observed Here

The week, December 4 through 10, has been proclaimed Civil Air Patrol Week by Mayor John E. Coon of Monroe.

The week is being celebrated in observance of the ninth anniversary of the Louisiana Wing of Civil Air Patrol. It was pointed out that the organization is credited with saving the lives of several citizens of the state and operating many mercy missions throughout the past year.

The proclamation issued by Mayor Coon is as follows:

WHEREAS, during World War II, the civil air patrol members were known as the "Flying Minute Men of America," hunting submarines, spotting ships in distress and survivors on life rafts, serving as couriers and Red Cross helpers; and

WHEREAS, in the service of their country 50 members of the civil air patrol lost their lives; and

WHEREAS, the civil air patrol is an auxiliary of the United States air force, charged with the missions of search and rescue, cadet training and furthering of civilian interest in aviation; and

WHEREAS, the civil air patrol will play an extremely important role in the civilian defense forces of the nation; and

WHEREAS, the civil air patrol will celebrate its ninth anniversary on December 1, 1950;

NOW, THEREFORE, I, John E. Coon, mayor of the city of Monroe, La., do hereby proclaim the week of December 4 through 10, 1950, to be Civil Air Patrol Week in Monroe, and I urge all citizens and groups to join in rendering appropriate honors to the patriotic Americans participating in this essential activity.

Given under my hand and the Seal of the City of Monroe this 1st day of December, 1950.

John E. Coon,
Mayor.

AT PARAMOUNT TODAY

In a fit of uncontrollable temper, Gloria Swanson slaps William Holden across the face in this dramatic scene from Paramount's "Sunset Boulevard," which opens today at the Paramount Theater.

'Sunset Boulevard,' One Of Year's Best Pictures, Opens At Paramount

Heralded as one of the greatest motion pictures ever to come out of Hollywood, Paramount's "Sunset Boulevard" makes its local debut today at the Paramount Theatre. William Holden, Gloria Swanson, Erich von Stroheim and Nancy Olson head the brilliant cast of the film which was produced by Charles Brackett and directed by Billy Wilder.

The most talked-about picture of this or any other year, "Sunset Boulevard" is a dramatic achievement that sets a new standard of cinema excellence, according to advance reports. The gripping story of a once-great screen star who is unable to face the fact that her career ended when the movies began to talk, the picture intimately explores her strange life and the lives of the people who are close to her.

For the role of the aging, one-time film queen who dreams vainly of a triumphant comeback, producer Brackett chose Gloria Swanson whose own career in some ways parallels that of the character she portrays. William Holden is seen as a young, disillusioned screen writer with whom she falls in love, while Erick von Stroheim plays her former director and devoted servant. Nancy Olson portrays a youthful studio story analyst' who also loves the writer.

Included in the distinguished supporting cast are Cecil B. DeMille, Buster Keaton, H. B. Warner and Hedda Hopper, all of whom play themselves.

Long recognized as one of Hollywood's top producing - directing teams, Brackett and Wilder have won kudos for such films as "The Lost Weekend" and "Foreign Affair." But according to preview reports, "Sunset Boulevard" is the finest picture they've ever made and bids fair to earn them their second Academy Awards.

'Surrender' At Paramount Soon

"Surrender," the Republic drama which comes Wednesday to the Paramount Theatre brings to the screen a passionate tale of infatuation and deceit, and builds to a crashing climax of retribution.

Violet Barton, brilliantly played by lovely Vera Ralston, is determined to use her unusual beauty to make herself rich, regardless of the cost in unhappiness to others. Innocently drawn into her web of intrigue are gambler Greg Delaney, played by John Carroll and newspaperman Johnny Hale, played by William Ching.

She marries Hale and makes love to Delaney, while her sister (Maria Palmer) watches her own romance being wrecked by Violet's treachery.

Violet's past finally catches up with her and engulfs everyone she has touched in disaster.

Vera Ralston's performance as Violet Barton is one of the finest of her career, and John Carroll and Walter Brennan turn in their usual high-calibre jobs in the co-starring roles.

Others in the large cast of dependable supporting players include Francis Lederer, Jane Darwell, Edward Norris, Roy Barcroft, Paul Fix and Jeff York.

Allan Dwan, who did such a fine job on "Sands of Iwo Jima," directed "Surrender."

A CHRISTMAS CAROL

By Charles Dickens

Young Scrooge used to have the time of his life at Old Fezziwig's Christmas parties. No one was jollier than Scrooge, none danced more with Fezziwig's six pretty daughters.

And never was there such music as used to come from Fezziwig's well-fueled fiddler!

High point of the evening was when the fiddle struck up "Sir Roger de Coverley" and Mr. Fezziwig took the floor with Mrs. Fezziwig.

Whisking him away from the Fezziwigs', the Ghost took Scrooge back to the scene of his broken engagement. His fiancee rejected him because another idol had replaced her---a golden one.

And then, Scrooge saw what might have been.

With that, the Ghost of Christmas Past deposited Scrooge in his bed, utterly exhausted, and disappeared.

But it seemed only seconds until Scrooge was awakened by weird sounds from the next room.

JACOBY ON BRIDGE

He's More to Be Blamed Than Pitied

By Oswald Jacoby

"Here's one for your pity-or-blame department," writes a Cincinnati correspondent. "This little tragedy brought about much weeping and wailing and gnashing of teeth — especially since East-West scored the rubber on the very next hand!

"South had visions of a grand slam when his partner made a jump bid in clubs and then showed a very strong preference for spades. However, the Blackwood four no-trump bid got a response of only five hearts, showing two aces; and South had to be satisfied with a small slam contract.

"West opened the ace of diamonds, dropping South's singleton king. He then continued with the five of diamonds. South played the ten from dummy, East covered with the jack, and South ruffed.

"South then led a low trump from his hand! West made haste to put up the nine of spades in order to force out dummy's king of trumps. (He didn't really expect South to take a fancy trump finesse, but West saw no reason to take a chance against a slam contract.) That was the end, of course. South had to lose a trump trick, and he was therefore set one trick.

"South claimed that he thought West had opened a long diamond suit. In that case it was a little more likely that East would have long trumps than that West would have long diamonds and also long trumps. Was there anything in this reasoning? In any case, was South more to be pitied than blamed for losing his slam?"

I'm sorry to say that South deserves more blame than pity for he can cash that other trick when his ace is knocked out.

However, a good player will lead an ace if there is great danger that he will lose it if he doesn't take it at once. And a good player will lead an ace against a slam if he has prospects of a trump trick.

There was nothing absolutely sure about this case, but there was a distinct possibility that West had led his ace because he hoped to get a trump trick later. Because of that possibility, South should have begun the trumps by cashing his ace. Then East's failure to follow suit would dictate a trump finesse through West.

Good Adverse Neutral 12/4

LET'S EXPLORE YOUR MIND

By ALBERT EDWARD WIGGAM, D. S.

Answer To Question No. 1

1. Yes. Psychologist Rose Zelig, had 233 twelve-year-olds rate the things they disliked the most. They were: having to witness pain and suffering; seeing people killed; having their dignity lowered; being accused of something they did not do; being treated like a baby, and being called a "poor sport." They also disliked liars; people who mind other people's business; people who are conceited, stubborn, grouchy, nagging, and who bite their finger nails or talk in the movies and gossip. Five minutes intermission here, to see if you possess any of these last traits.

Answer To Question No. 2

2. No. In an address to educators, Dean W. F. Russell, Columbia University, said he believed that the English school masters of Eton and Rugby were wise in giving boys "schooling" inside the schoolroom, and "education" outside on the playing field. He expressed the opinion that "character education is the end of all education" and that sports and recreation are also necessary for building character.

Answer To Question No. 3

3. Yes, as a rule, according to an experiment by Psychologist J. B. Maller, who tested boys and girls in arithmetic, both when they were working for personal success and for class success. More children cheated for personal success. There were exceptions. He also found that those who rated high for "cooperativeness" and "class loyalty" tended to cheat more for class success. Probably we're all like that.

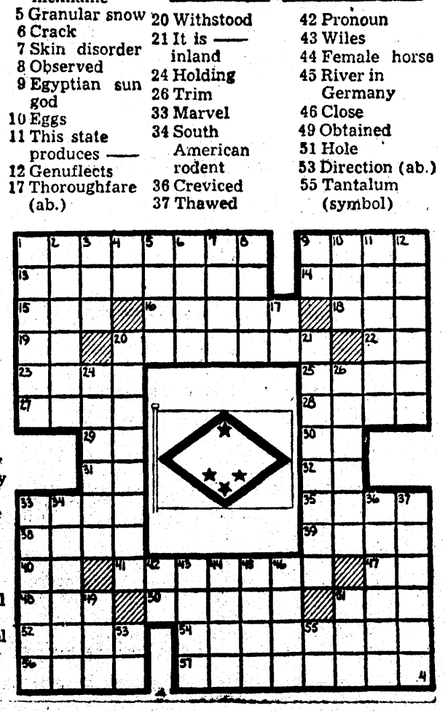
Answer to Previous Puzzle



Little Theatre Curtain Call

Much activity at the Little Theatre all this week. . . . Last Tuesday evening found the cast doing line rehearsal in the directors office with Fleta Latham, Stockers very able assistant, cracking the whip.

A crew was on stage readying the much talked about secret set that was almost ready by the weeks end. Jim Reynolds, Jim Hornbeak and Bob Jones were handling that end of the affairs while . . .

Flash Williams, complete with portable studio in his trailer, parked on the Theatre grounds and shot pictures of the cast.

Mary Ellison was a familiar scene tidying up the cushions of the auditorium seats. Albert, Ceil and little Brenda Ringo who had come up primarily to check on make-up also were lending a hand where help was needed. Brenda wheels a wicked broom, I'm told.

In case you didn't know that the show must go on—Oh! Gosh where have we heard this before. . . . On the sick list from the cast are Carl Slakter, Howard Durham and Frank Breese, 'ole man winter has been playing each with a cold, but none has missed a single rehersal. Call it showmanship, stammina or what you will, but we call it mighty alright. The best to the boys and their "The Hasty Heart."

Special Events. . . . Pauline McCrary is wearing a great big smile and we know why. Her daughter, Mrs. Allen Buie, the former Peggy McCrary is the mother of a baby girl, Paula, born Wednesday morning in Rayville. . . . Whats this we hear about Stocker not trusting the postal dept. this near Christmas. He is making a trip to Alexandria on Friday to bring back some necessaries for the show which would halt production if something went amiss. Looks like "The Hasty Heart" is causing some palpitating hearts. . . . Correction please, Elizabeth Provost of the parish welfare dept. and also just recently of the cast of "Boy Meets Girl", and not Yvonne Brett will handle wardrobe.

Sweet Breath Is Found In 'Chex'

Earl Simmermaker, well known Monroe man, who was at the Brown paper mill for many years, is now local distributor in this area for "Chex", which is now obtainable at all kinds of stores and business places.

It is a delicious breath and stomach aid and calculated to give that complete relief from bad breath.

It is a double duty peppermint which cleans the taste and aids digestion.

"Sweeten your breath with a Chex" is a slogan used and the sale of this product is growing rapidly for a single trial will result in constant usage assures Simmermaker.

Les Winslow Is Under Arrest

Les Winslow, 33, of Monroe, was arrested Friday by the Ouachita Parish Sheriff's department on a charge of obtaining money under false pretenses.

He was taken into custody for Winnfield authorities who pressed the charges.

According to sherrif deputies, Winslow was out under a $750 bond for theft by check. Earlier Friday in Fourth District Court, he was found guilty of speeding and fined $100 and costs of court.

His bond for the current charge is $750, a deputy said.

Queen To Preside At Student Rodeo

Baton Rouge, La., Dec. 2.—(AP)—At the all-student championship rodeo to be held in the Louisiana State University agricultural auditorium December 7 through 9, a queen chosen from 15 candidates, will preside.

The queen to be, is elected by members of the Block and Bridle Club, who are holding her name undisclosed until the night of the first performance.

Joan Madison Parker of Monroe, has been selected by her social sorority, Delta Delta Delta, to represent the group in its candidate for the queen.

Dr. E. K. Means To Preach Today

Dr. E. K. Means, well known retired Methodist pastor, will preach at the 11 a. m. service in the First Presbyterian Church.

The public is extended a cordial invitation to attend.

PREFABS

Washington —(AP)— Housing experts forecast big gains for the prefabricated home industry. They claim manpower and material shortages won't be so tough on the prefabbers as on conventional builders because those are the things in which prefabbers have the advantage—in fact, their whole existence hinges on using less of both.

LEGION POST TO MEET MONDAY

Plans For Christmas To Be Formulated; Seed Good Attendance

The L. B. Faulk Post Number 13 of the American Legion will hold its regular meeting at the Legion home in Monroe on Monday, December 4, 1950 at 8:00 p.m. Commander Alex Lea stated that the meeting will be primarily concerned with plans for the annual Christmas meeting and celebration.

Each year the meeting which immediately precedes Christmas is a festive occasion, and is one of the high points of the year for Legionnaires. In the past, attendance at these holiday meetings has been greater than at any other time of the year, and it is hoped that this year will be no exception. All members are urged to attend Monday night so that complete plans can be made for the occasion, which is presently scheduled for December 18.

Commander Lea also reported that the doors of the Legion are still open to any veteran who wants to become a Legionnaire, as well as to any former members who have not yet paid their 1951 dues. Any Legionnaire will be glad to assist any such person to enroll.

The usual refreshments will be served at Monday night's meeting.

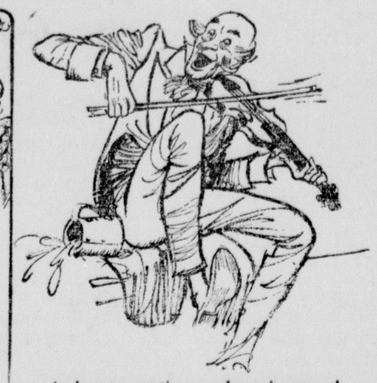
A CHRISTMAS CAROL

By Charles Dickens

Young Scrooge used to have the time of his life at Old Fezziwig's Christmas parties. No one was jollier than Scrooge, none danced more with Fezziwig's six pretty daughters.



And never was there such music as used to come from Fezziwig's well-fueled fiddler!

High point of the evening was when the fiddle struck up "Sir Roger de Coverley" and Mr. Fezziwig took the floor with Mrs. Fezziwig.

Whisking him away from the Fezziwigs', the Ghost took Scrooge back to the scene of his broken engagement. His fiancee rejected him because another idol had replaced her---a golden one.

And then, Scrooge saw what might have been.

With that, the Ghost of Christmas Past deposited Scrooge in his bed, utterly exhausted, and disappeared.

But it seemed only seconds until Scrooge was awakened by weird sounds from the next room.

• JACOBY ON BRIDGE

He's More to Be Blamed Than Pitied

By Oswald Jacoby

"Here's one for your pity-or-blame department," writes a Cincinnati correspondent. "This little tragedy brought about much weeping and wailing and gnashing of teeth — especially since East-West scored the rubber on the very next hand!

"South had visions of a grand slam when his partner made a jump bid in clubs and then showed a very strong preference for spades. However, the Blackwood four no-trump bid got a response of only five hearts, showing two aces; and South had to be satisfied with a small slam contract.

"West opened the ace of diamonds, dropping South's singleton king. He then continued with the five of diamonds. South played the ten from dummy, East covered with the jack, and South ruffed.

"South then led a low trump from his hand! West made haste to put up the nine of spades in order to force out dummy's king of trumps. (He didn't really expect South to take a fancy trump finesse, but West saw no reason to take a chance against a slam contract.) That was the end, of course. South had to lose a trump trick, and he was therefore set one trick.

"South claimed that he thought West had opened a long diamond suit. In that case it was a little more likely that East would have long trumps than that West would have long diamonds and also long trumps. Was there anything in this reasoning? In any case, was South more to be pitied than blamed for losing his slam?"

I'm sorry to say that South deserves more blame than pity for he can cash that other trick when his ace is knocked out.

However, a good player will lead an ace if there is great danger that he will lose it if he doesn't take it at once. And a good player will lead an ace against a slam if he has prospects of a trump trick.

There was nothing absolutely sure about this case, but there was a distinct possibility that West had led his ace because he hoped to get a trump trick later. Because of that possibility, South should have begun the trumps by cashing his ace. Then East's failure to follow suit would dictate a trump finesse through West.

booting this slam. It was hard luck of course, to find all the trumps in one hand, but South might have delved a little more deeply into the opening leader's psychology.

When does a good player lead an ace against a slam contract? Very seldom. If he has an ace, he will usually try to set up a trick in a different suit so that

LET'S EXPLORE YOUR MIND

By ALBERT EDWARD WIGGAM, D. S.

Answer To Question No. 1

1. Yes. Psychologist Rose Zelig, had 233 twelve-year-olds rate the things they disliked the most. They were: having to witness pain and suffering; seeing people killed; having their dignity lowered; being accused of something they did not do; being treated like a baby, and being called a "poor sport." They also disliked liars; people who mind other people's business; people who are conceited, stubborn, grouchy, nagging, and who bite their finger nails or talk in the movies and gossip. Five minutes intermission here, to see if you possess any of these last traits.

Answer To Question No. 2

2. No. In an address to educators, Dean W. F. Russell, Columbia University, said he believed that the English school masters of Eton and Rugby were wise in giving boys "schooling" inside the schoolroom, and "education" outside on the playing field. He expressed the opinion that "character education is the end of all education" and that sports and recreation are also necessary for building character.

Answer To Question No. 3

3. Yes, as a rule, according to an experiment by Psychologist J. B. Maller, who tested boys and girls in arithmetic, both when they were working for personal success and for class success. More children cheated for personal success. There were exceptions. He also found that those who rated high for "cooperativeness" and "class loyalty" tended to cheat more for class success. Probably we're all like that.

Les Winslow Is Under Arrest

Les Winslow, 33, of Monroe, was arrested Friday by the Ouachita Parish Sheriff's department on a charge of obtaining money under false pretenses.

He was taken into custody for Winnfield authorities who pressed the charges.

According to sherrif deputies, Winslow was out under a $750 bond for theft by check. Earlier Friday in Fourth District Court, he was found guilty of speeding and fined $100 and costs of court.

His bond for the current charge is $750, a deputy said.

Queen To Preside At Student Rodeo

Baton Rouge, La., Dec. 2.—(AP)—At the all-student championship rodeo to be held in the Louisiana State University agricultural auditorium December 7 through 9, a queen chosen from 15 candidates, will preside.

The queen to be, is elected by members of the Block and Bridle Club, who are holding her name undisclosed until the night of the first performance.

Joan Madison Parker of Monroe, has been selected by her social sorority, Delta Delta Delta, to represent the group in its candidate for the queen.

Answer to Previous Puzzle

Little Theatre Curtain Call

Much activity at the Little Theatre all this week. . . . Last Tuesday evening found the cast doing line rehearsal in the directors office with Fleta Latham, Stockers very able assistant, cracking the whip.

A crew was on stage readying the much talked about secret set that was almost ready by the weeks end. Jim Reynolds, Jim Hornbeak and Bob Jones were handling that end of the affairs while . . .

Flash Williams, complete with portable studio in his trailer, parked on the Theatre grounds and shot pictures of the cast.

Mary Ellison was a familiar scene tidying up the cushions of the auditorium seats. Albert, Ceil and little Brenda Ringo who had come up primarily to check on make-up also were lending a hand where help was needed. Brenda wheels a wicked broom, I'm told.

In case you didn't know that the show must go on—Oh! Gosh where have we heard this before. . . . On the sick list from the cast are Carl Slakter, Howard Durham and Frank Breese, 'ole man winter has been playing each with a cold, but none has missed a single rehersal. Call it showmanship, stammina or what you will, but we call it mighty alright. The best to the boys and their "The Hasty Heart."

Special Events. . . . Pauline McCrary is wearing a great big smile and we know why. Her daughter, Mrs. Allen Buie, the former Peggy McCrary is the mother of a baby girl, Paula, born Wednesday morning in Rayville. . . . Whats this we hear about Stocker not trusting the postal dept. this near Christmas. He is making a trip to Alexandria on Friday to bring back some necessaries for the show which would halt production if something went amiss. Looks like "The Hasty Heart" is causing some palpitating hearts. . . . Correction please, Elizabeth Provost of the parish welfare dept. and also just recently of the cast of "Boy Meets Girl", and not Yvonne Brett will handle wardrobe.

Sweet Breath Is Found In 'Chex'

Earl Simmermaker, well known Monroe man, who was at the Brown paper mill for many years, is now local distributor in this area for "Chex", which is now obtainable at all kinds of stores and business places.

It is a delicious breath and stomach aid and calculated to give that complete relief from bad breath.

It is a double duty peppermint which cleans the taste and aids digestion.

"Sweeten your breath with a Chex" is a slogan used and the sale of this product is growing rapidly for a single trial will result in constant usage assures Simmermaker.

Dr. E. K. Means To Preach Today

Dr. E. K. Means, well known retired Methodist pastor, will preach at the 11 a. m. service in the First Presbyterian Church.

The public is extended a cordial invitation to attend.

PREFABS

Washington —(AP)— Housing experts forecast big gains for the prefabricated home industry. They claim manpower and material shortages won't be so tough on the prefabbers as on conventional builders because those are the things in which prefabbers have the advantage—in fact, their whole existence hinges on using less of both.

NETWORK PROGRAMS

Time is eastern standard. For central standard subtract one hour, for mountain standard subtract two hours. Some local stations change hour of relay to fit local schedules. Last minute program changes cannot be included.

LEGION POST TO MEET MONDAY

Plans For Christmas To Be Formulated; Seed Good Attendance

The L. B. Faulk Post Number 13 of the American Legion will hold its regular meeting at the Legion home in Monroe on Monday, December 4, 1950 at 8:00 p.m. Commander Alex Lea stated that the meeting will be primarily concerned with plans for the annual Christmas meeting and celebration.

Each year the meeting which immediately precedes Christmas is a festive occasion, and is one of the high points of the year for Legionnaires. In the past, attendance at these holiday meetings has been greater than at any other time of the year, and it is hoped that this year will be no exception. All members are urged to attend Monday night so that complete plans can be made for the occasion, which is presently scheduled for December 18.

Commander Lea also reported that the doors of the Legion are still open to any veteran who wants to become a Legionnaire, as well as to any former members who have not yet paid their 1951 dues. Any Legionnaire will be glad to assist any such person to enroll.

The usual refreshments will be served at Monday night's meeting.

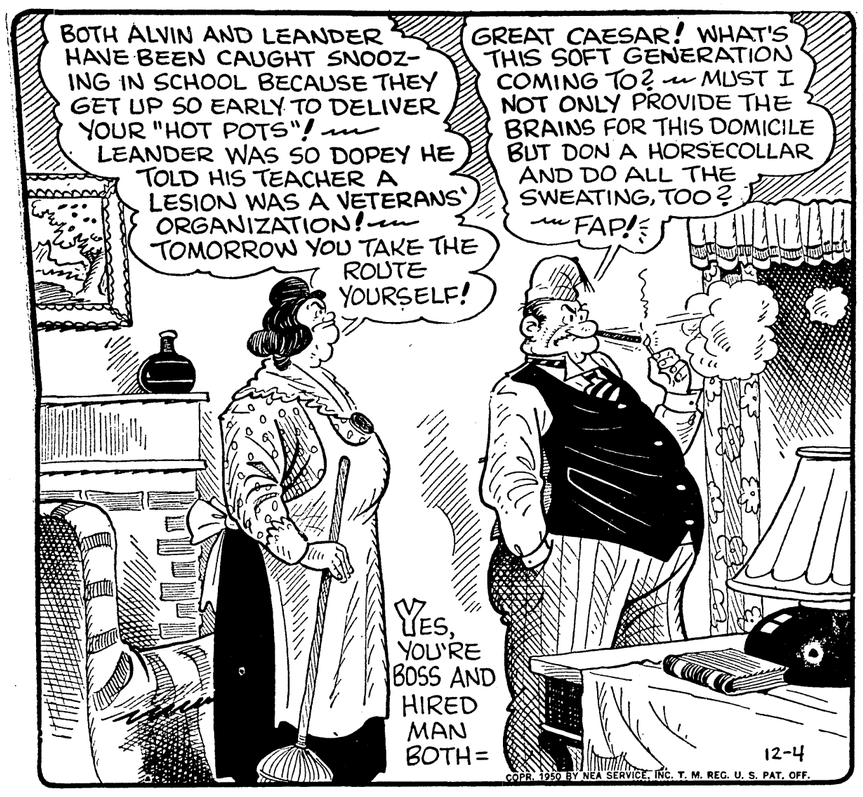
OUR BOARDING HOUSE



Miss Martin Off To Convention

Chicago, Dec. 2.—(Special) — Monument Builders of Louisiana-Mississippi will hold their annual convention at the Robert E. Lee Hotel, Jackson, Miss., on Dec. 4 and 5.

Officers of the asoociation of monument retailers, including president, Miss Nona E. Martin, Monroe, and secretary, Mrs. B. T. O'Neil, Meridian, Miss., will open the meeting with addresses, and reports of 1950 activities.

Alex Park, Chicago, Ill, executive vice president, Monument Builders of America, the national association, will review the book recently published by that organization, titled: "Managing A Retail Monument Establishment." The review will enbody many conclusions drawn from the recent national survey of the monument industry, and public opinion of monuments.

There will be other speakers of note, open forums, election of new officers, and a grand banquet and entertainment.

Frank P. Stubbs Class To Meet

The Frank P. Stubbs Memorial Bible class will meet as usual in the fellowship hall at the First Presbyterian Church this morning at 9:45 o'clock. John Humble will be the speaker. Leon Hammonds is pianist.

At the close there is a social, good time enjoyed and light refreshments will be served.

TERRY AND THE PIRATES

George Wunder

TERRY, EVEN IF THAT COMMISSAR JOKER IS PLAYING BALL WITH US LOW-DOWN BLACK MARKET RUBBER BUYERS, I GUESS HE NEVER HEARD OF HONOR AMONG THIEVES. LOOKIT!

UH, HUH. THE GUARDS MUST HAVE ORDERS TO CURB ANY OUTBREAK OF WANDERLUST WE MIGHT DEVELOP.

BUT SO FAR, WE'RE ROLLING. THE COMMISSAR WANTS TO SHOW HIS TOP BRASS HOW SMART HE IS BY PROMOTING BLACK MARKETS IN THE FREE WORLD. SO HE'LL BE CHUMMY AS LONG AS WE KEEP A STRAIGHT FACE...

THE PICTURE OF THOSE FILTHY CAPITALISTIC KICKBACKS WE PAINTED DIDN'T DO ANY HARM EITHER.

UH-HUH... WE'VE CROWDED OUR LUCK, BUT IT'S PAID OFF, HOTSHOT..

SINCE THE RANK-AND-FILE GUERRILLAS HAVE DRIFTED OFF TO THEIR VILLAGES, THESE CITIZENS MUST BE THE PARTY ELITE — THE BOYS WHO'D KNOW WHAT HAPPENED TO JANUS JANES...

TERRY, THEY LOOK LIKE THEY'RE GETTING READY TO GO SOMEWHERE.

SECURE THE CHATTER, GENTS.

AH, MY FRIENDS. COME, WE MUST LEAVE THIS FOUL THICKET. I HAVE A MOST IDYLLIC RETREAT UPCOUNTRY. OF COURSE, YOU'LL BE MY GUESTS.

AND HOUR AFTER HOUR, THE PARTY HURRIES ALONG DEVIOUS JUNGLE TRAILS...

UNTIL...

I CAN'T GET ANY WORK DONE WITH THESE PAINTERS HERE IN THE OFFICE

WE COULD WORK AT YOUR HOUSE, MR. DITHERS

WE'VE GOT TO GET THESE REPORTS FINISHED TODAY

THERE'S NO PLACE LIKE HOME

JULIUS, DID YOU FORGET MY MARCUS AURELIUS POETRY AND PING-PONG CLUB IS MEETING HERE THIS AFTERNOON?

WE'LL TRY YOUR HOUSE

MY HOME IS ALWAYS PEACEFUL AND QUIET

COOKIE'S HAVING A LITTLE PARTY THIS AFTERNOON.. TWENTY-TWO CHILDREN

WE'LL WORK IN THE KITCHEN

OUCH

THEY'RE PLAYING PIN THE TAIL ON THE DONKEY

GET THAT LOLLIPOP OUT OF MY HAIR!

THEY THINK YOU'RE PLAYING WITH THEM, MR. DITHERS

WHERE ARE YOU TAKING ME?

ALEXANDER AND HIS FRIENDS DUG THIS CAVE FOR THEIR CLUBHOUSE.. IT'LL MAKE A FINE PLACE TO WORK

SOMEBODY'S GOING TO GET HURT IN THAT CAVE--I WANT YOU KIDS TO FILL IT UP RIGHT AWAY, UNDERSTAND?

AW, GEE, AND IT TOOK US SO LONG TO DIG

ARE YOU ALL RIGHT, MR. DITHERS?

WHAT HAPPENED?

BE IT EVER SO HUMBLE, THERE'S NO PLACE LIKE THE OFFICE

THIS IS BETTER, HUH?

MUCH!

BRINGING UP FATHER by GEO McMANUS

STOP TALKING ABOUT THE OLD DAYS-- I'M MUCH TOO YOUNG TO KNOW ABOUT THEM!!

WHAT DO YOU MEAN? WHEN YOU WUZ A KID---

-YOUR FOLKS LIVED DOWN BY THE TRACKS SO YOU COULD BE NEAR YOUR FATHER WHO WUZ IN THE JAIL WHICH WUZ A BLOCK AWAY ---

-AND YOUR BROTHER AND SISTER WUZ SO PROUD OF YOUR UNCLE JIM WHO DROVE A STREET CAR-HE ALWAYS GAVE THEM LOTS OF NICKELS-

AND YOUR COUSIN EMMY LOVED TO WALK PAST THE HOTEL WHERE ALL THE TRAVELIN' MEN WOULD FLIRT WITH HER!

-AND NO FRUIT PEDDLER COULD MAKE A LIVIN' IN TH' NEIGHBORHOOD WHEN YOUR COUSIN WUZ A COP-- HE SURE HAD TAKIN' WAYS-AN' HE THOUGHT HIS HELMET WAS JUST TO PUT CIGARS IN!!

-AND THE DANCE AND CHOWDER PARTY YOU GAVE YOUR UNCLE! HE DANCED WITH MISS ELLA FANT-HE PUT HIS ARM AROUND HER WAIST AND SHE PUT HER HANDS AROUND HIS NECK-THEY GOT MARRIED-NOW HE KNOWS THAT "LOVE IS BLIND"-

-AND ON SUNDAYS YOU AND YOUR FOLKS WOULD GO DOWN TO THE DEPOT TO WAIT FOR THE TRAINS TO COME IN-THEN WAIT FOR YOUR FATHER TO COME OUT OF DUGAN'S PLACE!

DUGAN'S PLAC

--AND THE HOWL YOUR AUNT SUSIE WOULD MAKE WHEN SHE'D COME HOME AND FIND OUT SOMEONE LEFT THE GAS BURNING IN THE PARLOR!!!

GOSH, POP! WE HAVEN'T GOT ANYTHING TO DO!

THE TROUBLE WITH YOU IS THAT YOU HAVE TOO MUCH TO DO! YOU CAN'T ENJOY THE SIMPLE THINGS WE USED TO THINK WERE SO MUCH FUN!

NOW WHEN I WAS YOUR AGE, WE DIDN'T HAVE RADIOS AND T-V SETS... BUT WE HAD LOTS OF FUN POPPING CORN AND TOASTING MARSHMALLOWS.

AND THERE WAS ALWAYS A CHECKER GAME GOING ON, AND IF I BEAT GRANDPA, THEN GRANDMA WOULD GIVE ME A NEW, SHINY PENNY FOR A PRIZE!

NEETA! WA-AW-AW-NEETA

AND WHEN I WAS COURTING YOUR MOTHER, SHE'D MAKE A PAN OF FUDGE, AND THEN SHE'D PLAY AND I'D SING!

GEE, ALICE, IF THAT'S SINGING I'M A DUCK!

I THINK IT'S PRETTY!

DON'T LOOK NOW, MIRA, BUT I THINK FREDDIE IS GOING TO PROPOSE!

HOW UTTERLY DULL!

"I AM A BARBARIAN HERE, BECAUSE I AM UNDERSTOOD BY NO ONE." (OVID) BUT, "HE WHO IS IGNORANT OF FOREIGN LANGUAGES KNOWS NOT HIS OWN." (GOETHE) SO IT'S "KISMET"!

WHEN AUNT BET HAS ME DELIVER DRESSES SHE'S MADE FOR MRS. BONS, I ALWAYS HAVE TO TAKE 'EM TO TH' BACK DOOR!

WELL, MAYBE YUH MEET A BETTER CLASS O' PEOPLE THAT WAY··· AT LEAST HERE···

HELLO, PAVLOVA! IT'S TH' JACKET THAT MRS. BONS WAS IN SUCH A LATHER TO GET··· AUNT BET WORKED ON IT ALL NIGHT···

COOM IN! YOU ARE JOOST IN TIME! I HAVE MAKE A WUNNERFUL CAKE··· YOU MUST TRY EET!

HEY! THIS IS GOOD! WHERE'D YOU LEARN TO MAKE NUMBER ONE EATIN' LIKE THIS?

OH, IN ZE OLD COUNTREE WE ALL COOK FINE··· EEF NOW I COULD LEARN TO TALK HALF SO GOOD, EH?

YOU TALK O. K.··· I BET IN YOUR COUNTRY YOU SPEAK THE LANGUAGE··· FLUENT, AS THEY SAY···

OH, SURE··· I SPIK FIVE LANGUAGES, LIKE A NATIFF···EET IS ONLY I BEEN HERE TOO LITTLE··· BUT I LEARN···

FIVE LANGUAGES! WOW! AND NOW YOU'RE WORKIN' ON A SIXTH! THANKS FOR TH' CAKE··· I GOTTA RUN NOW···

YOU COOM AGAIN SOON, EH? ANY TIME! --TOMORROW COO-KIES!

OH, HELLO, MAYOR BONS! WE JUST BROUGHT TH' JACKET THAT MRS. BONS WAS IN A HURRY FOR···

HO-HO! MET OUR NEW HIRED GIRL, PAVLOVA, EH? QUITE A CHARACTER···

WE LIKE TO HELP THOSE POOR FOREIGNERS··· SHE'S STUPID, OF COURSE··· WHY, SHE CAN HARDLY SPEAK ENGLISH··· BUT SHE'S A GOOD WORKER ···SO FAR···

HUH! SURE! HELP HER, EH? LET HER WORK LIKE A DOG FOR 'EM, JUST FOR FOOD AND A PLACE TO SLEEP··· DON'T SPOIL HER WITH MONEY! MIGHTY BIG O' TH' BONS'S, I MUST SAY!

SO PAVLOVA IS "STUPID", EH? JUST BECAUSE SHE CAN'T SPEAK ENGLISH PERFECTLY YET! BUT SHE CAN SPEAK FIVE OTHER LANGUAGES!

I WONDER HOW WELL MAYOR BONS WOULD MAKE OUT, CHATTIN' IN TH' NATIVE TONGUE WITH ITALIANS OR SPANIARDS OR FRENCHMEN OR GERMANS OR POLES!

SO JUST 'CAUSE SOMEBODY DOESN'T SPEAK YOUR LANGUAGE THEY'RE STUPID FOREIGNERS, EH? HOW STUPID CAN FOLKS HERE GET? LIKE MAYOR BONS! YEAH! AND HOW NARROW-MINDED?

GRAMP SAYS PAVLOVA HAS MORE BRAINS THAN ALL TH' BONS FAMILY··· ···INCLUDIN' ALL THEIR NINE GEN'RATIONS!

FOURTH CLASSMEN HAVE FEW PRIVILEGES, SO HOT-ROD FACES A BIG PROBLEM AS TO HOW TO DATE LAVALAVA, THE DAUGHTER OF HIS T.O., LT. VESUVIUS, WHO DETESTS HOT-ROD!

SMILIN' JACK

DUCKFOOT TALKED HOT-ROD INTO REQUESTING A SPECIAL PRIVILEGE TO GO TO THE BASE MOVIE, STATING THAT HOT-ROD WAS "DOWN IN TH' DUMPS" AND FELT THAT A MOVIE MIGHT PEP HIM UP!

HOT-ROD! BICEPS SAYS YOU SHOULD HAVE SENT YOUR REQUEST TO OUR T.O. FIRST··· NOT DIRECT TO TH' COMMANDANT OF CADETS!

···I'M SORRY I ADVISED YOU WRONG, HOT-ROD··· BUT WE LOOKED UNDER "S" IN THE REGULATIONS INDEX AND···

WE COULDN'T FIND "SPECIAL PRIVILEGES" LISTED ANY-WHERE! IT MUSTA BEEN CROSS-INDEXED!

···BUT I WAS POSITIVE THAT I HAD READ SOMEWHERE THAT THE REQUEST SHOULD BE ADDRESSED TO TH' COMMANDANT!

AS SOON AS THE COMMANDANT READS YOUR REQUEST, HE'LL FIRE IT RIGHT BACK TO YOUR T.O.! ··· OH, MURDER!

AVIATION CADET Regulations

DUCKFOOT, RUN AN' PHONE LAVALAVA! TELL HER THERE'S NO CHANCE FOR ME TO MEET HER AT TH' MOVIE!

···LT. VESUVIUS MAY BE HERE ANY SECOND! HE WOULD FEEL TERRIBLY OFFENDED IF I WEREN'T PRESENT FOR MY OWN EXECUTION!

···NO, DUCKFOOT··· I DON'T THINK PAPA KNOWS THAT HOT-ROD WAS TRYIN' TO DATE ME, BUT IF HE DOES KNOW, HE MAY NOT LET ON! HE'LL TRY TO CATCH US!

LATER

REGULATION NO. 34, DASH 2, STATES THAT ALL REQUESTS FOR PRIVILEGES WILL BE ADDRESSED TO THE COMMANDANT··· BUT···

···MUST BE SUBMITTED TO THE T.O. FIRST!···ALSO··· SPECIAL PRIVILEGES CAN-NOT BE GRANTED TO CADETS WHO ARE DEFICIENT IN ACADEMICS!

YOU ARE DEFICIENT IN ACADEMICS··· THERE-FORE YOUR REQUEST TO GO TO A MOVIE IS NOT GRANTED!

···ALSO, REGULATION 10, DASH 1, STATES THAT ALL OFFICIAL CORRESPONDENCE MUST BE SUBMITTED IN MILITARY FORM!

···YOUR REQUEST WAS NOT PROPERLY MADE OUT! FOR THAT YOU GET TWO DEMERITS ALSO···

···YOU WENT OVER MY HEAD AND DID NOT COMMUNICATE THRU PROPER CHANNELS! IF YOU DID SO···

···INTENTION-ALLY··· YOU WILL BE HAULED UP BEFORE TH' GROUP BOARD!

···HOWEVER··· IF YOU COMMITTED THIS OFFENSE THRU IGNORANCE, YOU'LL GET ONLY FIVE EXTRA DEMERITS!

SIR··· KNOWING ALL TH' DUMB THINGS I'VE DONE HERE, YOU SHOULD KNOW THAT EVERYTHING I DO IS THRU IGNORANCE, SIR!

READER'S DIGEST reports the same research which proves that brushing teeth right after eating with

COLGATE DENTAL CREAM

STOPS TOOTH DECAY BEST

Better Than Any Other Way of Preventing Tooth Decay According to Published Reports!

READER'S DIGEST RECENTLY REPORTED on one of the most extensive experiments in dentifrice history! And here are additional facts: The one and only toothpaste used in this research was Colgate Dental Cream. Yes, and two years' research showed that brushing teeth with Colgate's right after eating stopped tooth decay best! Better than any other home method of oral hygiene!

YES, THE COLGATE WAY STOPPED MORE DECAY for more people than ever reported in dentifrice history! There were no new cavities for more than 1 out of 3 who used Colgate's as directed. No dentifrice can stop all decay, or help cavities already started. But brushing teeth right after eating with Colgate Dental Cream is the most effective way yet known to help your dentist prevent decay!
